ORDERED TO BE PRINTED.

THE SYNOD TO STUDY THE TALMAGE CASE IN COLD TYPE.

Elder Brown's Funny Speech and Dr. Spear's Protest Against Stamping, Laughing, and Hand-Clapping—Adjourned until December.

Some of the members of the Long Island Synod stayed outside of the church in Jamaica, L. I., yesterday morning, until the preliminary devotional exercises were finished. Then they etered, prepared to continue the battle over the case of Dr. Talmage. The pending question was on the adoption of the report of the Judicial Committee. That Committee had recommended the Synod to limit the investigation to two of the seven reasons set forth by the twenty-two complainants of the Brooklyn Presbytery against the action of that body in acquitting Dr. Talmage. Dr. Van Dyke continued the discussion by speaking in favor of the report of the Judicial Committee. He argued that there was no informality in the complaint, that the Synod was bound to give whatever time was necessary to investigate it, and that the cause of religion would be injured more by sustaining an unjust verdict than by reviewing it. He averred that the secular press had unanimously denounced the decision of the Brooklyn Presbytery as contrary to evidence and disgraceful. He spoke several times of the atmosphere of the Synod as quite different from and much fairer than that which surrounded the trial in Brooklyn.

Dr. Adam McClelland spoke in favor of accepting the report of the Judicial Committee. He said the question was one of the Presbytery of Brooklyn against the cause of truth, or, in other words, the Brooklyn Presbytery against the Lord Jesus!

Dr. Shiland was in favor of a suggestion by Dr. Van Dyke, that all the evidence be printed and placed in the hands of the members.

Dr. Knox made a brief speech seconding the suggestion, and read a resolution that the Synod should adjourn for a month after getting the testimony printed.

The Rev. Mr. McCullagh said that, as a friend of Dr Talmage, he was willing to help pay the expense of printing the testimony.

The Rev. Mr. Halsey said that if the Synod wanted the evidence it should pay for it the same as the Brooklyn Presbytery did, some $1,700.

Dr. Spear criticised the record as incomplete.

Dr. Whittaker said that if the record was not complete the Brooklyn Presbytery was to blame, and it now appeared here as seeking to profit by its own wrong. He was satisfied that the record of the testimony in the Talmage trial was quite as perfect as in an ordinary law case, and that there was quite enough to enable the Synod to review the case intelligently.

The Moderator, after announcing that the members of the Brooklyn Presbytery would not be entitled to vote, put the question whether the recommendation of the Judicial Committee should be adopted, thus limiting the question to be decided by the Synod to the two sections of the complaint numbered 3 and 6. Section 3 relates to the introduction of the testimony of Gen. Howard in the form of an affidavit, and section 6 is the one that alleges that the verdict of the Brooklyn Presbytery was in open conflict with the recorded testimony. The recommendation of the Judicial Committee was adopted without a dissenting voice.

The Synod then began to discuss the proposal to have the evidence printed, and to take an adjournment for a month or so to enable the members to read the case. Dr. Van Dyke said he had no objection to an agreement that the Synod should decide the case without argument, but he would throw the responsibility of the long talk upon the other side. To this Dr. Shear replied that he wanted to be at liberty to talk to its dying breath for the purpose of trying to convince his brethren of the correctness of his views in defending Dr. Talmage. He objected to having the responsibility thrown upon him. He did not like "that roundabout, circumambient, circuitous method of getting at his heart."

In the midst of the discussion the Synod was adjourned for dinner.

After dinner the Synod resumed the consideration of Dr. Knox's resolution, which, after sundry suggestions, was changed to read as follows:

Whereas, The consideration of the complaint against the action of the Brooklyn Presbytery will require great consumption of time and subject the Synod to great inconvenience, and, as the testimony is very voluminous; therefore

Resolved, That before taking up the case as recommended by the Judiciary Committee, the Synod order the testimony to be printed, copies to be placed in the hands of every member of the Synod, and in the meantime the Synod to adjourn to reassemble on the second Monday in December at 7 30 P. M. in the Presbyterian church at Jamaica, when the case shall proceed, the printed testimony to be used instead of reading the testimony.

This was passed unanimously, and then the Synod discussed the proposal that the printing be done under the direction of the Moderator and others. On this point there was much difference of opinion as to how much of the record should be printed. The Rev. Charles H. Taylor said that the remarks of the members of the Brooklyn Presbytery should be printed, because they had been charged with "idiotic incoherency and corrupt dishonesty."

Little by little the discussion widened. Elder Charles V. Brown of Sag Harbor said: "It seems to me that these brethren in Brooklyn are playing very sharp, and trying to see which can get ahead of the other. I don't like any such thing. I like to see Christian brothers frank and free, and willing to give each other the whole truth. I recollect very well when Brother Van Dyke came down to our end of the island, and, in speaking there, he compared Long Island to a big whale, of which, he said, Brooklyn is the head. (Laughter.) But where is the head now? (Renewed laughter.) The head is grounded in the mud [laughter], and sticking there. [Laughter.] Now the head comes to the lungs and vitals of the whale and asks us to breathe a little on it." [Great laughter.]

Dr. Spear here rose and said he must protest against the behavior of the Synod in stamping, laughing, and clapping hands. He thought it exceeded anything he had heard in Brooklyn during the trial.

Elder Brown continued his figure of the whale by saying that if the tail of the whale was to guide the head, he wanted all the facts of the trial printed.

Dr. Wells, Dr. Van Dyke, and others protested against the remark of Dr. Spear about the applause as involving great injustice to the Synod. They questioned the truth of the averment of Dr. Spear that the noise exceeded anything he had heard in the Brooklyn Presbytery.

Dr. Spear adhered to his averment, and the matter was soon dropped. The speech of Elder Brown settled the controversy, and the Moderator and clerks were authorized to get the record of the Talmage trial printed. Soon after the Synod was adjourned until the second Monday in December. It is understood that when the Synod reviews the case in December both the prosecution and defence will be limited to a specified time.

THE TILDEN INCOME SUIT.

An Adjournment that Will Not Interfere with Mr. Woodford's Campaign Work.

The case of the United States against Samuel J. Tilden, known as the income suit, was called before Judge Blatchford, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, for argument on defendant's demurrer to the bill of discovery filed by the plaintiff. The District Attorney said that he was ready to proceed. John K. Porter, of counsel for Mr. Tilden, asked that an adjournment might be taken until Tuesday, as he did not feel willing, in consequence of the important considerations involved in the case, to begin the argument without first having conferred with his associate, Mr. Vanderpoel.

The District Attorney replied that he had engagements that would require him to be absent Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of next week. [On the stump for Cornell.]

The Court inquired if Monday would answer, and the District Attorney said that it would, if the hearing of the argument was made peremptory for that day.

The Court—Well, come here on Monday. I will not set the case peremptorily for that day—for nothing is peremptory in this world but the Sheriff; and his execution; but be here on Monday, and, if necessary, some other arrangement can then be made.

Disappointed in Texas.

David Mewha, one of the colony of Yorkshire, England, farmers who recently came to this country to settle in Texas, returned to Castle Garden yesterday. He had his wife and five children with him. He said that he was thoroughly dissatisfied with his venture in Texas. The colony settled near San Antonio. Mewha says that they found the land poor and the prospects poor. He had intended to pay about $3 an acre for 640 acres, but he was informed by agents that for the land offered. There were desirable lands were the conditions near Galveston, which are held in blocks or sections made access at $20 an acre, and are those upon which the agents of the English emigrants. Many of them have, he says, like himself, left the spot they had intended to settle upon. They have the blame of their misfortune upon the agent in London of the Galveston Land Department of the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railroad, who induced them to go to Texas. Mewha is now willing to settle in any place where he can make a living.

Bucholz's Second Trial.

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 22.—The counsel for William Bucholz yesterday moved to have his second trial postponed to a future term of the court. Judge Culver allowed motions that the records for postponement were insufficient, and ordered the case to proceed forthwith as a duplicate could be obtained, which may be next week.

A Cat and Rat Story.

A New Jersey reporter says that a Paterson cat, after watching a rat hole for hours without result, went to the barn yard, and securing a chicken's head, placed it close by the hole. The bait took, and tabby was soon dining on the rat.

THE LOUNSBURY TRAGEDY.

Mrs. Lounsbury's Case Before the Grand Jury—Physicians Inquiring into her Sanity.

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 22.—The case of Mary Lounsbury of Stratford, charged with the murder of her husband, the Rev. Dexter L. Lounsbury, by shooting him while he lay asleep in bed last month, went before the Grand Jury to-day. The State's Attorney asked the Judge to instruct the jury that the question of the prisoner's sanity should not be entertained in their deliberations as to the return of a true bill; but Judge Culver charged directly contrary to this request, telling the jury that it was competent for them to inquire into the matter and be influenced by the result to such an extent as they deemed proper. The witnesses examined to-day were Mary Cumming, the servant at the rectory at the time of the shooting, Louis Judson, a neighbor who heard Mrs. Lounsbury screaming on the night of the tragedy, and a Mrs. Porter, who has been the prisoner's attendant at the jail. The inquiry will probably be finished to-morrow. Mrs. Lounsbury will not appear before the Grand Jury, as is her privilege, on account of her continued prostration. She says she would not appear in any event. She has kept the bed almost constantly since her commitment to jail, seemingly rational most of the time, but suffering great excitement at intervals from grief and remorse at what she has done. She has all along acknowledged the shooting, and says she don't know what impelled her to do it.

The State's Attorney, who is inclined to believe her mentally irresponsible, has had two physians in attendance upon her this week to determine her mental condition. They have not yet reported their conclusion. If they fail of a positive opinion a noted insanity expert will be called in.

The Railroad Investigation.

The examination of George R. Blanchard was continued yesterday before the Assembly Railroad Committee, and was still unfinished at the close of the day. Mr. Blanchard believed that the Grand Trunk Railroad had guaranteed certain facilities to Canadian merchants who shipped their goods over that road. New York had no such advantages for coaling, free port charges and dockage as Philadelphia and Baltimore, and business was, therefore, in some measure diverted from this city. None of the large lines of steamers would send their ships to the railroad docks in New York, and the railroad companies had to make what is called a "canal delivery," sending barges alongside the ships.

Many of the New York merchants refused to pay the delivery charges, but preferred to send or receive their goods at other ports where there was no such expense. Produce dealers care little for the mercantile welfare of one city if they can get lower rates at another. Railroads could not name rates from Chicago to European ports, as the steamship rates fluctuate daily and hourly. New York merchants were independent of railroads in shipping their goods to Europe, but in other cities it was different, and they usually got through rates to Europe. Thus the railroads had to take the risk of a rise in steamship rates, and by so doing often lost heavily. The steamships have could charge what they liked, and often very little was left for the railroads. Before 1876 the Erie had lost severely in this way, but since that year they had kept themselves safe.

The witness gave the following table of receipts of grain at New York by canal and rail since 1872:

	By Canal.	By Rail.
1872	52,135,046	21,889,869
1873	48,560,045	35,172,720
1874	50,575,509	35,745,754
1875	39,017,174	34,325,142
1876	31,590,160	43,424,571
1877	49,035,590	35,872,918
1878	64,733,284	62,860,486

Caleb Cushing's Library Sold.

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—The auction sale of the private library of the late Caleb Cushing commenced here this forenoon, and attracted an unusual attendance of book buyers, especially representatives of the more important public libraries. The Boston Public Library, the Boston Athenæum, the Massachusetts State Library, the Watkins Library of Hartford, Conn., and the Congressional Library at Washington were among those represented. The collection was largely composed of works upon international law in various languages, the laws of different nations, and books about China and in the Chinese language. The large collection of books in Chinese was mainly purchased for the library of Congress, and a large portion of books upon international law go to the Massachusetts State Library. Bidding was spirited, and good prices were realized.
