Would you please be so kind as to send me some recipes for preserving peaches, apricots, cherries, strawberries and pineapples? I have tried several of your recipes that appeared in the June number of The Woman's Magazine and found them to be delicious.

As I am only a young housekeeper I have never made any preserves or jellies, so I am going to try my luck for the first time this year.

(from a letter)

The helpfulness of The Woman's Magazine is genuine and practical. Just as the recipes were found to be delicious by the writer of the above letter, so in all departments the recommendations ring true.

A. G. Vanderbilt's Bust to Keep Father's Face Before Children

Bust of A. G. Vanderbilt.

To keen the memory of their dead father fresh and lasting in the minds of her two little sons, Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, a widow since May 7, when her husband perished on the Lusitania, has personally directed the making of a bronze bust of Mr. Vanderbilt. It will be completed in two weeks and installed in her New York home.

The likeness, she has told her friends at Lenox, Mass., is so remarkable that in looking at it she often has the impression of seeing her husband alive, and about to speak.

Caraino Sciarrino Pietro, of this city, noted for his bronze sculptures of General Booth, former President Taft, Mrs. Finley J. Shepard and Enrico Caruso, has made a model in plastiline, from which the bronze will be cast. At a recent exhibition in the Rheinhart galleries for the Friends of the Young Artists, he was represented by a group entitled "War."

Mrs. Vanderbilt, since her husband's death, has devoted herself entirely to her two children, Alfred Gwynne, who is three, and George, less than a year old.

7-DAY FIRE IN FREIGHT SHIP

La Drome, Here from Bordeaux, Refused Assistance.

The French Line freight steamer La Drome arrived in port yesterday after a twenty-eight day voyage from Bordeaux, which was enlivened by a fire in the hold that burned seven days before it was extinguished.

When the steamer was eleven days out of port the blaze was discovered beneath No. 2 fore hatch. The officers and crew set to work at once, and although they had little difficulty keeping the flames under control it could not be extinguished at once. Another steamer signalled La Drome and offered assistance, but the French commander did not consider it necessary. Three days were lost on the voyage while the ship lay to as the crew repaired the bilge pumps, which got out of order. Seven hundred tons of cargo were badly damaged.

STEAMER RAMS HOLE IN BOSTON LIGHTSHIP

Lifesavers Sent to Relief—Coastwise Vessel Unharmed.

Boston, Sept. 28.—The Boston Light-steamer Quantico to-night and had a ship was rammed by the coastwise hole smashed in her side two feet above the waterline. The Quantico, outward bound for Philadelphia with a few passengers and a general cargo, sustained only slight damage, according to radio messages which she sent to her agents here. After standing by for a time to learn the extent of the lightship's injuries, the steamer proceeded to Philadelphia.

As a precautionary measure the lightship asked for assistance from this city and a lighthouse tender and a naval tug were sent to her. The Stony Beach lifesavers, six miles from the scene of the collision, also set out in their motor boat to lend help to the crew of the lightship in effecting temporary repairs.

The weather was clear, with a moderate sea, and it was believed that the lightship would be able to remain on her station until a relief vessel could take her place.

SCION OF HARVARD WEDS ON WAY TO WAR

Graduated at Cambridge in June and Hopes to Return.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 28.—Lionel De Jersey Harvard, collateral descendant of the founder of Harvard University, took a day off from his training with the recruits for the English army on September 11 to marry Miss Mary Barker, a winsome English belle and his boyhood sweetheart.

Harvard's college intimates received announcements to-day of the wedding, and believe that the young Englishman is soon to be summoned to the front.

Just four years ago Harvard entered the university which John Harvard, his ancestor, founded here. Harvard graduates in London had heard of young Harvard's lack of money to obtain a college education and a fund was quickly raised to pay his expenses here.

He graduated with high honors last June and ranked high in his classes. Harvard also wrote the baccalaureate hymn and class poem which he read on class day. Should he survive the war his ambition is to return to America with his wife and teach at the university.

BOMBARDS LIEGE WITH HOPE

Allied Airman Drops French Flags and Documents Into City.

London, Sept. 28.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Amsterdam says:

"An aviator flew over Liège yesterday, coming from the south, and threw down into the city French flags and documents containing proclamations announcing that the Allies were advancing and calling on the populace of Liège to keep up their courage. Although subjected to a heavy fire the aviator escaped.

"This is the first visit of an airman of the Entente Allies to Liège since the fall of the city, and his appearance is described as greatly cheering the Belgians there."

The society acknowledges, with thanks, the following contributions for another family: Mrs. Grace L. Shepherd, $9; "Cash," $1.

PARIS SOCIETY WOMEN DRIVE AUTOS AT FRONT

Transport Wounded Behind Lines in Their Own Machines.

Paris, Sept. 28.—Forty women of social distinction, who have been driving ambulances, did their most effective work in recent days. They receive their orders from the military authorities each evening and are out at 6 o'clock every morning. They constitute the Women's Automobile Club for the Transport of Wounded.

The president of the club is Mme. J. Pallier, who is also an aviator. The vice-president is Mme. Ferdinand Perier, of the family of the former French President, Jean Casimir-Perier. Among the members are Countess de Merscnoff and other well-known women of Paris. All furnish their own automobiles. They wear dark blue uniforms of a military cut. They are under military regulations and give the salute.

The women are not sent to the firing line, but use their automobiles to transfer soldiers from depots in the rear.
