Giants and Cardinals Divide Double-Header---Yankees Defeat Browns and Again Lead League

McGrawmen Take Opener, 8-4, But Lose Second Game, 4-3

Hornsby's 27th Home Run, Tying National League Record, Features the First Battle; Ninth Inning Rally of Giants Is Big Event in Final Contest

By W. B. Hanna

No team with pennant pretensions has come closer to complete humiliation in a single series this year than the St. Louis Cardinals did at the Polo Grounds. The last of their five-game sequence with the Giants was the only one they won, and in that one, the second of yesterday's double header, the Giants, with three runs in the last inning, came within one run of tying the score. The first clinch of the duplex entertainment was won by the Giants, 8 to 4; the second went to the faltering Cardinals, 4 to 3.

The Giants, as in every one of their four victories, won the first contest by coming from behind. They pounded Bill Doak in the middle game stage, pounded him clear to the locker room. Jesse Haines, with a fast one which was leaping, devitalized the New York bats in the second game and was the only one of Rickey's pitchers in five days who could hold them. The series removed the Missouri menace for the time being at any rate.

Ryan pitched steadily and well in the first game, improving with each inning, as has been his mid-summer custom. The Missouri hitting off Nehf in the second game was timely. The five-part engagement was a helter skelter one on the whole and often dull. Especially so was the second game yesterday, for both teams were feeling the grind of a double header and the team scoring first was apt to win, since energy, at a low ebb, was harder to summon by the trailing team than by the leader.

However, there was some fairly snappy playing after the rain. With five innings of the second setto in, rain falling and opaque murkiness all about, Umpire Klem called a halt. There was a better light after the rain stopped, but not enough for the Giants to see Haines's pitching with any productive clearness. The fans turned out 12,000 strong for the double header, and about 15,000 were there at the finish, neither worn out by so much sight seeing nor having departed during the wet interim.

In the eighth inning of the first game Rogers Hornsby carved a Bill Ryan slant for his twenty-seventh home run of the year and his eighty-fourth as a big leaguer. He tied the National League record made by Ed. Williamson of the old Chicago White Stockings, of Lake Front memory. He hit into the left field stand, and everybody was glad, for Hornsby is a likable fellow, a great ball player, and the Giants were pretty well established in the lead.

Start Well—That's All

The Cardinals made two runs in the first inning on a pass to Flack, triple by Smith and sacrifice fly by Hornsby. Fournier and Clemons teamed with hits and a run in the second. Irish Meusel fired the opening gun for the Giants. He belted a home run into the right field stand in the fourth inning.

It was the beginning. In a few minutes Doak needed the doctor. The fifth settled it. Bancroft doubled, Frisch singled, Meusel singled, Jack Smith hitched two of the hits, which didn't matter much; Young sacrificed by the fly ball process; Kelly singled, Stengel singled, Smith doubled—one of those wind-bank Giant rallies.

The Cardinals chopped runs off one at a time in the second game, and the Giants in pinches were anaemic against Haines. Mann with a triple batted in Flack, a walker, in the first inning. Alnsmith doubled in the second and Lavan followed suit. A single, an out and Alnsmith's single scored Schultz in the fourth. It took three singles and a sacrifice fly to score a run in the fifth.

Before anybody was out in the New York first Bancroft and Rawlings walked, but couldn't score. In the third just as good a chance went glimmering. Meusel and Young failed to make the hit necessary to complete the job.

Frisch made two brilliant stops—one in the second game, when he threw himself across the base line, mopped up the whitewash with his shirt and came up with the ball, being so brilliant that Heywood Broun pronounced Frisch the Dugan of the National League.

A New York rally in the ninth inning was shy in intermediate hitting, but was exciting. Haines passed Young, Kelly fouled to Stock, Stengel singled and Smith forced Stengel. Cunningham tripled and Bancroft batted him in with the third run. Rawlings bounded to Haines for the last out, the agile redhead somersaulted over first base in his eagerness to get there.

Jones Gets Strong Support and Cubs Blank Braves, 9-0

BOSTON, July 28.—Percy Jones, of Chicago, held the braves to five hits to-day and Chicago shut out Boston, 9 to 0. Great support by the Chicago infield made Jones's task easy. The hitting and fielding of Terry featured, while Hollocher's work in the field cut off several possible runs for the Braves.

READING, Pa., July 28.—Reading batters hit Baldwin hard in the first two innings of to-day's game with Newark and won by the score of 11 to 4. Karpp pitched very effectively, especially in the pinches.

Gilhooley had a perfect day at bat, with two doubles and three singles out of five trips to the plate.

Doctored Ball Loaded With Dirt, Says Umpire

ST. LOUIS, July 28.—Dave Danforth's expulsion from yesterday's St. Louis-New York American League game was due to his having pitched a ball that had been tampered with, not for "doctoring" the ball, declared Umpire Owens to-day, in explaining his action against the Browns' southpaw.

"The ball shown to me," continued the umpire, "was 'loaded' with dirt along the seams. I don't say that Danforth 'loaded' the seams, but the fact remains that he pitched such an illegal ball, and consequently there was no alternative for me. I had to eject him from the game."

Danforth's expulsion carried with it automatically a suspension for ten days. Danforth, whose style of pitching has been the frequent cause of objections from opposing teams, denied he had tampered with the ball.

Bradley Is High Gun

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 28.—L. H. Bradley, of Hartford, led a field of sixty in the first half of the state championship singles target trapshoot matches with a score of 99 out of a possible 100. F. O. Williams, of New Haven, led the field at doubles targets, breaking 44 out of a possible 50.

Briefs

Judge Landis sat with Messrs. Stoneham, Heydler and Grant during yesterday's games and then caught an evening train to Chicago. He tried to get a ticket for the Leonard-Tendler fight; phoned twenty-five places, he said, but couldn't get a thing. He sat in his shirt sleeves at the games and ate hot dogs served a la Stevens. The judge, who is strong for the baseball trip to be made to Japan this fall, was asked about the American League ruling that players may not barnstorm after October 21. "Not to be taken too seriously," he answered. "That would keep deserving players from going to Japan, and we don't want to do that."

In the first game Young, caught in a run-up, dashed back to third and found George Kelly there. The sharps wondered why Sentell called Young out instead of Kelly, both apparently being touched while on the bag, in which case Kelly would be the man out. Sentell explained that Young was not on the bag when touched, which would make the decision a proper one.

The other day John Rawlings let loose some profanity heard clearly in the grandstand. Yesterday Stengel did the same, directing his tirade to the St. Louis bench. There's a place for gentlemen thus addicted, but it isn't the ball field.

Young Stuart tried his hand again and did better. The Giants made two runs off him, one due to an error by Stock.

Frisch stole third in the first game with a beautiful slide. The infield failed to hold him up when he was on second.

Two Games for Bronx Giants

The Bronx Giants and the Ironsides will clash to-morrow afternoon at Bronx Field, Elder and Westchester avenues. The Ironsides have even a better combination than last season, so should make the Bronx Giants hustle. Manager Walter W. Gomlicker will depend on Harry Holberow, his pitching ace. In the opening game the Williamsbridge Red Sox will clash with the Bronx Giants.

Robins Battle Way Into Fifth Place by Defeating Pirates, 3-2

By Joseph Val

Although some faint-hearted Brooklyn fans may not know it, there is still a bit of the old fighting spirit smoldering in the Robins' ranks and if good pitching can fan the embers into a flame the good ship Brooklyn will again be riding in the first division. Yesterday the Robins came through with the old fight and jumped into fifth place by scoring a well-earned 3 to 2 victory over the Pirates at Ebbets Field.

Again the Robins had good pitching, and the hits bunched off the delivery of the veteran Babe Adams came at the most opportune moments. Moreover the Robins were forced to come from behind twice, and in each instance they came through gloriously and without delay. Three hits, combined with an error, decided the issue in the seventh inning, and Ivy Olson delivered the blow which scored DeBerry with the winning run.

The good pitching was served up by Dazzy Vance. The tall righthander did very well in the pinches except in the first and seventh inning, when the Pirates did all their scoring. Vance put himself into some tight holes, due to lack of control, and twice Brooklyn errors made the tight places a little tighter, but Dazzy breezed through quite skillfully.

The most troublesome Buccaneer on the diamond was Max Carey, premier base runner of the National League this season. Max kept Vance in a troubled state of mind by his daring on the base paths and stole four bases. Vance, however, tightened up with Carey on the paths and Max was never able to score.

Babe Adams pitched quite as well as Vance, but he was more unfortunate in his support. The Pirates made two errors and each helped Brooklyn in the scoring. Adams gave a great exhibition of pitching skill in the sixth when Tom Griffith opened with a triple. The veteran then proceeded to dispose of Wheat, Mitchell and High, without allowing one of the trio to hit out of the infield, and Griffith was left on third.

The daring base running of the Pirates was mainly responsible for their first run in the first inning. Maranville singled and advanced on a wild pitch. Carey walked, and he and Maranville engineered a double steal. Bigbee hit a short fly to Griffith, but Russell scored Maranville with a long sacrifice fly to center.

An error by Grimm helped Brooklyn to a run in its half. Myers singled with one out, but was forced by Griffith. Wheat beat out a hit to Traynor, putting Griffith on second. Mitchell then beat out a hit to Grimm, and when the first baseman threw wild to first Griffith scored.

Pittsburgh scored its second run in the seventh on Grimm's double and a single by Adams, but Brooklyn came back with two runs in its half, aided by another error. Ward singled and De Berry's double sent him to third. Ward continued home and De Berry went to third when Bigbee's throw went through Gooch. With the winning run on third Vance struck out, but Olson shot a clean single to center, scoring DeBerry.
