The vote on the proposed amendment to the State Constitution, to provide for the election of an additional Justice of the Supreme Court in the Second Judicial District, was in the 1,885 votes being cast for it, and 19 against it.

The motion made on behalf of Mr. Leo. C. Dessar for an injunction restraining the County Canvassers from counting the votes cast in the late election for Mr. J. C. Julius Langbein for Justice of the Seventh District Civil Court was heard yesterday before Judge Lawrence. Mr. Langbein got the majority vote, the next highest vote being for Mr. Dessar. It was contended by Mr. Dessar's counsel that as Mr. Langbein is a member of the Legislature the votes cast for him are null under the State Constitution. Judge Lawrence declined to grant the injunction.

Husband and Wife Sent to the Penitentiary.

Mr. Charles H. Brown of 52 West Twenty-sixth street convicted John Stocking as a domestic on the 1st inst. On the 7th inst. a gold watch, chain, and charms were missed. John was arrested. He confessed that she was the thief, and said that she committed the theft at the instigation of her husband, John Stocking. He also said that he had induced her to take employment as a house servant that she might save opportunities to clear the dispositions of what she stole. Stocking was arrested. Husband and wife were arraigned yesterday in the General Sessions. Mrs. Stocking pleaded guilty. Mr. Stocking demanded a trial. The case commenced. Judge Cowing sentenced husband and wife to the penitentiary for one year.

Saved for the Time from the Gallows.

A stay of proceedings was also ordered. Nichols was convicted of the murder of Thos. O'Connell on July 3, and was sentenced by Justice Pratt to be hanged.

LYNCHING IN LEADVILLE.

Two Lot Jumpers Forcibly Taken from Jail and Hanged by a Mob.

DENVER, Nov. 20.—A despatch to the Times from Leadville says: At about 2 o'clock this morning forty or fifty masked men went to the county jail, headed by Sheriff Watson, who was urged forward by six pistols and held in the determined grip of nearly as many men at the muzzle of the weapons. Sheriff Watson was forced to open the doors, when a dozen men rushed in and overpowered the two deputy sheriffs and took out Charles Stewart, the footpad, and Ed. Fredsham, who has figured largely in the lot-jumping business. The captors were inexorable and merciless, and launched their victims into eternity suspended from the beams of a new building now in course of erection in front of the jail. Fredsham struggled furiously, and his face bore the marks of agony as he hung suspended from a rafter. When his request was denied to write a letter to his wife he made a desperate effort to escape his impending fate. To the body of Fredsham was pinned this placard:

Notice to all lot thieves, banco sterers, footpad thieves, and chronic loafers for the same, and sympathizers with the above class of criminals! This is our symptom's commencement, and this shall be your fate. We mean business. Let this be your last warning, particularly Cooney Adams, Conners, Collins, Hogan, Ed. Burns, Ed. Champ, P. A. Kelly, and a great many others who are well known to this organization. We are 700 strong.

Prosecuting Lynchers in Ohio.

BATAVIA, Ohio, Nov. 21.—The excitement over the attempted lynching of William Allen, alias Story, last May, is being revived by the prosecution of the alleged lynchers. Allen had eloped with Mrs. Atchley, the wife of Charles Atchley. They were overtaken in Cincinnati, and on the night of their return to Batavia, Allen was taken from bed, carried to the Railroad Bridge, and with a rope tied around his neck and to the railing, was thrown off. The rope broke and Allen fell thirty feet, to the rock below. Several days ago Allen returned from the West, with John T. Morris, a Springfield detective, and has been hunting up evidence concerning those engaged in attempting to hang him. Yesterday Charles Atchley, the husband, who was the cause of the trouble, John Moore, D. L. Mahan, and Frederick Devine were arrested, charged with assault with intent to murder Allen. Morris says a person implicated has confessed, and he has the names of thirty-four participants in the riot and attempted lynching whom he will have arrested and indicted. A preliminary examination was begun last night and continued to-day. The defence claim that nothing was done save putting Allen in the water, and that those arrested were not concerned in this.

Mrs. Atchley never returned to her husband after her elopement, but has lived with her uncle. She has a suit pending against her husband for alimony, in which an injunction was obtained to prevent his disposing of his property when he wanted to sell out and leave the scene of her perfidy and go to the Pacific slope.

John Branigan's Child.

Policeman Davis of the Mulberry street police led John Branigan, grossly intoxicated, before Justice Morgan yesterday. Closely following them was a little girl, neatly dressed. "Your Honor," the policeman said, "this little girl, Nellie Branigan, came to the station-house about an hour ago and asked Sergeant Hollins to send her to the Catholic Protectory. She said her father and mother were continually drunk, and she could not bear it any longer. Just then the father entered, and I was ordered to arrest him." Nellie Branigan repeated to Justice Morgan what she had said to Sergeant Hollins, but would not speak against her parents, but simply asked to be sent to the Protectory. Policeman Davis told his Honor that the parents were habitual drunkards. The Judge committed the father and gave the child to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Grennan's Notion of a Policeman's Province.

A son of George S. Wheeler of 321 East Twenty-ninth street refused to go to recitation at the New York College because the weather was too cold yesterday morning, and Mr. Wheeler was about to flog him with a clothes line, but the boy ran up stairs to the rooms of Policeman Grennan, who dwells in the same house. Grennan followed and told Mr. Wheeler, in trying to set at the boy, pushed the policeman. Grennan arrested him, but he was released in the Yorkville Police Court.
