EXPLOSION IN SANTIAGO.

A Chilian Shell Manufactory Blown to Pieces —Twenty-four Men Killed.

PANAMA, Feb. 26.—On Jan. 27 a tremendous explosion occurred in the artillery barracks at Santiago, Chili, killing twenty-four men. A part of the building was in use as a manufactory of shells, cartridges, and other munitions of war, and it was supposed that some of the workmen had carelessly dropped a loaded shell, which exploded. The roofs and sides of the buildings were blown to pieces. Fragments of shells and grenades, arms, and parts of the buildings were blown in every direction, causing many wounds to people and much damage to houses in the neighborhood. Fifty workmen were in the buildings at the time, besides sentries, messengers, and others, and of these, bodies or portions of bodies of twenty-four were taken from the débris. Others among the workingmen are missing, but their fate is unknown. A fire broke out immediately, and for a time it was feared that it would extend to the powder magazine, where some 250 tons of that explosive were stored. The firemen worked with great energy, however, and arrested the progress of the flames. Had the fire reached the powder magazine, the damage and loss would have been fearful. The Chilian Times says:

"The explosion was so violent that large pieces of the roof of the building in which it occurred were thrown to a distance of 700 yards, and shells and fragments of human bodies were found on the other side of the penitentiary. A carbonized hand and part of a leg were found 400 yards from the Camino de Cintura. A sentry on guard near the workshop was blown to atoms; only part of his rifle, without stock or bayonet, has been found."

Standing Buffalo's Testimony.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Senate Ponca Investigating Committee to-day heard Standing Buffalo, one of the Ponca chiefs, who testified that Mr. Kemble, claiming to represent the Government, came to their reservation and told them they must move to the Indian Territory, and when they refused to go, compelled them to do so by driving them down to their reservation soldiers from Fort Randall. He said the Poncas then, seeing there was no alternative except fighting the Government, went South unwillingly and with protestations and grief. The details of the journey, as related by Standing Buffalo, were in substance the same as the testimony of White Eagle and other witnesses who were examined last week.

Brooklyn's Divorce Record.

There are many divorce cases on the calendar of the Brooklyn courts, and the Justices usually hand down their decisions on Monday. Yesterday absolute divorces were granted to Huntington Page from Lizzie C. Page, to Kunigunde Ereisinger from Joseph Ereisinger, and to Julia De Young from Gustavus De Young, the infant child in the last named case being given to the plaintiff. Justice Pratt granted an absolute divorce to Henry Sell from Prudence Self, ordered Thomas Dowling to pay his wife Mary $6 a week alimony and $25 counsel fee, and ordered an allowance for alimony and expenses to be paid to Ellen O'Connell, in the suit against her for divorce instituted by Daniel O'Connell.

Hasbiun in favor of Joseph Azam, $6,302.05 for deficiency, recovered in Suffolk County, filed Oct. 2, 1870; against Erastus Cook and William Hayes, in favor of First National Bank of Rondout, $1,056.89, recovered in Ulster County, filed Dec. 2, 1874.

Y., last September, finding four doors between him and liberty, found the doors not locked, quietly made his way out, closing the doors after him.
