GEORGE WATSON THROWS A CORN COB.

His Successful Plea in Justification Before Justice Smith.

A very little boy stood in the prisoners' line at yesterday morning's session of the Jefferson Market Police Court. His appearance was neat, although his clothes were old and patched. He had large blue eyes, and his features were interesting and intelligent. His cheeks were tear stained. He tried hard not to seem frightened, but looked with interest at the prisoners and policemen.

"Well, my little fellow," said a court officer, "into whose house did you break?"

"Do you mean if I broke the window glass of any one's house? I did not do that," said he, sturdily. "I am here for throwing a piece of a corn cob at Mr. Miller. A policeman arrested me, and I was locked up all night."

"Were you not frightened?" asked the officer. "What did your father and mother do?"

A tear drop ran down his cheek, but he quickly wiped it away with his fist.

"I was afraid," he said, raising his truthful eyes to those of his questioner. "My father and mother did not do anything. They died so long ago, I don't know how long."

The boy's name is George Watson. He is 9 years old, but small for his age. John Miller, at whom the corn cob was thrown, is a German, who lives at 230 West Thirteenth street.

When the prisoners were marshalled in front of the desk in the Charles street police station yesterday morning, George was among the number. He was so small that the Sergeant, from his position behind the desk, could not see him. The boy, thinking that he had received his full punishment, walked out of the open door unmolested, and hurried to 219 West Thirteenth street, where he lives with a Mrs. Buchanan, who takes care of him. He was subsequently rearrested and taken to court.

"Where is the prisoner?" inquired Justice Smith, when the case was called.

The boy was lifted from the floor and set down upon the magistrate's desk. His bright blue eyes, with their wise look, met those of the Justice inquiringly.

"Do you not know that it is wrong to annoy people?" said Justice Smith.

"Yes, sir," said the boy; "but Mr. Miller hit me with his cane for nothing on Sunday, when I and Davey Marsh were standing near his stoop. Oughtn't I to hit him back?"

"I merely tapped the other boy with my cane," interrupted the complainant.

"No, Mr. Miller, you didn't hit Davey Marsh; you hit me, and you hurt me, too."

"You seem to me to be a very honest little boy," said Justice Smith, "and if you will give me your word that you won't throw any more corn cobs I will let you go home."

The boy promised, and he was lifted down from the desk. Before he left the court room a gentleman handed him a half dime. His face brightened, and, looking down at his well-patched trousers, he said:

"I had a dollar and sixteen cents, and this makes a dollar and twenty-one. I will soon have enough to get a pair of pants."

STATEN ISLAND SUFFERING.

Crops Ruined by the Drought—The Startling Views of a Farmer.

The drought is one of the severest that Staten Island has known for a long time. Many wells and all the cisterns in the neighborhood of Richmond have run dry, and people have to haul water from a great distance. The hay crop is the only one that has amounted to anything. The corn crop was very meagre. Farms in many places present the appearance of winter-stricken fields. Some of the lawns at Stapleton, Clifton, and other portions of the south side of the island have been denuded of grass, and so throughly dried up that they will have to be resodded next year. The horse cars running between the north and south sides of the island are continually enveloped in dust.

A sun-browned man, with a farmerlike appearance, gave his impressions of the drought to a reporter in the following words:

"No, sir, there has never been nothing to compare with this scorch. It has burned up the grass, burned up the corn, it's burning up the cabbage, and it has burned up the potatoes. It has been so dry and burned that it has even burned up the potato bug. I calculate, mister, that if it keeps on we can cook our dinners on our doorsteps. We've got to have some rain or the waters around Staten Island will be boiling so that ships can't pass into New York. Incendiaries have been trying to burn us up for the past year, and now nature is giving 'em a lift. Don't be surprised, mister, if you see a big light over this way some night soon. You needn't call out the Fire Department. It'll be useless. You can just content yourself with knowing that the foundations of Staten Island have been burned out and she is doomed to disappear in a cloud of hissing steam beneath the waters of the bay."

A New Norwich Line Steamboat.

The new steamboat City of Worcester, the fifth of the Norwich line, belonging to the Norwich and New York Transportation Company, well deserves to be called a floating palace. In her various appointments the boat is without a superior on the Sound. She was built at Wilmington, Del., her cost was $500,000, and she can carry 1,000 passengers. In dimensions she is 340 feet long and 46 feet beam. Her cylinder is 90 inches in diameter, with a 12-foot stroke. The diameter of her wheels is 38 feet, and her tonnage is 2,463.95. She is steered by steam, her anchor is moved by steam, and much of the freight moving is done by steam. She may be lighted by gas, oil, or electricity from the same chandeliers. There are 350 of Edison's incandescent lamps, which furnish a soft light without heat.

There are 160 staterooms, the most of which are furnished with rare conveniences. Sixty of them are connecting rooms. Twelve of them are bridal chambers, two of which have bath rooms, sofas, easy chairs, and all the luxuries of a parlor bedroom. The least desirable of the rooms surpasses in convenience the best staterooms of a few years ago. This is the only Sound boat fitted in hard wood on the main deck. There are several large saloons. The main saloon at is used as a dining room, and is a great improvement over the old fashioned saloon on the upper deck. The woodwork is of mahogany and white wood. There is a large quantity of inlaid work that is a study in art. The furnishing of the staterooms, the carpets, and the upholstery are all first class. The officers are selected from those who have served the longest in the line. They are: H. C. Lamphen, Captain; W. Y. Pelton and Charles Caspel, Pilots; J. E. Woodward, Parser; G. C. Cretton, Freight Clerk; J. W. Carter, Engineer; John Smith, Second Engineer. There are ample provisions against fire, and plenty of life preservers. The superintendent is S. A. Gardner, Jr.

Railway Litigation.

Judge Potter, in Supreme Court, Chambers, heard argument yesterday upon a motion to continue a temporary injunction granted in a suit brought by Julius Wadsworth, Henry Morgan, George Smith, and Peter Geddes, as bondholders of the Columbus, Chicago and Indiana Central Railroad Company, against the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad Company, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and others, to restrain a committee, composed of Charles J. Osborn, William L. Scott, and William B. Dinsmore, from acting in any way as representatives of the plaintiffs in making a proposed settlement with the defendant corporations, the one as lessee and the other as guarantor of a certain lease made by the C., C. and I. C. Railroad Company to the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad Company, in January, 1869. Messrs. F. N. Banes and F. L. Stetson represented the plaintiff, Thomas G. Shearman and Henry C. Ferry the committee, and E. R. Randolph for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. At the close of the argument, Mr. Stetson withdrew the application for an injunction upon the understanding that his client should give notice of five days' notice of a meeting called to ratify any agreement made by the committee with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and that they might then, if they chose, renew the application.

The Queens County Fair.

The fortieth annual fall exhibition of the Queens County Agricultural Society at Mineola was closed last evening. In the articles exhibited (except cattle and vegetables), as well as in attendance, it exceeded any previous fair. On Wednesday the grounds were thronged with visitors. Early in the morning the walls on the grounds gave out and the surrounding of the walks, drives, and track was abandoned. The heat was intense, and the clouds of dust that blew from the track and roads enveloped everything, making the day anything but enjoyable to those who were in attendance. The display in the exhibition hall of grapes, pears, apples, potted and cut flowers, and the handiwork of the ladies, was never excelled. On Tuesday, Wednesday, and yesterday there were trials of speed by horses owned and bred in the county, and for the society's premiums for 2:30 and 2:28 class, but the condition of the track precluded the possibility of fast time. The attendance was large yesterday, the fair closing last evening with the award of premiums. There were 1,121 premiums, aggregating $5,000.

Apportioning the Poll Clerks.

At the Police Board meeting yesterday, Commissioner Mason acted as Chairman in the absence of President French. A list marked "A," containing the names of Republicans who have been deemed worthy to act as poll clerks at the coming election, was accepted by a unanimous vote.

On motion of Commissioner Nichols it was resolved, also unanimously, that the Democratic poll clerks in the odd-numbered election districts be selected from schedule "B," the Tammany Hall list. Mr. Nichols then moved that the poll clerks in the even-numbered districts be selected equally from schedules "C" (Irving Hall) and "D" (County Democracy), the men to be so selected that, where each faction failed to have an inspector of election, it should have a poll clerk it could call its. This motion was also passed unanimously, without debate.

The Bureau of Elections was crowded yesterday by those who had come to be sworn in as election inspectors.

Tammany Conventions and Primaries.

The Tammany Committee on Organization decided yesterday that the County Convention should be held in Tammany Hall on Friday, Oct. 14, at 3 P. M. Congressional conventions will be held in the Ninth and Eleventh Districts on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 8 P. M. The Senate conventions will be held on Monday, Oct. 17, at 8 P. M.; the Civil Judicial conventions on Thursday, Oct. 20, at 8 P. M.; the Assembly conventions on Friday, Oct. 21, at 8 P. M., and the conventions for the nomination of District Aldermen on Monday, Oct. 24, at 8 P. M. The primaries for the election of delegates to these conventions will be held in the Assembly districts on Saturday evening, Oct. 8. The call for the primaries invites all Democrats to vote who intend to support the nominees selected by the delegates who may be chosen at the primaries.

The Parisian Flower Company's Opening.

The Parisian Flower Company opened yesterday at their new store, 8 West Fourteenth street, many novelties in French millinery, flowers, turbans, bands, plushes, silks, jardinieres, feathers, bridal appointments, vells, vases, and baskets. They have some rare specimens of artificial tropical fruit and flowers, and their show window was surrounded by ladies all day.

SOLDIERS ON PARADE.

The Inspection and Review of the Fifth Brigade in Prospect Park.

The Fifth Brigade, N. G. S. N. Y., assembled on the Prospect Park parade ground yesterday, in obedience to orders from Albany, to undergo the annual inspection and muster. Brig.-Gen. Christian T. Christensen was in command. Brig.-Gen. Robert S. Oliver, Inspector-General, was the inspecting officer, the musters being made by Assistant Inspector Col. T. F. Rodenbough. The brigade was composed of the Thirteenth Regiment, Col. David E. Austen commanding, and the Fourteenth Regiment, Col. James McLeer commanding, with the Seventeenth Separate Company of Flushing, Capt. James Miller, Jr., commanding. The Thirteenth, which had marched from its armory in Hanson place, reported on the parade ground promptly at 9 A. M., the hour set for the assembly. The Fourteenth reported thirty minutes later. The Fourteenth had an aggregate of 400 rank and file, the Thirteenth 474, and the Seventeenth Separate Company 40 rank and file.

The first exercise of the day was grand guard mounting, with Lieut.-Col. T. F. Gates of the Thirteenth as officer of the day. Following this was the inspection, after which came an hour's exercise in battalion drill.

The brigade evolutions were begun at 2 P. M. At this hour there was a large crowd of spectators upon the parade ground, who watched with interest the various movements. The passage of the line in action was admirably executed. The dress parade was at 4 P. M.

The exercises of the day were concluded with the review by Major-Gen. James Jourdan, commanding the Second Division.

His Pastor Couldn't Save Him.

George Freeman, one of the conspicuous members of the independent religious society known as the Church in Brooklyn, was on trial in the Kings County Court of Sessions yesterday, on a charge of burglary and grand larceny. He is about 35 years of age, has a full countenance, and mutton-chop whiskers, is slightly bald, and wears eyeglasses. He was accused of having on July 16, with one John Sullivan, entered Miller & Co.'s shoe factory in Gwinnett street, by means of false keys, and stolen seventy-two pairs of shoes. He was arrested when in Sullivan's company, at 2 o'clock on the morning of the robbery. A bag containing thirty-six pairs of shoes was found in Sullivan's possession, together with some skeleton keys, one of which unlocked the factory door. Freeman's defence was that he had been lured into a saloon in South street, where he became intoxicated; that he was in this condition when he met Sullivan in Brooklyn, and that while he was going with Sullivan to get another drink he was arrested, much to his surprise. He said that he had not seen the bag which Sullivan had. Prof. Mitchell, the pastor of the Church in Brooklyn, testified that Brother Freeman's character was of the best. The jury, however, convicted Freeman, and afterward convicted Sullivan. Judge Moore remanded both for sentence.

A Man-of-War's Crew in Danger.

As the Staten Island ferryboat Westfield was leaving the wharf at Tompkinsville at 11 10 A. M. yesterday one of the gigs of the war ship Franklin started out from the ship behind the landing, and in an instant got under her guard. The passengers became greatly excited. The gig, with its crew of fourteen men, was being swept under the wheel. Some of them jumped overboard. The wheel, however, was stopped just as the boat reached it. In trying to push the boat clear of the wheel the men left about half a dozen oars in the hooks, and some of them were wrenched from their hooks and smashed to pieces. One more revolution would have caused a fearful accident. In the excitement one of the crew jumped into the wheel, hung on for a moment after it had stopped moving, and then climbed up and got on board the boat through the wheelhouse door. In order to clear the cotton wharves the ferryboats on the trip to New York from Tompkinsville are obliged to back. The officer in charge of the gig was evidently ignorant of this or he would not have attempted to cross the steamer's bow. No blame was attached to either side for the accident.

A Medical Student's Sentence.

Charles D. Williams of Jersey City, a medical student, gave a forged check for $290 upon the Second National Bank of Jersey City, purporting to be drawn to his order by Elliott & Gregory of Jersey City, to his landlady, Mrs. Jane Bevan of 30 Great Jones street, on Oct. 1. She took payment for his room rent out of it and gave him $275 in change. The check was forged. Williams pleaded guilty yesterday in the General Sessions of a misdemeanor of forgery. Judge Cowing said that, in view of Williams's previous good character, he would commit him to the Elmira Reformatory. Williams's counsel objected, because, he said, there was no definite term of confinement in the reformatory.

"I think," said Assistant District Attorney Lyon, "that great clemency has been shown to the prisoner in accepting his plea. He is a man of intelligence."

"I agree with you," Judge Cowing said; "I do not think that this young man is desirous of reforming. I sentence him to two years in State prison."

Williams was astounded, and his friends interceded to have the sentence changed, but Judge Cowing was unyielding.

Brooklyn Property's Burdens.

The Tax Arrears Commission in Brooklyn, appointed by the last Legislature, has reduced the arrears upon a large number of pieces of property that have been so overburdened by taxes and assessments that they have been practically abandoned. The reductions have been liberal on non-productive lots. In many cases the arrears have been reduced fifty per cent. The whole amount of the arrears must in every case be paid within ninety days after the decisions of the Commissioners have been filed with the Registrar of Arrears, or the City Collector will advertise the property for sale, and it will give an absolute title if the property is not redeemed within twelve months. If the owners of the property wish to pay up the arrears in installments running over five years they must pay the first installment within sixty days.

Laying a Baptist Corner Stone.

Several hundred persons gathered in Eleventh street, between Fourth street and Waverley place, yesterday afternoon, to witness the laying of the corner stone of the North Baptist Church. The ceremonies were conducted by the Rev. J. J. Brenner, the pastor. The Rev. Dr. Deems, who founded the Summer School of Christian Philosophy at Greenwood Lake, was present. There was singing, accompanied by a cornet, and addresses were delivered by the Rev. Christopher Rhodes, Dr. John Pedder, R. S. MacArthur, and J. P. Elder, and the Rev. R. H. Hull, D. B. Jutter, and A. H. Wilson. Children here and there supported bright silken banners, and a brother gathered from the throng a gratuitous collection in a felt hat.

Seeking a Dumping Ground for Street Dirt.

Mayor Grace, Street Cleaning Commissioner Coleman, and Commissioners Hess and Brennan of the Department of Charities and Correction visited Ward's, Randalls, and Hart's islands yesterday, to ascertain whether the street dirt and ashes collected by the Street Cleaning Department could be used to fill in marshy spots on these islands, or to make new land. The Charity Commissioners think that from fifteen to twenty acres of land can be made by building a bulkhead on Hart's Island and filling it in with ashes and dirt. Commissioner Coleman favors this or some similar plan by which his department may be saved the expense of carrying the street dirt to sea.

Miss Richards's Attempted Suicide.

Miss Annie Richards, who attempted suicide on Wednesday by shooting herself in the right temple in the residence of Mr. John C. Richards at 155 Macon street, Brooklyn, was yesterday unconscious and was believed to be fatally injured. The ball pierced her brain on the right side, severed the optic nerve, and lodged behind the bridge of the nose. The young woman is the niece and adopted daughter of Mr. Richards, and she is said to have inherited insanity. She had procured a new pistol, and is said to have shot herself in front of a mirror.

For Pretending to be a Revenue Officer.

Oscar L. Tway of 271 Rutledge street, Brooklyn, who on May 24 last was arrested for personating a revenue officer, pleaded guilty yesterday before Justice Benedict in the United States Court, and was sentenced to a year in the Albany Penitentiary. Tway was in the habit of visiting liquor stores, representing himself as a revenue agent, and, by threats of prosecution for some alleged violation of the revenue laws, extorting money.

Visiting Odd Fellows.

Palestine Commandery, No. 37, I. O. O. F., of Lynn, Mass., will visit this city on Wednesday, Oct. 5. The grand officers of the I. O. O. F. of Massachusetts will come with them. The various encampments of this city will meet them at the foot of Vesey street, and escort them to the St. Nicholas Hotel. The visitors will be entertained at Terrace Garden by the encampments of this city and Brooklyn. On the following day they will go to Trenton, and from there to Philadelphia.

Sentenced for Ten Years.

The house in Westchester County of Percy R. Pyne of 52 Wall street was robbed of clothing on the night of May 3. Mr. Pyne testified in the Court of General Sessions yesterday that ex-convict George Eull, who was arrested as one of the gang of burglars, had on a pair of his socks that were taken from the house. Eull pleaded guilty of burglary and of receiving stolen goods. He was sentenced to state prison for ten years.

Two Reasons for Raising the Price of Milk.

At a meeting of wholesale dealers in milk at 124 Canal street, it was decided that, "on account of the extreme drought and the great waste of milk by the Board of Health," the wholesale price of full cream milk should be six cents a quart, and the retail price ten cents, on and after Oct. 1.
