GROPING AFTER THIEVES.

Two Intruders Trapped in the Cellar of a House which they had Ransacked.

A dark lantern, a six-chambered revolver of unusually large calibre, a hatchet, and a thick blue veil were placed in front of Justice Smith in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday when Charles Green, a negro, and Charles Willson, a white man, were arraigned to answer a charge of burglary. The prisoners had the appearance of desperate characters, and had been brought to court handcuffed together. At 2 o'clock yesterday morning Roundsman Brady of the Mercer street station arrested them in the cellar of the residence of Mrs. M. J. Andrus at 20 West Ninth street, where they had concealed themselves in the air chambers of the furnace. At 11 o'clock on Tuesday evening, the family having retired, William J. Andrus, aged 20 years, the son of Mrs. Andrus, locked up the house and went to bed. Toward 10 o'clock he was awakened by footsteps in the hallway adjoining his room. He got up and, going to the door, listened. The stairs leading to the basement creaked as though some one were descending. The young man hastily dressed, and, taking a revolver from a drawer, went down stairs to find out who was there. There was no light in the basement, and he groped his way toward the mantel in quest of a match. Before he reached it a slight noise in the direction from which he had come attracted his attention. He turned his head and listened. A glare of light from a dark lantern was flashed into his eyes. The next moment it was gone, and the room was again in darkness. Andrus tried to cock his revolver, but could not raise the hammer. It had not been oiled for months, and the works had rusted. He stood motionless, considering what to do. The latch of the cellar door clicked, and the hinges creaked as though the door was being gently opened. There was a noise made by some one descending to the cellar. Some coal rattled as though being trod upon. Then all was quiet.

Andrus advanced noiselessly to the door of the cellar, which he both locked and bolted. He then went up stairs and roused a young man who boards in the house. He told him what had occurred, asked him to watch the front of the house, so that the men in the cellar could not escape through the coal chute, and then went for a policeman. Roundsman Brady passed the house a few moments later, and was called in by the boarder. He obtained a light and went into the cellar. To all appearances no one was there. After a short search Willson and Green were found hidden in the air chambers of the furnace. Willson had the upper part of his face concealed by a blue veil. He held a revolver in his right hand. Green grasped a hatchet. The roundsman told them that they were in a trap and ordered them to throw up their hands. He then disarmed them. In the furnace were a dark lantern and a package of clothing and jewelry, worth several hundred dollars, which had been taken from rooms in the upper stories. Andrus soon arrived with Roundsman Clark and Policeman Sullivan, and the prisoners were removed to the Mercer street station. Willson admitted his guilt, while Green claimed that he was innocent. They made similar pleas to Justice Smith, who committed both for trial. The police say that Willson is a thief, and has been arrested many times. Several years ago he was employed by Mrs. Andrus as a servant.

NEW YORK'S SOUTHERN COMPETITOR.

The Erie Canal versus the Mississippi River—Arguments for a Free Canal.

Messrs. Williams, Forster, and Murtha, of the Senate committee appointed to ascertain the best methods of increasing the business of the State canals and of diminishing the cost of transportation, met yesterday at 33 Pearl street. A. B. Miller presented a paper urging the abolition of canal tolls and of the office of Canal Auditor, and the restoration of the duties of that office to the Comptroller's Department; the removal of weigh locks, piers, and other obstructions; the deepening of the canals two feet, and the adoption of improved vertical and outward opening gates, operated by power.

E. R. Livermore of the Produce Exchange said the toll system caused the diversion of grain to Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Orleans, Boston, and Montreal.

"The Mississippi River route," Mr. Livermore said, "is our strongest competitor. Many railroads are disposed to carry grain South rather than East. It has been urged heretofore that nothing need be feared from Southern competition, as enterprise was lacking in the South, and that the overheating of grain in the hot climate impaired its value. These objections amount to nothing now. There is great activity in the South, and millions of capital are being invested to obtain the New York trade. The overheating of grain is prevented by improved facilities. The South is awake and aggressive, and, unless we abolish all tolls on our canals, our grain trade will certainly be lost. The tariff in 1875 was two cents per bushel; now it is one cent. Twenty-nine million bushels of grain was transported in 1875. Four years later, after the reduction of the toll, 69,000,000 bushels was transported. If the canals are not made free, real estate in this city will be depreciated 50 per cent., and thus an increased tax will be thrown upon the country districts. With free canals, the receipts of grain at New York would be at once doubled."

Mr. A. R. Gray of the Produce Exchange believed the canals should be deepened, and otherwise agreed with Mr. Livermore. Mr. Edward Annan, of Hazelton & Annan, floating elevators, said that any canal toll, however small, would have a disastrous effect upon the commerce of this city. Mr. Herman Armour of 129 Broad street said the grain trade from Chicago through the Mississippi route had been steadily increasing, and this year it was double what it had been the year before. The capital furnished for maintaining the Southern trade came from people living along the Mississippi River and in the interior.

The investigation will be concluded to-day.

OPENING THE FAIR.

The American Institute to Commemorate its Semi-Centennial by a Special Medal.

The fiftieth American Institute fair was opened in the Rink yesterday afternoon. Exhibitors, with an army of workmen, were getting their wares in position, and the noise of saws and hammers almost drowned the speeches with which, as usual, the fair was opened.

President Nathan C. Ely, with the Hon. Orlando B. Potter and the trustees and managers of the fair, were on a raised platform in the centre of the building. In his opening address President Ely said that the American Institute fair had grown wonderfully since its beginning in one small room, until now buildings covering forty city lots were insufficient to accommodate exhibitors. Mr. Potter also made an address.

The building is to be lighted at night by seventy-four electric lights. The motive power for the machinery entered for exhibition is supplied by two large engines. In honor of the semi-centennial a special gold medal has been struck, and is to be awarded for such exhibits of more than usual value as shall be recommended by three judges, approved by a majority of the Board of Managers and confirmed by the trustees.

Arbuckle's famous Ninth Regiment Band, with Arbuckle as conductor and cornet soloist, will furnish music every afternoon and evening. The fair will close on Nov. 26.

Another Victim of Wall Street.

Charles Baxter, who was the junior partner in the firm of Josef Scheina & Co., manufacturers of clocks at 817 West Nineteenth street and at 144 Centre street, suddenly disappeared last Saturday, and is reported to have fled the country, taking a large amount of money belonging to the firm during the past year. It is said that he had been speculating in Wall street, and had also lost heavily in mining stocks. His partner is unable to learn the extent of his losses, as the fugitive took the cash book and ledger with him. A despatch has been received from him in Canada, in which he said he was about to sail for Europe. Mr. Scheina says that Baxter has falsified the pay rolls, and has taken, so far as he has been able to learn, at least $10,000, and the amount may be greater, as he does not know what notes may come in from Wall street. He has published the dissolution of the firm, and has taken measures to protect the legitimate creditors by giving a chattel mortgage covering the machinery for $5,000 to the Bridgeport Brass Company, which will more than pay all the debts.

Unearthing a Skeleton.

W. H. Erich, a manufacturer of cigar boxes at 311 East Eleventh street, has been making some excavations for the purpose of putting machinery into a portion of his premises that had formerly been a stable. Yesterday morning, when the workmen had dug to a depth of about nine feet, they came upon a black walnut coffin in perfect preservation, bearing silver plate with the single word "Rebecca upon it." Policeman Inskeep of the Fifth street station was summoned, and the coffin being pried open, was found to contain the skeleton of a woman. She had been apparently five feet two inches tall, and it was conjectured that she died young. A white silk cloth was bound around the head, and another around the neck. The bones were sent to the Morgue and the silver plate was taken to the Fifth street station. The ground in which the skeleton was discovered formerly belonged to St. Mark's Cemetery.

A Church for Coney Island.

The articles of incorporation of the Brighton Chapel Association, the object of which is to build a free chapel on the Boulevard, near Brighton Beach, were filed yesterday. The trustees are C. C. Overton, E. R. Abbott, James H. Scribner, Edward L. Kelly, John A. Schnell, G. J. Schnell, and J. Schnell, Jr. The chapel is to contain 500 seats, and a minister of any denomination invited by the trustees may preach in it.

MATCHES FOR THE MADGE.

Three Races Already Arranged with the English Cutter, and Others to be Made.

There is much interest in yachting circles over arrangements just concluded for three races with the celebrated English racing cutter Madge, in the latter part of this month, and the certainty of other matches in October. The New York Yacht Club had no yachts small enough to be matched against the Madge, but the Seawanhaka Club has spiritedly taken up the challenge, and will sail a series of three races for three silver cups. The races will be sailed on Sept. 20, 21, and 22. They will be over the regular club course, from off Fort Wadsworth to and around Sandy Hook Lightship and return, or, possibly, from the starting point to outer Gedney Channel buoy, situated west by north, one-eighth north from the bar whistling buoy. The yachts selected will be of the pure American broad-beamed, centreboard, light-draught type, as opposite to the deep keel, narrow English cutter as can be imagined.

The Wave is named for the first race. She is a centreboard sloop, 41 feet 3 inches over all, and 38 feet 7 inches on the water line, 14 feet 11 inches beam, 4 feet three inches depth of hold, and 4 feet draught of water. The Schemer, winner of numerous races, will be the second antagonist of the Madge. The Schemer is 39 feet 1 inch over all, 36 feet 4 inches water line, 14 feet 6 inches beam, 4 feet 6 inches depth of hold, and 3 feet draught. The starter in the third race has not yet been decided upon, and may be either of the above two. The races will be sailed under Seawanhaka Club rules, which are very favorable to the English cutter, as the area in square feet for allowance is obtained by multiplying mean length by extreme beam. Both the Wave and Schemer are shorter yachts than the Madge, and under New York Yacht Club rules would receive time from her, but under Seawanhaka Club rules they will allow her a trifle. The Madge is 46½ feet over all, 38 feet 6 inches water line, 7 feet 9 inches beam, and 6 feet 2 inches depth of hold.

Mr. W. Lindsay Burch of the N. Y. Y. C., who has charge of the Madge for Mr. James Coats, her owner, said yesterday that other races would be sailed, but that they had not yet been definitely arranged. The Madge has won scores of races on the other side.

FATHER M'NAMARA'S GRIEVANCE.

Accusing a Policeman of Permitting Persons to Burglariously Enter his House.

Father McNamara, who is styled Bishop of the Independent Catholic Church, appeared before Commissioner Nichols, yesterday, against Policeman Hiram Levy of the Harlem squad. He said that on Aug. 16, at about 6 P. M., a crowd of 500 persons, headed by a woman, surrounded his house at 143 East 120th street, broke his fence and the shutters of his house, and finally forced the front door. Policeman Levy, he continued, instead of dispersing the crowd rather urged them on. Going into details, he said that the woman had been a tenant of his, but that her husband that day had given up their rooms. Their furniture, however, still remained in the rooms. As the woman was not an agreeable person he took advantage of her having quitted the house temporarily to secure her furniture and lock the door to prevent her return. When she did return she was aided by a young man who burst in the front door with his knee. Policeman Levy saw the young man break in the door, but made no attempt to arrest him, although he was asked to do so by Father Gaegan, Father McNamara's assistant. This testimony was corroborated by Father Gaegan and Mrs. McNamara.

Policeman Levy said that he did all in his power to disperse the crowd, but could not interfere with the woman, as she had broken the locks and water pipes, and was a tenant and had a right to enter.

Mrs. Le Tellier, who was the woman in the case, testified that she knew nothing of her husband having given up their rooms, and that their furniture still remained there; she sought entrance to what she still considered her home.

George McCoy said that he was the young man who broke open the door, and that he had done so in order that Mrs. Le Tellier would not be obliged to pass the night out of doors.

Half a dozen other witnesses testified that Policeman Levy had acted, in their opinion, properly.

While they were delivering their testimony, Father McNamara approached Commissioner Nichols and told his wife from Mrs. Le Tellier, who, he said, had insulted her. Mrs. Le Tellier, who had been seen to make faces at Mrs. McNamara, was cautioned, and asked to remove a suitable distance from her, which she finally did.

Decision was reserved.

The Elevated Railway Litigation.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The adjourned hearing of the motion to show cause why the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company should not return to the New York Elevated Railway Company its property, which is now held and operated by the receivers under the 999-year lease, and which the New York Elevated claim is forfeited for non-payment of rentals, came up before Judge Westbrook in Supreme Court, Chambers, in this city, this afternoon. E. S. Bacon, ex-Judge Westbrook, and ex-Judge Dorsheimer appeared for the New York Elevated, Julien T. Davies for the Manhattan, and ex-Judge Vanderpoel, Gen. Sharpe, and R. Bacon for the receiver. Arguments were made by Mr. Bacon and by ex-Gov. Dorsheimer on behalf of and by Mr. Davies against the motion. The argument was finished at about 4 P. M. to-morrow. The case will probably occupy the attention of the Court all day to-morrow. Cyrus W. Field, of the New York Elevated, who was present, told THE SUN reporter that all the company wanted was their property, and that they would endeavor to get.

Half Breed Defeat in Oswego County.

OSWEGO, Sept. 12.—The Republican County Convention for Oswego County was an utter defeat for the Half Breeds, a clean Stalwart ticket being nominated by a large majority. Though there is no doubt that the Half Breeds numerically exceed the Stalwarts in this county, they have been beaten by lack of leadership and the sharp tactics of the Stalwarts, who had control of the organization, and have now put themselves in control for another year.

Cattle Roasted by a Brush Fire.

PULASKI, N. Y., Sept. 12.—A brush and meadow fire on the farm of John Brown surrounded the pasture where his cattle were grazing, and running through the dry grass hemmed them in. Three were burned to death, and five more were roasted so it was necessary to kill them. A drove of cattle stampeded through the village this morning, making for Salmon River for water. They came several miles.

Two Planters Murdered by Negroes.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 14.—Joseph and Samuel Hanley, planters of Logan County, Arkansas, were shot and killed near Booneville yesterday by a party of negroes. Bad blood has existed for some time between the blacks and whites in that neighborhood, and a serious riot is feared.
