RUMORS ABOUT LIBERIA.

STATEMENTS AS TO ALLEGED DESTITUTION AND DISAFFECTION

Denied by the Rev. Henry Highland Garnet—What his Daughter Says of her Mission—A New Shipping House Established because of the Increased Demands of Colonists.

The scheme of emigrating to Liberia is becoming more and more popular among the Southern negroes. So great, indeed, is the exodus to be that a new shipping house has lately been established for the purpose of sending out negroes to Liberia. Recently there was a rumor that hundreds of colored persons who had gone out to Liberia had returned to this country in disgust, that remunerative wages were not to be had, and that the African fever was proving as fatal to the colored race as it always is to the whites. As a result there has been great consternation among the colored communities throughout the country, and the number of inquiries addressed to the officers of the Colonization Society and to the Rev. Highland Garnet have been innumerable.

The latter said: "These rumors have no foundation whatever. They are based on absolutely nothing at all. I have not heard of any one who has come back from Liberia dissatisfied except a few ne'er-do-wells."

Last May three persons well known in Liberia arrived in this city. These were the ex-President of the republic, James Payne, Bishop Pinny, and Mr. H. W. Johnson. The latter, a rich planter on the St. Paul's River, had come to procure improved farming implements and machinery. He lodged in the house of his friend, Mr. Peter Downing, proprietor of the restaurant in the Custom House. A short time since he died. Parkulau, a native boy whom Mr. Johnson brought out with him, is still with the friend of his employer. Parkulau is the son of the King of the Pessés, a native tribe, which, like the Golahs, the Kroos, the Veys, and the Deys, is under the jurisdiction of the republic. His benefactor, Mr. Downing, has passed several years in Liberia, and returns on account of the approaching death of his father. By means of a series of intelligent interrogatories addressed to him by Mr. Downing, Parkulau yesterday described the condition of the American blacks as now existing. This is the substance:

"When the colored man and his family arrive at Monrovia they are at once taken charge of by the Colonization Society. Under the care of the latter they remain for six months. By this time they have got safely through the 'acclimating,' fever, which seems to be caused, not by the heat, but miasmata, of the origin and character of which little is known. The first symtoms of the sickness are headache, pains in the back, loss of appetite, and more or less gastric derangement, rapidly developing into bilious remittent fever. If this yields to mild medical treatment, the patient is prepared to endure ordinary exposure to the climate. Sometimes the disease assumes the tertiary form of intermittent fever accompanied by bilious vomiting, a dull expression of the eye, and in the febrile paroxysms intense headache and delirium.

"At the expiration of six months the colonists are given land to cultivate. Here may be grown maize and rice, and on the highlands of the interior wheat, barley, and oats. Cotton flourishes and sugar cane and coffee are easily produced. The esculent and farinaceous roots chiefly cultivated are the potato, the cassava, the yam, the tenia—resembling the potato—and the arrowroot. Nearly all the vegetables grown in America may be profitably cultivated. Although American, English, and French money is to be had, the inhabitants, as a rule, conduct their business on the principle of exchange. Thus a man may exchange a quarter of oats for its equivalent in coffee, beans, &c. There are no beggars. When once a colored man gets a good foothold in Liberia he is pretty sure to get along all right. It is a rare thing to find persons, after being acclimated, show a desire to return to America."

The Rev. T. J. Bowen of South Carolina, a missionary sent to western Africa by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, thus describes the condition of the people in Liberia: "The houses in Monrovia are generally two stories high. The furniture is similar to that used in America. Most of the people seem to live as comfortably as those at home. I have heard them accused of being too fond of dress and show, but if they were more so than other people who live in towns I was not able to perceive it."

The sailing of the newly fitted bark Tuck Sing for Monrovia, Liberia, is looked forward to with a great deal of interest by the members of Shiloh Presbyterian Church. On the vessel will sail for Liberia Mrs. Mary Highland Garnet Barboza, the daughter of the Rev. Henry Highland Garnet, pastor of the church, her husband and family of four children. The vessel will probably start on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Barboza is not more than 35 years of age. She is well educated. "I am anxious to be on the way," she said yesterday, "to my new home and the field of my future labors. I call it my new home, because I go with the expectation of living and dying there. I have long contemplated going to Liberia, and believe that it can be of more benefit to my race there than here. From authentic accounts, the soil of Liberia is wonderfully fertile and its climate is healthful, but its myriads of people are floundering in woful ignorance. To build up schools, disseminate knowledge, and shed the light of education over the dark waste, I believe to be the duty of every colored man and woman of this country who is competent for the task."

The Liberian Government, through the influence of President Blyden of the Liberian College, has granted a tract of 100 acres of land upon which to build an educational institution to be presided over by Mrs. Barboza. None but girls will be admitted to the institution, and these will be chosen, as far as possible, from the native element. Mrs. Barboza's husband will conduct the farms and teach the natives husbandry. A reception will be given the Barboza family in Shiloh Church on the morning of the day on which the vessel sails, and members of the church and friends will accompany them to the vessel, which lies at the foot of Pine street, East River.

Mutual Exertions at Bruising.

James Radigan was in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday in a banged-up condition. His head was cut, and tied with bandages, and his wrists were painfully bruised and swollen. Policeman McCool, who had him in custody, wore a bit of court plaster on the bridge of his nose. McCool said that at 11 o'clock Monday evening he was called into Adam Root's saloon, 406 Sixth avenue, to put out Radigan, who was making a disturbance. He ejected Radigan, and struck out, breaking McCool's nose, according to his statement. A clubbing followed, and Radigan was subdued. Radigan told Justice Smith that they took his money in the saloon, and then refused him liquor. He protested, and they called in McCool, who at once rushed at him and knocked him down. He defended himself, and was severely clubbed. His wrists were cut by a cruel use of nippers, which are thick cords that are wound round the wrist. He says he was thrown into a cell at the Thirtieth street station, and his wounds not attended to until morning, when the doorman bandaged them.

Justice Smith committed Radigan.

A Fugitive Convict Captured.

Bill Nelson, alias Robert Wilson, and George O'Neil, two New York thieves, visited Biddeford, Me., last summer, and committed a series of burglaries. There seems to have been some trouble in arresting them, as a telegram states that the "light infantry" was called out. They were finally arrested on July 1, were tried, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the county jail. On Oct. 26 they broke jail and came to this city. Detective Schmittberger met Nelson in Sixth avenue on Monday and arrested him. One hundred and nineteen dollars and a gold watch and chain were found on him. He was remanded in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday to await news from Maine. The District Attorney of Biddeford offered a reward of $50 for the capture of either of the men.
