SULLY MAY GO TO JAIL

Court Holds Former Cotton King Must Pay Judgment.

Daniel J. Sully, the one time cotton king, who lately has been in financial difficulties, was yesterday given the alternative by the Appellate Division of making good a judgment against him or going to jail.

The judgment, amounting to $17,380, was obtained against Sully in 1909 by Mrs. Grace W. Savage, who made some investments through him. Since then the former cotton broker has spent much of his time out of New York, mostly in Washington. On his failure to pay the judgment Mrs. Savage got an attachment, but Sully appeared in the Sheriff's office and avoided arrest by paying $500 on account and promising to pay the rest of the money in instalments of $200 a month. He paid $1,800 under this arrangement.

Not long ago Sully came to New York and obtained an order restraining Mrs. Savage from causing his arrest. This order was yesterday vacated by the Appellate Division, which held that his request to be exempt from arrest was not a just one.
