Tone Is Steady In Quiet Trading On Curb Market

D., L. & W. Rights and Glen Alden Coal Move Within Narrow Limits; Volume of Business Is Small

Prices were steady in quiet trading on the curb market yesterday and fluctuations were restricted within narrow limits. Professionals were the only ones who showed any interest in transactions and the volume of business was small.

D., L. & W. rights were in better demand for a time, but were unchanged from Friday's final sale at the close. Glen Alden Coal sagged a fraction at 41¼. Durant Motors held steady.

Maracaibo and several other independent oil shares were slightly lower as interest lagged. International Petroleum and Carib Syndicate lost fractions.

Government Aid for Cotton Industry Urged at Parley

More Liberal Credit and Help in Exports Sought to Improve Industry at Conference of Leaders

Government aid for the raw cotton industry in the shape of a reduction of the Federal Reserve rediscount rate on agricultural and industrial paper to 5 per cent, the extension of loans to farmers, and the opening up of export trade through the efforts of the War Trade Financing Corporation and the Department of Commerce were recommended in a resolution passed at the closing session yesterday of the National Cotton Consultation Conference, held under the auspices of the American Cotton Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Another resolution introduced by R. O. Tomlinson urged the coöperation of cotton-growing states to attempt the solution of the present stagnant market for the staple. In connection with this resolution it is pointed out that no attempt at fixing the price of cotton is intended. The conference also urged the adoption of the United States standard of grades in cotton dealings within this country and instructed the delegates to the World Cotton Conference in England this month to lay the proposition of world-wide adoption of the American standards before the conference.

Improvement in the European situation, upon which a revival of trade in this country depends, was forecast by former Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia.

Pleas for a tariff on long staple Egyptian cotton were urged by Dwight P. Heard, of Phœnix, Ariz., who asserted that the Arizona cotton industry was threatened with destruction by Egyptian competition. "It cost the Arizona farmers about 52.6 cents a pound to produce their long-fiber staple last year," he said, "and Egyptian sack cotton has been laid down in New Bedford lately at 26 cents a pound. We cannot compete with the native Egyptian labor, paid but 40 cents a day. The 7 cents a pound duty provided in the emergency tariff will give a little relief, but we need a protection of at least 20 cents a pound."

Disclaiming expert knowledge of the cotton market, Dr. B. M. Anderson jr., economist of the Chase National Bank, suggested caution in connection with the policy of financing the export of cotton to Europe, not for immediate sale, but to be held in Europe until trade revival there. He pointed out that the price of cotton in Liverpol has in the past six months generally been below the normal parity with New York cotton prices, and that at times it has even been profitable to bring back raw cotton from Liverpool for sale in New York. He said that if very much cotton were exported to Europe to be held there for future sale the psychological effect on European markets might be bad. He said that the real problem is to start European industry again and to encourage exports from Europe. In this connection he opposed protective tariffs directed against European manufacturers. Dr. Anderson spoke as the representative of the New York State Bankers' Association. He stated that there was every disposition on the part of the banking fraternity to coöperate in facilitating the export trade.

Other speakers at the conference which closed with a banquet last night at which Hoke Smith acted as toastmaster were Charles H. MacDowell, president of the National Fertilizers Association, who advocated the greater use of fertilizer in cotton growing; Lincoln Cromwell, director of the Merchants' Association of New York, who extended the greetings of that body and of the city; Arthur R. Marsh, former president of the New York Cotton Exchange, who defended the great cotton markets as price stabilizers; Allen A. Walker, of the Guaranty Trust Company, and Mrs. L. A. Richardson, of Alabama, who traced the history of cotton and women's part in it from Babylonian times.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Formal expression by Secretary Hoover of the belief that extended credit facilities are vitally needed in Southern cotton states and that Federal Reserve system credit curtailments, having served their purpose, "are now bringing great hardship," is contained in a letter from Mr. Hoover made public to-day by former Senator J. L. McLaurin, of South Carolina, who conferred with the Secretary last week regarding the cotton situation at the suggestion of President Harding.

Confirming views he had expressed verbally at the interview, Mr. Hoover outlined a policy toward cotton embracing four phases: First, credit extension through coöperation of Reserve and member banks; second, better organized export credit machinery to get American cotton into American-controlled warehouses abroad; third, improved warehousing methods to make cotton certificates a basis of mobile credit and also acceptable as actual delivery of the cotton; fourth, expression of the opinion that prospective reduced acreage would contribute toward stabilizing the situation over the next year.

Commercial Credit

Demand for commercial paper yesterday was quiet and the volume of new paper slightly less than last week. Rates remained unchanged at 7 per cent for most new paper coming into the market, 6½ to 6¾ for a few exceptionally high grade paper and 7¼ for paper bearing names not so well known.

The American Acceptance Council quoted the following discount rates on prime bankers' acceptances eligible for purchase by Federal Reserve banks:

	Bid.	Asked.
30 days	5⅞	5⅝
60 days	5⅞	5⅝
90 days	6	5¾
120 days	6	5¾

Call loans against acceptances, 6 per cent.

No Improvement in May

Turning Point Nearer, However, Credit Men Feel

The month of May provided no upward swing to business, in the opinion of J. Harry Tregoe, executive secretary of the National Association of Credit Men, although it brought industry nearer the actual turning point, it was believed.

"During May the movements in commerce and credits have been almost colorless," he said yesterday. "On a careful survey we cannot discover an upward swing to business, though we seem nearer than ever to the point where we can say with confidence: 'The bottom has been hit.' But hitting the bottom does not, by any means, suggest that there is to be an immediate upward swing. The upward movement will require more strength and vitality than business at the moment possesses.

"We must bear in mind that recoveries from former depressions were slow. Two years were required to recover from the depression of 1819 and at least five years from the depressions of 1873 and 1893."

Weather Aids Trade

Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say: "Current wholesale distribution of dry goods showed a marked increase in volume over the previous week, reflecting the excellent retail business which has accompanied the warmer weather. Collections continue satisfactory."
