Curb Prices Hold Steady in Trading By Professionals

Transactions in Smaller Volume and Fluctuations Are Narrow; Oil Shares Appear To Be Depressed

Trading on the curb market was of a professional nature almost entirely yesterday, and fluctuations were narrow. Oil shares were depressed slightly on lack of support, Maracaibo reacting to 29⅛ and Mountain Producers to 10⅞. Others in this group were little changed at the close.

Some of the industrials were in better demand and registered advances. North American Pulp & Paper sold up to 5⅛, a gain of about a point, easing fractionally on realizing. Durant Motors moved up more than a point to 21⅝, and Intercontinental Rubber regained part of recent lost ground.

Retailers Seeking Bargains At Own Price; Response Good

Large Stores Want Low-Priced Merchandise for Quick Turn-Over; Sales Featured in All Sections

Bargain hunting as a high art is being developed by the larger retail stores of the country, particularly those catering to the low-priced trade. Within a week half a dozen or more of the largest retailers in the country have been in the local market seeking considerable quantities of merchandise "at a price." Some of them have placed large ads in daily papers announcing that they were in the market for large lots of goods at low prices. The response to these ads, it is reported, has been exceedingly good, and a great quantity of merchandise has changed hands because of them.

The action of these retailers along this line, according to the buying representative of one such firm, is not a desire to stock up, but to make a quick profit through the rapid turnover of merchandise at prices attractive to the consumer. Special sales are being featured in many stores throughout the country with merchandise acquired in this manner.

One of the best known New York department stores has featured a number of such sales on shoes within the last two months. The shoes were the surplus stocks of manufacturers, some of them cancelled orders, rejects, etc. Altogether the store has disposed of more than 20,000 pairs of women's, men's and children's shoes through these low-priced sales.

Other retailers who have not resorted to this method of increasing their sales volume say that it provides little competition for them, in that the merchandise sold in such sales is of low quality and much of it passé in style.

Commercial Credit

Frozen credits still constitute one of the chief financial problems in business. Reports from various sections of the country indicate that credits based on manufactured goods have been fairly well liquidated, but the progress in unfreezing the credits bound up in wool, cotton, grain and other agricultural products has been slow.

The commercial money market was only moderately active yesterday. Commercial paper rates continue at 7½ and 7¾ per cent.

Bankers' acceptance rates quoted yesterday by the American Acceptance Council were:

30 days	5¾	5½	6	5⅞
60 days	5⅞	5⅝	6⅛	6
90 days	5⅞	5¾	6¼	6⅛

Call loans against acceptances, 6 per cent.

Importers and Exporters Oppose Tariff Plans

The American Importers' and Exporters' Association yesterday, in an official statement, took a decided stand against the Fordney bill imposing tariffs on foreign agricultural products. The association asserts that the enactment of this temporary tariff legislation will "be a declaration of commercial war that will have a far-reaching effect upon our foreign trade relations, since it must of necessity foreshadow the character of the permanent legislation to follow."

"It is the sincere conviction of the members of this association, who, though limited in number, represent considerably more than $1,000,000,000 of foreign commerce, both export and import," says the statement, "that any tariff legislation should be enacted only after the most painstaking and most extensive investigation of the subject by experts here and abroad and that it should be based on scientific principles, with all of its ultimate effects clearly in mind.

"As the productive capacity of our farms, mills and factories is greatly in excess of our domestic consuming power, it is an absolute necessity to maintain our export trade and to develop constantly new markets in order to furnish an outlet for our surplus farm products and manufactured goods. Any increase in the present duties on raw materials or farm products will, naturally, curtail or even entirely prevent their entry into this country and will lessen correspondingly the ability of the foreign producing countries of such goods to buy from us in exchange therefor."

Bidding for Beaver Feature at Auction

Good bidding for beaver, with prices up to the open market, and considerably above those prevailing in January, yesterday featured the third day of the spring sale being held by the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation at the Masonic Temple. The best skins brought from $16.50 to $28 apiece. Prices averaged 20 per cent above January prices.

Marmots, which had a slight run last year and the year before, as substitutes for the high-priced Hudson seal in coats, were weak, and fell below open market levels, according to buyers. The top price was 62 cents and it is believed that a considerable proportion of the 116,409 skins were bought back by their holders. Prices, however, were 10 per cent better than January.

Interest in house cat, hair seal and sundry furs was slight. A decline of 15 per cent was shown on house cat, compared to January; 30 per cent in hair seal; 30 per cent in pony and 10 per cent in Japanese marten. Prices on the better grade of Persian lamb showed no change when compared to January's figure, and on the lower grade and on Shiraz the offerings were neglected.

Confer on Imports

Importers of German made merchandise will meet to-day at the Hotel Pennsylvania at a conference called by the recently formed National Council of American Importers to take definite action in opposition to the bill presented in Congress by Representative Young proposing that imports be valued at the American price level. Importers state that goods from Germany and other countries where low exchange prevails will be subjected to a 300 per cent increase in duty if the measure become a law. Importers of German goods are said to be rapidly withdrawing merchandise held in bonded warehouses before the law can be enacted.

Cloak and Suit Designing

Plans for benefiting the cloak and suit designing industry in order to stimulate interest in the profession and prevent defections to other lines of endeavor will be revealed to-night at a specially convened meeting of the United Cloak and Suit Designers Mutual Aid Association of America at the Hotel McAlpin.

Finds Scandinavian Trade Outlook Good

Norway, Denmark, Sweden, the Dutch East Indies and Czecho-Slovakia are the most favorable foreign markets for American products at the present time, according to a survey of world trade conditions completed by the foreign department of the Bank of America.

"Exporters and manufacturers in the United States," says the bank, "will find the first four countries the most desirable in the next few months, at any rate, taking into consideration the balance of all the main factors that make for profitable foreign trade. Exchange is more or less steady, internal conditions are as stable as can be expected, demand at least potential and credit facilities are available. Rating these requisites at the present time should bring these four countries into the leading places for export activities."
