BRAVES A GAME NEARER GIANTS

Play Like Real Champions and Win with Plenty to Spare.

DRIVE TESREAU AND DEMAREE FROM BOX

Contest Replete with Spectacular Plays—A Wild, Weird One by Merkle.

The Boston Braves defeated the Giants at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon, and 18,000 fans now realize just how the cohorts of George Stallings climbed from last place to a point where only four and one-half games separate them from the lead. With six weeks to play it is not without the realms that the batteries for the opening game of the world's series will be: Rudolph and Gowdy for Boston, Bender and Schang for the Athletics," with the Giants cooling their heels on the outside. The Back Bay men downed the Giants by a score of 7 to 3.

There is many a stride between today and the end of the season. The space at which the Braves are travelling may wear them down. Certain it is, however, that for the time being at least the Braves look the part of champions. The pennant bee is buzzing in the ears of every last man, and they go about their work with the cheerful enthusiasm of college boys out on a romp. They applaud every good play of a teammate, and shout encouragement should an error creep in. But they do not depend on enthusiasm to win games. Baseball of the keenest is played every minute, and yesterday there was nothing that smacked of "bone." They showed the Giants in sorry colors yesterday.

Tesreau Driven to Cover.

The Braves won on pure merit. Starting with a rush in the opening innings, they hacked their way to a commanding lead at the expense of Jeff Tesreau, disposing of him in five innings. They kept on at the expense of Al Demaree, scoring one run on the Mobile lad. Old George Wiltse pitched the eighth and ninth innings and held the enemy runless.

Demaree is not to be held entirely to blame for the run scored against him. Fred Merkle made one of his strictly original plays, the logic of which is clear to no one but himself. It happened in the sixth inning. With but one out, Boston filled the bases, Bill James on third. Joe Connolly drove a fly to Robertson on the right field foul line. After the catch James started for him at the speed of about two miles per hour. Robertson hurled for the plate for what would have been an easy double play.

Merkle Makes a Weird Play.

But Merkle would have none of it. He tore in and placing himself between Meyers and the ball intercepted the throw. James then scored unmolested, while Devore arrived safely at second. Of course that one run had no direct bearing on the result of the game, but everybody in the stands recognized the merit of Merkle's play. They rose and in a body commented on it. The opinion was loudly expressed that everybody was out calling. Some even suggested that the quarry never was worked.

Many Spectacular Plays.

The game was fraught with spectacular and unusual plays. Bob Bescher saved Davey Robertson from an error, or robbed Maranville of a triple at least, according to the scorer's view, by a clever piece of backing up. In the sixth inning, with two out and two on bases, "Rabbit" whanged one on the nose to deep right centre.

Both Bescher and Robertson raced for the ball, and the latter arrived first. He clutched the leather, but it bounced out of his hands. The crowd groaned. The groans were quickly changed to cheers, for Bescher scooped the ball up with one hand for the out.

Robertson experienced the vicissitudes of luck. In the last half of that same sixth inning, with Boyle on first, he dropped a safety in centre field. The ball hung so long in the air that Doyle thought Mann would surely catch it. When it dropped safe Larry was forced at second by the fielder's quick throw. So Davey was robbed of a hit.

In the second inning Bescher, Meyers and Doyle made an unusual double play. With James on first Devore flied to Bescher, Gowdy scoring after the catch. Bescher threw to the plate and when James tried for second Meyers threw him out at second base.

CARMEN WINS BIG RACE

Is Victor at Brighton Beach—Madona Hurt.

Clarence Carmen, of Jamaica, Long Island, covered himself with glory by winning the forty-mile motor paced race last night at the Brighton Beach Motordrome, beating a crack field. The time for the distance was 49:11 4-5. Percy Lawrence, of San Francisco, was second and Bobby Walthour third. Only three riders finished.

Vincenzo Madona, the young Italian protege of Floyd MacFarland, met with a serious accident in the ninth mile.

FORGETTING THE WAR GAME

ACCIDENTS MANY AT BROOKLYN GAME

O'Mara Breaks His Leg in Sliding Home in the First Inning.

The Brooklyn Superbas lost a star player for the rest of the season, a glowing chance to go into fifth place and a farcical ball game in one fell swoop at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon. Oliver O'Mara, the brilliant young shortstop, broke his left leg in two places sliding into the home plate in the first inning of the game against the Phillies.

He had to be carried from the field and will not be able to play again until next year. It was a day of misfortune, for Jake Daubert hurt his ankle badly and will be out for a week or more, while Hans Lobert injured his kneecap by plunging into the grandstand running for a foul.

Hammering Frank Allen for two runs in a stirring ninth inning rally, the Phillies won by a score of 8 to 7. Eleven errors cast their lights and shadows over the struggle, with both teams struggling for mastery in the art of buffoonery. The pitchers, too, came and passed with a frequency that gave the official scorer a heartache. Rixey, Marshall and Tincup opposed Steele, Schmutz and Allen.

COMING OF COLE SAVES YANKEES

Red Sox Lose One More When Tall Pitcher Checks Hitting.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Boston, Aug. 14.—The Yankees again surprised the Red Sox here to-day and won the second game of the series by a score of 7 to 6, thus avenging in a measure the indignities heaped upon the Giants by the Braves.

The Yankees were outhit, but profited largely by the errors of the Red Sox. Brown began in the box for the Yankees, but was so wild that he did not live through the first inning. Keating was his successor, but he also tarried only a little while. Cole then went to work and acquitted himself well, although Boston came within an ace of tieing the score in the ninth.

Brown gave three bases on balls in the first inning before he could be pried off the mound. A round of hits greeted Keating when he came to the mound, and when the inning ended Boston had scored four times. A pass to Cree, an error by Gardner and Sweeney's single gave the Yankees two runs in the second inning, and they scored again in the third, drawing to within one run of Boston.
