THE PIER AT LONG BRANCH.

AN EXTRAORDINARY MEETING OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

A Big Lobster—Big Dividends and Big Prospects—Big Speeches from Judge Fitch and Major George Sartoris Leland.

The directors of the great wrought iron tubular ocean pier had their annual dinner in the Ocean Hotel at Long Branch yesterday. A lobster weighing forty-one pounds adorned the table. It claws were as large as the carpetbag of a Southern Republican, and its antennæ as long and apparently as sensitive as the antennæ of a Republican Imperialist. It was caught in Pleasure Bay, on Monday, by Commodore Thomas J. Falls, and by him presented to Warren Leland. After the annual meeting the directors inspected the pier. It is 200 feet longer than it was last year, and projects into the Atlantic 960 feet from the east curb of Ocean avenue. The addition is fifty feet wide, and has a double deck. The water at the end of the pier is twenty feet deep at low tide. Extra piles, serving as fenders, are driven north and south of the pier, and the landings are 240 feet long. The steamboats are to be lashed outside of the breakers, and pilots say that they can make a landing without trouble in a heavy sea.

After dinner Judge Fitch, the President of the company, congratulated the stockholders on the success of the enterprise. "Two years ago," said he, "Long Branch was three miles long and five miles wide. It now begins at Sandy Hook, and ends at Atlantic City. It boasts of the only bold bluff along 1,500 miles of the Atlantic coast. Rocks line the shore of New England, and marshes stretch along the southern coast. Our bluffs begin at Seabright and end at Seagirth. Our air is more healthy and bracing for consumptives than the air of the Mediterranean. European invalids are recognizing its salubrity, and are no strangers at Long Branch and Atlantic City. The fame of the great wrought-iron ocean tubular pier is world wide. When New York city is sweltering in the heat of the hottest nights, visitors promenade the pier in shawls and great coats."

Judge Fitch said that the Adelaide would begin her regular trips on Saturday. She would leave New York at 4¾ A. M., bringing freight at reasonable prices. She would return about 7 o'clock, and land in New York at 9, and reach Long Branch on her second trip at noon. Then she would visit the Coney Island Pier, return to the Branch, and make a late trip to the city. The Plymouth Rock would leave New York at 9¾ and 3¾. Tickets would be good for either boat.

"The great wrought iron ocean tubular pier," said the Judge, "is a source of revenue, not only to its stockholders, but to the taxpayers of the Branch. Two years ago cottages were rented for $800 a season. A year ago they brought $1,000, and this year they are held at from $1,200 to $1,500. Over 150,000 persons will spend the summer within twenty miles of Leland's Ocean Hotel. We carry them to New York and back over the cool bosom of the ocean for 60 cents. I paid to-day $1.50 to come by railroad, and was nearly stifled by the dust and heat. We save thousands nearly a dollar a day by steamboat transportation. Nor do we injure the railroads, for last year their receipts were larger than ever."

Judge Fitch described the crowds that rushed to Coney Island during the summer season. The island helped the Branch. Its roystering multitudes sent the heads of families to the Jersey coast. Fellows on a lark avoided the Branch. Men who spent ten or fifteen dollars an hour patronized the island, and only the best classes visited the vicinity of the great wrought iron ocean tubular pier. Rowdyism was unknown, and quiet and harmony hovered over the bluffs. "The pier is a success, financially and otherwise," the Judge concluded. It is now paying eight times as much interest as the general Government pays, and it promises to pay for itself within three years."

Mr. Dame of the National Construction Company, the builders of the pier, Warren Leland of the Ocean House, Bryan McSwyny and Col. Ottman of Manhattan Market, all stockholders in the pier, expressed their satisfaction. Major George Sartoris Leland of the Sturtevant House delivered a remarkable speech in response to a toast. Its salient features only are given:

"Amid the refrigerating insolence of a cold and subordinate world," said he, "New York city, enthroned on the conglomerate sediment of the Palisades, casts a quondam glance at the great wrought iron ocean tubular pier. The irrefragible intelligence of the age stands aghast at the predominant features extravagated by the engineering proclivities of this astounding work.

"Nor is this all. From the opaque desultory observation of primordial man down to the concatination of all proleptic circumstances similar ideas supervene. The dithyrambic dispansons of a penultimate sphere reecho the joyful intelligence. The palpigerous caryatides of a prehistoric age are thrown in the shade by the result, and all that is serene and beautiful are brought to the eye by the great wrought iron ocean tubular pier.

"Not a star is wanting. I speak from experience. You can chase the shrieking forms of posterity through the glowing crypts of the past ages without discovering a parallel. Nor are the characteristic fulminations of anthropomorphic genius entirely excluded. Their reverberations return, like the boomerang of the Australians, obedient to the will of the primogenitor, and tell the story of success.

"Nay, more. In the sublimparian epoch of time the tileologist of the future may mildly survey the past and intonate in percolating silence the corrugated verisimilitude that, gathering force as it rebounds, lithographs the palpable homogeneousness of the great wrought iron tubular ocean pier.

"Thanking you, gentlemen, on behalf of the citizens of Four Corners, Cuyahoga County, O., I resume my seat."

MRS. SHERIDAN SHOOK'S DIVORCE.

The Husband's Resolution to Let the Case go Against him by Default.

A decree of absolute divorce has been granted against Sheridan Shook. He made no opposition, but suffered the case to go against him by default. He also readily agreed to give $100 a month alimony for the support of Mrs. Shook and her four children, who are to remain with her. There are two girls and two boys. The oldest is a girl about 12 years of age. Mrs. Shook is soon to sail for Europe. It is reported that she intends to marry again.

It is explained that there had been an estrangement between them for about a year, in the course of which there were two or three occasions when they were induced to live together only by the intervention of friends and out of consideration for their children. At length Mrs. Shook insisted that she would have a divorce, and it is reported that Mr. Shook resolved to make no opposition. Thomas Harland was employed by the wife as her lawyer, and a suit was begun. Assistant District Attorney Wm. F. Leary was appointed referee to take evidence. An instance of infidelity was alleged, and the only material witness was James W. Collier, the actor, who has been known as a friend of the husband. Ex-Judge A. J. Dittenhoefer represented Mr. Shook, but no defence was made, not even a denial. The evidence was taken by order of the Court. The referee's report was filed last Friday.

Mrs. Shook owns a house in Fifteenth street and another in Stamford, Connecticut, both of which were gifts from her husband. They were married about fourteen years ago.

A Brother's Evidence Against his Sister.

August Rassiga's suit for an absolute divorce from his wife, Mary R. A. Rassiga, was brought to trial yesterday in Supreme Court, Circuit, before Judge Potter. While the parties, who have been married about ten years, were living at Astoria, Mrs. Rassiga, in her husband's absence, departed for Westfield, Conn., taking with her a large share of the furniture. Soon after Albert Krauth, who had been a boarder with the Rassigas, went to Westfield, and boarded with Mrs. Rassiga and her mother. About a year ago, after Krauth had been there a short time, J. Zoeller, a brother of Mrs. Rassiga, obtained a warrant against his sister, charging her with unlawful intimacy with Krauth, the penalty for which under the laws of Connecticut is imprisonment in State prison for not less than two years. Mrs. Rassiga was arrested, and then Mr. Rassiga brought the present suit for divorce upon the same testimony. Zoeller being the principal witness against his sister. He testified that when he went with the party to execute the warrant for her arrest, he found Krauth in the cellar. Mrs. Rassiga, who is a comely woman about 30 years old, claimed that the charge against her was the result of a conspiracy, to which Krauth was a party, and that his going to the cellar was a part of the plan concocted by her brother and husband. The jury, after having been out six hours, brought in a verdict for plaintiff.

Seeking Aid for an Industrial School.

Mr. Samuel R. Lowery of Huntsville, Ala., is in the city soliciting aid for the establishment of an industrial school at Huntsville. Ex-Gov. Chapman of Alabama has offered the buildings in that city formerly occupied as a barracks for United States troops, and now owned by him, provided a sufficient endowment fund shall be raised by the enterprise. The Excelsior Jubilee Singers will give a concert for the benefit of the school in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, on Tuesday night. Mr. Lowery may be found at 103 West Twenty-seventh street. The chief feature of the school when established will be silk culture.
