THOSE ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

Intimations that it May be Shown that their Author was not President Williams.

In the case of President Edward F. Williams of the Greenpoint Savings Bank, accused of sending obscene letters through the mails, a second adjournment is probable to-day when United States Commissioner Allen calls the case. Mr. Williams's counsel claim that they have not been allowed to inspect the original anonymous letter, addressed to Mr. George Rowland, upon which the complaint is based, and are not prepared to proceed without first having studied it. They have applied for this letter; but, they claim, Mr. Anthony Comstock keeps it in his private possession, and it is not attached to the papers in the United States Commissioner's office, as it should be. In addition, the counsel have applied to have the case tried before United States Commissioner Benedict, as Commissioner John J. Allen is the law partner of Gen. Tracy, one of Mr. Williams's counsel. The District Attorney has thus far refused to make this change, claiming that the Commissioner who granted the warrant should try the case. The witnesses have accordingly been subpœnaed for to-day, to appear before United States Commissioner Allen.

An intimate friend of President Williams said yesterday that the defendant himself hardly knew what line of defence he would follow beyond declaring his innocence.

One of the counsel for Mr. Williams said yesterday that last summer President Williams heard that he was suspected of writing the anonymous letters that were flying about Greenpoint, and he consulted with Mr. J. D. Barton, Superintendent of the Manhattan Beach Railroad, as to what he should do about it. They concluded that it was beneath Mr. Williams's dignity to take any notice of such small business. "It's not likely, is it," said the lawyer, "that being once warned that he was suspected, a man in his position would continue to write such letters, growing more abusive and obscene in every letter he wrote? Mr. Williams is either one of the greatest villains that ever went unhung, or he is deranged and a monomaniac, or he is innocent. For myself, I believe that he is innocent."

For several days there have been hints cautiously given that the author of the anonymous and obscene letters was not Mr. Edward F. Williams, but was one intimately connected with him, who at the proper time, if Mr. Williams stood in danger of being convicted, would come forward and make his confession. Mr. Williams's lawyer yesterday admitted that something of this nature was expected. Nothing definite, however, could yet be told, except that such a person was suspected by those who believed Mr. Williams was innocent, and yet knew that the anonymous letters must have been written by some one in Greenpoint, and in his office.

KILLED BY A PEANUT VENDER.

An Italian who Deposited $2,000 in Bonds as Bail and then Disappeared.

Francis P. Hughes, a young man of 325 East Thirty-fourth street, this city, who on the night of Jan. 28 was struck on the head with a heavy iron nutcracker by Giacomlo Boglioli, a peanut vender of 59 Front street, Brooklyn, who kept a peanut stand at Washington and Fulton streets, Brooklyn, died in his residence, early yesterday morning. Hughes had been visiting Mr. Charles H. Binn of 113 Henry street, Brooklyn, and both had spent the evening with some friends in Duffield street. Hughes started at about 11 o'clock to go to the ferry. He was slightly under the influence of liquor, but his companion was sober. When Hughes reached the corner where Boglioli's pea nut stand stood, he drew a cigar from his pocket and attempted to light it at a flambeau burning by the stand. He failed to get a light at the first attempt, but succeeded the next time he tried. In stepping back he accidentally jostled against the Italian, who in a rage seized an iron nutcracker, and struck Hughes a powerful blow on the left side of the head. The instrument cut through Hughes's felt hat, made an ugly scalp wound, and fractured the skull. Hughes was carried into the drug store on the corner, but as a surgeon's attention was needed, he was taken to the police station in Washington street, and an ambulance surgeon was summoned. Mr. Hughes first went to the City Hospital. After several days' treatment he was permitted to go to his home. Boglioli was held on a charge of felonious assault to await the action of the Grand Jury. The District Attorney consented to take $2,000 bail pending trial, and Boglioli furnished Government bonds in that sum, which were accepted as security.

When the District Attorney learned of Hughes's failing condition he issued a bench warrant for Boglioli's arrest, but the Italian could not be found at his old home, and no recent trace of him has been obtained. Boglioli, it is said, kept himself well informed as to Hughes's condition, and a few days ago called upon the latter and offered to pay $2,000 down if the prosecution was stopped. Since then he has disappeared. The police were looking for him in the Italian haunts of this city yesterday. He is said to have acquired a small fortune in peanut vending.

Mr. Binn, who witnessed the assault, says that it was wholly unprovoked, as Mr. Hughes accidentally hit against Boglioli, and was ready to make ample apology if the Italian would have waited and could have understood him.

A Mistake of $5,000,000.

Comptroller Steinmetz, in Brooklyn, yesterday, sent to Mayor Howell a statement showing that the Registrar of Arrears, O'Keeffe, in his annual report, had overstated the amount of the arrearages of taxes due by $4,355,026 24, which, with interest added at fifteen per cent, as the Registrar estimated in his statement, would increase the error to $5,008,970 17. The actual amount of the arrearages is $12,217,061 47, instead of $17,226,031 64, as the Registrar reported. Mayor Howell yesterday called upon the Registrar of Arrears to explain this mistake of $5,000,000 in his bookkeeping. The Registrar said that the figures were taken from the books in the office. The mistake is thought to be due to the fact that the books in the Comptroller's office showed the payments of old taxes, while those in the Registrar of Arrears' office do not. Mayor Howell said that Comptroller Steinmetz's discovery shows that the city is $5,000,000 better off than he supposed.

Suits Against Importers.

In the case of the United States against Daniel and Edward Haas, where suit was brought to recover $210,000 for alleged fraudulent importation of goods, the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff, yesterday, for $48,113 89. The trial of the suit of the United States against D. Judis to recover $80,000, for the alleged undervaluation of kid gloves imported, was on before Judge Choate and a jury in the United States District Court yesterday.
