ure in the cotton market yesterday. Spirited buying for both accounts took prices up rapidly, the gain amounting to roundly $1.50 per bale. Prominent interests were giving strong support, and besides brisk buying was noted for Wall Street account and also for Western interests. Further buying by the bull element and also to cover was partly stimulated by higher cables, Liverpool being much stronger than anticipated, closing at an advance of 12½ to 19 points. Hence, there was said to be brisk buying of futures on foreign orders, which offset heavier Southern hedge selling in that market. Furthermore, it was asserted that in Houston alone more than 16,000 bales of actual cotton were sold at an advance of 20 points.

Demand for spot cotton seems to be steadily increasing, but the South appears to be only selling on the strong spots. Part of the buying yesterday was prompted partly by the expectation of another poor official crop report next month. It was claimed that houses representing Liverpool had bought close to 50,000 bales. Toward the close there was a small setback, which was considered as only natural, it being reasonable for longs to take in profits after such a rapid advance.

Wheat.—The market for wheat yesterday was a decidedly two-sided affair. During the first half of the session the bear element was in control and prices weakened 1½ cents a bushel. Later in the day there was a radical change, prices moving up sharply, rising 3⅝ cents in short order. It was claimed that speculators for the decline had endeavored to cause a sharp break after they found that cables were discouraging, the Liverpool market being depressed by liberal offerings of cheaper wheat to arrive from Argentina. This was caused by a decline in ocean freight of 10s., or to 136s. 6d. It was immediately claimed that this would result in sales of Argentina wheat to arrive here. Indeed it was soon asserted that two cargoes had been bought to arrive via Gulf ports, but this caused no demoralization, as dealers were skeptical after having been so badly deceived last Thursday. Moreover, it was realized that the receipt of only a few cargoes was not sufficient to warrant appreciable depression. In the afternoon weakness was succeeded by buoyancy. Demand soon became spirited, and with small offerings values shot upward quickly. Advices from the West mentioned a better class of buying, certain prominent interests being found on the long side. Buying was partly prompted by small receipts at country stations, farmers making light deliveries, while millers were taking about everything on offer. In addition exporters were fair buyers of hard winter, more especially in Omaha, taking in all about 700,000 bushels. Besides the greater firmness was partly traceable to reports that the two cargoes of Argentina mentioned early had been resold to exporters to Holland and would not come to this country.

Corn.—There was a weaker trend in corn early yesterday, but later all the decline was soon recovered and more too. At the outset slightly milder weather west caused more pressure to sell and moreover it was said that farmers were making somewhat larger deliveries to country points. The subsequent strength was ascribed to small stocks, light primary receipts and was also in sympathy with wheat.

Oats.—Narrowness was a salient feature in the market for oats, prices having fluctuated only ½c a bushel. At first there was a weaker trend which was ascribed to ample receipts and large stocks. In Chicago the stock of contract grade is 7,809,000 bushels, against 119,000 bushels a year ago. Afterward a slightly firmer tendency was caused chiefly by the sharp rally in wheat and corn, and also by a greater display of interest by exporters.

Sugar Futures.—After opening 2 to 7 points higher, the sugar futures' market yesterday firmed up and prices rapidly advanced on covering and new outside demand, due to a stronger and advancing market for Cuba raw sugar, and in the late trading the market was active. The close showed net gains of 6 to 19 points, with sales for the day 18,000 tons.

Cottonseed Oil Futures.—The firmness in the cotton market and the advance in lard stimulated renewed activity on the buying side of cottonseed oil, and prices were firmer, closing with net gains of 12 to 17 points. Sales for the day were 27,500 barrels. Crude oil continues firm and the fact that prices for contracts here are below a parity with the crude position has a tendency to discourage selling.
