French Believe Shipping Is Due For a Revival

Expect Fourth of World Tonnage To Be Discarded in Few Years; Many Vessels Are Now Idle

German Gains Criticized

Versailles Treaty Removed Ships, but Left Plants to Build New Steamers

By Cable to The Tribune

PARIS, Dec. 10.—The French mercantile marine is suffering serious depression as a consequence of the large surplus of vessels. France to-day possesses too many ships for her imports and exports, whereas ten years ago she lacked a sufficient number. Considerable optimism for a revival within the next year or two is shown because of the fact that one-fourth of the world's tonnage is antiquated and must be abandoned in the near future.

The total of French tonnage has doubled over the pre-war volume. There is a smaller amount of exports for these boats to carry, due to the world-wide depression and the devastation of the most important industrial regions. The idleness of a large part of the French marine is due to the great increase in the tonnage of other maritime countries. When many of the obsolete ships are scrapped, however, the companies will be enabled to employ a larger percentage of their vessels and show greater earnings.

There is a belief also that as the industrial regions are being built up rapidly and the economic crisis is passing, there will soon be an era of prosperity when 3,000,000 tons may be found insufficient.

The Versailles Treaty is being criticized on the grounds that while it took away most of German shipping it left her immense shipyards in which she is building as fast as possible. This is regarded as the cause of severe competition with French vessels at present. The situation is rendered more serious because Germany pays for ships, coal and salaries with depreciated currency, against which none of the Allies can compete. The French state that they see no remedy for this evil at the moment.

Lachine Canal Kept Open For Late Lake Steamers

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—Under most disagreeable weather conditions the Lachine Canal staff is keeping the canal open for late shipping, but Colonel Dubuc, superintendent of canals, stated to day that it was almost certain that Monday or Tuesday would see the canal closed for the season.

"It is not the local weather which is threatening to tie the canal," he stated, "but the amount of ice that is drifting in from Lake St. Louis. We are still waiting for three late comers from above the pass through the canal, and as far as is humanly possible the canal will be kept open for them."

He said that should the occasion demand it an unprecedented course would be adopted in the using of small tugs to break the ice at the approaches to the Lachine end of the canal. This would enable belated lake ships to enter, but these vessels might have to spend the winter tied up to some part of the canal wall

Snow is also aggravating the late navigating conditions, but it is hoped that at least two of the late arrivals from the upper lakes will be passed through the canal. The third ship is rather doubtful and may not get in before Monday. In any event the canal will not be arbitrarily closed to any ship from the upper lakes, but severe weather conditions may close it automatically.

Rename Canadian Ships

A number of name changes are announced on some of the Atlantic steamers of the Canadian Pacific. The Empress of India has been renamed the Montlaurier, in honor of the late Premier of Canada. The Victorian is to be renamed the Marloch, the Corsican the Marvale, the Tunisian the Marburn and the Scotian the Marglen.

The Montlaurier is now being refitted, and when ready will be placed on the Liverpool-Canada service; the Marburn and the Marloch will be placed on the Glasgow-Belfast-Canada route, while a new Canadian Pacific service will next summer be inaugurated by the Marvale and Marglen from London, Havre and Southampton to Canada.

French Shipping Merger

The verbal agreement regarding a merger between the Lloyd Royal Belge and the French Compagnie des Chargurs d'Extreme Orient was approved by the stockholders present at Paris at an extra session held on November 10, according to mail reports from abroad. The merger involves an exchange of stock and bonds. The Lloyd Royal Belge will continue to manage the Extreme Orient's fleet until the end of 1927.

Reorganize French Company

An important meeting of the stockholders of the Affreteurs Reunis, for which the Three Star Line is agent in New York, will take place in France on December 15, when efforts will be made to reorganize the company. The future of the line has been uncertain since M. Jean Stern resigned as chairman. Some of the stockholders are preparing to take action against the board of directors, whom they consider responsible for the financial difficulties of the line.

New China Vessel

For the purpose of placing its schedule on a monthly basis, the Admiral Oriental Line has taken over the Shipping Board freighter Cross Keys to operate on the North China run. Former sailings were every forty days, but increased freight shipments have necessitated a better service. The Cross Keys will make its initial trip to Japan from Seattle in the latter part of December.
