POLICEMEN ON TRIAL.

Many Assaults Upon Citizens Complained of Before the Commissioners.

Nearly 100 policemen were tried yesterday for offences against discipline and assaults on citizens. Two courts had to be organized, and while Commissioner Mason acted as Judge in the regular trial room, Commissioner Matthews sat in the drill room. Trials were omitted during August because both the Commissioners and policemen were absent on vacation. The morning yesterday was devoted to the trial of such offences as sleeping on post, not properly patrolling post, entering a liquor saloon in uniform, and kindred violations of discipline. In the afternoon nearly two score citizens accused as many different policemen of arresting them without cause, clubbing, or otherwise assaulting them, and of failure to arrest persons who had robbed or assaulted them.

Among the number were John Barry and John McQuade, whose alleged treatment at the hands of Policeman Rabbit of the Elizabeth street squad has been published in THE SUN. After the two young men had told how Rabbit had rushed upon them and clubbed them as they were quietly talking in the street, and the accused policeman had replied that he had never seen either before, Commissioner Matthews said, "The testimony is against you, Rabbit. I'm afraid you are too apt to use your stick."

Mary Gaberi, the handsome daughter of an Italian saloon keeper at 34 Park street, told how Policeman Sullivan, also of the Elizabeth street squad, had on Sunday, Aug. 6, asked her for beer for himself and friend, as she was sitting on her steps. She told him that she could give him none on Sunday, as the saloon was closed, but would next day. He therefore struck her, knocking her down and tearing her gown, and finally forced her to go to the station, where he accused her of violating the liquor law by keeping the saloon open on Sunday. The Sergeant on duty refused to hold her. Several witnesses corroborated Signorita Gaberi's story. Sullivan, on the other hand, claimed that it was he who was knocked down while endeavoring to do his duty. He denied clubbing the complainant. Two other policemen and a civilian partially sustained his statement.

Among the policemen tried by Commissioner Mason was Jas. J. Hart of the Mulberry street squad, who was accused by Thomas Smith of 144 Elm street of not taking charge of a man who was lying drunk on the sidewalk at Crosby and Broome streets, on the night of July 23. Smith said that when he told Hart about the drunken man, the policeman asked him if he knew Barnum. He answered no, but that he had heard of him.

"Well," retorted Hart, "he pays a man $1,000 a year for minding his own business." Hart then paid no further attention to him, nor to the intoxicated person.

Commissioner Mason also tried a number of assault and battery cases where citizens were the victims. Decisions in these cases are reached when the testimony is presented before the full Board.

A STRIKE ON THE BRIDGE.

Painters Accused of Not Working as They Would for a Private Employer.

As about 130 bridge painters were going to work yesterday morning on the river side of the Brooklyn pier they were told by Superintendent William B. Adams that they would be required to paint as much surface in twelve hours as they had hitherto covered in two days, or twenty hours, as the men were working ten hours a day. Any one who wouldn't or couldn't do this, he said, could step down to the yard and get a ticket for his wages, which would be paid on Saturday. One man refused to go to work. All the others worked until 12 o'clock. The painters sit on a plank slung beneath the floor beams by iron hooks and chains. There is just room for six men to sit on the plank. The surface to be painted is that of an intricate system of iron work, and each corner, crevice, and cranny must be filled with paint, so that the air cannot rust the iron. Upon the faithfulness of the painter will, to some extent, depend the length of life of the bridge. The men painted but three of these floor beams in two days. For this work they received 25 cents an hour each, or $2.50 a day. They made nothing if it was stormy weather.

The men talked the matter over while eating luncheon, and agreed to quit work if the requirement was insisted on. When Superintendent Adams learned of this decision he said that any one who didn't want to do as he had asked might go. All but 25 went away. First Assistant Engineer Martin said yesterday:

"Many of the painters have applied to me to return to work. I think many will be taken back, contrary to our rule, as this is an exceptional affair. Some of the men could not have done the task any way."

"I've done this," said Mr. Adams, "after thinking of it for several weeks. The men worked in a different way from what they would have worked for a private employer. They were getting careless. Some men needed to be weeded out, and I took this way to do it. There are four or five men at the bottom of the affair, all the rest are good men, and the good men will, I think, be taken back. I expect to have a full force again by to-morrow afternoon, including very many of the old painters, and they will do the required work in twelve hours, for I know it can be done. Some of these painters who have struck have done it."

LAWYER SALMON'S VICTIMS.

His Use of a Counter Register's Stamp on Forged Mortgages.

In announcing to Superintendent Campbell of Brooklyn the arrest of Francis G. Salmon, the absconding lawyer, the police of Jacksonville, Fla., asked by telegraph how much he would give. Subsequently a despatch was received asking for $300, and Police Commissioner Jourdan sent that amount yesterday by telegraph, with the understanding that an officer would start last evening from Jacksonville with Salmon in custody.

It has been discovered that Salmon had a counterfeit stamp similar to that used in the Register's office of Brooklyn, with which he stamped the spurious mortgages which he negotiated. His victims, so far as ascertained, are Hamilton Biggam, ship chandler, who loses $1,000; John McKay, a tailor of this city, $350; John McKay, a minor, of Amity street, Brooklyn, $800; Martha E. Brooks of Clinton street, Brooklyn, $1,000; Mrs. Cummings of East Moriches, probably several thousand dollars; Mrs. Hoff of East Moriches, a daughter of Mrs. Cummings, $300; Margaret Wilson of 72 Fourth place, Brooklyn, $5,000; and Mrs. Horan of this city, $2,000.

Salmon is believed to have lost heavily in Wall street speculations. His host on the Florida plantation was the Rev. John K. Gelgard, a young Episcopal minister, who was formerly a choir boy in Christ Episcopal Church, Brooklyn. Salmon was formerly an agnostic, but was converted by a lady member of Christ Episcopal Church. He was a boarder in the house of Mrs. Stone at 345 Clinton street, Brooklyn, but the rumors of a matrimonial engagement with Mrs. Stone are positively denied. Mrs. Stone is the organist in Christ Church.

A Train Running Into an Omnibus.

ILION, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The fast mail east on the New York Central Railroad, due here at 10 P. M. yesterday, struck a village omnibus as it was crossing the second Atlantic express train. Albert P. Redway, a dry goods merchant, aged 45, was overhauled and tempted to leave the omnibus. He was thrown a hundred feet and killed. John Giblin of Ilion and Russell Dodge of West Winfield were seriously hurt. Otis Cook, a driver, and Walter Stillson, the driver of the omnibus, and his wife were slightly injured. Louis Bower and Daniel Boyer, who were on the omnibus, escaped with some scratches.

Fires on the Sprague Estate.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 6.—A fire at about midnight last night destroyed the large barn on the Sprague estate, known as the cold barn, adjoining the Narragansett Park, in Cranston. The loss is $1,200. This is the fifth building destroyed by incendiary fires on the Sprague estate within a short time. George W. Noyes, who is said to have come from Boston four weeks ago, has been arrested and held for examination on the charge of setting fire to the barn.

Cyclone in the Gulf.

KEY WEST, Fla., Sept. 6.—A cyclone passed near here yesterday, and possibly over Cuba, from east to west. The barometer was depressed, and there was considerable high wind. No disasters are known to have occurred as yet on the reef.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Signal Office reports that the cyclone is now south of Cuba, moving in a northwesterly direction into the Gulf. Vessels leaving gulf ports will encounter dangerous winds for two or three days.
