Yankees Beat Athletics In First Game of Series

J. Franklin Baker Saves Day for Wild Bill with Two Wonderful Plays, Much to Chagrin of His Old Employer, Connie Mack—Magee Also Performs Brilliantly in Outfield, Robbing McInnis of Two-Bagger.

By FRANK F. O'NEILL.

A couple of seasons ago Connie Mack used to pat J. Franklin Baker on the back when he left the bench and say to him: "Now, Frank, hit it as far as you like, and touch all the bases." Then, again, the astute Connie would say to the Trappe slugger when the latter returned to the bench: "That was a great stop, Frank; you surely can get them."

But that was when Baker wore the dust-brown uniform of the Athletics, and was working behind the curves of Eddie Plank and Charles Albert Bender.

Yesterday Connie Mack sat on the bench at the Polo Grounds and saw J. Franklin Baker make two plays which saved the day for the New York Yankees, and prayed fervently that Baker would break his neck, or something. It didn't matter much, for the Yanks won a mildly entertaining game by a score of 4 to 2.

The bases were filled and one run in when Amos Strunk came up to the plate to face the fire of his former pal, Bob Shawkey. A single would have tied the score and an extra base wallop might have won the day for Philadelphia. Strunk swung on a low, twisting, curve ball and drove it on a line down the third base line.

Baker was playing over to the right of the bag and the ball looked good for two bases at least. The crowd howled when the hit rang out, but the cry changed to a deep-throated roar of delight when Baker launched himself over and made a one-handed grab. He dived for the bag, trying to double Stellbauer, but missed by an inch. Rube Oldring then drove a hot one down to Baker, and he converted it into a double play, to Gedeon to Pipp.

Magee in Limelight.

Those plays alone justified the terrific expense that the Yankee management incurred in securing the Maryland demon, in the minds of the handful of spectators who braved the blustering weather. Baker, however, is not the only one to deserve special mention. Lee Magee robbed Stuffy Jack McInnis of a two-bagger by one of the most stylish exhibitions of outfielding seen in some time.

Jack hit the left field fence down deep near the foul line, and it was dollars to a Chinese yen that he would make second safely. Magee, however, came in on the ball swiftly, and shooting a perfect throw to Peckinpaugh retired the runner by about two inches.

Those plays were the high lights of the game. The rest of it was a pretty drab affair, with plenty of ivory exposed. Pick, the young third sacker drafted from the International League, borrowed a page from the book of Heinie Zimmerman, and just forced a run on the Yankees.

With Gedeon on third and Pipp on second, Nunamaker slashed one down to Pick, who made a nifty stop, and stepped on third face, forcing NO ONE and then threw to second, forcing no one there. Gedeon scurried home, betimes, and Nunamaker arrived at first in safety.

That was just one of the instances where players stepped on the wrong bag, or failed to step on the right one while players scurried to safety, and there was blame enough for all concerned.

Bob Shawkey doubled to far right in the fifth inning, and swelled up so completely that he was caught napping off second base when Meyer shot a sharp throw to Witt. A single by Maisel followed, which should have been good for a run, and a base on balls and a wild pitch were subsequent happenings, but no runs resulted.

Shawkey Sticks to Red Shirt.

Bob Shawkey used to pitch for the Athletics. He had a flaming red flannel shirt then, and he has never changed it. The shirt just welcomes a rainy day. Bob pitched for the Yankees yesterday. He was good and bad in streaks. He wasn't hit very hard, and he didn't give so many bases on balls, but he was inclined to be a bit flighty, and he was in the hole more often than he was out of it.

Still, he restrained Larry Lajoie from getting the ball out of the infield, and that in itself is an accomplishment.

Bob gave every outward sign of blowing up with a resonant crack when Frank Baker pulled him out of difficulties in the eighth.

Joe Gedeon has started out to win his place in the Hall of Fame of the Yankees, it would seem. He gathered unto himself three perfectly good hits yesterday. One was a double, while the other two were of the infield variety. In the last two days Joe has made six hits.

Wallie Pipp and Fred Maisel broke into the hit columns. The former had a rip-snorting double to the left field fence, which scored a runner. Maisel's single was inserted after Shawkey had been caught slumbering off the midway. Baker failed to hit, but, as told before, he did a few other things to offset his lapse.

The pitching staff of the Athletics is not. Connie trotted out three of his fifty-seven varieties, starting with the elongated Nabors, replacing him with the equally elongated Sheehan, and finishing with the tall and rangy Crowell.

Nabors pitched six instructive innings, allowing three runs. Sheehan was in for one frame. He allowed one run, and Crowell's inning was scoreless. All three stepped down to make room for pinch hitters. The cunning of the three arms might be condensed and make one pretty fair sort of a twirler, like Rube Schauer, for example.

The run making began at an early period in the game. In the second inning Gedeon beat out a hit to Pick, and he was safe at second when Nabors made a belated throw on Pipp's tap to the box. A sacrifice moved both men up a peg. Then Pick pulled his phantom force play, letting Gedeon score, but Pipp became over-ambitious and was caught off second and run out.

Gedeon's single and Pipp's double came together in the sixth frame, and the longer of those hits was followed by Nunamaker's swat to centre for a base. Two runs resulted from this little fusilade.

In the seventh inning Gilhooley went to second on Pick's wild throw, and advanced to third on Magee's sacrifice bunt. Baker walked, and then worked a double steal with Gilhooley, the latter scoring.

The Athletics got their first run on a pass to Lajoie and a double by Meyer, Maisel falling and failing to hold the ball after a hard run. Shawkey forced the second run on the Athletics. He walked Shag Thompson, who hit for Meyer, and Stellbauer beat out a roller when Shawkey failed to cover first.

Witt hit safely to Baker and the bases were filled. Then Shawkey walked Walsh, forcing Thompson over. Strunk hit to Baker, who made his great catch, and Oldring rolled to Baker, who converted the tap into a double play.

Shawkey Pleased.

TRIPLE PLAY MADE BY MANUAL BOYS

A triple play was the feature of the victory won by Manual Training High School over the Curtis High School nine on the latter's field at Staten Island yesterday. The score was 11 to 5.

The thrilling play cut short a determined rally by the Curtis team in the second inning. With the bases filled a line drive was caught by the second baseman, who touched his position and then threw to the third baseman for the third out.

The score by innings follows:

SENATORS GET EVEN WITH THE RED SOX

Boston, April 18. For the first time since 1914 the Senators to-day defeated the Red Sox here, the score being 4 to 2. Last season the teams played eleven games at Fenway Park, all of which were won by Boston. Incidentally, Boston lost its first game of the year.

Timely hitting by the visitors, coupled with first class pitching by Harper, gave Washington the victory. In both the first and second innings the first batsman singled and eventually scored.

A pass, a steal and a single gave Washington a run in the eighth, while a muff by Janvrin, a sacrifice and a hit sent the last one home in the final session.

Lewis drove in Boston's two runs in the eighth with a double.

TRIPLES BY TIGERS DEFEAT THE INDIANS

Cleveland, April 18. Triples by Vitt and Veach allowed Detroit to overcome Cleveland's early lead to-day and win by a score of 4 to 3. Cleveland knocked Coveleskie from the box in the first inning, but could do little with Dubuc.

The Indians filled the bases with only one out in the eighth, but Cobb caught Howard's fly and doubled Speaker at the plate.

FABER'S CURVES TOO MUCH FOR BROWNS

Chicago, April 18. Urban Faber's curves baffled the St. Louis Browns to-day, while Groom's wildness and poor support in the first two innings gave the White Sox a lead the visitors tried in vain to overcome, the home team winning by a score of 7 to 2.

McCabe pitched a good game for St. Louis, but gave way to a pinch hitter. A pretty throw by Felsch caught McCabe at the plate in the third and spoiled a St. Louis rally.

HOMER BY HAL CHASE WINS FOR THE REDS

Telling Blow Against Pirates Comes in Tenth Inning.

Cincinnati, April 18. A home run by Hal Chase in the tenth inning won the game for the Reds from Pittsburgh here to-day. The score was 4 to 3.

Cincinnati made two runs in the first through a single and two doubles. The visitors got one run in the first and another in the third, tieing the score. Both of these runs were made by Carey, who drew two passes and then stole a base each time, scoring on Hinchman's singles.

The Reds made another tally in the eighth on Schmidt's error, only to be tied again in the ninth, when Baird and Hinchman tripled.

Chase, the first man up in the tenth, struck the first ball pitched for a home run.

BRAVES MEET DEFEAT AT HANDS OF PHILLIES

Alexander Keeps Hits Scattered—Rudolph Driven from Mound.

Philadelphia, April 18.—The Boston Braves suffered their first defeat this season in the pennant race to-day, Philadelphia winning the game by a score of 4 to 0.

Alexander kept Boston's hits scattered, while Rudolph was knocked off the rubber in six innings. Nehoff drove in three of the home team's runs with two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Before the game Magee was presented with a diamond pin and a pedestal carved out of anthracite coal from friends here and up the state.

Canada Bars Baseball Men

Seattle, Wash., April 18.—Two Cuban ball players, J. Acosta, a pitcher, and Jacques Calvo, an outfielder, cannot enter Canada to join the Vancouver club of the Northwest League because they lack passports from the Cuban government.

Appeal has been made to the Canadian Immigration Department at Ottawa, it was announced to-day, to overrule the decision of the Vancouver authorities.

Karats Here and There From Many Diamonds

Wild Bill Donovan did not lead his men into the fight against the Athletics yesterday, and the possibilities are that it will be several days before he dons the uniform again. Bill is threatened with tonsillitis and his physician has ordered him to take a short rest. In the mean time you may salute Assistant Manager Germany Schaefer.

George Mogridge, pitcher of the Yankees, had his nose broken in morning practice yesterday, and will be out of the game for a couple of weeks. George got in front of a batted ball, and is repenting at leisure for his lack of caution.

Releasing players is quite the rage these days, 'twould seem. Colonel Charles H. Ebbets sent Ira Colwell, the big California youth, to the Montreal Club of the International League. Colwell came from the Vancouver team of the Northwestern League with Ray Kraimer, the youngster who was shipped to Rochester by the Giants.

Duster Mails has been placed on the disabled list by the Superbas. He injured his leg in spring training, and injured the same leg in a practice game against the Ridgewoods on Sunday. Charge one more victim to these jerk water town exhibition games. They're great for the big league players.

Harry L. Sparrow announced the release of Terry McGovern to the Troy club of the New York State League. McGovern is an infielder, not a former featherweight champion.

Baseball lost a real pitcher when Hank Blodgett decided that life on the ocean wave was the life for him. The former High School of Commerce star has been going great guns for the Navy, and it is rather an off day when Hank falls shy
