GRIZEL COCHRANE.

When the tyranny of the last King James drove his subjects to take up arms against him, one of the most formidable enemies to his dangerous usurpation was Sir John Cochrane, one of the most prominent actors in Argyle's rebellion. For ages a destructive doom seemed to have hung over the house of Campbell, enveloping in a common ruin all who united their fortunes to the cause of the chieftains. The same doom encompassed Sir John Cochrane.

He was surrounded by the king's troops—long, deadly and desperate was his resistance; but at length, overpowered by numbers, he was taken prisoner, tried, and condemned to die upon the scaffold. He had but a few days to live, and his jailer only awaited the arrival of his death warrant to lead him forth to execution. His family and his friends had visited him in prison, and exchanged with him the last, long and heart yearning farewell. But there was one who came not with the rest to receive his blessing—one who was the pride of his eyes and of his house—even Grizel, the daughter of his love.

Twilight was casting a deeper gloom over the gratings of his prison-house; he was mourning for a last look of his favorite child, and his head was pressed against the cold, damp wall of his cell, to cool the feverish pulsations that shot through it like strings of fire, when the door of his apartment turned slowly on its unwilling hinges, and his keeper entered, followed by a young and beautiful lady.

"My child! my own Grizel!" he exclaimed, and she fell upon his bosom.
"My father, my dear father!" sobbed

THE BLACK AND TAN.

A Little Girl's Horrible Death From Hydrophobia.
From the New York Herald, 11th.

After nearly three days of excruciating suffering a little girl, Ida May Drayton, who lived on Jersey City Heights, succumbed yesterday to an attack of hydrophobia. She was about four years of age and was the daughter of a baker on Bergen avenue. On Sunday, June 5, she was going along Communipaw avenue with her father when she stopped to pet a little black and tan dog on the sidewalk. The child was very fond of dogs and unfortunately could not resist the temptation to stroke every strange one that came in her way. This cur sprang at her face and bit her upon the nose and lip. The wounds bled profusely as they carried the child to the office of Dr. Wilkinson near by, but he bound them up and gave the father some cauterizing wash, and in a few days the wounds had been healed and forgotten. The dog was a black and tan, and was shot by a policeman soon after it had bitten the child. It was not supposed to be anything more than vicious, and certainly no one imagined that the injuries inflicted upon the child would develop into a terrible case of hydrophobia.

So it did, however, upon last Friday morning. On Thursday the child paid a visit to Central Park, where she romped with all the eagerness of apparently perfect health. On Friday morning, before leaving her bed, she asked for a glass of water, but when it was brought to her she went into a sudden convulsion and alarmed her parents so that they removed her to the house of her grandmother, on Barrow street, where she could have careful attendance and where Dr. Wilkinson was promptly summoned. Between her spasms the little thing played about the house, but the sight of anything which suggested the thought of swallowing drove her into immediate convulsions.

Even the movement of a fan in the room had the same effect. The parents seemed to realize the true state of affairs from the beginning, and Dr.

Wilkinson pronounced it hydrophobia after his first examination. As he had never treated a case of the kind, he called in the advice of Dr. Wilson, of Jersey City, who has had considerable experience with the dread disease, and Sure Cure for Gapes in Chickens.

With the exception of the fatal chicken cholera, there is no disease so disastrous to the interest of the rearer of chickens as the "gapes," popularly so called. This disease, common to many gallinaceous birds, as the domestic fowl, turkeys, partridges, pheasants, etc., is owing to the presence of a round worm in the windpipe.

The general form of this internal parasite is of bright red, wavy, cylindrical worm, one end forked with two unequal branches, at the other end tapering to a tail. The whole length is about one inch.

These worms, when existing in the windpipe of the young chicken in considerable numbers, produce first, inflammation from their irritation, and if not removed, increasing in size, soon cause death from suffocation.

Try It Once.
Lay aside skepticism or prejudice, and test the merits of Morley's T-X-S Tonic Cordial the great system renovator, for Dyspepsia, General Debility, etc., etc. Rich and poor, old and young high and low, all with one accord pronounce it the king of remedies, the best Blood Purifier, and Bowel Regulator and great Tonic on earth.

It is a mistake when Medicines recommended for Kidney, Bladder and Urinary complaints are all classed as remedies exclusively for diseases of questionable nature. Every one of common sense knows that their complaints are as legitimate and common to both sides in all classes of society, as those involving any other portion of the system. And if afflicted you make a great mistake in not trying Morley's Compound Fluid Extract, as it is the most remarkably successful remedy extant for these diseases.

Save your Fowls.
Kays Kentucky Kondition Powders in their feed occasionally will cure the gapes and chicken cholera. Keep them free from insects and in good condition. Ask your druggist for it, or send the price 25cts to Morley Bros.,

A Device of the Smugglers.

A Washington special to the Chicago Tribune says: A novel device in smuggling has recently come to the notice of Colonel Alexander, the fifth auditor of the treasury. Sometime ago a vessel laden with lumber somewhere in Texas was despatched to one of the Mexican gulf ports, but for some reason she could not make her destination and discharged her cargo upon the beach some sixteen miles distant. After a time the American consul, or some one acting for him, evidently not well informed of the affairs of the vessel's owners, sold the lumber on their account and sent the money to the treasury department. The lumber was sent by its purchaser to a sawmill, and the first log was placed in position to be cut into boards. The saw had penetrated only a few inches when there began to appear upon its teeth shreds of clothing, and finally it became fast and refused to move further. An investigation disclosed the fact that the log had been made hollow by boring, and had been filled with clothing and other durable material and then plugged up.
The vessel was seized by the Mexican government, but being worm-eaten and worthless was abandoned, the captain making his escape. The question before the treasury is in regard to the sale of the lumber. It is claimed by the owners of the vessel, and also by the crew, who aver that they were not paid for their services.

What She Called Him.

A well-known educationalist yowles for the truth of the following: A teacher in a lower grade in one of our public schools received a new pupil the other day—a little miss of six or seven years, named, say Mattie Brown. After taking her name for the school rolls according to the custom, the teacher said:
"What is your papa's name, Mattie?"
"Mr. Brown."
"Yes, but what is his first name?"
"Don't know—his name is just Mr.
Brown."
"Yes, yes—I know," then as a bright idea struck her, "what does your mama call him?"
"O! I know what you mean now," the innocent child replied; "as she calls him a darned old fool!" It is safe to conclude that the teacher did not register the child's father as J.
O. F. Brown.—Rochester Union.

ABANDONED.

We perceive by one of our Massachusetts exchanges that Dr. Lorenzo Waite, of Westfield, an eminent physician of Berkshire Co. strongly indorses St.
Jacobs Oil. With it he cured a case of Sciatica that resisted all regular professional treatment, and that had in fact been abandoned as incurable.

Intense Competition.

There is an immense competition among the various claimants, of the honor and prize for the discovery of the great comet. Letters and telegrams from every part of America, come pouring in to Mr. H. H. Warner, proprietor of the well-known Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and founder of Warner's Observatory, Rochester, N. E. New applicants are coming forward each day, and it seems likely that the test will be a severe one, and require most careful decision.

Our City Druggist report an immense sale of St. Jacobs Oil, saying the demand is based upon the popularity of its success. Wherever it has been used, it has proved its value a thousand fold, and receives its best encomiums from those who have tried it.

A Testament Reviser's Opinion.

The eminent author, Prof. A. C.
Kendrick, D. D., LL. D., who is professor of Hebrew, Latin and Greek in the University of Rochester, and was one of the revisers of the New Testament, in general conversation with a number of gentlemen, a short time since said: "I have received from the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure very marked benefit and I can most cordially recommend it to others."

The inmates of a boarding-house in West Fourteenth street are nightly disturbed by a ghost. He appears as a big fat man, and then gradually dissolves in stature until he finally dissolves into nothingness. It is believed that he is the spirit of a boarder who lived in the house for a number of years.—

The New York Herald contains some queer advertisements. One landlady, innocent of grammatical knowledge, advertises that she has "a fine, airy, well-furnished bedroom for a gentleman twelve feet square;" another "has a cheap and desirable suite of rooms for a family in good repair;" still another has "a hall bedroom for a single woman 8x12."

If the men were as silent about their ages as the women, we shouldn't hear so many army reminiscences as we now do. The ladies are worthy being patterned after in this regard.—Boston
