THE GREAT SHOWMAN'S PAGEANT.

Broadway Packed with Sightseers—Barnum Exhibiting his Wonders, Himself the Most Wonderful of Them All.

The principal thoroughfares of the city were yesterday enlivened by Barnum's great pageant, which attracted thousands of men, women, and children. The procession was nearly three miles in length, and was without exception the most elaborate and brilliant ever witnessed. About noon a carriage made its appearance at Chambers and Chatham streets, from which emerged the splendid Phœnix, Phineas Taylor Barnum. He was instantly recognized by the multitude and a cheer went up from all. Mr. Barnum gracefully acknowledged the compliment, and then gave orders to the police to clear the street from all vehicles so that the public might enjoy an unobstructed view of his show. He entered his carriage and was rapidly driven to Broadway and Chambers street, followed by hundreds of newsboys and bootblacks. About one o'clock the head of the procession passed the City Hall park. Conspicuous among the attractive features of the caravan were the twelve golden chariots, eight of statuary and four of tableaus, including the gorgeous moving temple of Juno, 30 feet high, built in London at a cost of $20,000. The musical chariot, drawn by camels richly caparisoned, was a noteworthy feature of the parade. No less than forty-eight magnificently decorated cages, ornamented with scriptural paintings, containing the living wild beasts of the show, were in line. In addition to these, were the revolving temple of the muses and one hundred resplendent vans containing the museum curiosities, on the top of which life-size automatic figures were performing to the infinite delight of the juvenile spectators. Four elephants in gorgeously gilded robes were prominent features of the procession. When the vans bearing the legends, "Three times, but not dismayed," and "My ambition survives the fire," made their appearance, the thousands who thronged the sidewalks and almost blocked the streets cheered vociferously.

The great show will open this afternoon in the Empire Skating Rink.

What an Old Engraver Told George Alfred Townsend.

From the Chicago Tribune.

"Mr. Gath, you newspaper men know nothing whatever about the duplication of United States bonds, and about the quantity of counterfeit scrip afloat. If you, as a newspaper man, were to go to Gen. Spinner or to the heads of the Treasury and ask how much counterfeit currency was in circulation, they would probably tell you ten per cent; but I tell you, as an engraver, that they have admitted to me that there is twenty-five per cent, or one-quarter of the whole amount of the stamps current in this country which are fraudulent. Do you know, sir, that the postal currency is renewed six times every year? That is the case, and see the possibilities for its increased duplication and counterfeiting. We could better afford to pay fifty per cent, premium and use gold than have to deal as we do with a lot of paper which is beyond the control, to a great extent, of the Government officials. The extravagantly high prices and the corruption in our politics and life hinge upon the currency. The duplication of the United States bonds will some day be found such an alarming matter that it will bring the whole country to its feet. That crime began in the Treasury as far back as Chase's time. John Cowode and others in Congress made enormous efforts to expose it, but they were gagged by the gavel and a party majority.

"An official, who at that time was connected with the printing, had in some way got a grip upon the Secretary, and could not be bounced from his place by any power in the country. His accounts were short one year $83,000, and he could not tell where the money had gone. They kept after him, however, and on one occasion he appeared before the examiners with his arms full of bonds, and, throwing them down, said, 'There are your $83,000!' Now there was a press used for printing at that time, and it ran repeatedly in the night. The official himself was seen to emerge after dark on occasions with a great tin box in his hand, which he put into his buggy and carried away. Now, how much duplication of bonds do you suppose it would require to make $83,000 worth of coupons so as to equalize that account?

"Several hundred thousand, I suppose."

"No, sir; it took between $18,000,000 and $19,000,000 of bonds; and about that time happened the first duplication."

I looked suddenly into the old gentleman's eyes, and was in great doubt whether I was speaking to an intelligent lunatic or a great reformer.

Better than Savings Banks.
Come, rich and poor; come, young and old,
This whole some lesson learn,
Who man by speculation slippery schemes
Substantial fortune earn.
Stocks, bonds, and banks may go to smash,
But who so owns good land
May laugh at fate amid the crash,
With money safe in hand.
Mechanics, merchants, builders, all
Remember what we say,
Cheap Brooklyn lots will never fall
Nor break, nor run away.
Then go to Jere.'s auction sale,
And what you please to give,
Will buy a lot that cannot fail,
And a glorious place to live.
Send to JERE. JOHNSON, JR., 21 Park Row, for a map, and examine the property.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Comptroller's office until Thursday, April 3, 1873, at 2 o'clock P. M., when the same will be publicly opened for the whole or any part of the sum of three hundred thousand dollars of stocks of the city of New York, viz:
ADDITIONAL NEW CROTON AQUEDUCT stock, authorized by chapter 283, laws of 1870, payable Aug. 1, 1907.....$150,000
CROTON WATER MAIN STOCK, authorized by chapter 593, laws of 1872, payable Nov. 1, 1907.....$150,000
Said stocks will bear interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, payable on the first days of May and November in each year. The proposals will state the amount of stocks desired and the price for one hundred dollars thereof, and the persons whose proposals are accepted will thereupon be required to deposit with the Comptroller the sums awarded to them respectively, together with any premiums thereon, when they will be entitled to receive certificates for equal amounts of the par value of the stocks awarded to them, bearing interest from the dates of payment.
Each proposal should be sealed and endorsed "Proposals for stocks of the city of New York," and enclosed in a second envelope addressed to the Comptroller.
The right is reserved, on the part of the Comptroller, to reject any or all of the bids, if, in his judgment, the interests of the corporation require it.
ANDREW H. GREEN, Comptroller.
