RACING WEEK IN HARTFORD.

The City Overrun with Pickpockets, Thieves, Banko Men, and Other Sharpers.

HARTFORD, Aug. 28.—The past week has been unusually lively in this ordinarily quiet city. The annual horse races always cause some excitement here, but this year there has been an extraordinary amount of stir. With the horse owners, jockeys, racing and betting men, who have met here, there came a crowd of pickpockets, hotel thieves, banko men, and other sharpers, besides a sprinkling of more dangerous criminals; and these have been disporting themselves in reckless style. In anticipation of their arrival the police force was burnished up, and the hotels adopted extra precautions. Nevertheless, it has been a week marked by criminal events.

The most serious of these was the attempt to rob an old man, who has been in the habit of coming here occasionally from his home in the West to visit a son residing in this city. He does not seem to have had anything of great value about him, but was, nevertheless, enticed by a number of sharpers into a room in a private house, where he was so terrified when he discovered into what company he had fallen that he died immediately of an affection of the heart. This was evidently more than the sharpers had looked for, and they fled at once, without attempting to rob the corpse. The body was discovered soon afterward, and wild stories of strangling and chloroforming spread about the city. Within a few hours a number of arrests were made on suspicion, but after investigation, on promises being made of disclosing the names of the real offenders, who are said to be well-known New York confidence men, the prisoners were released, and lost no time in getting away.

A bold attempt at garroting and robbery was also made early last evening in one of the most frequented streets of the city, both the highwaymen and the intended victim being New Yorkers. While one of the robbers seized the object of the assault from behind and attempted to choke him, another struck him a severe blow in the abdomen and helped to force him into an alley beside a small cigar store. Here they struggled with him for the possession of his money. The chance passing of a woman frightened the robbers off. The police were soon looking for them, but the pursuit was not rewarded with success.

Among other incidents recorded yesterday was the stealing of a Bristol man's thousand-dollar diamond pin on the racing grounds. The thieves also went for his pocketbook, containing $600 in currency, and came very near relieving him of it. A Meriden man, D. J. Ripley, at the same time and place, lost a $150 diamond pin. Another victim was W. H. Stanley of New Britain, who had a pocketbook containing checks, papers, and $12 in money stolen. The thieves appropriated the money, and threw the wallet with its other contents upon the ground, where it was soon picked up and restored to its owner. The funniest attempt at pocket picking was that perpetrated on a former Chief of Police on the cars. The pickpocket was detected in the act. Besides these cases of pocket picking, there were probably a larger number of which the particulars could not be made public without giving away staid people who would not like to be mentioned as having attended a betting horse race.

Sneak thieving in the hotels has also been booming. In the Park Central Hotel a $600 case of felonious appropriation is reported to have occurred. Two friends occupied the same room, and one of them rising early went out without arousing his companion and without locking the door. During his absence the room was entered and the sum named, in Canadian money, disappeared. From the City Hotel a $500 theft is reported. In the United States Hotel, although a policeman has been on guard every night, several rooms are reported to have been entered, but owing to the vigilance of the inmates nothing of value was taken. In the Brower House a detective was engaged as soon as the crowd began to pour in, and he has been on the watch the whole week.

Combined with the overflowing condition of most of the hotels, the crowds on the streets at night, the women flaunting about, the fast teams, the turning out of all the livery stable stock, the extra work in the telegraph offices, the spectacle of cool fellows pulling out big rolls of bills to pay for cigars, drinks, and bets, the pool-selling, and thronged billiard rooms—all this has given this respectable city during the past week an air of dissipation that makes many doubt whether the possession of a fine trotting ground is an unmixed advantage.

The Connecticut Peace Union.

MYSTIC, Conn., Aug. 26.—The Connecticut Peace Union's annual Convention, at Mystic Grove, on the bank of the Mystic River, was attended by several thousand persons. Addresses were delivered by Edwin H. Coates, the Rev. Henry S. Clubb, Thomas Elwood Longshore, Mrs. Sarah A. Russell, Hamilton Willcox, Zachariah Crouch, Miss Clara Hammond, and others. The resolutions demand international arbitration and a general disarmament, denounce the projected military displays and sham battles at the Yorktown and Groton centennials, protest against the operations of the Irish in this country, declare the attack on the President to be an outgrowth of the spirit of the war and of the carrying of deadly weapons, thank Mayor King of Philadelphia for seeking to stop the carrying of such weapons, and suggest the establishment of professorships of arbitration in colleges.

An Alleged Bigamist's Career.

NEWTOWN, Aug. 27.—In December, 1874, Frank Bell, then an engineer on the Long Island Railroad, married Miss Mary Hilland, the only daughter of Joseph Hilland of this village. The young man at that time was held in high esteem. Two years after he abandoned his wife and child. Four years ago he returned, and expressed repentance and a desire to live with his forsaken wife and child. He again became respected in the community, but once more disappeared. He was not heard from again until a few weeks ago, when his wife received information that he had married again, and was living in the central part of the State. It has since been learned, it is said, that he has married at least three women, all of whom are living. The friends of wife No. 3, who live near Troy, are prosecuting him for bigamy.

Wethersfield Again the Banner Onion Town.

WETHERSFIELD, Aug. 27.—Sixty years ago Wethersfield was noted for its onions. Of late years, however, some of the towns of Fairfield County have taken the lead in raising this fragrant vegetable. This season Mr. C. Adams and son of this town carefully measured off 110 rods of land with a view of planting it with onions, to see if the soil of Wethersfield was as good for this vegetable as that of Fairfield County. Off of this 110 rods of land they raised and shipped 165 barrels of onions. This is at the rate of 600 bushels to the acre. This has never been beaten in the State, so it is said, and Wethersfield once more claims the banner as being the best town in the State to raise onions.

Trouble from a Buried Arm.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 27.—George Rae, an employee of the New York and New England Railroad, lost his arm recently by an accident, and it was buried. Afterward he was troubled by the seeming cramping of his fingers on the side where the arm once was. He felt the pain as though the arm and fingers were there. A friend suggested that he dig up the buried arm. He did so, and found that the fingers were cramped the same as he said he felt they were. They were put in proper condition and the arm again buried. He was relieved of the pain immediately and has suffered no more since.

Missionary Work Among Colored Youth.

The Young Men's Union Christian Association, a body incorporated for the purpose of missionary work among the colored youth of this city, has made an appeal for financial aid in securing a suitable building. The need is more urgent for such an institution, says the appeal, than the demand for penitentiaries, "because the preventing influences are superior to the curing effects of our prisons." The officers of the association announce that President R. R. Sherman of the Mechanics' National Bank, 23 Wall street, will receive subscriptions for the object set forth in the appeal.

Did Not Think of the Telegraph.

Saturday morning W. Westway's stable at Fort Hamilton was robbed of a $50 set of harness, and the fact was telegraphed to the Third avenue police station. Policeman Tremont soon afterward captured William Smith of 203 Centre street, Brooklyn, in Third avenue, on his way to the city with the harness in a bag. Smith was surprised at his capture, and he wanted to know how the police learned that the harness was stolen.

"By telegraph," said the policeman.

"—— the telegraph," said the prisoner, with a gesture of impatience. "I never thought of that."
