MR. D. O. MILLS'S FURNITURE.

The California Millionaire about to Remodel his New York Residence.

There was an auction at the house of the California millionaire, D. O. Mills, 634 Fifth avenue, opposite the Cathedral, yesterday. Mr. Mills has resolved to have his house thoroughly remodelled, and the catalogue comprised not only a large amount of rare and costly furniture, but also many parts of the house itself. Among the articles of furniture sold were an Aubusson carpet in one piece, a rich drawing-room suite, style of Louis XIV., in gilt frames, richly carved, with finest blue silk lampas; a triple-seat ottoman with Japanese embroideries, a black and gold Boule-work card table, an Axminster carpet, with border; a Wilton carpet, chandeliers, brackets, mirrors, curtains, tables, &c. Among the fittings of the house sold were wainscotings, mantelpieces, door jambs, and mouldings in costly woods, and with rare workmanship. The amount realized from the sale was only about $5,500, although the original cost was greatly in excess of that sum. Mr. Mills has given orders to a first-class artist to entirely remodel and refit the house from top to bottom. It is estimated that the cost will be in the neighborhood of $30,000. While the alterations are going on the family will pay a visit to California.

Mayor Howell and Property Owners and Railroads.

A delegation of Water street, Brooklyn, property owners called upon Mayor Howell yesterday to ask him to veto the resolution of the Common Council changing the route of the Brooklyn elevated railroad from Plymouth street to Water street. They were headed by Father McNeel of St. Anne's Parochial school, and Alderman McCarty, who presented a protest from about 150 Water street property owners. Mayor Howell said that he was in favor of compelling railway companies to compensate property owners for any damage actually done, and although the city demanded such transit, he would not consent to any road to be constructed through any street unless proper compensation was accorded. In Water street, where the property owners were poor men, whose property is preciated in value at a time, he thought there was special need of modifying the rule. The workmen are building the superstructure of the road in Lexington and Park avenues.

Wanted—Females.
