Recent Publications and New Editions

E. P. Dutton & Co. publish Dr. J. J. Taubenhaus's "Culture and Diseases of the Sweetpea," a most instructive and helpful work for all who grow that fragrant and beautiful flower, which is, unhappily, subject to many ills.

The Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company publishes Norma Bright Carson's "Fairy Housekeepers," a delightful nature book for children; and Dr. J. S. van Teslaar's "When I Was a Boy in Rumania," a book full of interest and instruction for children and grownups alike.

The John Lane Company makes an interesting contribution to the personal documents of the war with "Carry On," a little volume of war letters by Coningsby Dawson, the novelist and soldier.

E. P. Dutton & Co. issue a new English-Russian Pocket Dictionary, by J. H. Freese, well printed, well arranged and most useful.

The Houghton Mifflin Company has issued the 1917 annual anthology of "Some Imagist Poets," full of vers libre in excelsis, or in extremis.

E. P. Dutton & Co. give us in Edward Leigh Pell's "Four Feet on a Fender" a pleasant and helpful volume of intimate home talks with women.

The George Banta Publishing Company issues a neat and comprehensive little handbook of "Military Training for Boys," by Major James A. Moss and Major M. B. Stewart, of the United States army.

The last (April) number of "The Dublin Review" (quarterly) is noteworthy for two things—one, that for the first time in its eighty years it publishes an article from an American writer—Cardinal Gibbons; the other, that it contains an article "From the Trenches," by William Redmond, who has since paid the debt of patriotism with his life.

The Macmillan Company publishes John Howard Melish's memoir of "Franklin Spencer Spalding, Man and Bishop." The volume contains many of Bishop Spalding's letters, and pays special attention to his approach to the problem of Mormonism, his conversion to socialism and his advocacy of pacifism.

Victor von Kubinyi has written and the Seemore Company (South Bend, Ind.), has published a richly illustrated memorial volume on the late Francis Joseph of Austria.

Charles Mulford Robinson's "Review of City Planning Progress, 1917," published by the American Institute of Architects, is the completion of a work that is monumental in its interest and value to the increasing number of those who appreciate the civic value of something more than a haphazard, Topsy-like growth of cities.

Despite the automobile, the horse is still with us, and doubtless always will be; wherefore we must welcome Henry C. Merwin's volume on "The Horse; His Breeding, Care and Treatment in Health and Disease," which A. C. McClurg & Co. have just put forth.

The Walter Scott Publishing Company adds to its Contemporary Science Series a new and revised edition of John A. Hobson's "Evolution of Modern Capitalism."

"The Spirit of the New Thought," published by the Thomas Y. Crowell Company, is a compilation, edited by Horatio W. Dresser, of essays on various phases of mental science, metaphysical healing, etc., by recognized leaders of that school of thought.

A. Frederick Collins, in "The Home Handy Book," published by D. Appleton & Co., tells, with many illustrative diagrams, how to do the thousand and one "little odd jobs" around the house which need to be done, and which some member of the family ought to be able to do without the trouble, expense and delay of sending for an artisan. Another Appleton book, "First Aid for Boys," by Dr. Norman B. Cole and Clayton H. Ernst, is a fine manual for Boy Scouts and, indeed, for all boys, to tell them how to care for injuries to the person without sending for a doctor, or before the doctor arrives.

The Houghton Mifflin Company has just published a new edition of Hugh Bancroft's "Inheritance Taxes for Investors," covering the laws of all the states and revised down to the first of the present year.

"Kitchenette Cookery," by Anna Merritt East (Little, Brown & Co.), will be a most helpful handbook to the housekeepers—whose name is legion—who wish to do or who have to do without servants.

"The Shield," edited by Gorky, Andreyev and Sologub, with a foreword by William English Walling, published by Alfred A. Knopf, is a compilation of essays by eminent Russians, including Maxim Gorky and Professor Miliukof, on the necessity for the abolition of Jewish disabilities in Russia.

A timely and practical treatise is Henry W. Wolff's "Cooperative Credit for the United States," published by the Sturgis & Walton Company.

"Religion in a World at War" is a compilation of discourses of the present time by Dr. George Hodges, dean of the Theological School at Cambridge, Mass. It is published by the Macmillan Company.

Taffy and fudge are two stock kinds of home-made candy; but "The Candy Cook Book," by Alice Bradley (Little, Brown & Co.), tells how to make three hundred different kinds—three hundred, count 'em!

"Peacock Pie," by Walter De La Mare, published by Henry Holt & Co., is a fascinating book of poems, which at first seem like fairy tales and rhymes for children, but which, on closer inspection, are seen to have a strong appeal to grown-ups. It is cleverly illustrated.

The Oxford University Press has just issued in a tasteful six by four booklet the first English translation, made by Juliet M. Soskice, of Nicholas Nekrassov's famous poem, "Who Can Be Happy and Free in Russia?"

"Deutsch-Amerikanische Kriegs und Freiheitslieder," by Freimann Treumut, (the Kriegslieder Publishing Company), is a pamphlet of patriotic songs in German, of which it must be said that the patriotism is better than the poetry.

"The Best Man I Know," by President Hyde of Bowdoin College (the Macmillan Company), is a description of an ideal Christian man, of the live, red-blooded type.

"Poems," by Ralph Hodgson (the Macmillan Company), is a thin volume of musical verses full of true poetic spirit and clinging charm.

"To Mother" (12mo, pp. 195; Houghton Mifflin Company), is a well chosen anthology of poems about motherhood, with an introduction by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

"Our Flag and Its Message" is a tiny booklet issued by the Lippincotts, containing the President's appeal for unity, a couple of national hymns, and a tribute to the flag and its significance.

Announcements

The Bancroft Company announces a forthcoming novel by Griffing Bancroft, son of the historian H. H. Bancroft, entitled, "The Interlopers," and dealing with love and life in the great Southwest.

The Houghton Mifflin Company and Doubleday, Page & Co. will jointly publish on July 2, "The Oppressed English," by "Ian Hay" Beith, uniform with his "Getting Together."

Moffat, Yard & Co. will presently publish "A Sailor's Log" and "A Soldier's Diary," two diaries intended for the use of men in active service.

E. P. Dutton & Co. will publish "The Coming Democracy," by Hermann Fernau, author of "Because I Am a German."

The Page Company will publish "Florida, the Land of Enchantment," by Nevin O. Winter, in the "See America First" series.

The George H. Doran Company has in hand a novel by Stephen McKenna, dealing with the political transformation of England in recent years.

Salvation Army Is Equipping 23 Ambulances for U. S. Troops

To Be Sent with First American Detachment That Goes to France—Four Stretcher Bearers, a Driver and a Mechanic to Accompany Each Car

By the REV. BEN F. WYLAND

The Salvation Army is preparing twenty-three completely equipped ambulances to send to France with the first detachment of troops from the new American army. This is in addition to the twenty-three hospital units now at work on the Western front with England and France and the eleven with the Russian army. With each ambulance go four stretcher bearers, a driver and a mechanic. Hundreds of applications are coming in from Salvationists volunteering for the hospital corps.

This coming week Colonel W. Barker and Ensign B. Rodder will sail for France to make advance preparations for these hospital units and also secure information regarding French railway cars, the dimensions of the hooks on which the stretchers will hang and such other details as will help in equipping and standardizing the ambulance cars now being fitted out here.

A War Service League is also being organized under the direction of Colonel E. J. Barker, recently appointed as the war secretary of the Salvation Army. This league is open to all men and women who can devote a part of their time to some war service. At present 608 officers carry on its work among the troops in France. One of their chief duties is to visit all military hospitals, learn the story of the wounded, and through the War Service League members at home communicate with and help the soldier's family in every possible way.

Doing a Great Service

What a big place is being filled by these officers of the War Service League may be gauged by the many letters which come to headquarters expressing the appreciation of the soldiers, as well as those from the folks at home, whose inquiry has been followed up and answered. Extracts from some of the letters that were sent to Lieutenant Colonel (Chaplain-Captain) McKenzie take one over vast stretches of Australia, Canada and England into little homes and big, showing something of the pain that is wringing human hearts and also what this brotherly movement is doing to wipe it out.

"If I strike any one," reads one letter, "who dislikes the Salvation Army I have only to mention the name of Captain Mac, and that opens the way like a latch-key."

"I have a son over there," writes a North Queensland mother. "Try to find him out. Tell him that seven or eight parcels have been sent to him. See that he wants for nothing."

This is the work of the War Service League—to keep home connections open and the soldiers in touch with their friends and later distribute such supplies as are sent.

St. George's Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. Karl Reiland is the rector, has also laid plans to purchase a field ambulance for service in France. A Ford ambulance, chassis, body and equipment (including freight charges, insurance, etc.), costs approximately $1,000. Its running expenses amount to about $50 per month. The names of those who contribute in St. George's Church will be engraved on a plate attached to the car, and the volunteers who drive the car will communicate from time to time to the donors the experience through which their car passes.

A Driver's Diary

"St. George's Magnet," the monthly publication of the church, has sent throughout the parish the following extract taken from the diary of an ambulance driver to show the importance and the great necessity of these ambulances and the invaluable work they perform:

"Tuesday, April 17.

"The call which I said might come at 3 o'clock this morning came at 1:30 a. m. instead. We received word from the fort that the wounded were simply pouring in, and that they wanted all the cars we could send. Therefore, at 2 a. m. fifteen cars left here and after a perfectly terrible run arrived at the fort. The roads were simply alive with bursting shells. Two of our cars were hit and shot full of holes. None of the fellows, however, were touched. Up at the fort we saw sights this morning that we shall never forget. The long tunnels were simply lined with wounded. Many of them had arms and legs shot off. It seems that during last night the Germans made an attack on the French first lines. This meant hand-to-hand fighting, which lasted for more than four hours. In this time the French lost more than 1,000 men and had about 550 wounded. We worked steadily back and forth from the fort from 3 a. m. to 12 noon. We then all went to bed. At 7 p. m. I made two more trips and brought back a dozen or so wounded. At 11 p. m. I had finished up and went to bed. I don't know at what time we will be called out to-morrow morning, but I suppose that it will be around 2 or 3 o'clock. Last night, or rather this morning, our cars carried 1,150 wounded from the fort to the evacuation hospital at Dugny, a distance of fifteen kilometres."

The Brick Presbyterian Church, on Fifth Avenue, already has its ambulance at the front. It was procured by the efforts of the Women's War Relief Society, who engaged Lieutenant George Roeder to tell of his service along the entire Western front, from the Vosges to the sea, and how in the course of the service he received a wound from an exploding shell which also killed two men of his ambulance unit. After his story of the work of the American Ambulance members of the Brick Church contributed $1,900 for an ambulance, which was at once dispatched to France.

Service for Hospital Unit

A most impressive service took place recently in Boston when Bishop Lawrence dedicated and bid godspeed to Base Hospital Unit No. 6, from the historic pulpit of Phillips Brooks in Old Trinity Church. The Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, for several years the curate of Trinity, will accompany the unit as its chaplain. In the service were 25 officers, 125 orderlies and 55 nurses. In dedicating the flags that are sent with the ambulances Bishop Lawrence used this prayer:

"O Lord, our God, to whom alone belongeth power and from whom cometh our salvation, bless us, we pray Thee, as we dedicate this flag, which shall be to us the symbol of justice, liberty and mercy.

"We remember before Thee the men who beneath this banner, in war and in peace, have fought the battles of the right. They loved not their lives unto death, but laid them down that this nation might be one and free. Help us, we beseech Thee, to maintain that which they achieved. And as, when a strong man armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace, teach our hands to war and our fingers to fight against all who would take from us our fathers' heritage of freedom.

"Sanctify our allegiance to the Republic for which this banner stands; that by Thy mighty aid it may continue one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Church Activities For Coming Week

The Rev. H. Percy Silver, chaplain of the Military Academy at West Point, will preach to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The Fourth Presbyterian Church will begin its eighth annual outdoor twilight services to-morrow evening on the church steps at West End Avenue and Ninety-first Street. The service will begin with the call of the cornet. Afterward the church choir will give special music, followed by congregational singing from the Billy Sunday hymnal. The Rev. Edgar Whitaker Work, pastor, will preach.

During July the Rev. F. A. McCarty, district superintendent of the Methodist Church, will supply the pulpit of the Grace Methodist Church. During August the Rev. Charles W. Tadlock, of the Centenary Methodist Church, of St. Louis, will preach.

A lawn service will be held to-morrow evening by the Old First Presbyterian Church, and their new outdoor pulpit will be used. The Rev. Howard Duffield will speak on "Outdoor Religion."

The Fifth Avenue Baptist Church has arranged a special series of Monday evening meetings for the summer. Monday evening will be given over to "Experiences of the Sunday Campaign." On July 2 a patriotic service will be held, at which J. Howard Ardrey, vice-president of the National Bank of Commerce, will speak on "The Patriot and His Country." On July 9, Fred P. Haggard will speak on "Russian Liberty and Religion."

Bishop David H. Greer will ordain to the deaconate Thomas Alfred Fletcher Collett this morning, at 10 o'clock, in the Cathedral of St John the Divine.

St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, of Mamaroneck, is celebrating the 100th anniversary of the incorporation of the parish and the thirty-first of the consecration of the present church. A special centennial offering has been taken, which amounted to $1,000, which will be used to endow a pew in memory of the late Rev. L. M. Van Bokelen.

The Church of the Messiah has sent out the following card, signed by its two ministers, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes and the Rev. Harvey Dee Brown.

"In answer to the challenge of the times, and in establishment of a policy which it is hoped may be henceforth permanent, we beg herewith to make announcement that the Church of the Messiah will hold regular services every Sunday, and one of its ministers be on duty every day, during all of the coming summer. Mr. Holmes will preach on June 3 and 10, July 22 and 29 and throughout August; Mr. Brown on June 17 and 24, July 1, 8 and 15, and September 2, 9, 16 and 23. Regular winter services will be resumed on September 30.

The Rev. Dr. F. M. Clendenin, for thirty years rector of St. Peter's, West Chester, has announced his resignation, to take effect next fall. St. Peter's is one of the historic parishes of America. It has passed the 200th anniversary of its foundation. Bishop Seabury, the first American Bishop, was its rector for ten years. Dr. Clendenin is a graduate of Princeton, of the class of '73. He has had but three parishes in the course of his ministry—St. George's, Bellevue, Ill.; Grace Church, Cleveland, and St. Peter's, West Chester, N. Y. Dr. Clendenin is sixty-four years old, and his wife is a daughter of Horace Greeley. He intends to reside at the old Greeley homestead, at Chappaqua, when he is relieved of duty.

The Tent Evangel will open on Sunday at 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. at its new location, 110th Street and Amsterdam Avenue. Dr. Cortlandt Myers, of Tremont Temple, Boston, will preach at both services—at 3 o'clock on "The Need of Backbone in Our Christianity," and at 7:30 p. m. on "The World Fight for Liberty." He will preach in Tent Evangel for two weeks every night at 7:30 o'clock, except Mondays, when there is no service, and on Sundays at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. Out of courtesy to the churches there will be no Sunday morning service.

The Rev. Dr. C. D. F. Steinfuhrer, pastor of the German Reformed Church, of Long Island City, will preach his fiftieth anniversary sermon on Sunday morning. He has been pastor of that church for forty-six years. Special services will be held at the Astoria church all week.

Albert Bushnell Hart, professor of government at Harvard University and author of many books on American history and diplomacy, will address the Public Forum of the Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, Manhattan, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, on "America's War Ideals." Discussion will follow the address.

Burdette G. Lewis, Commissioner of Correction, will be the speaker at the West Side Y. M. C. A., 218 West Fifty-seventh Street, to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, on "Punishment—Is It Out of Date?" An illustrated lecture on Y. M. C. A. national work follows at 5 o'clock. Tuesday evening Dave Ranney, of the Bowery, will finish his life story, "On Top of the Heap." The Martin Luther series will conclude Thursday evening with an address by the Rev. O. H. Pannkoke, "Luther, the Man, and What He Did for Me."

The Rev. James S. N. Demarest, for thirty years pastor of the Reformed Church of Queens, Long Island, has notified the consistory that he will resign in November. He will become a lay member of the church. His pastorate at the Queens church is the longest in that part of the Borough of Queens. Mr. Demarest's father, also a clergyman, was a professor at the Reformed Church Seminary at New Brunswick, N. J.

Herbert C. Hoover, National Food Director, mailed recently a letter to 200,000 pastors of individual churches, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, calling upon them to cooperate with him and with the Department of Agriculture in urging the largest possible production of food and the smallest possible amount of waste.

Colonel Roosevelt has sent the following message to American troops through the New York Bible Society:

"The teachings of the New Testament are foreshadowed in Micah's verse: 'What more doth the Lord require of thee than to do justice, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God.'

"Do justice; and therefore fight valiantly against the armies of Germany and Turkey, for these nations in this crisis stand for the reign of Moloch and Beelzebub on this earth.

"Love mercy; treat prisoners well; succor the wounded; treat every woman as if she was your sister; care for the little children, and be tender with the old and helpless.

"Walk humbly; you will do so if you study the life and teachings of the Saviour.

"May the God of Justice and Mercy have you in His keeping."

The Neighborhood House, a social agency of five years' standing, at 324 Pleasant Avenue, New York City, will give a patriotic pageant this evening. The pageant itself will include folk dances, given in costume by representatives of the Hungarian, Slovish and Italian groups. The children have been trained by Miss De La Mare. Following the folk dances there will be a series of tableaus.
