THE REVOLUTION IN CUBA.

THE SUN'S CORRESPONDENTS SCOURING THE ISLAND.

Gen. Jordan again Victorious—Santiago de Cuba probably Attacked—The Spaniards Provision Puerto Principe—Capture of Fifty Cubans—Spaniards Asking for Reinforcements.

HAVANA, July 31.—I have received additional advices from your correspondents in the interior since writing my letter of the day before yesterday. Gen. Jordan has attacked the Spanish Col. Lopez Camera, near Santiago de Cuba, and has defeated him with great loss. The Spanish commander was severely wounded in the leg during the engagement. There is a force of 12,000 well-armed patriots in the neighborhood of Santiago de Cuba, and it is believed in Cuban circles here that they have already attacked the city.

SUCCESSFUL SPANISH RUSE.

The Spanish forces made a combined attack on the patriots, who surround Puerto Principe at four different points, and under cover of the ensuing confusion managed to take $100,000 worth of provisions in safety into the beleaguered city. This will probably delay its capture a while. Gen. Puello, the Spanish commander of Puerto Principe, has captured fifty prisoners from the investing patriot army; among them, we regret to say, Ramon Saldiva and Pedro Agnero. What disposition has been made of them I have not learned; but it is probable that their lives have not been sacrificed, as the Cubans are now in a position to retaliate.

SICKNESS—CONFISCATION.

Yellow fever is increasing every day to an alarming extent in Nuevitas. The Official Gazette publishes a decree confiscating the estates of many prominent Cubans, among others those of Leonardo del Monte and Cristobal Madan. The Spanish Brig-Gen. Detendu left on the Spanish steamer yesterday, the 30th, to urge upon the home Government the necessity of sending 10,000 additional troops to the island. Where he will get them is more than anybody knows. The Governor of Sagua la Grande is here to-day, begging for more troops to resist the encroachments of the patriots within his jurisdiction. He refuses to guarantee the possession of the province for three months longer, if he does not receive immediate reinforcements. Affairs are in a bad position for Spain in that locality. The Captain-General has removed the Governor of Trinidad.

DRIVEN TO DESPERATE MEASURES.

The negro militia have again been ordered to headquarters, and they will leave this afternoon without fail for the Cinco Villas district. The desperate condition of Spanish affairs in that quarter has compelled the Captain-General, much against his will, to fall back upon this last resource. It is that or nothing with him, and, as he well knows, that is almost as good as giving the district up to the Cubans.

THIEF IN THE CONFISCATION BUSINESS.

The Governor here has openly said that "he would not rest content until he had confiscated at least 500,000 boxes of sugar." To make good his words, peculiar to his character, he has confiscated the property of one of the richest men on the island, who was once Chief of Police, now director of the sugar warehouses in Havana. There is great excitement and anxiety among the dealers in and planters of that commodity in consequence, especially among those who are suspected of being in sympathy with the insurrectos.

PATRIOT.

LETTER FROM GEN. JORDAN.

Splendid Triumph of Cuban Arms—Attack upon Ramon and the Canalito—Engagement with the Spanish Vessels—Engagements with the Governor-General's Forces—An American Assassinated.

Translated for the Sun from the Recolección.

Gen. Manuel Quesada wrote as follows from Jucaro, under date of 25th of May, to Francisco V. Aguilera, Minister of War, at Savanilla. The document was made public on the 19th of June:

Gen. Thomas Jordan has addressed me a communication, from which I extract the following:

GENERAL: According to your wish, I have the honor to inform you of the part taken in the late operations by the forces under my command, including the success of 24th inst. near the Canalito. A disembarkment was effected, as you are aware, at the Ramon, a point near the entrance of the Bay of Nipe. On the 12th, between two in the afternoon and three on the following morning, the crew and a great part of the stores of the vessel were landed; but as the captain of the vessel feared the appearance of a Spanish cruiser, he departed without discharging them all. I established three depots, and in the most distant, situated a mile and a half from the shore, I stationed my advance, counting upon the support then of 150 Cubans from the interior. I also placed in position two Napoleon guns.

At noon on the 15th, a Spanish vessel suddenly entered the bay. We fired six or eight discharges at her, of which one at least took effect. At the break of the following day, a larger vessel hove in sight, which we also fired at and hit, contenting ourselves with one discharge. In the mean time the other steamer approached her, towing several barges filled with men. Time was precious to me. I rapidly moved the supplies from sight of the vessels and pointed toward the latter several cannon, one of which, placed upon an eminence, I confided to Capt. De Ponte. The enemy, after landing, occupied an excellent position, but our advance approached and opened upon them an effective fire, which was vigorously returned. The bravery of the enemy did not suffice for the maintenance of their ground, although attacked by but 80 of my men, wearied with the labor and uninterrupted marching of five days. They finally fled. This position adjoined a plantation occupied by a detachment of 80 men under the orders of Col. Crisóval Acosta. While Capt. John Magill opened fire with grenades, and Capt. De Ponte advanced with a field-piece, the brave Acosta found himself attacked in front and flank. He and his little force, however, defended themselves well, and used their rifles and revolvers with such effect that their assailants fled precipitately to their boats, leaving 30 killed and 30 wounded.

I did not sleep on the strength of my victory, but fortified myself, while I sent the arms and stores I had landed into the interior. Col. Cordon occupied the Canalito, to prevent its being availed of by the enemy, who, however, threw up works on the heights of that peninsula, by which we were necessarily to pass, and was reinforced by sea with three additional vessels.

On Wednesday, 19th inst., we marched toward the Canalito, placing a field-piece behind the advance guard. The following day we came upon an intrenchment of the enemy, consisting of logs laced with a quantity of briers that obstructed the road. We approached. The enemy opened fire, and the Cubans replied. The enemy endeavored to flank my right, but I frustrated them. They advanced then towards an elevation at the side of their entrenchment, followed by thirty Cubans and four Americans, to whom I gave as an only order, "Forward and straight ahead!" This was obeyed in a style that proved Cuba to possess the best material for soldiers.

Twice the enemy were repulsed, although superior in numbers, and I should have placed myself in their rear and cut off their retreat to the boats, if my guide had not lost his way. The Spanish fire was hurried and without effect. Ours was cool and did execution; and although the enemy were protected by the guns of the steamers, they abandoned their positions, leaving as masters of the camp.

The Spaniards sustained the following losses: In the attack at Ramon, 20 killed and 30 wounded, with 40 Remington rifles and a flag; in that of the Canalito, 40 killed and 60 prisoners. Among the latter were four Cubans, who were immediately shot. Besides the above, were captured ammunition. The steamers all departed more or less damaged. Our losses were: In the Ramon, one flag, with 12 killed and 12 wounded; in the Canalito, two wounded. During the two combats, I became convinced that the Spaniards assassinated their wounded prisoners, of 140 which beheld, among others, an American named John Reed.

"The cry is still they come," says Knox, the hatter, 212 Broadway. People come from all quarters to this famous bazaar to supply themselves with hats, the equal of which are not to be had of any other dealer for money or marbles. The number of hats sold at this establishment is something marvellous, but not to be wondered at when the excellence of the fabrics is considered.—Adv.

Grand Dress Hop at the Rutherford Park Hotel on the 19th inst. It is said that the beauty and fashion of this metropolis will be largely represented on that occasion.—Tribune.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

THURSDAY, Aug. 5—P. M.—In the gold market more activity has been shown, and a corresponding firmness in the premium. The opening price was 136, from which it advanced to 136¾, declined to 135¾, and again rose in the afternoon to 136⅞, closing at 136¼. The temper of the market is bullish under the decline of ⅛ to ¼ ⅌ cent, in the price of consols, and ⅛ in the London price for our bonds during the day. The advance in the premium was further stimulated by the character of foreign advices relative to the Carlist movement in Spain, and the existing state of affairs between the Sultan and the Viceroy of Egypt, though to a much less extent than the causes above mentioned, or the disappointment at the expected reduction by the Bank of England of its discounting rate. The following rates were paid to have gold balances carried: 5, 6, 5½, and 7 ⅌ cent. The steamer Eagle, for Havana, sailed to-day with $27,000 in specie. The disbursements of interest were $116,224. The total clearings at the Gold Exchange Bank were $42,136,000; gold balances, $1,522,[illegible]38; currency balances, $2,605,886.

At the sale by Assistant Treasurer Butterfield to-day of one million gold on Government account, bids were filed to the amount of $4,600,000; the highest bid was 136.13, and the lowest 136.68. The one million gold was awarded to Badge, Schiff & Co

During the opening of these proposals Gen. Grant was present in the Sub-Treasury.

Leading gold quotations:

11 A. M.	136	1 P. M.	136⅞
		3 P. M.	136⅝

Foreign Exchange has been quiet, and without quotable change, rates being nominally the same as yesterday.

The money market has been without essential change at 4 to 7 ⅌ cent., with 6 ⅌ cent as the ruling rates. Discounts were easy at 7 to 9 ⅌ cent.

Government bonds have been moderately active and strong at a fractional advance on yesterday's prices, especially in the five-twenties, and this too in the face of a lower range of prices in London. The new issues and currency sixes have been, however, firm and in good demand from banks and other moneyed institutions, five-twenties being principally offered in exchange. The extension of the currency fixes by the Secretary of the Treasury from exchange as security for the national bank note circulation is still causing much unfavorable comment, and it is asserted that this refusal was for the purpose of keeping up the price of five-twenties; but wherefore, since the Government is the principal purchaser of the latter bonds?

In state bonds there has been a fair amount of transactions, with Tennessees as the leading feature. These bonds were weak under the political disturbances in the State, new bonds declining to 55, and old bonds 1 cent to 61. Old North Carolina bonds fell off to 57, and the new were steady at 51¼. Missouri 6s were steady at 88, Virginia, and South Carolina drooping at 61¼. Georgia 6s were dull at 81, Alabama 5s at 80½, and Louisiana 6s at 71.

City bank shares were active, with sales as follows: Ocean at 102, Phœnix at 110, Continental at 105, Park at 166, Central National at 111, and Ninth National at 115.

Railway bonds were in good demand and firm. Central Pacific gold bonds sold at 84@84¼; Pacific Railroad 7s, guaranteed by State of Missouri, at 91¼, and Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago firsts at 102.

The railway share market during the day has been dull, but strong on the Western share, and weak on the Vanderbilt specialties. The larger dealings have been on the Western list, which, in view of the large and increasing earnings of these roads, are a favorite investment under the existing ease in money. Northwestern Common sold as high as 88¾; do. Preferred at 98; St. Paul Common at 83¾, and Preferred at 90. Rock Island was active during the afternoon, and rose to 116¾. Michigan Southern was active and strong, ranging on extreme quotations from 108¾ to 107¾. Erie was steady at 37¾@38. Speculation in the Vanderbilt stocks was toward lower prices, the fact that Commodore Vanderbilt is en route for San Francisco, precluding any attempt at reconsolidation until his return. New York Central sold as low as 208 and Hudson at 183¾. Miscellaneous and express shares were dull and without important feature.
