THE FISHING INDUSTRY.

Some Things that Promote It and Others that are Driving Fish Out of Our Waters.

The session of the American Fish Cultural Association was concluded last evening in 24 Cooper Union. Mr. James Benkard was elected President for the ensuing year. Several interesting papers were read. Col. McDonald described the perfected fish hatching jar, by means of which 900,000,000 eggs can be hatched in one season at the Washington hatchery. It is specially adapted for whitefish and salmon eggs, but it may be used for codfish, mackerel, and shad eggs.

A letter was read from Dr. T. Garlick, who was the first to undertake fish culture in the United States. He wrote that about 1850 he read an article describing the experiments of two fishermen in Europe to artificially propagate fish. He undertook the task himself to establish the fact that it could be done, and not with any idea that money could be made out of it. He believed that artificial propagation is still in its infancy.

Col. McDonald read a paper on fishways, which enable fish to go from a lower level below a dam or other obstruction to the level of the water above. He said the river fisheries of the United States had steadily diminished in value on account of destructive methods of fishing, and because dams or other obstructions had diminished the extent of breeding and feeding grounds. The evil must be remedied by laws to prevent destructive modes of fishing and by the construction of fishways to enable the fish to ascend to the gravel beds and leave their spawn.

The discussion over the pollution of the waters of the bay was animated. Mr. James Benkard's resolution that the Fish Commissioners and Legislatures of the State and New Jersey, and also Congress, should be asked to provide a remedy, if possible, was unanimously passed. Fish Commissioner Blackford said he had received complaints that the taste of shad caught in the bay is like that of kerosene. Shrimp, formerly abundant near Bay Ridge, have now almost disappeared, and the few that are taken have the kerosene flavor. Large numbers of lobsters were formerly taken at Sandy Hook; now they are extinct. Before they disappeared their quality deteriorated. At Hell Gate fish, oysters, and clams are tainted with a kerosene flavor. All this probably comes from the works of the Standard Oil Company. In the waters near Barren Island oysters and clams are exterminated and fish are driven away. Fishermen have asked the Fish Commissioners to protect their interests, but the Commissioners are allowed to do nothing except propagate and distribute fish. The fishing interest near New York will soon be destroyed if something is not done to prevent it.

Col. M. A. Bryson said he believed that if the Standard Oil Company were compelled to refrain from letting hundreds of thousands of barrels of sludge acid flow into the rivers and bay they could find some way to use it. President Page remarked that in England the manufacturers who polluted the streams were compelled to take care of the refuse, and they found a way to make money out of it.

FOR THE MURDER OF PEDDLER MARKS.

Beginning of the Trial of Theodore Hoffman at White Plains.

The trial of Theodore Hoffman for the murder of Zife Marks, the Jewish peddler, whose mutilated body was found on Lincoln avenue, about three miles from the village of Port Chester, on the afternoon of Feb. 1, was begun yesterday at White Plains, before Judge Barnard.

From the testimony of thirty witnesses it was elicited that the axe found near the peddler's body was in Hoffman's possession on the day of the murder; that the trousers worn by him had been taken from the peddler's pack, and that he had boarded a train to New York a few hours after the murder had been committed. Where he had gone and what he had done while in the city was also told by witnesses. The quaint manner in which William Knox (the old hermit, whose cabin Hoffman had entered on the night before the murder, with a masked face and an axe in his hands) created amusement. Knox was asked how he had been able to identify Hoffman under a mask. "Oh, I knew him when he took it off," said Knox.

The theory of the defence, it is said, will be that Marks was murdered by a tramp, who was in Port Chester village for several days preceding and on the morning of the day when the peddler was killed.

Costly Cattle, Including the Y Cow.

Soft-eyed Jersey cows swished their tails under a striped tent on the Simpson homestead at Hunt's Point, Westchester, yesterday. The grounds were bright with flags. It was the annual sale from William Simpson, Jr.'s, herd of Jersey cattle. Uniformed keepers kept the animals looking sleek and glossy. William Easton of the American Horse Exchange was the auctioneer. Sixty animals were sold. The aggregate receipts were $30,340, and the average price paid for each animal was $505. The rather small bull Torpedo, sire Mercury, dam Torfrida, fell to John Nicholson for $1,100. A bid of $2,500 by J. Boyd secured him the bull Rayon d'Or. F. W. Arnold's bid of $825 caught the young cow Alphea Lady. J. P. Brindley of Newington, Conn., captured the bull Son of Mercury for $800. John I. Healy had to run up his bid on the cow Lady Veronica to $1,000 before he secured her. This animal is known as the "Y cow," on account of a large letter Y in white hairs on her left flank.

Alone in the World, Wealthy and Insane.

Upon searching the house of Miss Mary B. Willsher, of 348 Bridge street, Brooklyn, the eccentric spinster who was sent to the asylum at Flatbush on complaint of her neighbors, Police Captain Campbell, who was appointed committee of her person and estate, found $15,000 worth of Lake Shore Railroad bonds, $63,271 in cash, some silverware, which she had melted up to keep others from having it, and a number of pin cushions made from costly India shawls which she had cut up. It is suspected that she has destroyed some of her property. She owned the house in which she lived, and for about eighteen months her conduct has been such that a policeman has been employed in keeping the crowd from in front of her house. She has often threatened to commit suicide and to destroy her property. So far as is known, she has no relatives.

The Candle Parade.

Speaking of the fireworks at the opening of the East River Bridge, a war veteran said: "During the spring of '65 candle rations were issued to the army of the Potomac. The men had no use for them, and they accumulated. One night a single company, each man carrying a lighted candle, started in procession through the camp. Regiments, battalions, and brigades caught the infection, and 50,000 candles glimmered and danced in every direction, winding like a fiery serpent over the hillocks, and stretching out in a sea of flaming dots as far as the eye could reach. The bridge illumination was very fine for its kind, but for beauty and novel effect I think the candle procession ought to handle the snuffers. Many veterans of the Army of the Potomac will remember the candle parade."

Telegraph Wires Cut.

The wires of the Mutual District Messenger Company in this city have been cut in the past few days, greatly impairing the service of this company in all of the eleven districts, extending from Wall street to Seventy-fifth street. The managers of the company have no doubt that the cutting has been maliciously done. Yesterday eighteen circuits were cut. The company is making every effort to discover the malicious persons. On Wednesday twenty-one circuits were found open.

Married Without Knowing It.

Judge Freedman appointed yesterday a guardian ad litem for Rebecca Levine to bring an action for the annulment of her marriage with Robert Levine. The plaintiff says that she was induced by Levine to go to the City Hall several months ago, for the purpose, as he said, of celebrating a ceremony of engagement, and that she then returned to her father's house, where she has since remained. Levine went to Texas soon afterward, and she has since learned that the ceremony at the City Hall was one of marriage.

Abolishing the Sub Lists.

CINCINNATI, June 7.—The International Typographical Union today adopted a resolution requiring sub lists to be abolished in all union offices by Sept. 1. The effect of this is that any union printer may be employed by a regular employer in any office as a substitute, without being required to be first enrolled as a substitute by the foreman. The order was put in force immediately in the Times-Star office, where its promulgation was greeted with cheers.

Maximum Cost of the New Cruisers.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Bids for the new steel cruisers will be opened July 2. Secretary Chandler has given notice that the maximum amounts which the Navy Department will pay for the construction of these vessels are: For the 4,500-ton ship, the Chicago, $1,248,000; for the 3,000-ton ships, the Boston and Atlanta, $788,000 each; for the despatch boat, not yet named, $300,000. No bids in excess of these figures will be considered.

Assassinated in a Dark Alley.

WATERBURY, Conn., June 7.—At 11½ last night while two Italians were strolling about together, Dominico Denaldo, a barber, remarked to Paolo Cirucci, a carpenter, that he was a better man than the other. Soon afterward, while the two were in a dark alley, Denaldo fell from a stab in his left side near the heart with a dirk. The assassin then fled, and his whereabouts is unknown. Carlucci cannot live.

WERE THERE COUNTERFEIT COUPONS?

The Theory Again Put Forward by the Clerks Mr. Campbell Dismissed.

William C. Emmet and Frank Forrester, the clerks who were recently removed by Comptroller Campbell, testified before the Aldermen's investigating committee yesterday that the coupon thefts in the Finance Department could not, in their opinion, have been committed except by a temporary substitution of counterfeit coupons for the genuine. Clerk Emmet said that Clerk Carroll, who stole the coupons, could have destroyed the counterfeits after they had been paid, as he had entire control of them. Emmet admitted, however, that if the coupons had not been cancelled a second time when they were paid, they might have gone through the department a second time although they had received the first cancellation when first presented.

Alderman Cochrane asked if the witness had ever omitted to cancel coupons when he paid them. He replied that in some instances the punch had not gone through the whole package. But in those cases he had subsequently punched the coupons in which the cancellation was not complete.

Mr. Emmet said that his duty was only to see that the aggregate amount of the coupons corresponded with the sum called for in the warrant. Comptroller Campbell had told him, when he protested against the reduction of his salary from $3,000 to $2,000, that $2,000 a year was ample pay for his services, as he had no responsibility. But after the defalcation had been discovered the Comptroller told him that the fraud could not have been committed if he had been more careful in his work.

Assistant Deputy Comptroller Osborne McDaniel was examined as to the general business methods of the department. Gen. Cochrane asked if the Comptroller paid contractors' bills on the certificate of a head of department, without having the work examined by an expert. Mr. McDaniel replied that such a certificate was accepted as correct, unless the Comptroller suspected that there was something wrong in the bill. In that case the work was first examined.

The investigation will be continued to-day.

BY WIND AND BY LIGHTNING.

One Surf Boat Upset Off Long Branch. Another Missing, and Three Cottages Struck.

LONG BRANCH, June 7.—The loss of three lives and great damage to summer cottage property in this vicinity accompanied yesterday's storm. About twenty surf boats, each manned by two or three fishermen, were at sea when the clouds in the southwest foretold the approach of the storm. Most of the men were from Seabright, Atlantic ville, and Long Branch, and when the storm burst the little fleet had taken up anchor, and was making for the shore as quick as oars could bring them. The storm had been trolling several miles out, off Elberon, for bluefish.

When close to shore one boat, manned by two men, was seen to capsize. Several of the other boats went to the assistance of the struggling men, who were Richard Martin of Seabright and a man named Mullens of Atlantic ville. Both were clad in tarpaulins. Martin, who was unable to swim, was about drowning when Mullens caught him by one hand, while with the other he grasped the upturned boat. When aid came Mullens, who was exhausted, had already lost his hold upon Martin, and was vainly trying to catch the drifting boat again. The rescuers succeeded in bringing Mullens ashore, but Martin had gone down.

Another boat containing two men, who put off from Elberon yesterday morning is missed. Up to noon it had not reached the shore. There is strong reason to believe that it met the same fate as the Seabright boat, and that both men were drowned, though there is a possibility that it may have drifted down the coast or on the wooded beach at Sandy Hook.

At Morrisville lightning struck the unoccupied cottage of Walter Comstock of Philadelphia, setting it on fire and occasioning a loss of $8,000. At Ocean Park the lightning struck the cottage of John Flavell of Newark, and at Elberon the cottage of T. R. Thomas of New York. The damage to each was slight. At White's Corners the barn of Theodore Morris was destroyed. The damage to the costly lawns and driveways by the wind and rain was considerable.

The schooner Mabel Thomas, while stranded at Ocean Park, was struck by lightning and slightly damaged.

American Whiskey in Canada.

OTTAWA, June 7.—Overtures are still being made to the Dominion Government by agents of American distillers with a view to procuring a relaxation of the customs regulations, which prevent the importation of spirits in packages of less than 100 gallons capacity. Over a year ago an order in Council was passed permitting the importation of spirits for manufacturing purposes in thirty-five gallon packages, but American cars recently asked if they could not bring their goods into Canada in bond for reshipment under cover of that order. This was refused, and another request to be allowed to send small quantities into Canada in large packages was disposed of in the same way. Still it is hinted that American whiskey for export has been entered at several ports, though the whole scheme of the United States distillers has been wrecked by the Washington Government, who will, it is said, treat all such spirits, when shipped back, as importations from abroad.

New Hampshire's New Governor.

CONCORD, June 7.—Gov. Samuel W. Hale was inaugurated to-day. In his address he showed that the total revenue of the State the past year amounted to $635,675; expenditures, $792,286, and the indebtedness on June 1, $3,383,000. He recommends that the various benevolent societies organized for cooperative life insurance be required to make annual reports to the State Commissioner of their business. The passage of a new Bankruptcy law and a remedy for double taxation are urged, and the police of prohibition in dealing with the liquor traffic is upheld.
