Hylan Resumes Reins of Office And City Jogs On

'You Talk Too Much,' Is Reproof Given to Connolly During Tilt With Craig Over Paving in Queens

Tax Rate Bill Approved

Mayor Admits He Was Forgotten by His Grandson, Who Is Seven Months Old

Mayor Hylan punched the time clock [illegible] in City Hall a few minutes before 9 o'clock yesterday morning. He wore [illegible] a healthy coat of tan [illegible] and "Ready for hard [illegible]."

The Mayor good naturedly repelled [illegible] who sought to get an [illegible] with municipal affairs. [illegible] would not be drawn into [illegible] of the Port Authority, the [illegible] or the "interests," [illegible] loyalty to family [illegible] to and Mrs. Hylan [illegible] Sunday night, [illegible] their grandchild, [illegible], seven months old, [illegible] Mrs. John F. Sunnott.

Tells of Visit to Grandson

[illegible] grandson John Hylan [illegible] of Mrs. Hylan [illegible] the Mayor. "He [illegible] good-with [illegible] his tiny arms [illegible] 'I don't know [illegible] or not.'" [illegible] and not appear [illegible] of recognition, [illegible] the cheerful declaration [illegible] that the people and [illegible]

[illegible] right down to work [illegible] day. He indulged [illegible] Borough President [illegible] of Queens at a [illegible] of the whole [illegible] of Fairmont, but many [illegible] Mayor Stewart [illegible] the United Real [illegible] whom the [illegible] Comptroller [illegible] work be [illegible] at large [illegible] and the [illegible] proceed to pro- [illegible] announced him [illegible]

[illegible] to take my shares," re- [illegible] smiling, [illegible] your turn to [illegible] then you can [illegible]."

Deadlock Vote on Motion

[illegible] the vote on [illegible] however, and [illegible] over until next [illegible]

[illegible] was prepared [illegible] and recently [illegible] appointed [illegible] Board, op- [illegible] Unless also has [illegible] Acting Mayor Murray [illegible] Mayor's absence, [illegible] The measure [illegible] the withdrawal [illegible] the 1922 budget [illegible] in an effort [illegible] the only way to [illegible] budget, as [illegible] to spend the [illegible] over the city [illegible] drawn for that [illegible]

[illegible] appeared to agree [illegible] the real estate [illegible] was "not good [illegible] that he would [illegible] Browne an- [illegible] Union had [illegible] nationality of the [illegible] to its [illegible] approved the [illegible] to Albany by spe- [illegible] in order to be effec- [illegible] signed by the Governor [illegible] when the Board of [illegible] required to finally fix [illegible] rate. The bill makes the [illegible] for the entire city.

Col. Friedsam Gives $5,000 to City College Library Fund

[illegible] W. Churchill, chairman of [illegible] of trustees of the College of [illegible] New York, announced yes- [illegible] Colonel Michael Friedsam [illegible] $5,000 to the college [illegible] building fund.

[illegible] Friedsam was a member of [illegible] committee of training for [illegible] Under the supervision [illegible] committee the College of the [illegible] of New York developed courses of [illegible] students for entering [illegible] These courses have [illegible] since 1916.

Robbers Who Prey on Thieves Strip "Boob" Burglar of Loot

Man Accused of Several Raids on Flats Bemoans His Stupidity as He Charges Two With Filching His Hard-Earned "Swag"

Thomas Bell, self-confessed burglar, who appeared as prosecuting witness in Long Island City court yesterday against two men he charged with highway robbery, told Magistrate Conway he considered himself "the champion boob burglar."

Bell was arrested late Sunday night after twenty detectives had fired revolvers at him on a fire escape of the Carlyon Apartment, 125 East Seventy-second Street. He explained to the court that he had been robbed of the proceeds of several burglaries by crooks who made a business of robbing burglars. He charged that the men in court took him for an automobile ride, poked gun muzzles in both his ears and relieved him of his loot. They got $300 in cash and $400 worth of jewelry, he declared.

The prisoners gave their names as Edward Williams, of 350 Broadway, Astoria, and August Schamberger, of 129 Cresent Street, Long Island City. Magistrate Conway held them in $2,000 bail each. Bell was taken back to jail for arraignment to-day on the burglary charge.

Bell's arrest Sunday night was spectacular. Following complaints from apartments in the vicinity of Seventy-second Street and Madison Avenue, Captain John Duane with twenty men of West Sixty-seventh Street station, picketed the neighborhood. Soon after midnight Bell was seen descending a fire escape in the rear of the building at 125 East Seventy-second Street. The entire squad of detectives opened fire on him. He is declared to have escaped death only by rushing into the arms of Detective McMahon.

Questioned with regard to eleven previous burglaries in the district between Lexington and Madison avenues and Thirty-fifth and Seventieth streets, Bell is said by the police to have confessed five. He said the Seventy-second Street job was to have been his last, because a burglar had no chance nowadays. Gangs of gunmen made a business of robbing burglars, he declared.

According to Bell's story, he went to Ravenswood, L. I., after robbing the apartment of Clinton H. Crane, 836 Park Avenue, on February 20, having cash and jewelry amounting to almost $1,000 in his possession taken from the Crane home. Bell said he had scarcely left the train before he was picked up by Schamberger and Williams, who robbed and beat him.

"They left me penniless on a country road miles from home," said Bell, tearfully. "What chance has a burglar with a gang like that?"

Collector Acquires 'Indian Summer,' by Innes, for $16,500

Eighty Canvases Sold at Total of $54,225 at Sale of American and Foreign Subjects at Plaza

Eighty American and foreign paintings of distinction, including a historically significant and brilliant painting by the American master, George Inness, N. A., were dispersed at auction last night at the Hotel Plaza by the American Art Association for $54,225. The Inness was the painting, "Indian Summer," a landscape in soft reds and browns, which was purchased from the artist direct in 1894 by the congregation of the Central Church, Chicago, for presentation to its pastor, the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis. It fetched $16,500 from O. Bernet, an agent acting for a private collector. It was one of the last works of the artist and considered one of his most important. It was sold to Messrs. Knoedler at the McMillin sale in 1913 and from them acquired by Duncan Phillips, who offered it in this sale.

Many of the important paintings in this offering were the property of Mr. Phillips though other examples were from the Billings estate corporation, the estate of Edward V. W. Rossiter and the collections of Miss L. Hoffman, Mrs. R. M. Shurtleff and other owners.

Il Canaletto's fine architectural painting, "Palace of the Doges," which was from the Robert Davis collection of Kent, England, brought $2,000, the second highest price of the evening, going to C. D. Paul. Mrs. J. E. Wayland bid $1,900 to acquire the painting by the French modern, Felix Ziem, called "Fete on the Grand Canal, Venice." This work was from the Rossiter collection and was purchased in 1905 from Theodore C. Noe. A George Bellows landscape sold for $550, and a marine by Paul Dougherty for $1,400.

Other sales were:

"An Arabian Bazaar on the ramparts of Damascus," by Alberto Pasini, to Miss H. Lorenz, agent, $625; "The Master of the House," by Charles Emile Jacque, to Mrs. M. H. Dodge, $550; "The cottage," by Jean Jacques Henner, to John Levy, agent, $500; "Sunset Venice," by Giuseppe Giacomelli, to John Levy, $425; "Mosque and Market Place," by Alberto Pasini, to H. H. Lorenz, agent, $800; "Dutch Interior with Figures," by P. Rivers, to William Sievers, $1,250; "Idle Hours," by Jean Jacques Henner, to A. Coleman, $1,200; "A Wet Night," by George Fuller, N. A., to J. E. Rogers, $700; "Weele's Place at Windham," by Hamilton Bell, N. A., to W. Macbeth, agent, $1,000; "Landscape," by Thomas Moran, N. A., to Frank Bros., agents, $1,250; "Idle Hours," by Jean Jacques Henner, to A. Coleman, $1,200; "A Wet Night," by George Fuller, N. A., to J. E. Rogers, $700; "Weele's Place at Windham," by Hamilton Bell, N. A., to W. Macbeth, agent, $1,000; "Landscape," by Thomas Moran, N. A., to Frank Bros., agents, $1,250; "Mother and Child," by Charles Webster Hawthorne, N. A., to W. Macbeth, agent, "Grand Canal, Venice," by Walter Griffin, N. A., to Wm. Davis, $1,250; "Notre Dame," by Jean Francois Raffaelli, to J. Khemler, $600; "Morning," by Helen Farquhar, to E. Gallatin, $1,000; "Torch Dance," by Robert Spencer, to Miss A. Seaman, agent, $600; "Between Sunset and Moonrise," by Paul Dougherty, to A. O. Bellet, agent, $1,400; "Edge of Horse Shoe," by Leonard Ochtman, to W. Macbeth, $600; "Reflection," by Edward W. Redfield, N. A., to Macbeth, Inc., $1,000; "Pastoral," by Jules Dupre, to P. Adam, $1,000; "Les Coteaux de Valmont," by Charles Francois Daubigny, to R. Austin, $1,000; "Landscape, On the Mediterranean," by Henri Harpignies, to J. Fridman, $1,050; "Hunting Dogs," by E. and H. Oathaus, to Mrs. M. Doubleday, $500.

N. Y. Laws of 1694 Sold for $3,000 At Art Auction

Volume Is Only One Known To Be in Private Collection; Fine Copy of Rare First Issue to H. H. Frost Jr.

A copy of the first compiled laws of New York, printed in 1694 by William Bradford, one of this city's earliest printers, was sold for $3,000 at auction at the American Art Galleries for $3,000, thus proving the most valuable of the rare assemblage of acts and laws of the thirteen original colonies and states, the personal collection of Supreme Court Justice Russell Benedict, of Brooklyn. The sale yesterday afternoon and evening realized $56,400.

The volume of New York laws, which was the only copy known to be in a private collection, was purchased by H. H. Frost jr. It is classed as an exceptionally fine copy of the exceedingly rare first issue and includes a manuscript note of resolutions by the House, authorizing publication. It was formerly owned by the Pennsylvania Historical Society and was one of the many unusual legal documents that made the Benedict collection renowned.

The rare second revision of the "Laws of the Colony of New York for 1691," also printed by Bradford, was another valuable historical record, which J. F. Drake acquired for $2,100. The New York State library paid $1,400 for Charles Carroll's (Barrister Carroll, of Baltimore) copy of the second revision of the same laws.

The Massachusetts State Library, the New York Historical Society, the Congressional Library, the New York Public Library, the Harvard Law School and the Bar Association of New York were among the purchasers.

Important sales were:

Copy of the Massachusetts general laws for 1672, published in Cambridge by Samuel Green, 1675, to H. H. Frost jr., $1,000; Pennsylvania laws of 1714, printed by Andrew Bradford, Philadelphia, to H. H. Frost jr., $1,000; rare fourth revision of the Colonial laws of New York for 1691, printed by Bradford, 1719, to New York State Library, $950; rare third revision of the Colonial laws of New York for 1691, printed by Bradford, 1713, to Harvard Law School, $900; acts and laws of the Massachusetts Assembly, October, 1692, printed by Benjamin Harris, Boston, to Morris, agent, $850; acts and laws of Massachusetts for 1699, printed by Green & Allen, Boston, to H. H. Frost jr., $850; New York ordinances, 1761-1768, printed by Hugh Gaine, New York, 1767; finest copy of the "Montgomerie" charter of New York City, 1730, printed by J. P. Zenger, to L. C. Harper, $750; New York laws, November session, 1751, printed by James Parker, to New York State Library, $500; New York laws, December session, 1751, printed by James Parker, to New York State Library, $500.

Ruling Withheld On Rickard Plea To See Minutes

Justice Declares Best Way to Decide Question Is to Read Report Himself; Jury Records Produced

Counsel Attacks Findings

Promoter Denies Charges in New Indictments Alleging Abduction

Justice Wasservogel reserved decision in the Supreme Court yesterday on the motion of Max D. Steuer, counsel for Tex Rickard, for permission to examine the minutes of the grand jury which indicted the sports promoter on charges of assault on several young girls. The argument followed a plea of not guilty entered earlier in the day to two superseding indictments found against Rickard.

The indictment upon which Justice Wasservogel heard argument yesterday charges Rickard with having assaulted Alice Ruck, fifteen years old, on December 18 in an apartment in West Forty-seventh Street.

Challenges Validity of Case

Mr. Steuer argued that through the incompetent testimony of Sarah Schoenfeld and Nellie Gecko, alleged accomplices of Rickard in the superseding indictments, a prima facie case had not been made out. He also held that no corroboration was offered, as required by law and by decisions of the Court of Appeals.

Justice Wasservogel interrupted to ask: "If you might to see the minutes under the law you are going to see them. Don't worry about that." The justice added that he believed the best way to decide that question was to read the minutes himself.

The court differed with the contention of Mr. Steuer when he said there must be corroborating testimony with regard to every element of the crime charged. Justice Wasservogel said it was as there would never be any convictions.

Jury Minutes Produced

Ferdinand Pecora, chief Assistant District Attorney, handed the court a copy of the grand jury minutes, saying that if the court thought the indictment against Rickard should be dismissed such finding would meet with the approval of the office of the District Attorney. Mr. Steuer protested that the justice might not consider the motion to dismiss the indictment on the same argument as a motion to inspect the minutes. "I want the opportunity to appear before you," the lawyer added, "after having examined the minutes of the grand jury, and argue for a dismissal of these indictments on the ground that they were found upon illegal evidence that invaded Rickard's constitutional rights."

The superseding indictments against Rickard were found by the grand jury of the Criminal Branch, Supreme Court, on the alleged abduction of Anna Hess and the Gecko girl. It was explained that these indictments were merely to correct technicalities in the other indictments, which had been drawn on the terms of the Court of General Sessions instead upon those of the Supreme Court.

The Stage Door

[illegible] will present Grace George in the leading role with Denis Kerr, [illegible] at the Playhouse next Monday night, [illegible] "The Rise of Jenny Cushing" will go to Philadelphia [illegible]

[illegible] will succeed Hazel Dawn in the leading feminine role in "The Fan" [illegible] at the Eltinge Theater next Monday night. Miss Dawn, who made her debut in "The Hoop of Gold," has appeared recently in "The Wandering Jew."

[illegible] Lassie and Alexandra Carlisle have been engaged for Winthrop Ames's production of "The Truth About Blayds."

Earle Boxer, of the A. H. Woods press department, made his first appearance in the stage world Tuesday afternoon at the Eltinge Theater [illegible] "She will come home to Roosevelt" [illegible] about himself and other players.

William Gaxton, star of "The Sunny Side," at the Shubert-Riviera, this week, [illegible]

John Hunter has accepted a new play by Arthur Hathaway and Ann Nichols, authors of "Abie's Irish Rose," at the Nora Bayes Theater for production in the fall.

Norma Talmadge will appear with Grace George in "The Humble Hour," by Eugene Walter, which opens in Atlantic City on March 6. After this appearance Miss Talmadge is to be starred by William A. Brady and will probable make her first play in which he will appear in stock under the Brady management, in the dramatization of "The Mountebank" by A. E. Thomas.

A benefit performance will be given by the stage children's guild at the Casino Theater Monday afternoon next. The children will be seen in "The 1921 Hasty Pudding Show."

Sargent's "Synagogue" Stirs Jews in Boston

Crowd Storms State House, Demanding Removal of Picture From Library

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

BOSTON, Feb. 27. Representatives of the Jewish faith stormed the State House to-day to demand the removal from the walls of the Boston Public Library of John Singer Sargent's famous mural painting, "The Synagogue." They came to back up Representative Silbert's bill before the Legislature calling for the removal of the painting. The picture depicts the synagogue as a blind woman clutching the tablets of the law, while all around is ruin. Near her stands another woman, erect and radiant, on an altar with solid foundation. The first woman is supposed to represent Judaism and the second Christianity.

Rabbis and representatives of Jewish societies declared they considered the picture constituted a libel on the Jewish religion and a perversion of truth. Representative Silbert asked the same consideration as Protestants and Catholics would desire if their religion was so depicted.

Representative Martin Lomasney said he represented a district with a large Jewish population, that he found them honest, law-abiding people, and he thought their feelings should be considered.

Say Prisoner Told Them Magistrate Advised Silence

Witnesses in Auto Theft Inquiry Link J. V. Short's Name With Man Suspected of Stealing Motor Cars

The name of Magistrate James V. Short was introduced into an examination before United States Commissioner Meagher in Brooklyn yesterday of Carl Mancino, of 1001 Lorimer Street, Brooklyn, who is being held by the Federal authorities in their investigation of the gang of alleged automobile thieves operating in several states.

Detective Blaine McMahon, of the Auto Underwriters' Detective Bureau, and Robert K. Niedrie, representing the Globe and Rutgers Fire Insurance Company, testified that Charles Scheinemann, of 1951 Metropolitan Avenue, Brooklyn, one of the men indicted and under arrest at Hartford in the federal investigation, told them that Magistrate Short visited him in Hartford jail and "asked him not to talk about the case."

Magistrate Short said at his home last night that he knew Mancino very well and that he was a neighbor and fellow member of the Elks. He denied that he had ever discussed any case with Scheinemann, Inc. and that he did not recall the man's name, but remembered the incident.

"I never owned an auto of my own," Magistrate Short said "that I have frequently been invited to ride by my friends. About two first of last December I met Mancino and he said that he was going to drive up to Hartford in a day or two, where an insurance company wanted him to identify an automobile which had been stolen from him, and asked me if I wanted to go for the ride. I accepted and we drove up into Connecticut. We followed an automobile in which several insurance agents told us the car was in Hartford.

"At an insurance office Mancino identified his car, and then an assistant District Attorney asked him if he would like to go to the jail and see the man who had stolen it. We all went, and were confronted with Scheinemann in an ante-room.

"I remarked to the District Attorney that the man had the face of a criminal, and then I looked at him closer and said to him, 'I am Magistrate Short. Don't you recall being arraigned before me in Williamsburg court?' He denied that he had, and then we left the jail, and that was the only conversation I had with Scheinemann."

Draws Ten Days' Sleep

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 27.—Ten days of sleep, according to physicians, are in store for Clarence Harvey, twenty-eight years old, who, police say, attempted to commit suicide today by swallowing a large overdose of sleeping tablets which he believed to be poison.

Hospital attendants say that the man will recover.

Polite Bandits Calm Women, Hold Up Store

Giant Quiets Customers as He Takes $500 From the Till, but Refuses to Allow Them to Leave

Robbers Get $4,000

Three Take Envelope From Collector; Theater Crowd Sees Police Chase Auto

Three robbers, the leader more than six feet tall, entered an H. C. Bohack store at Fulton and Linwood streets, Brooklyn, about 6:30 p. m. yesterday. There were more than twenty persons in the store, most of them women.

"Stick 'em up!" commanded the big man and a bulge in each overcoat pocket led his hearers to believe that he had a revolver gripped in each hand. They stuck 'em up. The three clerks and the manager, Henry Hein, were ordered from behind the counters and the women were ordered to the rear.

"Don't be afraid," the tall man said to the ladies. "Just step to the rear. Nobody's going to hurt you."

While his companions were looting the cash registers of about $500, some of the women betrayed their anxiety, however. Several of them tried to drop their purses or hide them on the shelves of the store.

"You needn't do that," said their vigilant guard. "We're not going to trouble you."

Robber Hails Woman

One woman tried to leave the store, but he stopped her with a few low-spoken words, telling her she would have to wait until they got through. An automobile with a man at the wheel was waiting in Linwood Street and the three hold-up men drove away in it.

George Baxter, a collector for the Southern Farms Company, Inc., left his office at 47 Henry Street at 11 a. m. yesterday and was getting into a buggy in front of the place, driven by Elias Kramer, when three men stepped up to the vehicle with leveled revolvers.

While Baxter and Kramer sat with their hands raised, one of the men took two envelopes containing $4,000 from Baxter's pocket. The hold-up men mounted the rear in the buggy, with their revolvers while they retreated around the corner, where, it is thought, they had an automobile.

Baxter was held up February 9 on Avenue B and robbed of $800. He was at 292 East Twenty-seventh Street.

Detective Conley, of the 3d Inspection District, fired three shots at a moving car on Flushing avenue in Lexington Avenue at Block Street late last night. It was motion picture theaters in the county were discharging crowds of people. The occupants of the machine, which, the detective says, was running fifty miles an hour, escaped from it at 109th Street.

Masks in Captured Car

The automobile was found to contain three black masks. Notification was sent to the automobile squad and investigation proved the number on a license plate carried by the captured car was spurious. The machine was removed to the 104th Street station and held for identification. According to Detectives Farley's reports there were four men in the car, one of whom rode on the running board.

Robbers were out early yesterday and went to work on three other stores, two in Brooklyn and one in Manhattan. In one instance the alleged thieves were caught, and in the other two they overlooked $1,200 and not $500.

The scene of the Manhattan robbery was the Atlantic and Pacific tea store at 356 Ninth Avenue. Three armed men entered the store after it had been opened. Two of the robbers held up the manager, Peter Wilkerson, and his assistant, Elary Price, and forced them into a room at the rear of the store.

The third man took off his hat and coat so that he might wait on customers while otherwise engaged in robbing the cash register. He waited on three customers, and all he got out of the cash register was $10.

The three men then set to kicking the two storekeepers, after which they escaped in an automobile. There was $500 hidden in the store.

O'Beirne notified the police. He said he recognized one of the hold-up men as one of the robbers who a few days ago robbed the store of $135.

The other robbery in which the participants were successful took place at the Thomas H. Rodgers store, at 759 Broadway, Brooklyn. In this case two armed men held up Albert J. Alcock, the manager, and Thomas Gaffney, a clerk, and took $200 from Alcock's pocket. They made no attempt to open the safe in which there was $1,000.

Two armed men entered the store as customers. One of them asked for a half pound of butter, and when Alcock turned to get it, the hold up began. The bandits stood the two employes behind the ice box and got away.

As the robbers drove off in their automobile one of the Rouleton truckmen came up and, suspecting something, took down the license number.

The third robbery was an attempt in which Reuben Lapsky, of 867 Sheffield Avenue, and Charles Leonard, of 4410 New Utrecht Avenue, Brooklyn, are alleged to have collected $900 worth of tobacco from the shelves of David K. Gadman's tobacco store at 381 Stone Avenue, Brooklyn, preparatory to taking it away in a push cart.

The two men are said to have been caught in the act. They were arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Filgerin in New Jersey Avenue Court, Brooklyn, and were held in $5,000 bail on a charge of burglary.

Miron Poliakin Heard Here In First American Concert

Miron Poliakin, a Russian violinist who made his first appearance in America yesterday afternoon at Town Hall, disclosed agreeable features in his playing, but failed to impress his hearer with a sense of extraordinary attainment.

Those features were a good tone, a comfortable technic, and conventional ability as an interpreter. Bach's Chaconne was well but not remarkably played. In this he displayed an authority not called forth by the other works on the program, which included Glazounoff's Concerto and Chausson's Poème. Generally speaking, his playing lacked brilliance and individuality.

We Are Not Declining Any Good Loans

We are in the market for loans on good real estate.

We have plenty of money for the purpose and are accepting all loans offered that measure up to our standards.

If you want mortgage money quickly and believe that you have the right kind of security, try us first.

Title Guarantee & Trust Co.

Capital $7,500,000. Surplus $11,000,000.

176 Broadway, New York. 175 Remsen St., Brooklyn.
137 West 125th St., New York. 350 Fulton St., Jamaica.
170 East 149th St., New York. Bridge Plaza North, L. I. City.
99 Bay St., St. George, S. I. Mineola, Long Island.

The Myra

A Suit With a Message of Spring for Misses

Polo Plaid Mixture—Silk Lined—In Tan—For City or Country Wear.

Second Floor.

1872—Golden Anniversary Year—1922

Bloomingdale'S

59th to 60th—Lex. to 3d Ave.

HANAN SHOES

for Men for Women

Hanan Shoes with Flexible Arch are Modernized Moccasins for My Ladye Fayre. They add everything to ease, yet subtract nothing from elegance. Exemplary expressions of the Hanan Principle that Shoes may be both comfortable to the foot and captivating to the eye.

ELEVEN SHOPS THROUGHOUT GREATER NEW YORK

HANAN & SON

EXHIBITIONS AND SALES AT

THE ANDERSON GALLERIES

PARK AVENUE AND FIFTY-NINTH STREET

THE

ORIENTAL AND EUROPEAN

COLLECTION OF

MR. ALEXANDER SCOTT

OF PHILADELPHIA, PA.

EGYPTIAN ALABASTER AND MARBLE VASES
PREHISTORIC AND MEDIEVAL POTTERY
PERSIAN, EGYPTIAN AND SYRIAN GLASS
ETRUSCAN, EGYPTIAN, FAR EASTERN BRONZES
INDIAN AND TIBETAN DIVINITIES
PRIMITIVE ART: AFRICA, NEW ZEALAND
PERSIAN AND INDIAN MINIATURE PAINTINGS
ORIENTAL ARMS AND ARMOR
IMPORTANT SCULPTURES
AMULETS, BEADS, JEWELRY, RUGS, ETC.

To be sold Thursday, Friday, Saturday afternoons, March 2, 3, 4 at 2:30

CATALOGUES FREE—SALES CONDUCTED BY MR. F. A. CHAPMAN

For the Sportswoman

For the Woman who rides at Aiken, White Sulphur or Hot Springs, Gidding tailors and designers make coats and breeches that while sporty and trim are feminine and fetching.

For cross country tramps—bright Tweeds and Homespuns are being made into jaunty knickerbocker suits, with short flaring or fitted jackets.

For the motorist long coats and capes are especially tailored to drape becomingly in a low-seated motor.

Gidding

Paris FIFTH AVENUE London
56th Street—57th Street
New York

Steel desks at wood prices

Linoleum top steel desk 60" x 34"

YOU can pay more but you cannot get more value in any desk on the market. The proof is in comparison. Examine these desks today or get our free booklet showing all styles.

Also other sizes

Art Metal

World's largest makers of steel office equipment

369 Broadway, Phone, Canal 3060

HOME OFFICE AND FACTORIES, JAMESTOWN, N. Y.

Borden's Grade 'A' Quality Is Not Accidental

On the contrary it is the result of strictest observance of sanitary regulations pertaining to latest and best dairying methods.

In Borden's Grade A you are assured of the maximum in milk wholesomeness.

It is the milk for your whole family.

BORDEN'S

Farm Products Co., Inc.

Cortlandt 7961