IRISH REVOLUTIONISTS.

The Dynamite Committee in Session Beneath the Feet of a Merrymaking Throng.

The annual assembly of the Irish Revolutionary Brotherhood was held in Jones's Wood yesterday afternoon and evening. Extensive preparations had been made for the reception of the various organizations which had promised to attend. The committee, of which John Laffin was President, Geo. Spearman Vice-President, and J. T. Brennan Secretary, with their assistants, were early on the ground. Delegates from the Irish Republican Brotherhood, United Irishmen, Irish Skirmishers, the Fenian Brotherhood, and the Clan-na-Gael were present.

O'Donovan Rossa made his appearance on the grounds at about sunset. The following, which was printed in the Chicago newspapers some time ago, was shown to him by a SUN reporter:

"Americans and friends of Ireland are hereby warned against embarking upon any vessel flying the British flag after Thursday, Sept. 1.

"Many may reach their destination, but none are safe.

"Per order of the Central Committee."

Mr. Rossa said: "That notice was not published by order of the Dynamite Council, although it is in consonance with its intentions. It is probably the act of a Chicago club, and is perfectly proper. Any club has the right to do as it pleases, so long as it does not conflict with the central authority."

"Do you think there is any danger to outgoing English steamships?"

"That I must decline to answer. Mum's the word; but we don't want to take life. We are tired of having Ireland bez England to right her wrongs, and now we propose to force England to do it."

"Is there to be a meeting of the Brotherhood to-night?"

"Yes, but it will be secret, and for prudential reasons the reporters will not be admitted."

"Will the meeting take any action in regard to the proclamation issued in Chicago?"

"If I were to tell you what we are going to do there would be no necessity to have a secret meeting. If the proclamation has been issued in Chicago it will be communicated to the various branches of the Brotherhood throughout the United States. The Brotherhood here is in affiliation with the organization in Ireland and England. In fact, it is one and the same organization, and has for its object the freeing of Ireland. The main object of this reunion is to raise funds to help on the cause."

"Will the secret meeting to-night ratify the decision made by the Dynamite Council in this city some weeks ago?"

"As to that I cannot say. The meeting will be strictly secret."

J. T. Brennan, one of the committee, was asked whether the Brotherhood in this city approve the action of the Chicago organization. He replied that if the proclamation meant to intimate that such vessels would be blown up by dynamite or any other explosive, then most decidedly the proclamation would not be endorsed. "We are not making war upon peaceable and inoffensive people, and passenger steamships are not war vessels," he added.

The Wood was full of Irish men and women at night. They seemed to enjoy the dancing and music as thoroughly as though the Dynamite Committee had not been in secret session in an apartment under their very feet.

Financially the assembly was a success, and $1,500 will probably be added to the fund.

ROBBING HIS BENEFACTOR.

A Mean Thief, who, Though he Returned to Germany, Did Not Escape.

About two months ago, Francis Michaelson, migrated from Germany to this country, bringing with him a friend named Paul Goetz, who was too poor to pay his own passage. On arriving here Michaelson immediately obtained employment in Hoboken, but Goetz, who had agreed to repay the borrowed passage money out of the wages he should earn in America, showed no desire to work, and seemed to be content to live at his companion's expense.

When Michaelson returned to his lodgings in Hoboken on the evening of July 5 he found that Goetz had disappeared, taking with him all of his Michaelson's savings, amounting to about $13. The third left in a rage, saying that he did not much admire America, and had taken the money to pay his fare back to his native land. Michaelson, on the other hand, claimed that the money had been broken on that day were searched. Although there was positive evidence that Goetz was on board one of the vessels, his place of concealment could not be discovered.

Michaelson then returned to his native village, informing her of what had happened, and directing her to cause Goetz's arrest if he returned to his home. Immediately after the ship's arrival in Germany the fellow was seen skulking from between decks, and was arrested.

Swans, Ducks, and Rats in Prospect Park.

Out of 21 swans sent to Prospect Park five years ago from Germany, only four are alive, and the Commissioners do not expect to have these long, as the stagnant waters in the park do not agree with the swans. Swans require clear, cool, running water, and they are fond of the seeds, succulent plants and herbs that grow along the brink of streams. The chief food in the park consists of peanuts, crackers, and bits of bread thrown to them from the bridge. Ten swans died last year and as they are expensive, they have not been replaced. There are 34 Chinese geese and 25 Egyptian geese in the park lake. The latter have brilliant plumage, while the former are pure white. A wild duck has joined the flock of tame ducks in the pond at the Lullwater. A mink that infests the small hole in the deer paddock ate some South American rats, which have their home in a well near the duck pond. They resemble a muskrat and are the size of a large kitten. They were presented by Mr. Jay V. Culver, the Chief Engineer of the park, about a year ago, by a Brooklyn man. They have attracted a number of domestic rats that have nests under the bridge.

Slapping a Dead Man on the Shoulder.

Abram Messler, a clerk for Robert E. Parsons, druggist, in Main street, Orange, went to the store yesterday morning at 7 o'clock. The store had usually been opened before that hour by the night clerk, James Coyle, who slept in the place, but Messler this time found the door closed. He unlocked it, and, going in, saw Coyle standing in front of a sink. He was bending over, so that Messler thought that the man was sorry in the sink. Messler went in and slapped him on the shoulder. Then Messler received that his friend was dead. Coyle was 24 years old and had been in Mr. Parsons's employ six weeks. About four years ago Coyle kicked a small boy in the hip and caused his death. He was exonerated after an official investigation, but the memory of the lad's suffering and death was always painful to him. He was engaged to be married to a young woman in Newark. It is said the engagement was broken off by the young woman a week before his death. As the cause of the young man's death is apparent, County Physician Hewlett will make a post-mortem examination.

Facts from the Flatbush Asylum.

Dr. John C. Shaw, Superintendent of the Asylum for the Insane at Flatbush, says in his annual report that it is apparent that in the last five years there has been a gradual diminution of the proportion of persons becoming insane. There are now 868 patients in the asylum, 539 being females and 329 males. The asylum is complained of as overcrowded, and he urges the erection of six cottages upon land near the asylum, so that the quiet, convalescent patients, who require every care to prevent a relapse, need not be herded with noisy patients. He wishes to give the milder patients occupation, and says that he has demonstrated that they are happier and quieter when occupied. He says the patients have cultivated from five to eight acres more than ever before. Dr. Shaw asks for cheap pictures for the patients' rooms, so as to make them more cheerful. Dr. Shaw has practiced non-restraint for 14 years. Of 482 patients admitted during the year 192 were married, 182 single, 38 widows, 12 widowers, and three divorced.

The Case of Little Annie Fair.

The case of the child Annie Fair, whose custody her mother is seeking to obtain by writ of habeas corpus, was before Judge Donohue in Supreme Court Chambers, yesterday, upon a motion to confirm the report of Mr. William Sinclair, to whom the matter had been referred. The child, who had been committed to the Catholic Protectory, was by that institution placed upon trial with the Hall family, of Matamoras, Pike county in Pennsylvania, preliminary to being indentured. Mr. Sinclair reported that, as articles of indenture had not been executed, the child was constructively in the custody of the Protectory, and exclusive jurisdiction, for the most, claimed that the child should be surrendered back by the officers of the Protectory. Ex-Judge Spencer, for the institution, said they were placed in a position to asy proceedings by the mother to get her child from Mr. Hand, but contended that the Protectory should not be required to produce the child here. Judge Donohue reserved his decision.

A Sequel to Mary Hammel's Imprisonment.

After Caroline C. Allen was convicted and sentenced to the Kings County Penitentiary for cruel treatment of Mary Hammel, whom she kept in prison in the old Tenants mansion, on Flushing Meadows, J. H. Inness, as counsel for Mary Hammel, instituted proceedings in the Supreme Court to set aside a deed from Miss Hammel to Mrs. Allen of property including a house in Lower Grove, Newtown, Long Island, which had been left Miss Allen T. Hoyt, and the testimony taken by him went to show that Mrs. Allen procured the deed and possession of it to Miss Hammel for her signature, and that Miss Hammel signed it without any knowledge of its contents and through fear and compulsion. In accordance with the referee's report, Judge Barnard has declared the deed void and void.

Discovering that her Husband was a Thief.

Justice Barnard yesterday appointed John G. Law as referee to take testimony in the suit instituted by Rosa Conley against her husband, John Conley, to annul their marriage. The plaintiff is still a minor and sues through her guardian. She says that when she married Conley he represented that he was in good business, and was doing well. After her marriage she discovered that he was a thief, that he was convicted of larceny and sent to the Kings County penitentiary, where he is now serving a term. Conley has served with the complaint in the suit in prison.

Hiding Money in his Mouth.

John O'Neil of 275 Third street, Brooklyn, was arrested on Saturday by the Flagg street police on a charge preferred by a negro, Lulie, that he had stolen $8 from her. He denied the charge of theft, and said that the police could search all his pockets. The search disclosed no money in his pockets, but there seemed to be an impediment in his speech which led Policeman Corbett to examine the prisoner's mouth. A wad of money containing $7 was found pressed against the inside of his cheek. His sister withdrew the complaint in Justice Skinner's court.

Accused of Theft from his Employers.

Edward H. Pennington, 22 years old, a clerk for Laflin and Rand powder manufacturers in Sullivan, disappeared about two weeks ago. At about the same time the firm missed $600. Pennington was in Philadelphia and enlisted in the army. He was sent to Davids Island, where he was yesterday arrested. He was taken up in the Police Central Office.

OBENDINGER'S BRIDE.

Complaining to the Police of a Beating the Day After the Marriage.

Less than four weeks ago William J. Lydecker, a well-known saloon keeper, at 111 Springfield avenue, Newark, died of consumption. He left a wife and five small children, and his wife continued the business. Among her many daily customers was a German fresco painter, named Henry Obendinger, who silently admired the activity of the widow as he sat in her saloon and sipped his beer while reading the daily papers. On Friday evening he proposed marriage to Mrs. Lydecker and was accepted. The widow informed her suitor that she had five children, but that her business was good and she had money in the bank, which she promised to share with him after marriage.

Obendinger urged her to name an early day, and the marriage was celebrated soon after the ceremony. Early on Saturday evening the Rev. George Schambach married the couple, in the presence of a few friends. A joyful reception followed. On Sunday the couple quarrelled, and the wife says her husband beat her. Then she avers he went to his room, packed his trunk, took a purse containing nearly $30 from under her pillow, and, taking the trunk to a neighboring store, left for parts unknown. Mrs. Obendinger went to Police Headquarters and told her story. She said she wanted a divorce, as she has been informed that her husband was crazy, and she did not care to live with him.

Mr. Field's Purchase.

The Washington Hotel, at Broadway and Battery place, was sold by auction yesterday in the Exchange Salesrooms, 111 Broadway, to Mr. Cyrus W. Field for $167,500. Mr. Field has also purchased from the Astors the property between the rear of the hotel and Greenwich street, for which it is understood he paid about $80,000. The two lots have a frontage of 66 feet 2 inches on Broadway, 171 feet 11 inches on Battery place, and 65 feet on Greenwich street. It is Mr. Field's intention to build a fireproof fire-proof building of iron upon the lots. The cost of the building is estimated at $500,000. It is understood that a part of the building will be leased as a hotel, that the Mail will have its quarters in the hotel building, and that the rest will be fitted up and leased as offices. The name given to the present hotel building in honor of the man that it was once occupied by George Washington will doubtless be retained.

The Excise Board Defending Liquor Dealers.

The Excise Board has authorized its counsel, Col. Fellows, to defend to-day in the Marine Court the liquor dealers who are summoned there for trial for alleged violation of the liquor law, at the instance of the Law and Order Society, on the ground that the court has no jurisdiction.
