SALARY GRABBING IN ELIZABETH.

Councilmen in a Movement to Get Salaries from the Ring-ridden City.

Taxpayers of Elizabeth are highly indignant at a scheme of some of the City Councilmen to vote money to themselves out of the depleted city treasury. The Councilmen have been serving without salaries, and they were elected with the understanding that the honor of the position should be their sole compensation. In 1875, when the Ring that stripped the city was flourishing, the State Legislature passed an act permitting the city to issue "consolidated improvement bonds" to redeem other bonds. Several members of the Council of that year contributed $25 each for lobby services at Trenton, and the result was that a section was tacked on to the bond act allowing the Elizabeth Councilmen a salary of $500 a year each. The Councilmen took the money with great unanimity. Some of the Ringsters drew their pay six months in advance, and the payment by the Ring Comptroller of three months' salary before it was due was a common thing. This state of things existed till the end of 1879. Then the salary clause was repealed.

Several of the old Ring men in the present Council have mourned over the stringency of the times since the Ring bubble burst, and have been waiting for something to turn up that would give them a chance to give the city another squeeze. In a test case recently tried in Hoboken one of the Councilmen of that city sued for and recovered a salary from the city. Under the decision in that case the Elizabeth Councilmen claim that the law gives them the right to compensation. Some of them propose to insert for that purpose the item of $8,000 in the appropriation ordinance which is now pending. That ordinance ought to have been passed weeks ago, and it is openly averred that it has been purposely held back in order to get in the salary item and push it through at the last moment. City Attorney Bergen notified the Council on June 1 that it was necessary that the Assessors should know the amount appropriated early in July, and that there should not be further delay. But the ordinance is yet held back.

It is probable that the matter will come up to-morrow evening, unless those in the job yield to the demand of public opinion and abandon it. As in many other cases, the Democrats are to be outpaged for the shrewder Republicans. The plan of the latter is to let the Democratic majority vote to put the salary item into the ordinance, and vote against the item themselves. When the ordinance comes up for final passage a two-thirds vote will be required. Then the Republicans will say that the appropriation ordinance cannot be longer kept back without embarrassment to the city, and that they feel constrained to vote for it, although grieved to think that it contains the salary item. The Republicans believe that in this way they will get their share of the grab, and the Democrats all the disgrace of the job. The jobbers claim that a count of noses gives them more than a two-thirds majority in favor of the grab. Leading citizens of both parties say that the job will be the sure political death of every man engaged in it, and there is evidence that some of the Ringsters themselves are getting panicky, and may conclude to postpone the undertaking.

TORNADO IN MINNESOTA.

Damage to Buildings and Crops—One House Blown Down and Its Inmates Killed.

ST. PAUL, June 13.—The storm of Saturday night extended over nearly all of Minnesota, and was accompanied by much lightning and heavy wind. All railroads were more or less affected, and telegraphic communication was interrupted on all lines. Communication has not yet been restored. In Shakopee the smoke stack of George Strait & Co.'s mill was blown down, the roof of a school house was demolished, shade trees were injured, and crops were blown flat. The storm struck Northfield at 6 P. M., and in thirteen minutes thereafter two inches of water had fallen. The wind blew at the rate of 75 miles an hour, as near as could be calculated. The streets in many places are impassable by reason of fallen trees, many of which are fourteen inches in diameter. The steeple of the new Congregational church, which was 119 feet high, was blown down, and the whole building backed six inches out of plumb. The wind blew the windmill belonging to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad into a hundred pieces, threw the tank house about two and a half feet out of plumb, and carried one empty car standing on the side track a distance of twenty-five feet. The loss will reach into thousands.

It is believed that the wheat crop is not far enough advanced to suffer seriously from the storm. The grain is doubtless prostrated in many fields, but it is thought it will rise again.

In Blue Earth City, the storm began at about 5 P. M. on Saturday. Five inches of water fell in one hour. Trees were uprooted and buildings demolished. Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee, living in the town of Lura, were killed by the blowing down of their house. The barn of L. J. Fraiser, in the same town, was uprooted, burying his daughter in the ruins. She was taken out in unconscious and the injury may prove fatal.

THREE INFANT BURGLARS.

The Third Offence of a Boy Seven Years Old, and his Excuse.

Three urchins with close cropped hair just managed to peep over the bar at the Tombs Police Court yesterday morning, and, discovering the judicial countenance of Justice Flammer, began to cry. The youngest was 7 years old, his name Garrett Hafey of 105 Washington street. The other two boys were Alexander Harvey of 20 Rector street and James Anderson of 140 Cherry street, and they were each 10 years old. Policeman Wm. H. Anthes of the Church street police charged them with breaking a window pane on Sunday afternoon in the basement door of 14 Park place, and stealing gold leaf valued at $30 and carpenter's tools worth $10. While the policeman was telling his story the boys dug their grimy hands into their eyes and kept on crying.

"Well, little Hafey," said the Justice, "what have you got to say this time? This is the third time you have been arrested for stealing."

"One uv de udder boys cut de glass, 'n got me to go 'rud de hole," he replied between his sobs. "I didn't go fur ter steal nothin'."

Harvey sturdily pleaded not guilty, and said that a big boy had pushed him inside of the door, and told him to get some gold leaf that he would find. Anderson denied that he was in the place at all. He was on the sidewalk when he was arrested. They were held in $500 bail each for trial.

Putting Down Paterson's Indians.

Mayor Gillmor of Paterson ordered the police to enforce the ordinance against the obstruction of the sidewalks by the exhibition of goods. From time immemorial, despite the laws, the storekeepers have been in the habit of having extensive outside displays. The ordinance prohibits anything more than three feet high or three feet from the store front. Its enforcement caused much dissatisfaction among the storekeepers, and the cigar store proprietors were indignant because they had to take in their wooden Indians. Some of them dug holes so that the tops of the dummies were not over three feet from the ground. Others bought new ones three feet high, and labelled them, "Shrunk, in accordance with the law." Others laid them down, with the placards, "Low the poor Indian lies." "Died of the Gillmor fever." "The victim of Mayor Gillmor's Indian policy." The law was so travestied and ridiculed that the Mayor ordered the police to make an exception of wooden Indians, and yesterday they all appeared in full force and feather. Some of the clothing dealers have taken advantage of this to have Indian dummies made to wear their suits, the wire dummies being still prohibited.

Accused of Stealing Beer Kegs.

George Hashlacher and Christian Hachameister, representatives of Ehret's and Ringler & Co's breweries, were complainants, in the Harlem Police Court, yesterday, against Joseph J. Cook of 236 West Twenty-fourth street and Alexander Shields of 250 West Twenty-eighth street, who were charged with the larceny of eighty empty lager beer kegs, the property of the brewers named. Policemen Bingham and Ross of the East Eighty-eighth street police said that the brewers had frequently complained of heavy losses of kegs. They ascertained that Cook had a stable at 250 West Twenty-first street, and, going to the place, found 150 kegs bearing the brands of various breweries. Both men were held in $1,000 bail by Justice Gardner.

Congressman J. Hyatt Smith's Church.

Judgment was yesterday rendered for $28,457.81 upon three mortgages in favor of the Williamsburgh Savings Bank against the trustees of the Lee Avenue Baptist Church, of which Congressman J. Hyatt Smith is pastor. The church is to be sold at a foreclosure sale on July 6 to satisfy the judgment. The church's finances have been in a bad condition for some time, and the pastor's salary is said to be in arrears $1,700. The mortgages were made in 1865, 1866 and 1872. The property includes three city lots in Lee avenue, near the head of Taylor street. The church edifice is of iron. The confession made no defence to the suit, and it is understood that it intends to rent the building from the bank.

Staying Away to Prevent a Quorum.

The Democratic members of the Brooklyn Board of Aldermen were unable yesterday to muster in full force, and as the question of choosing a successor to the late Supervisor George W. Light of the Thirteenth Ward was to come before the Board, all but one of the Democrats remained away to prevent a quorum. The Board was declared adjourned for a week. The Democratic caucus had agreed to nominate James Donovan, a Wall street broker, who is a member of the McLaughlin Democratic General Committee. Ex-Supervisor A. S. Crowell is mentioned as one of the Republican candidates.

Rescuing a Cat.

A black cat was discovered yesterday perched upon a piece of scrollwork near the top of the Ross Street Presbyterian Church. It seemed to be in distress, and was apparently unable to get down. A committee of church members climbed up to the steeple and lowered a basket to the place where the cat was. The animal refused to step upon a swing made of a piece of board tied with a rope at each end, which was at first lowered, but as soon as the basket was let down it stepped in. As it was drawn up the throng that had collected to watch the rescue cheered.

CLOSE WORK ON THE BALL FIELD.

A Nip-and-Tuck Game in which the Home Team Won by a Single Run.

The contests between the Metropolitan and Atlantic teams are rapidly approaching in interest the old-time meetings between the New York Mutuals and the Brooklyn Atlantics. Yesterday these clubs played their fifth game, in the presence of a large assemblage, and it was the most exciting contest seen on the Polo grounds since Decoration Day.

The first innings closed with a score of 2 to 0 in favor of the Atlantics, a lead given them by wild pitching. The Atlantics got two more runs in their second inning, while the Metropolitans could only get in a single. With the score at 4 to 1 against them, the home team began a good up-hill fight, and by the end of the seventh innings they had changed the figures to 4 to 2. In the eighth they rallied well at the bat, and, being assisted by bad throwing, took the lead by 5 to 4. This gain the Atlantics offset with two runs, partly scored by Roseman's three-base hit, thereby regaining the lead and leaving the totals at 6 to 5 in their favor. The contest was exciting as the Metropolitans went in for their last inning. Kennedy led off with a base hit, and got in by wild pitching. After Brady had been caught out Clinton made a base hit (his third), as did Say (his second), a fine double play by Nelson and Troy, who both did splendid field work, ending the innings with two runs in, and the Metropolitans again in the van. Schenck opened for the Atlantics with a base hit, and Say dropped a fly ball from Barme's bat, and with two men on bases a run seemed sure, but Barme was forced out, Pike tipped out, and Schenck was put out in running home on a passed ball, leaving the Metropolitans the victors.

A new club has been organized in Philadelphia, with the following players: O'Brien of the Athletic, catcher; Sweeney of California, pitcher; Shetzland of the Defiance, first base; Myers of Baltimore, short stop; Dickson of Hornellsville, third base; Laffin, second base; Barber of Auburn, left field; Birchall, Athletic, centre field; and Landers of Defiance, right field.

Barnes is playing short stop for the Bostons instead of George Wright.

NEWARK'S POLICE.

Men Dismissed for Drunkenness Reinstated Through Political Influence.

The arrest of Policeman Decker and Springer in Newark on Sunday for drunkenness while on duty was much talked about in that city yesterday. Members of the police force were humiliated, and citizens were highly indignant. The two disgraced policemen insist that they did not drink any beer or liquor on Sunday, but Chief Meldrum, Alderman Wright, Justice Ricord, and others who saw them when under arrest in the evening say the men were drunk then. Yesterday they gave bail to answer the charge of testing James Spratt with a club. Within the last two several policemen have been suspended by the Chief and Mayor, and afterward reinstated by the Police Committee or the Common Council. Policemen Solomon and Brown while drunk dragged an innocent man to the police station. The Chief suspended them, and the Police Committee restored to them their badges. Policemen Burke and Bonnet, while drunk, made an assault on a citizen. Burke was discharged, but his friends in the Police Committee and was kept on the force. Policeman Begbie grossly insulted a citizen a few weeks ago. He was suspended, and the Common Council sustained the suspension, but at its last meeting appointed him on the force as a discharge from the Tenth Ward. These are examples of many cases.

The reinstatement of dismissed policemen is effected by the aldermen from their respective wards and other political friends. Some time ago, Republican Aldermen, who constitute the majority in the Common Council, resolved in caucus not to intercede in behalf of disgraced policemen. When reminded of this an official said:

"Yes, I remember now there was some action of that kind taken, but what did it amount to? In the light of later events the thing was a farce."

Yesterday the opinion was generally expressed that another effort to take the Police Department out of politics must be made.

The Case the Jurors had Read About.

Felix Albert Vogel, the alleged accomplice of the young German, Sigert, who was shot dead by Detective Campbell early in April while he was pursuing an attempt to extort $60,000 from Mrs. Bertha Strasburger by threats to kill Mr. Strasburger and abduct Rosa, Mrs. Strasburger's thirteen-year-old daughter, was put on trial yesterday in the General Sessions. Assistant District Attorney Beecher had selected the indictment for an attempt to rob from the several indictments pending against Vogel. Vogel, a rather short, heavily built young man, with a slight fringe of beard around his stolid face, sat placidly at the bar. His parents in Berlin, who are well-to-do and reputable people, are said to have made liberal remittances to provide for his defence. There was great difficulty in securing a jury, nearly every person called having an opinion, derived from what he had read in the newspapers, about the case. Nine jurors were admitted to the jury box, four of them under challenge for cause, and the District Attorney and the panel of city jurors having been exhausted, a new panel was ordered to be drawn this morning.

Deacon Johnston's Complaint.

Deacon Charles G. Johnston of the Twelfth Street Reformed Church in Brooklyn appeared before Justice Garrett Bergen in the First District Court to prosecute a fellow church member, James McElhinney, on a charge of malicious mischief. Deacon Johnston's complaint alleges that Mr. McElhinney caused a letter signed "Yours in Christ, Mary and John," to be sent to Deacon Johnston's wife warning her that the Deacon was paying untimely visits to a sister in the church who lives in Fifteenth street. Deacon Johnston is tall and dignified, as straight as an Indian, and has massive features, a smooth-shaven face and snowy white hair, cut close. The defendant is a small man, with dark eyes and hair, thin whiskers and moustache. Through counsel he waived examination to go before the Grand Jury. Justice Bergen fixed his bail at $500.

Murder Suspected.

It was supposed in Paterson yesterday that David Cooke, the man who was killed on the Newark branch near Paterson on Saturday night, was murdered, and two umbrella menders were arrested on suspicion. They proved that they were in Carlstadt on Saturday night, and were accordingly released. The inquest was adjourned till to-morrow night. A hat said to have been worn by an umbrella mender who was seen talking with Cooke on Saturday night, was found near the body, and this started the rumor of murder, but nothing further has been discovered to justify such a theory.

Why Powers Got Drunk.

When Patrick Powers was arraigned before Justice Pelouiet in Jersey City, yesterday, on a charge of drunkenness, he told in an unassuming way how he had jumped overboard from a boat on Sunday to rescue a friend. His clothing being wet, he drank some whiskey, and ended by getting drunk.

"Did you save the man?" asked the Justice.

"I did, sor," replied Powers, modestly.

"Then you may go."

As Powers walked out there was a murmur of applause from the court room crowd.

Max Strakosch's Creditors.

Max Strakosch's schedule, in his assignment for the benefit of creditors, filed yesterday, states his liabilities to be $37,400 66, nominal assets about $14,000 and real assets $5,200. Included in his assets are seventy copies of complete scores of operas, valued at $4,000, and wardrobes for many different operas, valued at $10,000. Mr. Strakosch's principal creditors are: Marie Roze, prima donna, $1,816 85; Gustave Torriani, prima donna, $1,600; Anna M. Bellocca, prima donna, $1,528 29; Messrs. Stout & Thayer, for money loaned, $11,010; Chas. Wehle, for legal services, $5,000.
