MONITOR'S SPLENDID RACE.

THE OLD HORSE BEATS EOLE AND GEN. MONROE FOR THE CUP.

Dwyer Brothers' Colt Burton Beaten in a Scramble—Dan K. Upsets his Backers in a Short Dash—A Queer Steeplechase.

Owing to the humid weather, there was but a fair attendance at the American Jockey Club's races yesterday. The usual number of celebrities of the turf exchanged greetings on the quarters-stretch, however, and the betting quarters were thronged. The great race was for the Westchester Cup, in which Mr. Frederick Gebhard's horse Eole, Mr. George L. Lorillard's Monitor, and Mr. McElmeel's General Monroe tried their powers of endurance. Mr. Gebhard was present, clad in a tightly fitting dark suit, including a black Derby hat, and wearing a red and a white rose close to his coat collar, on the left side. His pale face and his tall form poised with the aid of his cane rendered his figure one of the most striking on the stretch. When Eole was being led toward the post, Eph Snedeker, his trainer, walked alongside, pouring instructions into the ears of Billy Donohue, his rider, while Mr. Gebhard brought up the rear. When Mr. Gebhard reached the gate that leads into the enclosure at the far end of which is the betting stand, he started for the bookmakers. The vigorous way in which he pulled his moustaches after Monitor's great triumph showed that he must have taken odds on the wrong horse, as did many others.

There were several surprises. Dwyer Brothers' colt Burton, a strong favorite in the two-year-old scramble, was beaten by Mr. Withers's Cyclone colt, and the favorite Dan K. was upset in a dash of three-quarters of a mile, in which he was first choice.

A sneak thief raised a commotion in the bookmakers quarters by attempting to get the contents of a cash box without first purchasing the costly little tickets that entitle the holders thereto.

Altogether the afternoon was full of interesting incidents.

THE RACES.

A snug but lively field of two-year-olds opened the sport with a half-mile scramble for a purse of $300. The lot comprised Dwyer Brothers' b. c. Burton, by Billet, dam Distraction, 110 lbs.; D. D. Withers's ch. c. by King Ernest, dam Cyclone, 110 lbs.; G. L. Lorillard's ch. c. Thackeray, by Great Tom, dam Melrose, 110 lbs.; P. Lorillard's b. f. Blossom, by Saxon, dam Bargoyne, 107 lbs.; and J. E. Kelly's b. f. by King Alfonso, dam Lerna, 107 lbs.

Betting—Even money on Burton, 4 to 1 against Blossom, 5 to 1 each against Thackeray and Mr. Withers's colt, and 10 to 1 against Mr. Kelly's colt.

Thackeray led by half a length in the first furlong, when Sparling sent the King Ernest-Cyclone colt to the front. Swinging into the straight with a lead of one length, Mr. Withers's colt had the race nearly to himself. Thackeray fell back beaten, and Dwyer Brothers' Burton was unable to reach the footlights. Mr. Withers's colt galloped in two lengths in front of Mr. Kelly's colt, Burton lapping third, Blossom fourth, and Thackeray fifth. Time, 50½ seconds.

Next came the great race of two miles and a quarter for the Westchester Cup, a sweepstake for each, play or pay, with $1,000 added. The starters from a list of nine nominations were F. Gebhard's b. h. Eole, by Eolus, dam War Song, 5 years, 124 lbs.; G. L. Lorillard's ch. g. Monitor, by Glenelg, dam Minx, aged, 122; and Yonkers Stable's b. h. General Monroe, by Tom Bowling, dam Minnie T. Morgan, 5 years, 124.

Betting—Eight to 5 on Monitor, and 2 to 1 each against Eole and General Monroe.

The three started in fair shape, the blue and orange colors of George Lorillard being carried to the front at once by Sparling on the veteran favorite Monitor. This showed that the old horse was going to make a race for the cup. At the stand, a quarter of a mile from the start, Monitor led by a length, Billy Donohue having Eole second, while Pat Garrick trailed two lengths behind on General Monroe. The three glided around the hill in the same positions, two lengths apart. They came up to the stand again with Monitor on the inside, a length and a half ahead of Eole, General Monroe having closed up and lapped Eole half way. On rounding the hill the last time General Monroe pressed Eole at swords' points. Gebhard's horse stumbled in his efforts to cling to Monitor. The General pushed Eole to the wall here, beating him back out of the race. The General now made direct war on the old horse, getting his head alongside of Monitor's flanks on the lower turn, more than a quarter of a mile from home. It now became a question of endurance, and Monitor had sufficient reserve to insure victory. The fight up the straight was gallant on both sides, Monitor winning by half a length, Eole forty lengths away. Monitor was never headed in the grand race. He ran the first half mile in 55⅝ seconds, the mile in 1:51⅛, two miles in 3:39⅝, and the two and a quarter miles in 4:07.

Thora beat Grenada for the cup last year a quarter of a mile in 4:12.

A race of one mile and an eighth, for a handicap sweepstakes of $15 each for all ages, with $500 added, $100 to second, was contested by Appleby & Johnson's b. h. Jack of Hearts, by Ill-Used, dam Nellie James, 5 years, 118 pounds; H. Roberts's b. m. Mamie Fields, by War Dance, dam Orphan Girl, aged, 103, and H. E. Duffy's br. m. Baby, by Strachino, dam Ecliptic, aged, 99.

Betting—Three to one on Jack of Hearts, 4 to 1 against Mamie Fields, and 8 to 1 against Baby.

Michael Donohue set the pace with Mamie Fields at an even start. He gained a lead of four lengths inside of a quarter of a mile, Fuller keeping Baby second, and Hayward holding the Jack of Hearts in hand, biding his time to play. The time came in rounding the hill, where he tucked in Baby and tossed her behind. On the lower turn he tackled Mamie and had the trick in hand at the three-quarter pole, where Donohue was giving her whip and spur to no purpose, she having been ridden for all she could do before the race was two-thirds over. Jack of Hearts won by a length in a canter. Mamie Fields second, twenty lengths in front of Baby. Time, 2:02¾.

The dash of three-quarters of a mile for a purse of $500 for three-year-olds and upward, selling allowances, brought to the post J. W. Bell's b. g. Dan K. aged, 106 pounds; P. H. Duffy's ch. g. Perplex, 4 years, 98; G. L. Lorillard's br. f. Swift, 3 years, 102; C. H. Pettengill's br. m. Constantina, 5 years, 100; P. Lorillard's br. f. Incontant, 3 years, 85; H. Welch's br. g. Weasel (late Wakefield), 6 years, 106; J. E. Kelly's b. f. Ida K., 3 years, 73; F. Gebhard's b. f. Ida, 3 years, 88.

Betting—7 to 5 against Dan K., 3 to 1 against Constantina, 4 to 1 against Incontant, 7 to 1 against Swift and Weasel, 10 to 1 against Perplex, 12 to 1 against Ida, and 15 to 1 against Ida K.

The field swooped away well in line across the track, Swift, Incontant, and Dan K. were the fleetest in getting under full sail. On rounding the bluff Constantina began to push through, taking third place from Dan K. A fierce race came around the lower turn and up the stretch between Constantina, Swift, and Dan K., the latter winning by a neck near the post, some shouting "Constantina," and others "Dan K." Constantina won by a neck from Dan K. Incontant getting her head in front of Swift for third place. The others were beaten off. Time, 1:19½.

A steeplechase over the short course, $300 to first and $100 to second horse, closed the programme. The field comprised Strychnine, 165 pounds (Walker); Lily Morson, 162 (Green); Ranger, 154 (J. Henry); and Imelda, 155 (J. Kinney). Betting—Six to five against Ranger, 2 to 1 against Imelda, 2 to 5 against Lily Morson, and 4 to 1 against Strychnine.

The four made a rather pretty chase once around the course, Imelda, Ranger, Strychnine, and Lily Morson racing in the order named, within a length or two of each other. After taking the double hurdles fronting the club house the second time and reaching the far side of the south field, Imelda and Ranger stumbled giving their riders easy slides over their necks. The tumblers were picked up and the judges and spectators at the upper end of the stand to see exactly what occurred, but it was enough to throw the pair hopelessly out of the race. Lily Morson seemed to be giving Lily Morson a double pull to steadily her. It now looked as though Strychnine would win, but the spectators of the turf cropped out again on the home stretch, where a neck-and-neck dash ensued in Lily Morson winning by a length. Time, 3:17½.

To-day will end the meeting. The event will be the Belmont Stakes, in which George Kinney and Tecumseh will meet at a mile and a half. America race, one mile, is to be added to the programme.

Ending the Brooklyn Driving Club Meeting.

The inaugural meeting of the New York and Brooklyn Driving Club was brought to a successful close yesterday. Very many conspicuous owners of fast road horses were present, although the matches were trotted during a rain that made the track muddy and heavy. Among the spectators were Charles Kimpland, Richard Dudgeon, Reuben Taussig, Hugo O'Donnell, J. J. McAdam, Dr. O. J. Ward, ex-Alderman Thomas Shelds, Jo Elliott, Frank Brown, Peter Wood and Dr. Welch. The first trot was for $500, divided 2 40 class, mile heats, best 3 in 5; to be trotted on Thursday. Mollie Beamer won the field 2d. Kate was Major second, Prince third, Lady Maud fourth. In the second heat Mollie Beamer was second, Major second, Mabel L. third, Prince fourth. In the second Major third, Mabel L. fourth. Time, 2:27½, 2:28½, 2:29½. Mollie Beamer brought the largest field, five starters. Mollie Beamer brought the stake, $15. Bet Bully, $10. Mollie Beamer won. Mabel L. was second, Bet Bully third. Time, 2:41½. In the second heat Mollie Beamer sold as favorite at $50 to $10 against the field. Peter Manse lost Susie's driver to put her in the sulky and check her up more. This advice seemed like a change, and Susie won the next three heats in a row at her ease in 2:29½, 2:44, and 2:44½. Mollie Beamer took second money. Jim Bay Billy third.

The third trot, for $250, had three starters. Parole was the favorite at $100 to $50 over the field, and won the race in three straight heats, Black Prince coming in second and Edgewood third. Time—2:35, 2:34, 2:37.

THE PILOTS' POWER AT ALBANY.

The Chamber of Commerce Charges Them with Corruption—What a Pilot Said.

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday Mr. Charles S. Smith, as Chairman of the special Committee on Pilotage, reported that the bill providing for a reduction of pilotage fees had been defeated at Albany "by the insidious and powerful influence of the pilots." The report says:

As to the nature of this influence, your committee refrain from stating what they believe to be the facts, since such a statement would, in the nature of the case, be incapable of proof; but they here reiterate the conviction, which has found expression in their first report to the Chamber, made on the 26 of March, 1882, viz., that the existing State law which regulates the pilotage system of our port has long since been perverted into a corrupt and intolerable engine of corruption, and that the commerce of this port is condemned to furnish the means for its own oppression.

The Committee advised that Congress should notice appealed to to abolish compulsory pilotage till other methods of reform are exhausted, the Pilot Commissioners, for instance, could decrease the number of pilots and pilotboats. The committee say:

It is well known that a considerable number of pilots do but little actual pilot service, and are supported by the earnings of their active colleagues or by the dividends on the shares they own in the boats which dividends, according to the statements made to the Legislature by the pilots themselves, exceed in each and every year the total value of the boats. A few of these inactive pilots control and govern the whole body of pilots, who, from the nature of their calling, can never be brought together or into contact with the merchants. These few men represent the pilots before the Legislature and direct their action in politics; their expenses are defrayed from a fund raised by periodical assessments on every pilot, for which no account is rendered to any one.

The report was unanimously adopted, together with resolutions setting forth that the failure of the Legislature to reduce pilot fees was brought about by a corrupt combination among the pilots, and calling on the Pilot Commissioners to withdraw the licenses of all pilots not actually engaged in sea service for at least eleven months in the year, and to authorize and encourage without delay the use of four steam pilot boats for service at this port.

Mr. Smith said he had been informed on good authority that each of the New York pilots was compelled to pay an assessment of $10 a month to secure legislation for the benefit of the pilots. This fund was nearly $20,000 a year.

"The statement that we have sent lobbyists to Albany is untrue," said a pilot yesterday. "Mr. Henry Hubbinson, a working pilot, was in Albany while the matter was under consideration, but he is in no sense a lobbyist. If the Chamber of Commerce desires to work a reform, let them begin with their own large fees, and not attack the pilots and attempt to shift the burden to them. We are not the overpaid men we are said to be. I never saw a pilot able to retire who had not made his money elsewhere. We are ready to work with the Chamber of Commerce for any necessary reform, but we do not propose to see what little property we may have undermined. Suppose they put on steam pilot boats. The sailboats would not sell for more than one-fourth of their value. Don't you suppose we will fight such a measure? As to the charge that the active pilots support many who are inactive, that arises in a misunderstanding. Four or five pilots own a boat together. One remains ashore to take vessels out, and the others go out with the boat. It often happens that the man on shore makes more than all the rest together. It is a partnership arrangement and of course he divides with the rest. That was the case with Noble, whose statement appeared in THE SUN the other day, and that was the way in which he made $700 in a month. Eighty-five per cent. of the commerce of this port is done under foreign flags. Now it is proposed to reduce our earnings and give the money to foreign shipowners."

PROF. SHIN CHIN SUN DOES NOT LAND.

A Fat Customs Officer Won't Let the Celestial Literary Man Ashore.

Reported for The Sun by Ah Wong.

The Chinese Secretary for the Rev. Father Abelshine arrived yesterday on the steamer Finance from Rio Janeiro. The party is on its way back to China. The steamer was docked at Roberts's stores yesterday. The Chinese Secretary was refused his landing by the Custom House officers for taking him to be a Chinese laborer. He was interviewed by your reporter this afternoon. He was met promenading on deck all alone in long, flowing robes. He is 49 years old, and came as a first-class passenger. His name is Shin Chin Sun, from the province of Honan, where Father Abelshine, his companion, had been many years an earnest missionary.

Shin Chin Sun, on meeting your reporter, saluted him in the regular Mandarin style, which showed him at once to be very familiar with the etiquette of a Chinese court, and in a moment's conversation your reporter, with his scanty knowledge of literature (especially my sight or nine years of Chinese), commenced to feel that he has now before him his superior in the profession of Confucius. And the manner and tone in which he handled the pen showed at once that, plainly, his occupation had been if he does not now follow it.

He is as polite (polite) as an accomplished Frenchman.

What did you come out with Father Abelshine for?" queried the scribe.

"For several years in Hona China I acted as Father Abelshine's Chinese teacher and recorder (secretary), and finally, when two years ago Father Abelshine wanted to visit his own country and to see his holy Papa (Pope), he wished that I should accompany him on the trip to record incidents and events of the visit, for the benefit of the devotees in China upon his return. We have succeeded nobly in this respect—in fact, in every respect (earnestly and firmly spoke the indignant old professor), and until we came here, when our happy and successful journey were thus seemingly cut short in this the 'Land of All Man Alike.'"

"Who prevented you from landing?"

"One stout man, with a heavy beard, who I was afterward told was a certain custom officer, who mistook me for a laborer, which, to my opinion, is rather a compliment to me, an old man, than otherwise; for had I been brought up on a farm I would have been more successful than in the large, overwhelming Belshed letters. When I found out the reason, &c., I simply laughed and looked at my companion, who was then at the bottom of the plank. He said to me in Chinese, 'It's all right; you remain aboard here and I will come and attend to you in the morning.' So I am here, patiently waiting for the morrow. If I will not be allowed to land at all I shall not press my rights, but return immediately by the way I came."

He also said: "I have seen the Pope twice while in Rome, and he bestowed lots of blessings upon my poor old head."

For want of room, &c., we shall have to cut the interview short.

LEPPERT'S INSURANCE POLICIES.

A Lawsuit Just Begun in Port Jervis which Involves a Remarkable Story.

PORT JERVIS, June 7.—The suit of the Travelers' Insurance Company just begun against George Leppert, Jr., of this village promises to prove highly interesting. Leppert, while on his way to the depot of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad here, on the 6th of December, 1882, was knocked down at the Pike street crossing by a railroad tie which projected from the platform of a car in a passing train. Men who were standing near at the time of the accident soon discovered that he had no sensation in his lower limbs. Leppert had been the agent of several graveyard insurance companies, and a few months before the accident he was detected using cancelled postage stamps which had been washed. He confessed his guilt and served a sentence of six months' imprisonment in the Ludlow street jail in New York. Within a day or two after the accident Leppert's brother announced that George held a number of insurance policies on his life. It was found that he was carrying policies amounting to over $160,000 on his life, which gave him a weekly indemnity of $160 for six months.

Dr. Wickham attended Leppert, and, in company with nearly all the other local physicians, made repeated tests to discover whether Leppert was paralyzed or not. Pins, needles, lances, and other instruments were thrust into his legs, but there was no appearance of any sensation from the waist down. The doctors, however, disagreed, Drs. Wickham and Potter declaring that he was paralyzed, and Drs. Van Etten and Hunt asserting as positively that he was not paralyzed, but that it was a clear case of shamming. There the matter has rested, the insurance companies ignoring his claims for indemnity, while Leppert's condition was hardly perceptibly improved. The six months during which he had a claim for a weekly indemnity expired to-day, and to-day an agent of the Traveler's Insurance Company, in which Leppert held a $10,000 policy, with $50 weekly indemnity, began proceedings in the Supreme Court to annul the policy held by Leppert, claiming that the contract for insurance was procured by fraudulent representations on the part of Leppert and with intent to cheat and defraud the company. Leppert has frequently declared his intention to sue the companies if they refused to pay his claims, and a lively litigation is looked for.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Home" and Other Summer Comedies.

No sort of weather will keep people away from a good play properly set forth. Last night, in spite of rain and heat, all the theatres that were open were comfortably filled. At the Standard Mr. Pitt's excellent company appeared in another of the plays that they have made their own, "Robertson's sparkling comedy of "Home." Mr. Pitt as Alfred Dorrison, alias Colonel White, acted in his usual finished and successful style, and Miss Nellie Robins made a charming Dora, and looked as fresh as if she had never heard of a thermometer. At Haverly's, Mr. Roland Reed's "Cheek" was as good as several tons of ice. At the Madison Square the murmur of the stream of real water in the glen scene refreshed the audience, and the very name of Miss Rillie Deaves was found to have a pleasant suggestion of coolness about it. At the Cosmopolitan the promenade on the roof was properly appreciated, and at Niblo's and the Windsor and the Grand Opera House and Tony Pastor's and the San Francisco and Bijou people knew that they were more comfortable than they could be at home or anywhere else. A seat in a well-ventilated theatre, with an amusing performance going on upon the stage, is not to be despised these warm evenings.

BASE BALL IN THE RAIN.

Playing in the rain was the order on the Polo grounds yesterday, and the New York and Metropolitan teams took to it like ducks. On the League field the New York nine opened on the Chicago battery in brilliant style, scoring 5 to 0 in the first innings. After this rain set in, and the contest became a trial as to which side could bat a soggy ball with the best effect, and which could best field it with the fewest errors. The New York took the lead, and the result was a victory by the following score:

On the adjoining field the second match between the Cincinnati team and the Metropolitans proved very exciting, and was a remarkably well-played game under the circumstances. The New York won, 10 to 9, in the eighth inning, when Cincinnati tied the score. At this period a new ball was brought out, and O'Rourke hit a fine three-bagger, which gave the winning run. The players of the Philadelphia Club have raised a great outcry against the Metropolitan management and demand his release. They say that he is unjust, that fines are inflicted for the most trivial offences, that they cannot play under him, and that the team is in a state of demoralization.

The return game between nines of the paper department of THE SUN and Commercial Advertiser was played on the Polo grounds yesterday afternoon, Hughes of the Metropolitan nine pitched for THE SUN team. The batting of King, of the Commercial nine, was a feature of the game. The score was:

Commercial Advertiser	7	2	4	0	1	0	0	6	0	—20

The greatest base ball game of the season was played at Grand Forks, Dakota, on Decoration Day, between the Grand Forks and Winnipeg nines, the former winning, 54 to 0. The winners did the heaviest batting ever seen in that part of the country, making more than one hundred base hits. Lyons of the home club did the heaviest batting, he hitting for three bats.

The Rose Hills of St. John's College defeated the Alerts of Seton Hall College, South Orange, yesterday at Fordham in a closely contested game of eleven innings by a score of 7 to 5.

At New Haven on Wednesday the Athletics of Philadelphia were defeated by the Yale team, 4 to 1.

Other games yesterday were: In Philadelphia—St. Louis, 1; Athletics, 0; five innings. In Pittsburgh—Alleghenys, 10; Louisville, 0. In Baltimore rain stopped the game at the end of the second innings. In Trenton—Trenton, 5; Detroit, 9. In Hanover—Williams College, 4; Dartmouth College, 2. In Wilmington—Quickstep, 8; Brooklyn, 1.

Ross Beats Dufur in the Wrestling Contest.

ROCHESTER, June 7.—The much-talked-of wrestling contest for $1,000 a side, between H. M. Dufur and Duncan C. Ross, took place this evening in the Grand Opera House, and resulted in a victory for Ross. Wm. B. Harding acted as referee. John Turner was umpire for Dufur, and John Reid for Ross. The first bout was collar and elbow, in which Dufur fell in nine minutes. The second was catch as catch can. Both men worked hard, and after some time Dufur secured for some time Ross flopped Dufur, whose bridge he broke at the end of eight minutes, thus winning a fall. In the third bout, side hold, Dufur won the toss, and took the top hold. They wrestled for six minutes, at the end of which time the referee declared a fall for Ross. At the last match here Dufur won, and consequently the betting to-night was in his favor.

ADVERTISING FROM THE PULPIT.

A Priest Dictating to his Flock the Physicians They Should Employ.

ANSONIA, Conn., June 7.—Ansonia is excited over an attempt to use the power of the Catholic Church to supplant the old established doctors with a new arrival. Dr. Conkling came from Fairfield last week and settled here. He was a Catholic, and soon made himself known to the clergymen of that denomination. Father Brady, the priest in charge of the parish, has been lately very ill, and the Rev. Father Byron has been acting as his assistant. Father Byron had charge of the services on Sunday last, and he took advantage of the occasion to advertise Dr. Conkling from the pulpit, warmly eulogizing him as a good Catholic, and recommending his flock to employ him. He even went so far as to say that he would withhold his blessing in confinement cases where other physicians than Dr. Conkling were called in. Yesterday an opportunity came to test the sincerity of the priest's remarks. Mrs. Dwyer, the wife of John Dwyer, a highly respected Catholic, was delivered of a child. Dr. Blodgett was the attending physician. Mrs. Dwyer's condition was so critical that it was thought advisable to prepare for the worst, and Father Byron was sent for. He refused to go, and Mr. Dwyer then went for him himself. He again refused, and told Mr. Dwyer that the congregation had had fair warning that he would not attend cases where any other physician than Dr. Conkling was employed. Mrs. Dwyer recovered, however, without the priest's aid or his blessing, and she and the baby are doing well. Father Brady, when he learned of Father Byron's action, was very indignant. He regards it as a gross assumption of authority, and says that as soon as he is able to get out he will give the matter the attention it deserves. In the mean time the Bishop will be apprised of the facts, and the members of the church will be at liberty to employ any physician they may choose. Father Byron came from Southington, a stranger to Father Brady, and the latter has learned that his departure from his old parish was a great relief to the church. Father Brady's own physician is Dr. Welsh, a Protestant.

Remarks by Twenty-three Jurors.

Old Mr. Gill, who is alleged to be unable to care for his estate, and to be lavishing it on servants, was not present when twenty-three of the twenty-four Sheriff's jurors assembled in the Court House yesterday to try his sanity. The three Commissioners sat on the bench and waited for Mr. Henry Havemeyer, the twenty-fourth juror.

"Mr. Gill thinks," said the defendant's counsel incidentally, "that this suit is brought by disappointed relatives, and he will resist it——"

"I have to say," cried Gen. Roger A. Pryor, springing to his feet, "that Mr
