Prosperity Ahead for Studebaker, Erskine Says

Head of Company Predicts Good Business in 1919; Last Year's Sales Larger

Business of the Studebaker Corporation promises to be better in 1919 than in any year since 1916. This is the forecast made by A. R. Erskine, president, in the annual report to stockholders issued yesterday.

Net sales last year amounted to $52,087,997, compared with $50,147,516 the preceding year. The surplus after charges and war taxes was $3,884,194, equivalent, after payment of $767,550 in preferred dividends, to $10.38 a share on the $30,000,000 common stock, contrasted with $9.11 a share earned in 1917. The amount paid out in war taxes last year was $637,754, an increase of $77,566.

Mr. Erskine said that commercial operations last year were seriously curtailed because of the government's urgent need of a large part of the company's plant facilities and the restricted supply of iron and steel.

"We voluntarily met the situation," he added, "and devoted ourselves cheerfully to the execution of war orders, reducing our commercial production to the lowest point necessary for the protection of our dealers and the preservation of our commercial organization. This enforced curtailment permitted us to produce only 18,270 automobiles, and 58,830 horse-drawn vehicles, of which latter about 50 per cent were delivered on war contracts.

"When the armistice was signed we were manufacturing at our Detroit plants gun carriages for 4.7-inch guns, shell parts, artillery wheel hubs, mine anchors, military tractors for the British government and sundry other war supplies, while our South Bend plants were making artillery wheels in three sizes, road track links for tanks, escort wagons, drinking water carts, combat wagons, escort wheels, artillery harness and other supplies."

From the standpoint of profits the president of the Studebaker Corporation stated that the company's war business was unattractive, netting only 4.8 per cent on sales. The company, according to Mr. Erskine, will produce about 6,500 cars in the first quarter of this year and 4,000 cars a month thereafter. The present heavy demand is far beyond the company's productive capacity, Mr. Erskine said.

Business Troubles

to grind and mills are paying steadily advancing premiums.

The export movement continues of moderate proportions, compared with the available supply, but reports are still being heard of the government acquiring more tonnage, while the arrangements recently completed abroad for the feeding of Germany are expected to result in an increased movement of wheat and flour from America.

The domestic demand for flour has increased very noticeably of late and as mills are paying high prices for their wheat flour values have advanced sharply.

Corn.—New high records for the season were established in the near months in corn during yesterday's market. The predictions made by the bulls sometime ago that corn would sell at $1.50 were realized when the March position in Chicago sold up to $1.53½. There was heavy general buying throughout the list and sentiment was influenced by the reports from abroad regarding requirements of foodstuffs and by domestic conditions.

The heavy rains throughout a large portion of the corn belt were against any increase in the movement and the visible supply in the United States decreased 633,000 bushels during the past week, bringing the total to 3,374,000, compared with 12,757,000 last year.

Furthermore, the hog market was again strong at 19½ cents, and it seemed improbable that any definite action will be taken about fixing a maximum price for hogs.

July	1.35½	1.32	—

Oats.—The oats market continued to follow corn and prices were firmer, with net gains of ¾ to 1c. The weather was unfavorable for country marketing and it is feared that the heavy rains will delay seeding in the Southwest and result in a reduced acreage, whereas in the more northerly sections a large acreage of oat land is going into spring wheat. The visible supply decreased 608,000 bushels for the week and the total was 26,844,000, compared with 17,103,000 last year.
