w Legislation Held Up Until Executive Sends Message on Subsidies and Other Marine Aids

een Fight Is Forecast

eaders in House and Senate to Aid Administration: Opposition Strong

Action on the numerous marine asures now pending in Congress will suspended until President Harding sent his message early next month, cording to leaders of the Senate mittee on Commerce and the se Merchant Marine Committee. hen the wishes of the Administraon are made public there will be a alignment of forces on shipping estions, with a move on the part of e Republican chiefs to revise dorant bills to conform to the general ogram outlined by the Executive.

Shipping men here who are in close uch with sentiment in Congress resee a keen fight on some of the reat subsidy features if the board nd the President follow the recomendations made by the Merchant Maine Joint Committee, composed of wners, builders and operators, "influential members of both the House nd Senate committees have attended ng conferences at the offices of the oard and have listened to the arguments on various forms of government id.

It is expected that they will be sympathetic with the general purposes of the Administration policies and will seek to put them into effect.

Direct Subsidy Faces Fight

From other sources it is learned that there will be a keen fight on the provisions for a direct subsidy. The willingness of Congress to help the merchant marine has been demonstrated on many occasions, and has been one of the planks of the Republican platform for many years. The strength of this sentiment was shown in the enactment of the merchant marine act, known as the Jones law.

The purpose of the Administration now, as indicated in statements at various times from the White House and the Shipping Board, is to go much further than the Jones act, with its provisions for indirect aid, and to ask Congress for large payments in cash. It is considered certain that this will precipitate a strong contest, with the result far from assured.

At present there are three sources of opposition in Congress which are receiving the attention of advocates of shipping measures. The first is the belief of some members that the dormant features of the Jones act should be enforced before further experiments are made. Second is the constant antagonism of important sections of the country, especially those remote from the seaboard, to cash appropriations for shipping. And the third is the reaction against the shipping industry which has grown up within the last few days as a result of the charges of Secretary Hoover that there have been attempts to profiteer on shipments of corn to the famine sufferers of Russia.

Tolls Bill Dormant

The bill to repeal the Panama Canal tolls as applied to American coastwise vessels lies quiet in the House, and will not be brought up until the Conference on the Limitation of Armament has completed its work. This passed the Senate by a substantial majority over the opposition of the President. There is strong sentiment for its support in the House.

No action has yet been taken by the House Merchant Marine Comittee on the bill introduced by Representative Burton to repeal Section 34 of the Jones act, as requested by the President. It is understood that the committee will take no steps until the views of the President have been outlined further.

Pacific Mail Adds To N. Y. Freight and Passenger Offices

Arrangements Made for the Opening of New Service to West Coast in February; First Steamer Filled

W. A. Young jr., general passenger agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, arrived in New York yesterday to complete arrangements for the organization of a passenger office in connection with the establishment recently of a regular passenger and cargo service between this city and San Francisco.

The Pacific Mail announced a considerable expansion of the company's freight office at 10 Hanover Square, which will have entire charge of the booking and handling of westbound cargoes. J. E. Magner has joined the staff as rate clerk to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of A. C. Fels to specialization in Central American business, and several freight solicitors are being added this week to meet the increased local demand.

The first sailing in the new service will be that of the Venezuela on February 8 from New York. This vessel is now on her way here from San Francisco. H. E. Stocker, assistant general freight agent, who is in charge of the local office, said yesterday that the entire passenger accommodations of the Venezuela for the western trip have been taken.

Ask Foreign Trade Estimates in Tons Rather Than Money

Seattle Expects Greater Traffic Through Lower Rail and Water Rates; Competition by Canal

Seattle foreign trade interests have urged the Department of Commerce to record comparative port figures in terms of tonnage rather than dollars, according to a statement from the Chamber of Commerce. It is pointed out that tonnage is a more accurate barometer of the volume of international commerce. Exports from Seattle in November, 1920, aggregated $6,134,528, against exports for the same month of 1921 valued at $3,773,853. The Chamber of Commerce calls attention to the fact that despite the drop in valuation the tonnage of trade for the two months increased from 49,000 to 59,554 tons.

An advance in iron and steel shipments to Puget Sound ports, the Chamber of Commerce says, is expected as a result of the action of the intercoastal steamship companies operating through the Panama Canal in cutting the rate on iron and steel 20 per cent from Atlantic to Pacific ports.

Competitive steamship lines carrying freight between California and Puget Sound have cut the northbound tariff approximately 20 per cent, it is announced.

Ten cents an hour reduction in longshoremen's wages, together with general curtailment in overhead costs, has resulted in a saving of four cents a ton in the handling of tonnage over the public terminals of the port of Seattle.
