Day's Dealings in Bonds

The Market

All active Liberty bonds and the new Treasury 4¼s continued their recovery yesterday. Dealers reported a marked slackening of offerings coincident with the appearance of greater interest on the buying side. The market otherwise gave a rather mixed performance. French 7½s slumped further, going down to 94⅛, or more than 10 points below their high of last April. The French 8s held better, but these securities quite plainly reflect the usual sympathetic concern over the political and financial uncertainties of Europe. Railroad bonds firmed slightly, the better tone applying particularly to the semi-speculative issues. Industrial bonds were irregular and traction bonds steady.
