JOSEPH A. BLAIR IN JAIL.

THE MONTCLAIR SHOOTING INVESTIGATED BY THE GRAND JURY.

An Indictment for Murder in the First Degree Said to have been Found for the Killing of Armstrong—Blair's Unexpected Arrest.

Mr. Joseph A. Blair, the paying teller of the Mechanics' National Bank of this city, who fatally shot his coachman, John Armstrong, in an altercation in his (Blair's) stable in Montclair, N. J., on the evening of June 26, is a prisoner in the Essex County jail in Newark. It is said that an indictment for murder in the first degree has been found against him. After the death of Armstrong, which happened on the day after he was shot, a Coroner's jury rendered a verdict of manslaughter against Blair, who was then released on $10,000 bail. Five of the Coroner's jury voted for manslaughter and four for acquittal. The Essex County Grand Jury were sworn in two weeks ago. Judge Depue charged the jury that the verdict of a Coroner's jury is of no force and effect in the investigation ultimately to be made before the Grand Jury, and that the Grand Jury, after a thorough investigation of the facts, should present to the court their own conclusions, "both upon the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused, and upon the degree of crime for which he shall be put on trial." The Grand Jury began at once to investigate.

On Wednesday Judge Depue issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Mr. Blair, "to answer a certain charge against him for murder." Court Constable Robert Lang was intrusted with the serving of the warrant, and he immediately drove to the residence of Mr. Blair, in Montclair. The constable found Mr. Blair in the parlor of his residence, and said, "Mr. Blair, the Court has sent me for you."

Mr. Blair became agitated, and, looking earnestly at the constable, asked, "Is that so?"

The constable assured him that it was true. Mr. Blair then said: "Is not that unusual? I did not know they did that way. I thought they would notify my bail first."

Constable Lang replied that Mr. Blair must accompany him to Newark as soon as he could get ready, and that his orders were to take him direct to the jail in Newark. The constable permitted Mr. Blair to change his clothes, pack some clothing in a valise, and bid farewell to his wife and his two little children. Mr. Blair was very much affected in saying farewell to his wife. After repeatedly kissing his children, Blair entered a wagon with Constable Lang and was driven to Newark. After surrendering his prisoner to Col. Johnson, the Warden of the Essex County jail, Constable Lang went to the office of ex-Judge Caleb S. Titsworth, one of Blair's counsel, and left word that Mr. Blair wanted to see Mr. Titsworth in the jail. Ex-Judge Titsworth visited the jail in the evening and held an hour's conversation with Mr. Blair, whom he directed not to converse with anybody about the case.

When a reporter for THE SUN called at the jail yesterday he found Blair chatting with a fellow prisoner. Blair was in cell No. 4, on the first tier, which was once occupied by George Botts, who was hanged several years ago for the murder of "Pet" Halstead, a conspicuous character in Washington during President Lincoln's administration. Mr. Blair said: "I am instructed by my counsel to say nothing to reporters, but I may say that I was very much surprised when the constable came after me yesterday afternoon. I do not know that an indictment has been found against me. I am enjoying excellent health. I would like to know whether the Grand Jury has found an indictment, and if so, what degree they decided upon."

Blair seemed in good spirits. Soon after he was released on bail he went with his family to his father-in-law's residence in Syracuse, N. Y. He returned to Montclair three weeks ago.

It could not be certainly ascertained in Newark yesterday whether Mr. Blair has been indicted for murder in the first degree. Prosecutor Abeel would not say whether Blair had or had not been indicted. The Grand Jury, he said, has not presented any indictments to the Court yet. Ex-Judge Titsworth said that he understood that the Grand Jury had not fully decided upon the degree of crime upon which they should find a bill against Blair. Deputy Warden Johnson of the county jail said he thought Blair had been indicted for murder in the first degree. Several court attaches, however, thought differently. They believed the arrest was only a precautionary measure.

A fact much commented on in Newark is that in the bench warrant, the body of which is printed, the word "indictment" is scratched out and the word "charge" substituted. This change makes the sentence read, "to answer a certain charge against him for murder," instead of "to answer to an indictment against him for murder." The general impression in Newark seems to be that an indictment for murder in the first degree has been found against Blair. He may be called upon to plead to-day.

Frankenberg-Dinkelspiel.

One of the most brilliant Hebrew weddings that has taken place in some time was celebrated at Delmonico's on Wednesday evening. The groom was Mr. David Frankenberg or B. Altman & Co., and the bride Miss Amelia Dinkelspiel of 16 East Sixty-third street. The bride was attired in a rich costume of white silk, trimmed with costly laces, and wore a wreath of orange flowers. There were no bridesmaids. The ceremony was performed by Drs. Jacobs and Kaskimoff of the Thirty-fourth Street Synagogue, and was witnessed by an audience of 400, including many of the most prominent Hebrews in the country. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schiff and the Misses Jacobs of Galveston, Texas, Mr. Haber of San Francisco, Mr. Joseph Muir of Philadelphia, Miss Etta Meyhardt, Miss Julia Lapmann, Mr. Alexander Rodfish, Mr. R. Altman, Antony Wallach and wife, Julius Traphagen, Mr. and Mrs. Stern, the Misses Bookman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hirsh, and Mr. Edward Hirsh. The display of wedding presents was very the most elaborate scale, and included large pieces of silver and gold plate, bronzes, parlor suites, pianos, costly bric-a-brac, &c., the value of many thousands of dollars. Music and dancing followed the ceremony.

Wisner Murray's Life Insurance.

The family troubles of ex-President Berdell of the Erie Railway were recalled in the appeal before the General Term of the Supreme Court yesterday in the case of Gertrude B. Murray of Goshen, Orange County, against the New York Life Insurance Company to recover $15,000, the amount of the policies of insurance on the life of the late Wisner Murray, her husband. Wisner Murray was shot in an altercation in the Erie depot at Goshen by Berdell, and the insurance company contended that, as he began the altercation, he violated the conditions of the policy. The jury on the trial gave a verdict to Mrs. Murray for the full amount of her claims, and the company appealed. Wisner Murray, who died from the effects of the shot, was a brother-in-law of Mr. Berdell.

Rose Stewart's Goose.

Rose Stewart, who dwells in a cabin at East Seventy-first street and Second avenue, had a pet gray goose, and, missing it, and finding several familiar feathers near the cottage of Betsy Cronin, at Seventieth street and First avenue, she ran into the cottage. Finding her pet goose dead on a table, and the juvenile Cronins standing around teasing their eyes on the anticipated dinner, Rose seized a small stove and felled Mrs. Cronin to the floor, seriously injuring her head. Rose gathered up her pet goose and returned triumphantly. She was committed in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday. Mrs. Cronin lies in a hospital.

Paterson's Deep Well.

Work on the great artesian well for the Passaic rolling mill, in Paterson, is to be begun to-day. The well is not only to be used to obtain water for the employees of the mill, but to ascertain the nature of the rocks under the city. It is proposed to go down 2,500 feet, and it is thought that a supply of illuminating gas may be found, and perhaps a supply of oil. A derrick seventy feet high is finished, and every thing is ready to begin the work.
