UNDER A RATTLING BREEZE.

The Sophia Emma Beats the Geo. B. Deane after Parting her Jib and Mainsheets.

A brilliant yacht race yesterday finally closed the competition between the twenty-two-foot cracks for the Dowling Harlem Challenge Cup. The starters were the Sophia Emma, Capt. Varian; Geo. B. Deane, Capt. Morrell; and Excelsior, Capt. Weeks—three of the fastest craft of their size in the world. There was a rattling breeze, which capsized one of the contestants at an early stage of the race. The course was from off the Empire Yacht Club house, at 104th street, East River, to a stakeboat off 116th street; thence to a mark at the foot of Eighty-ninth street, and return to the club house, repeated four times, a distance of ten miles. There was a flying start, and the yachts crossed the line as follows: Sophia Emma, 2:51:32; Geo. B. Deane, 2:53:18; Excelsior, 2:54:44. The wind was about northeast and the tide ebb. It was a nose ender to the upper mark, and the gallant yachtsmen were drenched with the flying spray before they had completed one tack. The Excelsior pitched bowsprit under in the heavy swell of a passing steamer, and a few minutes after starting, and just after she had gone about on the starboard tack, capsized. Boats put out and rescued her crew, and towed the yacht ashore. The pretty Sophia Emma was the first to round the upper stakeboat, and came whirling down to the lower mark, with a favoring tide and stiff breeze, like a racehorse on the homestretch. The Deane was close on her heels, but gradually falling astern. It was tack and tack returning, both craft carrying their enormous spread of canvas without a reef, and being handled with admirable dexterity.

The Sophia Emma gained considerably by standing close in shore into smooth water, while the Deane kept off in the channel. The Sophia Emma completed the first round at 3:20:14, and the Deane at 3:26:18. On the second round the Deane decreased the lead of her fleet-footed rival, the Sophia Emma rounding at 3:51:19, the Deane at 3:55:05. The breeze continued to freshen, and every few minutes both craft received knock downs which buried them in the foam and necessitated the most skilful handling to keep them from turning turtle. On the last part of the third round, the Deane, in the close work from Ninetieth street to the home stakeboat, caught up to and passed the Sophia Emma, and completed the third round at 4:24:30; Sophia Emma, 4:26:22. Off little Hell Gate the Sophia Emma lowered her mainsail, much to the consternation of her backers. She had parted her mainsheet, but spliced it and turned in a reef, and pluckily started again. Then she parted her jibsheets, and hove to, bobbed her jib, and made another start. In the mean time the Deane had gotten a long lead, and completed the fourth round at 4:55:13. A curious state of affairs was now exhibited. The race would have been hers had she complied with the regulation, but as on two rounds she did not do so, she was compelled to make two more or give up the race. From being head boat it put her in the position if she kept on of being nearly two rounds behind the Sophia Emma. As the latter was apparently disabled, the Deane kept on amid great excitement. The Sophia Emma dashed past the club house under her jib alone, with only half a round to make just as the Deane completed her fifth round at 5:29:38. There being no possibility of overtaking the Sophia Emma the Deane withdrew, and the Sophia Emma finished the fourth and last round at 5:51:28. The judges decided the Sophia Emma to be the winner. Considerable money changed hands on the result, and the Sophia Emma having won the challenge cup for the third time this season, it becomes the property of her owner.

ANGRY ORIENTALS.

Beset by a Mob, they Draw Pistols and Knives and Defend Themselves.

A dozen Chinamen sat on one of the front benches of the Essex Market Police Court, yesterday. They watched with mute attention the prisoners brought before Justice Morgan, and some of their number interpreted to the others what was going on. When, however, Policeman Brennan of the Union Market station led to the bar Gung Chung, a quiet but determined looking man, the Chinamen craned their necks, and when the prisoner turned round to look for his friends he was encouraged by many kindly salutations.

Policeman Brennan laid on Justice Morgan's desk a large double-edged knife, with a wooden handle engraved with strange characters. The policeman told the Justice that on Tuesday night, while patrolling Houston street, he was met by citizens, who told him that a riot was in progress in front of a Chinese laundry at 138 Fifth street. Going there he found an excited throng gathered outside the laundry, armed with sticks and stones. The windows of the building were broken, and two Chinamen were threatening the crowd with pistols. He attempted to drive off the crowd, and Charles Freeman of 32 Avenue B volunteered to assist him. Freeman jumped into the laundry to induce the Chinamen to lay aside their pistols until such time as Policeman Brennan could obtain further assistance. Whether the Chinamen misunderstood Freeman's intention is not known, but no sooner had he entered the laundry than Gung Chung jumped at him and made several thrusts at him with the knife. This act of Gung Chung served to infuriate the crowd outside, who witnessed the assault. They forced their way into the laundry, and but for the interference of Policeman Brennan and others, who charged upon them and drove them off, would have mobbed the Celestials. Gung Chung was seized by Policeman Brennan, who, seeing that so great was the excitement in the neighborhood it would be dangerous to take Gung Chung to the station house, kept him in the laundry until other policemen arrived.

Gung Chang and several of his countrymen told Justice Morgan that they were continually being assaulted. At times dirt was thrown upon their washing, their windows were broken, and they could not go out singly without being attacked. They were hard at work when they first noticed a hooting crowd of people who gathered outside their laundry. Then dirt was thrown in through the open door, and when they closed this their windows were broken. They stood these attacks quietly until their doors were forced open and attempts were made to rob them. Then they resorted to their pistols, but only showed them to intimidate the crowd. They had no intention of hurting anybody, but only acted on the defensive.

Gung Chung was held for further examination. Mr. Freeman charged him with attempting to cut him.

PISTOLS IN A RAILROAD CAR.

A Shooting Affray in which Both Principals were Mortally Wounded.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Sept. 8.—A fatal shooting affray occurred on the Utah Southern train this morning, just before it left the depot, between Dr. B. C. Snedeker, formerly of Lexington, Ky., and a Scotchman named R. T. Smith, long a denizen of the Pacific coast, engaged chiefly in mining. Dr. Snedeker had attended professionally a daughter of Daniel Davidson, another of whose daughters Smith was about to marry. Davidson became suspicious of something wrong between his daughter and Snedeker. The three gentlemen had had some words about it, ending by Smith slapping Snedeker in the face, and telling him if he didn't leave the country he would kill him. Snedeker was about to leave town with his brother to let the matter blow over, and had taken his seat in the car when Smith, who was going to the Bingham mines, came in at the forward end of the car, and, as he approached, Snedeker rose and shot him through the stomach. Smith fell in the aisle and the people rushed from the car. A policeman entered, disarmed Snedeker, and was leading him out of the rear of the car under arrest, when Smith, who was supposed to be dead or was dying, rose to his feet, drew his revolver, and shot Snedeker twice in the back, killing him instantly. Since he was shot Smith has made a will leaving all his property to Davidson, and is now expected to die momentarily. Davidson is the largest sheep and wool grower in the Territory, and was present, but took no part in the affray. All these men were prominent, and stood well in the community.

Wedding in Newport.

NEWPORT, Sept. 8.—Mr. James Breese and Miss Fannie Potter, both of New York, were married in All Saints' Chapel at noon to-day. The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Thomas M. Clark, Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Rhode Island, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Potter of Union College, New York, who is an uncle of the bride. Miss Potter is the daughter of Gen. Robert B. Potter, and the niece of Clarkson N. Potter and of the Rev. H. C. Potter of Grace Church, New York. She is also a granddaughter of Bishop Potter of New York, and is related to many distinguished families in that city. The bride was arrayed in white satin, with point lace veil. She was given away by her father. The bridesmaids Miss Virginia Potter, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Breese, sister of the bridegroom, wore Suetia in white silk and lace. There were no groomsmen. The duties of best man were performed by Mr. William Breese, brother of the bridegroom.

Killed by Indians.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 8.—A despatch from Santa Fe to the Tribune says: "Alexander Lebairn was the stage driver who was killed on the evening of the 6th fifteen miles from Fort Cummings. The two passengers killed were Isaac Roberts of New York and E. S. Madden of Fort Bowie. The pursuing troops overtook the Indians on the afternoon of the 7th and had a short fight, in which one soldier and two Indian scouts were killed and two soldiers seriously wounded. The Indian casualties are not known. It is doubtful if they can be overtaken."

FRANK LESLIE'S WILL.

Yesterday's Proceedings in the Litigation Before the Surrogate.

In the Leslie will case before the Surrogate yesterday, Dr. Henry F. Quackenbos of this city testified that he had known Frank Leslie twenty-eight years, and that in the latter part of 1877 his mind became unsettled and his memory faulty. He would renew conversations with witness which he had held shortly before, and when reminded of having held them would express himself as unconscious of having done so. He imagined also that he had Bright's disease of the kidneys, and although upon examination by witness and Dr. Doremus no trace of it was discovered, still insisted that his opinion was correct. His peculiarities might have sprung from depression of mind incidental to his business misfortunes at that time. In 1878 his mind was in a worse condition than in 1877. His brain was not as clear nor his memory as good. I suspected a softening of the brain. I did not see him professionally. He made friendly calls upon me. He was no longer active nor quick in mind. He was not idiotic. He was demented. He had no bodily disease, and was in perfect physical health. I gave him bromide of potassium for his mental depression."

George R. Hahn, an artist, testified that Mr. Leslie had employed him during 1876 and 1878. In July of the former year he complimented the work of witness one morning, and ten minutes after recentered and asked witness what he was working on. On being told that it was the same block, Leslie denied that it was. In June, 1878, the witness was reengaged by Leslie, who told him that Mrs. Leslie England was no longer assignee of his establishment, and that he had it all again in his own hands. He gave witness written directions for some work, and on its being completed said that it was not what he ordered. On the directions being shown him he denied that they were in his handwriting. Witness was ordered at one time by Mr. Leslie to attend the Mechanics' Fair in Boston, to make sketches, and was also requested to make advertising contracts with firms for illustrations. On returning to New York Mr. Leslie told the witness that he never sent him to Boston.

Alliger and Boughton in Court.

The examination of Col. Charles A. Boughton, who is accused of having in his possession certain bonds stolen from Merrit Trimble of 21 Cortlandt street, which bonds were afterward pledged in part to the Third National Bank by Elijah Alliger, was begun by Justice Wandell in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday. A telegram was received from Mr. Trimble, who is in the country, saying he could not be present. His managing clerk, Alexander Smith, was substituted as complainant. He said that twenty-nine bonds of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern Railroad, of the value of $24,000, were stolen from the office safe on Oct. 19, 1879. He had been informed by counsel, and been told by Alliger that he had received a part of these bonds from Boughton. To this complaint was annexed an affidavit by Robert Hyslop, clerk of the Third National Bank, to the effect that a number of the bonds stolen had been hypothecated there by Alliger. Alliger himself made an affidavit that in December and January last he had received the bonds from Boughton. Alliger was cross-examined. He said his residence was 110 East Fifty-seventh street, but that for the past ten days he had been in the Tombs as a prisoner. He was then asked questions which drew out the circumstances of the various complaints against him and his commitments thereon. He said he had also received from Boughton the bonds stolen from Mr. Sherwood. The examination was adjourned.

Sentenced to Sing Sing and Refused Admission.

ALBANY, Sept. 8.—The attention of the Governor has been called to the case of Harriet Merrihew, recently sentenced to Sing Sing prison for life for poisoning her husband in Lewis County. On being taken to Sing Sing she was refused admittance, no female prisoners having been received there since the passage of the law of 1877 directing the removal of all female prisoners from that prison to a penitentiary. The woman was taken back to the Lewis County jail, where she now is. The question raised is as to how she can be resentenced; whether the court can reconvene itself, or whether the Governor must issue a proclamation reconvening it. The Governor has given the matter into the hands of the Attorney-General and the Judges passing the sentence.

Charged with Being Bribed.

Major Connery, an inspector in the Custom House under Surveyor Graham, was removed yesterday by orders from Washington. His offence, as charged by Detective Vought of Deputy Collector Palmer's staff, was the acceptance of a bribe of $10 from a steamship passenger to pass his baggage.
