MRS. PECK'S DISCHARGE.

Justice Welsh's Remark on Announcing that He Could Not Hold Her.

Mrs. Ellen E. Peck of 307 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn, the well-known confidence woman, who was accused of having obtained $150 worth of jewelry from John H. Johnston of 150 Bowery, this city, was yesterday examined before Justice Walsh on a charge of having obtained goods under false pretences. Mrs. Peck was neatly dressed in black, and wore a sunbonnet, with broad rim turned down at the side. The testimony against her was that she opened correspondence with the complainant under the name of Eliza Knight, and expressed a wish to buy some goods upon installments.

James R. Farnham, employed by the complainant, called upon her in her residence, and he testified that she represented that she owned the house where she lived, and for references she gave the names of Randall H. Foote and Pingre & Co., brokers. She claimed to have money with one of these firms, and she said that she held a mortgage upon her adjoining houses. The references were consulted, and they said that Mrs. Knight was responsible. Upon what he learned from other parties, Mr. Farnham testified, he reported that Mrs. Peck was all right, and upon this the goods were loaned.

Justice Walsh, after hearing the evidence, said that he could not hold Mrs. Peck for false pretences, but he was inclined to think that there was a conspiracy between two or three persons to represent her as a Mrs. Knight, but there was no charge of that kind against her, and he could not hold her alone.

Mrs. Peck smiled as she heard the announcement of her discharge, looked triumphantly toward Detective Zundt, and hurried out of the court room. She had surrendered the jewelry to the court, and upon an order from her counsel the property clerk restored it to Mr. Johnston. Although Mrs. Peck has been frequently arrested she has never been convicted.

SEPARATED BY CREEDS.

Becoming a Methodist, Mrs. Hindenlang Sees the Devil in her Catholic Husband's Eye.

Barbetta Hindenlang sought by writ of habeas corpus in the Supreme Court to obtain the custody of her four children, which her husband Leopold had placed in the New York Half Orphan Asylum. The case was referred to John P. Gore, and it appeared from the testimony that while the Hindenlangs, who were Roman Catholics, lived in Bridgeport, Conn., the wife became converted to Methodism, and insisted that her husband should join the same church. His refusal led to angry altercations between them, and she said she "saw the devil in her husband, because her sisters and brethren of the church had told her he had the devil in him, and that was the reason why he did not join the church." She had him put into an insane asylum, because, as claimed on his behalf, he would not believe as she wanted him to. He was discharged in a few days, it being ascertained that he was not and had not been insane. Mrs. Hindenlang then left her husband, and children though she does not deny that he provided liberally for his family, whereupon he came to this city, bringing the children with him, and offered her a home here.

Judge Lawrence yesterday gave the following decision: "I am constrained to say that I do not feel justified in awarding the custody of the children to the relator. The wife abandoned the husband in February, 1881. I do not, from the testimony, find that she had any reason to fear that if she did not leave him she would be in bodily danger. Most of the difficulties between the husband and the wife seem to me to have arisen from a failure by both of them to control tempers which appear to have been naturally excitable. As the husband now offers to receive the wife back and to provide for her, if she refuses to accept this offer I should not remove the children out of the jurisdiction of this court to enable her to take the custody of them."

AN AGED MAN'S SUICIDE.

From Wealthy and Accomplished Society to Penury Through Dissipation.

Henry Livingstone, aged 60, committed suicide on Sunday morning in Stanwix Hall, Albany, by taking three ounces of laudanum. He left a note telling what he had done, and adding: "I was determined to do it rather than suffer, or do anything to be arrested for." He asks that, in case anything happens to him, a telegram be sent to his sister, Mrs. Emma Johnstone, the wife of Col. Robert Johnstone of 363 Seventh street, Brooklyn. He says that the other members of his family are at Catskill, and at Herman Livingstone and Thos. M. Janeney, his brother and brother-in-law, live in New York. He adds:

"Since the treatment of me has been brutal in the extreme. I was forced to come to Albany on Thursday night, and had not even a mouthful all day or night; was refused by my cousin, John C. Craft, enough money to get bed or anything to eat; never my country here to try any get some funds of my friends. I do this act of my own accord, as nothing else was left for me to do. I would not beg from strangers."

Col. Robert Johnstone, a lawyer, of 66 Court street, Brooklyn, said that Mr. Livingstone was one of the Livingstone family of Hudson, where the family vault is. He was once a wealthy man. He travelled all over the world, and was highly accomplished, and in his prime was a fine conversationalist. He became reckless in his expenditures, began to indulge in excesses, and this for some years ruined his health, and finally left him, and he took to eating opium. When Col. Johnstone last saw him he gave him money to go to his family.

MISHAPS AT THE HIPPODROME.

One of the Charioteers Run Over and a Jockey Thrown Under His Horse.

No accident of any consequence has occurred in Cody's Hippodrome at Madison Square Garden since its opening there, some three weeks ago, until yesterday at the afternoon performance. After the circus part of the programme had been gone through with the races were begun. In the four-horse chariot race the horses dashed off at a tremendous pace. While making the turn at the end of the track the chariot driven by Mr. Joseph Burnham was overturned, throwing the charioteer under the wheels, one of which passed over his body. The horses broke off at full speed, and furiously assaulted the track, and, catching up with the other chariot, were about to drive the pole against Miss Mattie Lowes, when some of the attendants succeeded in grasping the reins.

In the jockey races which followed, Edward Carpater was thrown completely over his horse's head to the ground, the horse falling on him. A shout of terror was raised by the three hundred ladies present, but he got out, as the other horses were seen dashing over the course toward the prairie mare, but when the horses came to him they jumped completely over him without touching his body. He was carried off the ground by Officer Gibson, and Dr. Warner was summoned to attend both patients. They were sent to the Bellevue Hospital.

For Forgery and Bigamy.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 19.—The case of Thos. A. Marvin, the man with many aliases and many wives, charged with forgery and bigamy in this city, was argued before the police court this afternoon. The charge of forgery was first investigated. Mr. McClarke, cashier of the First National Bank of Madison, Wis., testified that the check upon which Marvin had obtained $750 from the First National Bank of Richmond was a forgery. The identity of the prisoner with Marvin was shown, whereupon he was sent to the grand jury on indictment. He will have an examination on the charge of bigamy in marrying Miss Louise Turpin of this city, which he had another wife living.
