REPORTS WOMEN FAVOR WILSON

Mrs. Bass Says That First Voters in Illinois Will Support Him

The 500,000 new women voters will swing the vote of Illinois to Woodrow Wilson next Tuesday, according to Mrs. George Bass, chairman of the Women's Bureau of the National Democratic Party. Mrs. Bass came on from Chicago yesterday to engage in a debate at Carnegie Hall with Miss Helen Varick Boswell, chairman of the Women's National Republican Association.

"Illinois women have never voted for President before," she said, "and they have never aligned themselves definitely with either political party. Therefore the politicians have not had a line on how the women would vote in this election.

"From my own experience, however, I feel sure that the majority of these 'free lance' voters are going to vote for Wilson, not because they are Democrats, but because of his progressive policies."

The women's votes will be on separate ballots, because women cannot vote for all the state officials in Illinois. Hence it will be easy to count and classify. Mrs. Bass said that practically all the women would vote for President, even those whose interest in local affairs was small.

The women's debate passed off without a mention of the Lusitania. At the close of an exciting session of questions Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy sprang a question about Mexico.

Some of the questions the women asked were:

"Have the Democrats enforced the pure food laws?"

"What has Wilson done for the unemployed?"

"Why did the Democrats wait until the eleventh hour before passing the child labor bill?"

"Is there a single necessity of life which hasn't increased in price since Wilson was President?"

The women of the Hughes campaign train, who returned last night from their coast-to-coast trip, occupied boxes.

STIVERS BILL AUTHOR REPLIES TO CRITICISM

Gives State Power It Should Possess, Says Senator

Replying to adverse criticism of the so-called Stivers bill, which was passed by the State Legislature at the last session and which empowered the Governor to draft citizens for military service in time of need, Senator John L. Stivers, author of the bill, yesterday issued a statement in its defence.

"The principle of compulsory military service," he declared, "is one of the oldest of our governmental system. The draft method was provided for in the first military code in 1780. Washington declared this measure the main pillar of a free state.

"The Stivers bill introduces no new policy into our military law. It makes no one subject to military service who has not, under the Constitution, always been liable to military service when necessity should require it.

"While it is improbable that it would ever become necessary to resort to the draft in order to keep up the required strength of the National Guard, it is essential that such a provision be incorporated in our military law—that the state should possess the means to enforce the fulfilment of obligation should the usual volunteer method fail in the accomplishment of that result."

AGREES TO "SOAK WHITMAN"

Sleepy Hollow Resents Veto of Albany Post Road Trolley

Inhabitants of that enchanted, peaceful land which centres about Sleepy Hollow have broken its spell and are out to "soak Governor Whitman" because he vetoed a bill which would permit trolley cars to travel the old Albany Post Road. The law forbidding trolley cars on that historic thoroughfare was passed years ago, when it was feared that such uncouth vehicles would frighten horses and spoil driving.

Now, when automobiles tear up and down the Hudson's shore, the citizens of Tarrytown, Irvington, Dobbs Ferry, Ossining, Peekskill and other towns have tried unavailingly to have the law repealed. A bill repealing it passed both branches of the Legislature in Governor Whitman's first year and he vetoed it.

Friday night a non-partisan meeting was held in Dobbs Ferry, at which pamphlets expressing such sentiments as these were distributed: "Whitman refused to repeal the law that allows the rich to ride along Broadway in their automobiles, while the poor walk." "Vote down the man who upholds the Burns law. Vote against Whitman! Soak Whitman!"

Can be had clocked in contrasting colors, or with embroidered floral designs.

We produce any shade especially ordered within 48 hours.

Guaranteed to give satisfactory wear.

Safety First, an excellent rule to follow, always points with unerring finger at the logic of depending upon branded merchandise, particularly during these times, when goods of all kinds are scarce and the temptation to substitute something "just as good" is made greater, because in many cases goods called for are not in stock and not procurable.

Pin your faith on Courtly Hose and rely on our business foresight to see to it that you will find every pair worthy and well qualified.
