FASTEST TIME ON RECORD.

CHECKMATE WINS THE GRAND PRIZE OF SARATOGA IN 3:01 1-4.

An Exciting Finish with Bushwhacker Twice Heading Him—Giroflà's Fine Performance—Onondaga Wins the Kentucky Stakes.

SARATOGA, Aug. 6.—Despite the heat, an immense throng of people assembled at the race track today. The first two races were grand. Giroflà, in the dash of a mile and a furlong, repeated her performance at Jerome Park last spring, when she beat a large field with ease. Checkmate won the grand prize after a hard finish with Bushwhacker. He carried 124 pounds over the mile and three-quarters, yet he covered the distance in one and a half seconds faster than it has ever been run before. In the third race the three starters were on level terms when Col. Johnson dropped the flag, but instead of getting away two of them stood still, allowing the other to gain six lengths before they made an attempt to move. The crowd thought that it was an unfair start, and stood on their seats and hissed the Colonel until the race was over. The last race was an easy victory for Knight Templar.

First Race—Purse $400, of which $50 to the second horse, and entrance money of $15 each to be divided between the second and third horses. Allowances for beaten horses and maidens. One mile and a furlong.

Starters—Morris & Patton's Fellowplay, 104 lbs., and Long Taw, 104; W. S. Cree's Mary Anderson, 100; L. A. Lorillard's Valeria, 102; E. T. Stadecker's Giroflà, 100. Betting—6 to 5 against Fellowplay, 7 to 5 against Mary Anderson, 2 to 1 against Giroflà, 3 to 1 against Valeria, 10 to 1 against Long Taw. Pools—Giroflà, $400; Fellowplay, $200; Mary Anderson, $100; Valeria, $50. Giroflà was 4 to 5 against Mary Anderson, 25 to 1 against Sir Walter.

Gabriel cut up his usual antics at the post, and while running and swerving he came too close to Giroflà, and the filly suddenly sent out both hind feet, landing them with a heavy thud on Gabriel's flank. This quieted Gabriel, and the starter was enabled to get the field away in good shape. Long Taw was in front when the flag fell, but Mary Anderson soon took the track, and at the half it stood head to half length, running the furlong in 13 seconds. When the quarter post was reached she drew clear and Gabriel went into second place. Mary Anderson tired at the half and fell away. Gabriel then took up the running with Giroflà and Fellowplay in hot pursuit. Gabriel showed in front for a mile, which he ran in 1:42, and gave way to an attack of Giroflà and Fellowplay. This pair parted company with the remainder of the field and made handsome finish under the whip, Giroflà won by two lengths, with Fellowplay second, Valeria third, Gabriel fourth, Sir Walter fifth, Long Taw sixth, and Mary Anderson last. Time, 1:54½. French pools paid $13.80.

Second Race—The Grand Prize of Saratoga, a handicap sweepstake for all; $50 each, half forfeit, with $1,000 added; the second horse to receive $250, and the third $100 out of the stakes; sixty-six nominations; one mile and three-quarters.

Starters—James McCullough's George McCullough, 112 lbs.; Dr. Crain's Dhu Dhuc, 110; G. L. Lorillard's Aella, 99; R. R. Wilson's Blue Dacker, 86; C. H. Pettingill's Fair Count, 109; James T. Williams's Checkmate, 124; T. W. Lowe's Neufchatel, 96.

Pools—Aella, $715; Checkmate, $700; Fair Count, $365; Blue Dacker, $140; field, $125. Bushwhacker was 4 to 5 against Checkmate, 6 to 5 against Aella, 5 to 1 against Fair Count, 8 to 1 against Blue Dacker, 20 to 1 against George McCullough.

Neufchatel took the track and ran up the chute at a smart pace, attended by Aella and Bushwhacker. Two lengths away came on One Dime, Checkmate, and Geo. McCullough. Fair Count brought up in the rear. Around the turn and into the stretch the order was the same, Neufchatel and Aella travelling like quarter horses. Hobt was taken on Aella at the seven furlongs. Entering on the mile she was running third to Neufchatel and Bushwhacker. On the backstretch Neufchatel still led, with Bushwhacker, One Dime, and Checkmate coming up in the order named. Fair Count, Aella, and Geo. McCullough were out of the race. A blanket could have covered the leaders from the half-mile to the three-quarter post. Checkmate on the outside, gradually moving up, approached the leaders. Straight there were only two horses in the race, Checkmate and Bushwhacker. They made as handsome a finish as ever was seen on a race track. Twice Checkmate forged ahead, and twice Jones urged Bushwhacker up again. Finally, at the finish it looked as though Bushwhacker would win, but Murphy's magnificent riding landed Checkmate a winner by a head and none. One Dime third, Fair Count fourth, Neufchatel fifth, George McCullough sixth, Aella last, coming fifteen lengths behind the fastest one. Time, 3:01¼, the fastest time on record by 1½ seconds. French pools paid $10.

Third Race—Kentucky Stakes for two-year olds, $100 entrance, half forfeit, with $700 added, second horse to receive $200 out of the stakes; three-quarters of a mile. Thirteen nominations.

Starters—Dover Rose, Onondaga, 110 lbs.; Wm. M. Gray's Gilmore, 110; J. Reed's Nightcap, 107.

Pools—Onondaga, $400; Gilmore, $200; Dover Rose, $100. Onondaga was 6 to 5 against the field.

Onondaga went away six lengths ahead, Nightcap and Gilmore an even form. By the time Onondaga reached the head of the chute she led ten lengths, and Nightcap was six lengths in front of Gilmore. Onondaga won by ten lengths, Nightcap second, four lengths in front of Gilmore. Time, 1:16. French pools paid $5.70.

Fourth Race—Purse, $500; entrance, $10; the winner to be sold at auction; selling allowances; one mile.

Starters—Morris & Patton's Knight Templar, 108 lbs.; Jones & Cole's Brooklyn, 108.

Pools—Knight Templar, $300; Brooklyn, $200. Brooklyn was 6 to 10 against Knight Templar, even money against Brooklyn.

Brooklyn went off with the lead, and going around the turn opened a gap on Knight Templar of a length, which, at the quarter post, was doubled. At the half mile there was a scant length between the two horses. Brooklyn fell away very fast going around the north turn, the pace being too hot for him. Abreast the betting stands he came up again under the whip, when Knight Templar was touched by the spur and won by two lengths. Time, 1:42. French pools paid $8.50.

Knight Templar was bought in for $1,505, $105 over the selling price.

BRINGING HOME HIS PRIZES.

The Amateur Athlete Myers Welcomed Back by his Friends.

A delegation of amateur athletes, composed of George W. Carr, George W. Thomas, S. B. Pomeroy, W. Newbrough, William McEwen, P. St. G. Pissell, G. L. M. Sacks, James Magee, Harry Fredericks, Jack White and others, and Mr. S. A. Myers, father of the famous runner, went out to the Narrows yesterday afternoon in a steam propeller to meet Mr. L. E. Myers, who returned from England in the steamship Germanic, in company with Harry E. Price and Thomas A. McEwen.

Vigorous cheering was sent up from the propeller as it drew near the Germanic, the band meantime playing "Hail to the Chief." Mr. Myers, looking sunburned and stouter than usual, appeared on the upper deck of the steamship waving his handkerchief. The propeller drew alongside the Germanic, and the champion short-distance runner was nearly lifted into the propeller by his enthusiastic friends, who cheered lustily. Mr. Myers's little fairbaired cousin, Miss Daisy Kent, handed him a floral pillow with the "Welcome" worked in the centre in carnation pinks. After much hand-shaking and more cheering the propeller returned to the city with Mr. Myers on board. He brought with him two large gold medals awarded for beating the best half and quarter-mile people in England, ten other prizes and a letter from the Amateur Athletic Association of England complimenting him upon his spirit and enterprise. In a talk with a SUN reporter Mr. Myers said: "All the races I won were won without exertion. The Englishmen were considerably astonished as much at my thinness as my swiftness. They called me the 'American ramrod.' I was treated very pleasantly by them; in fact, I believe no Englishman has ever been treated with more consideration by Americans than I have been by the English. The disturbance at the Birmingham games, at which there were over 20,000 visitors, was caused by about 5,000 roughs who had been admitted on sixpence tickets. It could not be attributed in any manner to the managers of the meeting. Previous to my running the English shaffling commenced, saying they would 'beat the cheeky Yanks.' The shaffling seemed to bother Merrill, but I merely laughed at it. After I had beaten their best record they insisted that I was the champion in America that could do it. They took their defeats very good-naturedly. I failed to win the 100 yards race near London, because of the track being down hill. I slipped in the start and could not recover myself. They didn't desire to have the race repeated, telling me they were satisfied with their honors, and did not wish to lessen them. The respectable press treated us with great fairness and courtesy. The Referee, a disreputable sheet, edited by Pendragon, blackguarded us considerably. I never received better general treatment, however, in my life."

Mr. J. K. Emmet and H. H. Honore were among the Germanic's passengers.

Notes of the Stage.

The Windsor Theatre will open on the 15th inst. with "The Galley Slave."

The "Professor" with special attractions in the matter of ventilation, continues at the Madison Square Theatre.

At Bunnell's Museum, on the corner of Ninth street and Broadway, there is a little young person who is an object of great general interest.

To-morrow evening the Union Square Theatre will be opened with a new drama, the venue called "Coney Island, or Little Fifty in Paris." Mr. James W. Collier is the manager, and new scenery by Voelkin and new music by Brennan are promised.

Mr. Augustin Daly will open his popular theatre on Tuesday evening with "Divorce" at Saratoga. The vehicle is to anticipate of his regular season, and for some time to come that will fill the public taste in this warm weather. The company is a good one, an excellent one, including James Lewis and Digby Bell, and Misses Ada Rehan and Laura Joyce.

LOST IN SPACE.

The Melancholy Absorption of Seventy Guests in the Big Rockaway Hotel.

A thousand people or more stood on the end of Pier 6 at twenty minutes past 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon waiting for the Grand Republic to come along and take them down to the opening of the big hotel at Rockaway. The Grand Republic lumbered up to the wharf at 3, being only forty minutes late. All the way down a wind that was akin to a hurricane blew against her starboard quarter and retarded her. Her joints groaned with the tossing she got, and the foam on the beer glasses that were handed out on the fore deck blew over the leeward rail in sheets. It was 5½ o'clock when she made a landing at Remsen's, having passed like a shot by the wharf of the big hotel, which was the spot where her passengers desired to land. To the loud protests of the excursionists the boat's officers grinned pleasantly and responded that that was all right.

"This is the last boat up," they added in stentorian tones, "and she leaves in one-quarter of an hour."

So the passengers did not disembark, and they did not attend the opening of the big hotel. They hooted and jeered, and returned on the steamboat to town.

All, that is except three. These walked a quarter of a mile along the track and then across a desert, athwart which the sand-laden wind charged like a sirocco, to the big hotel. Signs stared the little caravan in the face as they access. Read the western signs—

"Not yet open to the public."

It looked wofully inhospitable. Spots in the Adirondacks resemble it. The little boat hoots of the three little travellers beat a trivial and absurd tattoo as they tripped down the seaward-lying piazza, which is a quarter of a mile long. Five Fifth avenue Hotels set end to end would make the length of this piazza. A guest at the other end looked like a hermit fly. Not a chair or any movable article, save the little caravan and the guest, broke the cold expanse of the vast arcade. The boom of the melancholy surf was echoed from the long expanse of wall and closed and dingy windows.

Midway was an open door, and inside was the mammoth cave which serves as an office. Away off in a corner, fenced in, three Liliputians acted as clerks. They had served seventy guests with rooms. Some 1,450 rooms still remained unoccupied. The keys to all these rooms were contained each one in a pigeon-hole, and a painter, employed under a year's contract, was numbering these in yellow paint. At 6 o'clock he was engaged on the 500th pigeon-hole.

At 6½ the seventy guests were served with dinner. They ate in what is called the east dining room. To one standing at the entrance it looked as if it stretched to China. Several hundred tables afforded ample accommodation for the dining. The guests were grouped close together for sociability and in mercy to the waiters. To hail orally a waiter across this dining room would be absurd. Nothing under a cannon shot would be serviceable to summon him. In was like dining in a plain. The impression on a diner got was melancholy, and without doubt there was some insincerity in the remark of Gen. Husted, he of legislative fame, the receiver of the hotel, who took his dinner there, and who observed that it was charming. A Scotchman would have called it uncanny.

The dinner was good, and cost $1.50. Only one thing was missing, and that was the cake to go with the ice cream, which the chief pastry cook had misplaced somewhere among the vast recesses of the hotel, and which probably will not turn up for two weeks. Something, however, was the matter with the gas, which would not light. After dinner the seventy guests clustered about one of the great varnished posts in the office, and watched the gloaming and listened to the boom-ing of the sea. It was not cheerful. It was not sociable.

It should be said that the day was windy and that at nightfall a cold mist that was bigger even than the big hotel crept over this remarkable caravansary and enshrouded it. It should also be said that the first of the pioneers to write his name in the hotel register was ex-Gov. McCormick of Arizona. The signature runs in lines of strong and daring beauty, and constitutes a magnificent model. Two hundred rooms are promised for the guests who wish them for Monday, and Manager Barnes believes that he will be able triumphantly to throw open the last and 1,500th room of the big hotel in the course of time. The gas was still incapable of ignition when the reporter came away, and it is just possible that the pioneers were constrained to use candles last night to illuminate their pathways about that amazing and almost infinite place.

TWO WOMEN DECEIVED.

The Story of an Alleged Bigamist's Career in Bricksburg and Richmond.

Mrs. Stewart De Hart, a young widow of Bricksburg, N. J., the daughter of a superannuated Presbyterian clergyman, was married in 1875, when she was only 18 years old. Two years later her husband died, leaving her without means of support, and she returned to her father's house. A few months ago she visited some relatives in Jamaica, Long Island. While there she saw an advertisement in the Churchman for a governess. She answered the advertisement, and the advertiser, who gave his name as Alfred T. Marvin, asked for and obtained a personal interview. He seemed charmed with Mrs. De Hart, and while completing the arrangements by which she was to become the governess of his children he made her frequent visits, and finally asked her to marry him. She declined. Marvin was persistent, and she referred him to her father.

When Marvin went to Bricksburg he stopped at the best hotel and spent his money freely. He said he was on the staff of the American Minister to France, and that he was possessed of a handsome fortune in addition to his liberal salary. Mrs. De Hart's father was pleased with him, and permitted him to use his name in gaining the daughter's consent. On learning that her father was in favor of their union, Mrs. De Hart gave a reluctant consent, and allowed her lover to fix an early day for their marriage.

During Marvin's courtship he was frequently called to Washington on duties, he said, connected with the mission to France. He started for Washington a few days previous to the day on which the wedding was to take place, and telegraphed that on account of sickness he would be unable to be in Bricksburg on the day appointed, but would be there as soon thereafter as possible.

On July 9 he telegraphed that he had recovered and would set out on his return that day. He arrived at Bricksburg on the evening of July 9, and the marriage was performed. Marvin and his bride started on their wedding tour. In Washington he deserted her and has not been seen since by her. He, however, telegraphed to her at Washington about two weeks ago asking her to meet him at Asbury Park, at the Grand Avenue House. She went to Asbury Park, but Marvin failed to appear. She then went home to her father's house, where she has since lived.

On Saturday last a despatch from Richmond was published in THE SUN describing how a man who called himself Thomas Marvin, and represented that he was a wealthy widower, had a few days before been married to a respectable young woman in that city, and after starting on a wedding tour deserted her in Albion, N. Y. She, like Mrs. De Hart, had seen the advertisement in the Churchman, and through that had become acquainted with Marvin. In Richmond he was successful in getting a bogus draft on Chicago for $800 cashed at the First National Bank. Last week a telegram from the Richmond police was received in Bricksburg giving a description of Thomas Marvin, who is believed to be the same man who, under the name of Alfred T. Marvin married and deserted Mrs. De Hart.

Several letters from persons in Richmond have been received in Bricksburg, from whom it appears that when Marvin told Mrs. De Hart that he was going to Washington he went to Richmond instead, to visit the young woman there. To her, in turn, he made similar excuses to account for his absence when he went to visit Mrs. De Hart. The letters say that the friends of the deceived young woman in Richmond would lynch Marvin if they could find him. Marvin succeeded in getting considerable money from the friends of both the victimized women.

For a Strangers' Cemetery at Long Branch.

LONG BRANCH, Aug. 6.—In furtherance of the Jewish cemetery project, the Hebrew residents have arranged for a sacred concert, to be held on Sunday, Aug. 14, on the subscription plan. Messrs. J. Seligman, Julius Cardozo, M. Steinberger, L. Phillips, A. Cohen, J. Steinback, and other prominent Jewish residents have charge of the arrangements. Miss Mary Anderson, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Chas. Irving, and Messrs. Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, William Herbermann, M. Adamski, Oliver Doud Byron, and The dore Moss have promised to assist themselves in the matter, and Mr. Butler, the proprietor of the Ocean House, has placed his restaurant, capable of seating 1,000 persons, at the disposal of the management for the occasion. A goodly number of our Christian fellow-citizens have volunteered their services. The burying ground will be known as the "Stranger's Cemetery," and rich and poor, Hebrew and Christian, are to share alike in its benefits.

Another Sachem Snake.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Aug. 6.—Walter Denham, proprietor of a restaurant in Roanoke avenue, near Main street, killed a snake which is supposed to be of the sachem species, as it resembles the one recently killed by A. J. Terrell of this village, which by some was claimed to be a sachem, and by others a specimen of the gray-ribbed sachem, which are seldom found in these parts. The snake, after being killed, was carefully preserved and put up in a bottle in Mr. Denham's saloon, and attracted much attention.

Single Scull Race on the Susquehanna.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 6.—A single-scull race, distance one mile and a quarter for $100 a side, was rowed on the Susquehanna River here today. The contestants were Tim Lenahan of New York and Elmer H. Chase of this city. The latter won. Time, 10 minutes and 30 seconds.

THE YACHTSMEN BEFOGGED.

THICK WEATHER PREVENTING THE RACE FOR THE OSBORNE CUP.

The Rambler and Dauntless Caught in the Fog and Unable to Make Port—Four New Prizes—Vice Commodore Smith's Trial.

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 6.—The race for the Osborne Cup, open to the fleets of the New York, Eastern, and New Bedford Yacht Clubs, from here to Saw and Pigs Lightships, thence to Oak Bluffs, was to have been sailed to-day. At the hour appointed for the start half a gale from the southwest was blowing, accompanied by a thick fog outside the harbor. The yachtsmen, therefore, remained quietly at anchor until noon, when the flagship Dauntless signalled: "All captains on board." Coasters coming in under double reefs reported heavy weather, and it was determined to postpone the start for Oak Bluffs until to-morrow. As to-morrow will be Sunday, the race for the cup will not be sailed until Cape Cod is weathered. The schooners Rambler and Dreadnaught were caught in the fog last night and had to lay pounding outside all night in a heavy sea, but finally relieved all anxiety by coming in under shortened canvas at about 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Skylark left port yesterday morning and has not yet returned.

The Wanderer, in square rig and looking very handsome, joined the fleet this afternoon. The owners of the schooners Dauntless, Estelle, Aristocrat, Madeleine, Clytie, Peerless, and Southern Cross, and the sloops Mischief, Gracie, Vixen, Lizzie, Wileaway, and Rover have positively agreed to go to Boston. The schooners Rambler and Waterwitch and the sloops Coming, Fanny, and others will also probably go. Many will have to go west from Oak Bluffs, but this will still leave a large fleet, to say nothing of the Eastern and New Bedford Club squadrons.

The protests of the Fanny and Gracie, claiming the Buck Cup for sloops in the race yesterday, have been disallowed by the Regatta Committee, and the cup has been awarded to the Mischief. The close racing between these three superb sloops leaves their respective superiority still undecided, and some exciting contests are in prospect further to the eastward. Capt. Ferris of the Fanny is willing to sail a race for a cup valued from $500 up to $5,000. Capt. Liscott of the schooner Social claims a reduction of about twenty minutes on his corrected time in consequence of a mistake of the committee as to his racing length. This, however, will not give him the cup, which goes to the Halcyon, but for a record the committee will probably allow his claim. In addition to the cups already offered, Commodore Wallerstein-day offered two $250 cups for second-class schooners and sloops, and Vice-Commodore Smith offered similar cups for first-class schooners and sloops.

Until Lawrence Jerome came East the keepers of the New London and Plum Island lights were bosom friends. It was, in a fact, a clear case of Damon and Pythias. They are now mortal enemies. He told the New London man a long story of what the Plum Island man had said about him, and sent the latter off in haste after a shotgun. Capt. Church, known as the King of Cuttyhunk, is on the Fanny. Tom Warner told him a long yarn of how Jerome and others had called him a wrecker and pirate, and that he went out at night with false signals and allured vessels ashore, and also that he had over 2,000 tons of coal taken from wrecked vessels. The Captain is highly indignant, and threatens prosecution.

Divine service will be held to-morrow, and Tom Warner is preparing a choice selection of sacred music.

The trial of Vice-Commodore Smith was held this afternoon. An additional charge was made against him that he had not paid his share of the flour on the cruise. Mr. George Bliss withdrew from the defence on the ground that he had not been paid his $5 counsel fee in advance. Mr. Stockwell of Boston took up Mr. Smith's case on the receipt of a $1,000 check. Quirk's Hole Canal seven for century. Mr. John H. Bird presented, and Secretary Minton presided as judge. After a brilliant display of legal protectonics on both sides, the prisoner was found guilty. In consideration of his youth, the sentence was to drink a glass of water without any ice in it. This done, and thus the Vice-Commodore was released from arrest, and ordered to resume his sword and report for duty.

There was boat racing in the fleet this afternoon. In the gig race the Dauntless six, Estelle four, and Active four came in, after a close race, in the order named. In the pair-oared gig race the order of finish was Mischief, Estelle, Julia, Rebecca and Albatross. In the double sculls the order was Peerless, Dauntless, Gracie, and Southern Cross. In the singles the Phantom, Albatross, and Madeline came in together, leaving the course for all races was a mile, with several turns. The first and second crews received $25 and $15 respectively.

The weather to-night is hazy and not promising for fair weather to-morrow. The evening is a lively one for the fleet in the Bay of Dauntless, which, with other vessels in the fleet, is burning minions of all Roman candles, and other illuminating fluids to an excessive extent. As a yachtsman said: "Its been a big racket so far, and you don't forget it." He evidently referred to the cruise.

BASE BALL YESTERDAY.

The Athletics Defeat the Metropolitans for the First Time—Notes of Other Games.

The Athletic team of Philadelphia defeated the Metropolitans at the Polo grounds yesterday for the first time, and though they played a strong game, still the defeat was largely due to the mistake made by the management in playing the experimental team which they usually place in the field. Something, however, was the matter with the gas, which would not light. After dinner the seventy guests clustered about one of the great varnished posts in the office, and watched the gloaming and listened to the booming of the sea. It was not cheerful. It was not sociable.

It should be said that the day was windy and that at nightfall a cold mist that was bigger even than the big hotel crept over this remarkable caravansary and enshrouded it. It should also be said that the first of the pioneers to write his name in the hotel register was ex-Gov. McCormick of Arizona. The signature runs in lines of strong and daring beauty, and constitutes a magnificent model. Two hundred rooms are promised for the guests who wish them for Monday, and Manager Barnes believes that he will be able triumphantly to throw open the last and 1,500th room of the big hotel in the course of time. The gas was still incapable of ignition when the reporter came away, and it is just possible that the pioneers were constrained to use candles last night to illuminate their pathways about that amazing and almost infinite place.

The clerks of the paper houses of Beekman and Dunne streets had a match at base ball at Prospect Park yesterday, which attracted a noteworthy gathering of the paper merchants, the match having been the subject of conversation in paper circles for a week past, especially as the close of the day's proceedings was to be marked by a grand supper at the Sea Beach Palace Hotel at Coney Island. The contest began at 4 P. M. and ended at dark, with a score of 22 to 17 in favor of the Beekman street piece, greatly to the disgust of the Dunne street team, who were sanguine of victory before the game began. The contest was a laughable mixture of good and bad play, the success of the Beekman street team being largely due to the superiority of their "battery." The score was as follows:

Beekman street	4	1	3	5	1	6	2	—22
Dunne street	2	0	5	0	2	8	0	—17

Base hits—Beekman street, 11; Dunne street, 9.

Errors—Beekman street, 10; Dunne street, 24.

The Atlantics yesterday defeated the Domestics at Newark by a score of 18 to 5.

In Chicago—Chicagos, 3; Buffalos, 0.

In Providence—Troys, 3; Providences, 7.

In Boston—Worcesters, 2; Bostons, 7.

In Detroit—Detroits, 6; Metropolitans, 3.

The Metropolitans will play the Quicksteps on Monday, the Atlantics on Tuesday, the Albanys on Thursday, the Troys on Friday, and the Albanys on Saturday.

On the Jasper grounds yesterday the Lord A Taylor Elks was defeated by the A. T. Stewart & Co. nine by 13 to 10, the latter nine taking only eight innings. The James McCreery & Co. nine defeated the W. & J. Sloane nine, 12 to 7.

A Drifting Yacht Race with One Upset.

A regatta of cat-rigged yachts, thirty feet and under, was sailed at New Rochelle yesterday, for four prizes of $100, $50, $40, and $30, provided by citizens of New Rochelle. The course was from a stake boat in Echo Bay, to and around a stake boat off Fort Schuyler Lighthouse, and return, the first, second, and third class yachts to sail the course twice, making twenty miles. The ambient nautical gent was allowed to alter the course. The start was from an anchor, and was made at 1:05 P. M. by the following yachts: First Class—W. F. Hoyt, Dauntless, Dolly, Nellie B. Second Class—Annie, Maggie A. Fairy, and Redwood. Third Class—Lone Star, Gertrude, Anna, Cruiser, and Sophie. Fourth Class—Florence, Dauntless, Presto, Happy Thought, Lucie C. and Genesee.

There was not much breeze for an hour. When the wind freshened the Fairy, Dare, soon distanced her competitors. She led off the starboard off Fort Schuyler at 2:02, and led down the home stretch. On entering Echo Bay the W. F. Hoyts was upset in tiding, the Blanchard packed on her crew. The wind presently died into calm steam, and not half the yachts got in within the prescribed eight hours.

The prizes in the first three classes were the Fairy, Dare, and Redwood, and in the four classes were the Florence, Dare, the Annie, Fairy, the Sophie K., and the Happy Thought, in order.

A METHODIST CABIN LIST.

Sailing of Delegates to the Ecumenical Conference and their Friends.

Hundreds of Methodists were on the Inman line pier, foot of Charlton street, at 1 o'clock P. M. yesterday, when the steamer City of Berlin sailed, having on board fifty delegates to the great Ecumenical Conference to be held in London next month. Besides the delegates were a number of other Methodist clergymen who, together with the relatives and friends of the delegates, swelled the number to 173 Methodists. Only 27 other passengers were on the steamer. Among the passengers were the prominent publisher and ex-pastor, the Rev. Dr. Deney, who was accompanied by his wife and daughter. The delegates on the steamer were the Rev. Dr. Galloway of Oxford, Ga.; the Rev. Dr. W. H. Potter of Atlanta, the Rev. C. R. Williamson of Mobile, Ala.; the Rev. W. R. Cowie of Pittsburgh, the Rev. Dr. Van Anda of Minneapolis, the Rev. Dr. W. X. Nordin of Illinois, the Rev. Dr. C. W. Miller of Lexington, Ky.; the Rev. E. G. Fuller of Atlanta, Ga.; the Rev. W. N. S. Peck of Baltimore; the Rev. Mr. Smart of Mobile; the Rev. Samuel Wilson of Mobile; Wilson Cook of Spartansburg, S. C., and the Rev. V. H. Buckley of the same place.

The two floral pieces which were at the love feast in the old John Street Church last night and other designs in flowers were on the saloon tables.

GAMBETTA'S SPEECHES.

Contradictory Utterances with Respect to the Senate.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times, discussing M. Gambetta's speech at Tours Thursday night, says: "The speech gives no real programme. The chief passages contradict his former utterances. At Cahors he declared that the Senate was one of the supreme resources of the country, and that its Constitution must not be touched, as it was a source of strength. Yesterday he impliedly proposed the abolition of the Senate. Whatever form he engages to modify the mode of the election of the Senate, to interfere with the life Senator, or to deprive the Senate of any influence in financial questions, is virtual abolition. Such striking contradictions are not calculated to elevate the political spirit of the country. It is to be hoped that whatever Mr. Gambetta must take a Ministerial office, and create that homogeneous majority which the country can only elect if it has an avowed and active chief to direct it, and introduce the great reforms he says himself the country wants, and which he has too long left to others the task of providing."

The Paris newspapers, Journal des Débats, the Nineteenth Century, the Paix, and the Parlement, disapprove M. Gambetta's suggestions in regard to the constitution of the Senate.

In Behalf of Bradlaugh.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A deputation from a Liberal club waited on Sir Charles Dilke, Under Foreign Secretary, to request him to vote for a motion of which Mr. Labouchere (Advanced Liberal) has given notice, to expend the resolutions prohibiting Mr. Bradlaugh from taking his seat in the House of Commons. Sir Charles Dilke replied that there is no chance of the Government which takes steps in regard to Mr. Bradlaugh would be considered, but he believed that no attempt would be made this session to alter the Parliamentary oath. He (Sir Charles) would be sorry to argue against that word, which is not nearly so sound vote for it.

A meeting of fifteen thousand people was at Northampton on Sunday to hear Mr. Bradlaugh. Twenty-five men with arms in a sling and was suffering from excitement. He said if his constituency continued to trust him, he would never fail in the duty imposed on him. As he left the meeting the crowd cheered the Member for Northampton, and expressed his determination to wait upon his opponents. The speech was received with great cheering.

British Trade.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Times points out that the accounts of the leading London banks and discount companies, recently published, contrast strangely with the prevailing reports about the depression of trade. In the year ending June, 1881, there has been an increase in the amount of the deposits held by the London joint stock banks, $5,500,000 in the aggregate of the three principal discount companies, with a corresponding increase in loans and discounts, and an increase of £2,500,000 in private deposits in the Bank of England. These facts should do much to put an end to the talk of depression. At the present moment there is no question about the industry of the country being fully employed.

International Fisheries Exhibition.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A meeting was held here yesterday to further the scheme of holding an international fisheries exhibition in London in 1883. The Marquis of Exeter presided. Sir John A. Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, addressed the meeting in support of the scheme. He said he could confidently state that the news that it is intended to hold such an exhibition would be hailed with great pleasure in Canada, where the fisheries are the chief industry. He had no doubt that his colleagues would cordially support the idea. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the exhibition.

The Harvest in France.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Paris correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says: "Accounts of the French harvest are less favorable, and it appears that the yield will be less than last year and scarcely equal to an average one, while the crop would have to be over an average to meet the consumption. The supply will probably be obtained from Russia, and in view of coming exports of wheat the Bank of St Petersburg has been increasing its stock of specie, and it is reported to have 40 special trains worth a fortnight. Three-fourths of this amount reached Paris, and has already been purchased for export to America in September."

The Y. M. C. A. Conference.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—At the farewell meeting today of the World's Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations addresses were made by Sir John Kennaway, member of Parliament, Prof. Stalmann, the Rev. Dr. Hall of New York, and Mr. M. Rowe, chairman of the committee, and others. The convention has been a great success. The sum of $4,000 was pledged to immortalize a work in Great Britain similar to that of the International Committee in America.

The Maimed Land Bill.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Pall Mall Gazette this evening says: "The Land bill as it returns from the House of Lords is maimed and impaired. It is absolutely essential for the sake of England and Ireland, and the Liberals and conservatives, that a measure which the Lords have amended should be passed as it left the House, whatever they have recommended, and not a scheme by men who disapprove of the very principles on which it rests."

Turkey and France.

VIENNA, Aug. 6.—The Porte will deliver a note immediately to the powers endeavoring to remove all ground for cause for misunderstanding with France in regard to Tunis. The occupation of Turkish forces in Tripoli is defended on the ground of the necessity of securing the safety of the Tripolitania.

Agrarian Outrages in Ireland.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—An official return gives the number of agrarian outrages committed in Ireland during the month of July at 236, including 4 firings at persons, 12 assaults, 29 cases of cattle maiming, 155 intimidations, and 35 cases of injury to property.

Fenian Designs on the Prince of Wales.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A rumor is in circulation that the Prince of Wales has been advised not to give dinners on board his yacht at Cowes, which has been the usual custom during his stay at the Isle of Wight, because of supposed Fenian designs.

For the Sportsman's Challenge Cup.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Sportsman invites entries from America or elsewhere for a race for the
