Comment and Gossip on Sports of the Day

Polish May Win the Futurity in the Colors of Louis Winans.

MANY STARS MUST STAND IN STABLES

Heartening Prophecy That the Giants Will Fight Off Braves and Win the Pennant.

By HERBERT.

One of the best, if not the most lucrative, meetings ever held by the Saratoga Racing Association will come to an end on Saturday with the running of the Futurity, famed of the turf as the richest and most sought two-year-old fixture of each racing year. One thing or another has conspired this season to rob the struggle of some interest from a horseman's point of view, but to the rank and file a Futurity is a Futurity even if some of the leading candidates for the highest honors of the year will be standing in their stables when the strife is on and the purse of more than $20,000 hangs in the balance. The better known absentees would make a wonderfully strong field. Among those which are not eligible for one reason or another are James Butler's Pebbles and Comely, two of the greatest and best; H. P. Whitney's brilliant filly Regret, winner of the Saratoga Special and Sanford Memorial Stakes; C. K. G. Billings's Lampoon, which was injured in training; W. R. Coe's Hauberk, which went wrong and necessitated temporary retirement; Senator J. N. Camden's Luke; Schuyler L. Parsons's Phosphor, and R. F. Carman's consistent Lady Barbary. All these of necessity will be missed when the bugle calls the horses to the post.

The field, however, will not be lacking in quality even if the race cannot be accepted as a final test in setting the seal on the champion for the season. Those likely to face the starter are John E. Madden's The Finn, Louis Winans's Polish, recently purchased with Vanitie from Mr. Madden, Ral Parr's The Masquerader, Captain E. B. Cassatt's Gurbage and Trial by Jury, the Oneck Stable's Kaskaskia, Senator Camden's Solly, R. J. Mackenzie's Sea Shell and H. F. Whitney's Dinah Do or Spun Glass. Of these Polish, the well turned, fine looking son of Ogden—Lucy Glitters, is by all odds the most likely winner. The colt impressed me favorably early in the season and while the real test against horses of the highest class has not been required as yet, he has done everything which has been asked of him, and more, too, remembering his race last week, in the most convincing way. Any horse with the speed and courage to overcome a handicap of eight or ten lengths after being knocked out of his stride and practically left at the post and finish a strong running second must be stamped "sterling." Pebbles, Regret, Polish and Comely stand out as the leading two-year-olds of the year in my opinion, and with three of the four not eligible for the rich Futurity the choice of the probable winner falls on the fourth.

Next to Polish, Garbage, Kaskaskia and Sally seem worthy of most consideration, but one is bound to have much respect for any horse Jimmy Rowe sends to the post, and for that reason it might be well to watch carefully for the final work of H. P. Whitney's candidates. Jimmy Rowe has saddled four of the last five winners of the historic fixture—Colin, Muskette and Sweep for the late James R. Keene, in 1907, 1908 and 1909, respectively, and Pennant for H. P. Whitney last year. Sam Hildreth won the race with Novelty in 1910, and it was not run in 1911 and 1912, as the gates of all tracks were closed.

The Futurity was first run in 1888, when Proctor Knott beat Salvator. Up to 1906 it was worth a small fortune, touching $77,000 in 1899, when August Belmont's Potomac carried off the prize from a field of fifteen starters. It fell off to $32,900 in Colin's year, and last season was worth only $15,060. It is now climbing once more, and in time may again go far to paying all the expenses of the year for the man lucky enough to own a horse capable of winning the most highly prized race of the season for two-year-olds.

If you want to start a balky engine in an otherwise smooth running motor boat hang your cap on the left ear, say "Ishkabibble" or "Sesrue" backward and whistle "Snooky Ookums." I've tried it. It works.

Walter C. Hagen is a new name to conjure with in golf. There is no telling these days when a man or boy, practically unknown to the game, will rise up and turn all golfing form topsy turvy. McDermott did it in 1912, Francis Ouimet a year ago, and now Hagen, a youth from Rochester, takes the proud place at the top. This speaks well for the growth of the sport. The veterans from now on must content themselves, it would seem, with the minor places.

From all accounts Hagen played reasonably sound golf and well deserved the title, but many expressions of regret have been heard that "Chick" Evans failed by a single stroke to earn the distinction after an uphill battle against the odds of a lame ankle that was as spectacular as it was deserving of better results. "Chick" Evans is one of the most popular and likable fellows who ever teed up a golf ball in this country. He has made friends from one end of the land to the other because of his never failing good fellowship and true sportsmanship. The same kind of golf he played on Friday will win him a title ere long, and many are hoping it will be the amateur championship to be played right soon over the links of the Ekwanok Country Club in Vermont.

In talking with a thirty-third degree fan at Saratoga Springs on Saturday he remarked: "George Stallings made his run too soon with his braves; the Giants will draw out again in the final drive." Not wishing Boston any hard luck after such an amazing climb from despised obscurity to a grabbing place on the top rung of the pennant ladder, here's hoping this outspoken prophet is right.

So rapid has been the upward rush of the Braves in the fight for the National League pennant that for the moment many rooters have lost sight of the fact that at least four teams have a chance for the flag. St. Louis merits serious attention as a pennant contender. The team is playing on its home grounds, where it has been consistently effective all season. Moreover, Miller Huggins has a longer string of pitchers than any of his rivals. The Braves and the Giants are depending almost entirely on three pitchers each, but Huggins has five dependable men for duty on the mound. Sallee, Perdue, Doak, Griner and Perritt have all done their share of the pitching. The Cubs did not appear to be overburdened with ambition on their last trip to the Polo Grounds, but they need no very long rally to bring them to the front. All in all, the race is one of the best which the National League has seen in years.

It is high time, however, that the Giants settled back into something like the true form of National League champions. The Braves are playing with confidence, enthusiasm and ambition, and this means much, even with a team which, man for man, does not quite measure up to the Giants in all that goes to make the finished whole. As things are going, it is quite likely that Stallings and his men will draw out a bit and force the pace for a time, but in the end the class of the Giants should tell.

So uncertain as baseball is, the Philadelphia Athletics seem far enough in front in the American League to insure another slice of the world's series plum. The Boston Red Sox were eleven games behind on Saturday, with Washington and Detroit almost distant trailers. Five weeks ago the Giants looked far more secure, but now they are struggling desperately, while the world's champions have tossed aside all opposition. Such is the charm of baseball.

In watching McLoughlin play against Murray at Bay Ridge the other day I was struck by the maturity of the champion's game. When the conqueror of Brookes and Wilding first came East one never read of him without finding the adjective "fiery" some place or other in the article. Only in hair alone is the descriptive word suitable now. Hardly a player in the world, except it be Norman E. Brookes, uses more restraint in his choice of strokes. In the early days McLoughlin depended almost entirely on speed. The severity of his game was its greatest asset, but now he has learned that speed is only one weapon of many which the good lawn tennis player may employ. He has learned to husband his strength and to foresee shots much more readily, and probably he covers several miles less of territory in a match today than he would have three years ago. In other words, to a game of matchless natural skill McLoughlin has added the technique of the veteran, and at the present writing he may well sigh for new worlds to conquer, for there is not a player in the land who measures up to him.

Why Magnates Are Cheerful

The race for the National League pennant is the closest it has been for several years. Only 100 points separate the Brooklyn Superbas, in last place, from the Braves and the Giants, who are tied for first. The teams in the first division are so well bunched that the pennant bee is buzzing in four cities. Less than 30 points is the margin between Chicago, at the bottom of the contending list, and the two leaders.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who are one rung ahead of the Cubs, feel that they are in just the right spot to spurt to the top. In the second division it is possible for Brooklyn to pass Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Cincinnati in two days' time.

Thanks to the keenness of the struggle, the majority of the club owners are reaping a fairly good financial harvest, despite the invasion of the Feds and the effects of the European war.

FLYNN RUNS TO HIS OLD FORM

Leads Field Easily in Two-Mile 'Chase at Galway Games.

HANDICAP A BIG HELP TO CLEARY

Carries Off Honors in Three-Mile Handicap Run at Celtic Park.

Patrick J. Flynn, the former Irish champion, showed a return to his old form in easily winning the two-mile handicap steeplechase run that featured the annual games of the Galway's Men's Association held at Celtic Park, Long Island City, yesterday.

He started alone from scratch, and took the lead at the one-mile point. It was a trot thereafter for the Irish-American runner, who won by some sixty yards in the time of 11 minutes 43 4-5 seconds. Hugh Honahan, of the New York Athletic Club, who left the 50-yard mark, was second.

Eight runners started, but after covering four laps the field dwindled down to three.

William T. Cleary, formerly of the Glencoe Athletic Club, but now competing unattached, made good use of the limit handicap of 250 yards in leading the field in the three-mile handicap run. He led from the start, and finished more than forty yards ahead of John H. Dennelly, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, who was second. Tom Barden started from scratch, but could make little gain on the liberally handicapped runners.

The summaries follow:

Three-mile run (handicap)—Won by William T. Cleary, unattached, 250 yards; John H. Dennelly, Irish-American A. C., 210 yards, second; Arthur J. Fogel, Irish-American A. C., 90 yards, third. Time—16:19 2-5.

Three-quarter-mile run (novice)—Won by George Gerhard, Mott Haven A. C.; Peter H. Egan, Brooklyn A. C., second; Martin McDonough, Mohawk A. C., third. Time—3:28 1-5.

Two-mile steeplechase (handicap)—Won by Patrick J. Flynn, Irish-American A. C., scratch; Hugh Honahan, New York A. C., 50 yards, second; James E. McDermott, Irish-American A. C., 30 yards, third. Time—11:43 4-5.

880-yard run (closed to Irish Counties Athletic Association)—Won by Dan Daly; J. E. McDermott, second. Time—2:19.

HOMER BAKER HOME

Had Hard Time in Securing Passage from Europe.

Homer Baker, of the New York Athletic Club, holder of the one-half mile national title, who has been competing in Europe for the last two months, finally reached here yesterday, arriving on the steamship Cameronia, of the Anchor Line, from Glasgow, Scotland. The Winged Foot runner declared that he had made many efforts to board a boat for this country, but always encountered difficulty in securing accommodations.

While abroad Baker succeeded in winning the 880-yard English championship, and then went on to Scotland, where he won many special races. Baker will begin training to defend his title at the national championship track and field games to be held in Baltimore early next month.

Australasians Have a Winning Day Awheel

Grenda Captures the Tartar Stakes and Goullet Defeats Moretti at Newark.

Alfred Grenda, of Tasmania, captured the 25-mile Tartar Stakes yesterday at the Newark Velodrome, and Alfred Goullet, of Australia, defeated Cæsar Moretti, of Italy, in their match race. Four of the six places at the end of the long race went to the Australasians.

Harry Kaiser did not seem to be in his regular form in the short handicap for amateurs, failing to get a place, and did not start in the three-mile race.

Goullet forced his opponent to take the lead at the start of each heat in their match. He trailed the Italian until the homestretch the first time out and then jumped to the front. The finish was so close that most of the spectators thought Moretti had won, but the mechanical finish registering device showed Goullet was the victor.

In the second heat Goullet slid up into the lead a quarter of a mile from home. Moretti made an earnest effort to get around Goullet in the final eighth, but the Australian led him over the line by a length and a half.

Thirty-eight riders started in the Tartar Stakes, the field dwindling to nine for the finish. Iver Lawson, Moretti and Joe Fogler were among those who retired before the end of the grind. Half a mile from the end Grenda raced away from the bunch and soon had nearly half a lap lead. Frank L. Kramer and Walter Rutt did some pacing in an effort to catch Grenda, but the others refused to do any work, so the Tasmanian won, with nearly the length of the homestretch to spare.

Two-mile (novice)—Won by George Hartley, Philadelphia; Sollie Sidland, Newark, second. Time—3 minutes 2-5 second.

Two-thirds mile (professional), Cæsar Moretti, Italy, vs. Alfred Goullet, Australia—Won by Goullet in two straight heats. Times—2 minutes 22 4-5 seconds; last eighth of a mile, 12 1-5 seconds; 2 minutes 28 seconds; last eighth, 12 1-5 seconds.

One-third mile (handicap, amateur)—Won by Charles Rhinesle, Newark, 45 yards; Tommy Smith, Irvington, 20 yards, second; Earl Adams, Orange, 35 yards, third; Donald MacDougall, New York A. C., scratch, fourth. Time—28 1-5 seconds. Brennan finished first, but was disqualified.

One-mile repechage (handicap, professional)—Won by Raymond Eaton, Elizabeth, 110 yards; Al Triebel, Newark, 100 yards, second; Ernest Jokus, Newark, 120 yards, third; Frank Blatz, Jersey City, 125 yards, fourth. Time—1 minute 51 2-5 seconds.

Three-mile (handicap, amateur)—Won by Thomas Grimm, Irvington, 130 yards; Joseph Schleder, Buffalo, 115 yards, second; Ernest Ohrt, San Francisco, 110 yards, third; F. J. Whiteley, New York A. C., 175 yards, fourth; Walter White, Newark, 145 yards, fifth. Time—6 minutes 3 2-5 seconds.

Tartar Stakes (25-mile open, professional)—Won by Alfred Grenda, Tasmania; Alfred Goullet, Australia, second; Walter Rutt, Germany, third; A. J. Clark, Australia, fourth; Robert Spears, Australia, fifth; Lloyd Thomas, San Francisco, sixth. Time—81 minutes 17 2-5 seconds.

Giants Tied with Braves for Lead

Lose Third Straight Game to Reds, While Boston Remains Idle.

MORAN DRIVES IN THE WINNING RUN

Ames at His Best, but Tesreau Is Hit Hard and Demaree Finishes Contest.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Cincinnati, Aug. 23.—It was Herb Moran's two-base hit in the final round of to-day's contest at Redland Field that permitted the Reds to make a clean sweep of the series with New York and also to allow the Boston Braves to climb up and share first place honors with McGraw's aggregation. The score was 3 to 2.

The game was a fiercely contested affair, with both sides eager for victory. Moran's two-bagger automatically wound up his Red career, as the crack little outfielder leaves town tonight to join the Boston Braves, to which club he was sold on Saturday.

The game developed at an early period into a pitchers' battle between "Red" Ames and "Big Jeff" Tesreau, with the Cincinnati veteran finding himself at last able to leave his hoodoo at home.

The Giants were the first to score, getting a run in the third on some rather indifferent fielding. Twombly dropped Meyers's two-bagger after a hard run, Tesreau singled and the Chief scored when Daniels misjudged Bescher's two-baser to right.

The Reds went ahead in the sixth, tallying two runs on hits by Moran, Herzeg, Twombly and Groh. This slender lead looked good enough to win until the eighth, when the Giants made it an even affair.

Meyers singled, and Murray, running for him, took second on an infield out, and fled home when Bescher shot a hot one to centre.

With Demaree in place of Tesreau the Reds broke the tie and sent the Braves even with the Giants in the ninth. Gonzales got his third hit with one down. Ames fanned. Moran made his final Red effort with a mighty wallop to right centre, scoring the Cuban catcher.

Sale of Moran Worries McGraw

It is the opinion of John J. McGraw that a conspiracy has been formed to prevent the Giants from winning their fourth pennant in a row. Herbert Moran, outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, is the tool of the conspirators.

On Saturday Herbert started the bombarding which drove Rube Marquard from the mound and brought victory to Redland. That same night he was sold to the Boston Braves. Yesterday Moran said goodby to the Reds by driving out a two-bagger that sent the Giants down to their third straight defeat in Cincinnati. What will Moran do in a Boston uniform? McGraw refuses to answer.

Lee Again Bows to Toronto

Indians Start Out with a Good Lead, but Wabble at the Finish.

Toronto made it three out of four from the Indians at Newark yesterday by winning by a score of 8 to 4.

It was the second time in four days that Wyatt Lee was beaten by the Canadians. Newark got off to a lead of three runs, but timely hitting, coupled with Newark errors, allowed Toronto to tie the score in the fourth, and four more tallies came over the pan in the sixth on three hits and two more misplays.

Clarence Kraft poled out a homer for the Indians in the seventh.

GUNS BOOM AT SEA GIRT

Trumpet Call for Shooting Tournament Sounds To-Day.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 23.—Everything is in readiness here for the opening to-morrow of the Sea Girt shooting tournament. The big camp is peopled with men in uniform, eagerly awaiting the "commence firing" trumpet call.

The programme for the 1914 meet is the most elaborate in the history of the range. It comprises the contests embraced in the national division competition, to be shot under War Department auspices, in addition to the matches of the National Rifle Association of America, the New Jersey State Rifle Association and the New York State Rifle Association. The crack of the military rifle and revolver will be heard on the range almost continuously for the next three weeks.

Nine events are carded for to-morrow, the most important being the Interstate Regimental and the New York Association's company team match. Teams to represent the United States in the North American International matches will be selected from the individual competitors making the highest scores during the tournament.

General Bird W. Spencer, of New Jersey, is executive officer of the meet.

CARDINALS HAVE PENNANT BEE, TOO

Make It Third Straight Over Superbas by Hard Hitting.

PERRITT HOLDS THE VISITORS IN CHECK

Schmutz and Enzmann Have Hands Full Against Rampant Home Team.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

St. Louis, Aug. 23.—The Cardinals have the pennant bee buzzing to such an extent that their opponents are literally being swept aside. Huggins's hustlers won the third straight game from Brooklyn to-day by a score of 7 to 2.

The pennant chasers scored twice in the first inning, and continued the bombardment at intervals until there was little doubt which way victory was to go. While St. Louis was hitting Heine Schmutz "Polly" Perritt was holding down the usually heavy hitting Superbas. Up to the seventh inning Robinson's sluggers had found "Polly's" delivery for only two singles, one of these being of the infield variety.

Perritt let down a little in the ninth and Brooklyn scored two runs. Their first run came in the seventh on two singles and a wild chuck by Wingo.

Enzmann relieved Schmutz at the beginning of the sixth inning and finished the contest.

SKEETERS BREAK EVEN

Shut Out by Montreal, Turn Tables in Second Game.

The Skeeters divided the honors Montreal at Jersey City yesterday, losing the first game, but winning the second. The score was 2 to 0 in each game.

A single, two bases on balls and another single account for the only runs made in the double battle. The fielding was faultless and hits were scarce, as the pitchers twirled well.
