Williams Leads Field On Tuxedo Course

Tiffany Fails to Live Up to His Famous Score of 68.

CORNELIUS S. LEE IN SECOND PLACE

Former Hudson River Champion Requires 47 Strokes for First Nine.

(By FRED HAWTHORNE.)

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., May 27.—F. C. Williams, of Montclair, led home a field of forty-odd golfers in the annual invitation spring tournament of the Tuxedo Golf Club here to-day, returning a card of 43—36—79, in the 18-hole qualifying round. Williams's victory came as a surprise, for the field numbered many local favorites and the Montclair golfer had not been considered in the calculations.

Cornelius S. Lee, former secretary of the club, was second with 42—39—81, and Roderick Terry, jr., of Newport, came third, with 42—41—83. All players with 91 or better gained places in the first sixteen and will pair off at match play on Monday morning.

Among those who could not solve the speed of the greens was Gilman P. Tiffany, of the Mohawk Club and formerly perennial Hudson River champion. Two years ago Tiffany set the record for the Tuxedo course with a brilliant 68, but since then the links have been increased in length by several hundred yards and treacherous bunkers and other traps have been set across the fairways and about the green, making it several strokes harder.

Tiffany, who has been so busy with his new brokerage business that golf has only been an incident in his life for the last few months, was lacking in practice and required 47 to reach the turn. His putter was giving him trouble all the time on the outward journey, but coming home he began to get the ball into the cup with more success and the last half was reeled off in an even 40 strokes, giving Gil an 87, good enough to fit comfortably in the first division.

Harry Vinal, the professional, had the fairways in excellent condition, but the hilly course, more than 6,000 yards in length and filled with pitfalls for the unwary, proved an obstacle that positively defied low scoring. Williams, the gold medalist, required 43 strokes to reach the turn, complaining all the time of the speed of the greens. Once started on the last nine, however, he played like one possessed and came home in what proved an unbeatable 36, only one above par.

His card follows:

Out	5	5	4	5	5	6	4	4	5	43
In	4	4	4	4	4	5	2	4	4	36—79

Playing conditions were ideal this morning when the first of the players began to arrive at the first tee. It is rarely that a golf course can boast such scenic beauty as Tuxedo lays claim to. The rolling Ramapo Mountains close in about the links, sometimes in beetling cliffs, at others in lofty wooded heights, partly hidden by banks of fog. From certain of the holes glimpses of the large and small lakes add beauty to the general picture, and even a flubbed shot loses some of its sting in such surroundings.

Luncheon was served to the hungry golfers under a large striped tent near the clubhouse, and it was here that the players brought forth their alibis and compared them one with another.

"I couldn't do a thing with my putter. If I tried to aim for the cup, the ball went off at right angles. On one green I know I took six putts from a distance of two feet. Oh, it was horrible!"

Even Williams had his troubles to complain of. "These greens are entirely too fast for me," he said. "I seemed to be overshooting the hole all the time, and the cups don't seem to be set in the ground right."

"It's a pity, a pity! What would you have done on those last nine holes if all had been right?" asked a disconsolate fellow golfer who had been hard put to it to get in under the century mark.

In truth, Williams began badly, taking one over par on each of the first three holes, and on the fifth, sixth, seventh and ninth. Coming in, however, he reeled off a string of seven 4s, a 5 and a 3.

The players will pair off for match play on Monday and play the finals on Tuesday, Memorial Day.

DOGS TO GATHER ON OLD TRACK AT GRAVESEND

Long Island Kennel Club Stages Fifteenth Annual Show There.

Memorial Day will bring the dog fanciers to the old Gravesend racecourse for the fifteenth annual show of the Long Island Kennel Club. Dr. E. H. Berendsohn, the secretary, announces a strong entry for the popular fixture, which will be the only event of the week in the metropolitan district.

On Friday afternoon and evening the Irish Terrier Club of America will hold its annual show in the Italian Garden of the Biltmore, a delightful location for an open air fixture in the heart of the city. While limited to the one breed, the "Paddies," the show is of national importance from the interstate character of the entries and as a success in a winners' class gains four points toward a championship.

The English judges for the Ladies' Kennel Association of America fixture at Mineola on June 5 and 6—Messrs. W. J. Nichols, of Wimbledon, and R. T. Baines, of Urnston, near Manchester—are due to arrive this week.

The former will take the bulldogs, poodles, West Highland white terriers, Pekingese and miscellaneous classes, while Baines will judge the fox terriers, Scottish, Cairn, Welsh, Maltese, Yorkshire, toy bull terriers and toy black and tan terriers, pugs, toy poodles, Brussels Griffons and Pomeranians. There will be a benching of nearly 900 dogs. Tyler Morse, a pioneer in the breed in this country, is to judge the Old English sheepdogs.

While a strong neighborhood entry is always one of the pleasant features of the Westchester Kennel Club's show, to be held at Gedney Farm on June 24, the bulk of the nominators and dogs go from the city to White Plains for the day. The entries will close on June 10, with W. H. Purcell, 29 Broadway, and as money prizes and many handsome cups to be won outright are given in every breed the show will attract a large representation from the leading kennels. There will be free transportation to and from the show grounds and the railroad station, the cars meeting the 8:50 a. m. train from New York and returning after the fixture.

The premium lists will be out this week and will list as the bench show committee a group of prominent Westchester County fanciers, to include George Greer, chairman; Mrs. George H. Pell, Mrs. C. Davies Tainter, F. A. Bach, John G. Bates, O. Carley Harriman, Alfred B. Maclaye, George W. Quintard and J. Macy Willets.

Fox Hills

St. George, Staten Island, May 27.—The final round of the spring tournament at Fox Hills was played in a sharp rainstorm. S. T. Allen, who won the first sixteen, defeated H. B. McClellan, 6 and 4. In the second sixteen C. H. Hadlock beat H. S. Paine, 2 and 1. In the third sixteen W. A. Rowan beat P. B. Parker, 7 and 5. J. D. Clarke won the Class A handicap, with 89—15—74. W. A. Rowan won Class B, with 100—26—74.

THE SPORTLIGHT
by Grantland Rice

The Time Defiers.

(Concerning the innate stubbornness of Mathewson, Wagner, Lajoie and Plank.)

Old Doc Time has beckoned, but they never seem to see him;
Old Doc Time has called them, but they never seem to hear;
Perhaps they've been too busy making good to ever notice
The Old Boy with the reaper as he followed, year by year.

"I've called them and I've called them," said the Old Doc, "through the seasons;
I've called them in the sunlight and I've beckoned through the gloom;
And if they do not answer me before the year is over,
I've half a mind to let them stick until the crack of doom.

"I've called in others from the game and they have answered quickly,
I've never missed my quarry yet from gutter unto throne;
But these have been so busy making good they've never heard me,
And so I guess I'll go away and leave them all alone."

How Many More?

For a ball club to drop 13 out of 15 and then for that same ball club to win sixteen straight with the rush yet unbroken is something new, not only under the sun, but in a game that has about exhausted all the freak incidents of play. It is easily the most astounding reversal baseball has ever known, and baseball has known its share, being that sort of a game.

The Giants now need only four more victories to tie the Providence record made in 1884. In that year, playing in the National League, Providence started August 7th and went through unbeaten to September 6th. Its victims included New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and Buffalo.

The Giants, under such terrific headway, have a chance to beat this record. But it is a tough one, as they must run against Grover Cleveland Alexander on next Tuesday in Philadelphia. They will probably draw Rudolph Monday, and Alexander is one of Tuesday's affairs, a hard double hurdle to take. But a club that can come from a percentage of .143 to sixteen straight is liable to overwhelm any opposition. It is a club well beyond any reach of the eternal dope, however elastic said dope may be.

Always having had the punch, this Giant club has shown pitching consistency we never dreamed of. For three weeks McGraw couldn't find a pitcher able to last five rounds. Now the entire stable is running amuck without a quiver anywhere along the route, doing as valiant service as the team's run getters and deserving as much praise.

The Flag Dreamers.

It was generally conceded back in March that both big leagues this season would know closer and better races than they had produced since 1908. But no one ever figured that as many clubs by the edge of June would still be considered with pennant chances.

There has been no great upset in the National, where the Braves, Dodgers, Phillies and Giants were supposed to have first class chances. But no one ever figured that Cleveland, Washington and Philadelphia would put any such power upon display in the American. And no one ever figured the Tigers and White Sox would be obscured for so long.

Considerable Scramble.

Having watched the work of all eight clubs in the A. L. we have never seen a season before where picking the ultimate winner was such an impossible assignment. With the Tigers, White Sox and Red Sox—supposed to be the class of the league—so roughly handled, this race should now be one of the greatest baseball has ever known.

Sooner or later these three clubs will get going again. But they will have their work cut out neatly, for at their best they have shown nothing to outclass most of the others. And a quick jump to the front is going to mean more than it usually means in a league where there are no lame ducks to pick off in an emergency rush.

The Confusing Initials.

I saw T. R. the other day,
The same old idol of the crowd;
The guy that makes them rant and rave
And clap their hands and holler loud;
He seemed to have the old time pep,
To wield the big stick as of yore,
And, from his showing in Detroit,
He'll beat them out ten lengths or more.

Yes, half-gods come when gods must go,
But here's a god that's always there;
He's looking for another term
To round a record rather rare;
What's that you say?—"He'll have no chance
When Hughes decides to cast the die"—
Old top, you're talking through your hat,
I don't mean Teddy—I mean Ty.

JOHN H. McGOUGH.

The Speed Leader.

"Is it true," asks B. K. H., "that Dave Robertson of the Giants is now the fastest man in baseball?"

As far as the human eye can detect speed this statement seems to be true enough. Dave is a shade faster than Ty, which is natural when it is considered that Cobb is a good many years older and has had ten hard campaigns back of him, most of which were taken up in flitting swiftly from base to base. Maisel and Gilhooley of the Yanks are about as fast as any others in the game for straightaway speed, but neither has quite the driving power of Robertson, who has a longer stride.

The Best Outfield.

With Speaker shifted to Cleveland and with Sam Crawford slowing up a bit, there is no longer any question as to the game's greatest outfield. It consists of Burns, Kauff and Robertson of the Giants. Taking in the essential factors of speed, fielding, throwing and batting, this trio is well beyond all other competition.

All three are .300 hitters; all three can field and peg and all three can cover a world of outfield soil. And they are all young enough to face a long future together. Burns is 27; Kauff and Robertson are but 24. They have more combined power than the old Speaker-Lewis-Hooper array and greater speed than the Cobb-Crawford-Veach combination at its best.

Sportive Types.

I do not care for William Mett;
In fact he makes me more than sore,
Who never lost a golf match yet
When he had slept the night before.

E. FITZPATRICK LEADS NATIONALS WITH THE STICK

Utility Man of Braves Has Compiled an Average of .385.

Eddie Fitzpatrick, the utility star of the Boston Braves, leads the National League in hitting, and Jake Daubert is second. Their respective averages are .385 and .382. What glory comes of setting the pace is theirs, and the fans wish them well, but the real hero of the league so far as hitting is concerned is Bill McKechnie, the third baseman of the all conquering Giants.

The averages were compiled by the Moreland News Bureau, and include the men who have played in ten games or more up to and including May 25.

STRUNK MOVES TO CHALLENGE TRIS SPEAKER

Star of Mack's Outfield Gains Ground in Race for Batting Honors.

Tris Speaker holds forth in the lead of the American League batters, but thundering along on his heels is Amos Strunk, the centre fielder of the Athletics. Sir Tristan owns a mark of .344, while Strunk is only two points behind him. During the past week the Quaker City boy gained two points, while Speaker slumped away from .379. Not only is Strunk high in the averages, and gaining, but he is the leading extra base hitter.

Roth, of Cleveland, is holding his own, and doing a little better, in fact, for he gained from .293 to .333 in a week. Hoblitzell, of the Red Sox, shows no disposition to fall away in his hitting, as his mark of .327 will attest.

These averages were compiled by the Moreland News Bureau, and include the men who have played ten games up to and including May 25.
