PIZARRO IN A GREAT RACE.

REMARKABLE FLIGHTS OF SPEED FOR THE EATONTOWN STAKES.

Aella's Game Brush with Parole—Gen. Monroe's Fight with a Large Field—Irequois and Other Great Horses to Race.

A delightful sea breeze tempered the fierce rays of the sun to the thousands of race goers and hundreds of race horses at Monmouth Park yesterday. The bookmakers were in full force and full of business. They had entirely recovered from the depression caused by the departure of the Plunger for England last Saturday, with pockets loaded with money from the forty tin boxes which the miscellaneous betters have so often filled and the Plunger has so frequently emptied.

H. O. Bernard, the rotund follower of the betting man in blue, walked around among the bookmakers distributing thousands of dollars by piecemeal on each race, standing to win quadruple amounts, without disturbing their equanimity in the slightest degree. They say that he only borrows their money occasionally, and is certain to pay heavy interest for a few days' carrying. He lacks the dash and brilliancy of the Plunger, and never takes the fraternity unawares by swamping them through outside parties.

New stakes were added yesterday, one having in view the bringing together of Iroquois, Leonatus, George Kinney, and other great race horses of the country. The first is called the Monmouth Stakes for three-year-olds and upwards, at $500 each, with $5,000 added, $1,000 to second horse, one and a half miles, to be run on Saturday, August 25. Another is the Select Stakes, a post sweepstakes for two-year-olds of $200 each, with $1,000 added, $200 to second, three-quarters of a mile, to be run the same day.

There was a conference between Pierre Lorillard, the Dwyers, and other owners of great horses, and it was understood that enough entries were guaranteed, including Iroquois, Leonatus, the Brooklyn cracks, and others, to make the Monmouth Stakes the racing event of the year, and the two-year-old race one memorable for juveniles.

AELLA BEATS PAROLE.

First came a race of one mile and three-eighths for a purse of $500; weight penalties for winners and allowances for maidens and non-winners. The field comprised P. Lorillard's br. g. Parole, 117 lbs.; C. H. Pettingill's b. g. Fair Count, 110; J. E. Sherman's ch. c. Gath, 98; H. J. Woodford's ch. g. Bill Bird, 105; G. L. Lorillard's b. m. Aella, 103; and Commodore Kittson's br. f. Bric-a-Brac, 85.

Betting—Parole, $75; Aella, $30; Fair Count, $25; field, $10.

The flag fell with Aella, Fair Count, Parole, and Gath in close order, Bill Bird and Bric-a-Brac lagging. When they passed the stand at three-eighths of a mile Aella headed the bunch by a length, Fair Count and Gath lapping in second and third positions. Fair Count clung to Aella, but Gath dropped back into the bunch as rounding turns were taken and backened. Aella retained the lead around the lower turn, half lapped by Fair Count, the others six lengths in the rear. In the last quarter mile Peakes sent Parole for the race. The old horse came on the inside, looking like a winner in the straight, but Fair Count was back, and Parole closed on Aella, but could get no further than to shut out the daylight, Aella winning by a short length, Parole six lengths ahead of Fair Count, Gath, Bill Bird, and Bric-a-Brac following. Time, 2:25¼. Mutuals, $26.85.

ZAMORA PROVES A GOOD ONE.

The second event was a scramble of three-quarters of a mile, for a purse of $500, for two-year-olds, selling allowances. These came to the post: b. c. Commodore Kitson's b. c. Mitchell, 105; Cridge & Co.'s b. c. Red Star, 102; R. W. Walden's ch. c. Chanticleer, 109; P. Lorillard's br. f. Zamora, 86; C. Littlefield's ch. f. Iolanthe, 86, and Bichm & Co.'s br. f. Change, 86.

Betting—Chanticleer, $400; Zamora, $360; Red Star, $200; field, $220.

The six went off at a flying start, Change and Chanticleer heading the squad. The bunch ran well together in a beautiful race, with Change in the lead and the others changing positions rapidly until the last furlong. Here Hyslop brought Zamora up with a rush and she won by a neck. Extending the gap, he landed Zamora winner by four lengths, Red Star second, Chanticleer third, Iolanthe and Change following in order. Time, 1:17⅝. Mutuals, $14.

THE EATONTOWN STAKES.

Next came a mile dash for the Eatontown Stakes, for two-year olds and upwards, at $100 each for starters, with $1,500 added, $500 to second; weight penalties to winners, and allowances to maidens and non-winners. There came to the post from the list of twenty-six nominations, Appleby & Johnson's b. h. Jack of Hearts, 110; P. Lorillard's imp. b. c. Pizarro, 105; D. D. Withers's br. c. Buckstone, 95; Woodford & Keys's b. g. Barnum, 105; Bichm & Co.'s Little Minch, 95; and M. S. Barger's ch. g. Euclid, 95.

Betting—Pizarro, $200; Jack of Hearts, $165; Little Minch, $40; Euclid, $30; field, $25.

The six were off like a flash, well clustered, with Jack of Hearts in the lead. Euclid showed the front rank for a few rounds, when Little Minch made a fast spirt, gaining a lead of six lengths on the backstretch, Euclid racing second, with Pizarro at his flanks. Shauer closed up with Pizarro by a wonderful burst of speed on the bend into the long straight. At the last furlong Pizarro was alongside the van, coming in very fast, Shauer landed Pizarro winner two lengths in front of Jack of Hearts, Little Minch third, followed by Buckstone, Barnum, and Euclid, as named. The mile was run in the remarkably fast time, for the track, of 1:42¾. Mutuals, $11.55.

THE FAVORITE WINS.

A race of one mile and a quarter for a handicap sweepstakes of $25 each, with $500 added, $100 to second, brought to the post Yonkers Stable's c. h. General Monroe, 114 lbs.; M. J. Daly's b. c. Hilarity, 108; G. L. Lorillard's ch. c. Volusia, 107; the same owner's ch. c. Trafalgar, 103; E. V. Snedeker & Co.'s ch. m. Girofla, 104; E. C. Tiffin's b. h. Keno, 103; P. Lorillard's b. f. Amazon, 103; F. Robinson's b. f. Harriet, 97; J. B. Sherman's ch. g. Boz Sedam, 96; Woodford & Keys's br. f. Ida B., 95; C. L. Hunt's ch. c. April Fool, 100; Graham Brothers' ch. g. Brunswick, 90.

Betting—General Monroe, $80; Harriet, Boz Sedam, and Amazon, $40 each; Girofla, $30; field, $60.

Harriet delayed the race half an hour by frisky plunges and attempted runaways. The flag dipped to a fairish start, Boz Sedam, Brunswick, and Amazon in the front rank. Brunswick took command of the lead on the run up the straight. He had an open length the best of the bunch at the beginning of the even mile, which he increased to two at the quarter pole, Volusia running second, lapped by Keno and Boz Sedam. These three held their positions to the lower turn, where General Monroe and Trafalgar were observed pushing through the ruck. Trafalgar failed to keep in the hunt, but General Monroe raced up the straight in strong shape, as did Boz Sedam. Fitzpatrick sent General Monroe to the fore in the last thirty yards, winning the race by half a length. Boz Sedam second, Brunswick a close third, Keno fourth, and Amazon fifth. Time, 2:13. Mutuals, $25.75.

A WIDE-AWAKE WEASEL.

The fifth event was a dash of three-quarters of a mile for a purse of $500, selling allowances. The starters were P. Lorillard's b. f. Battledore, 104 lbs.; J. Walden's ch. f. Chickadee, 104; Clyde Stable's b. g. Weasel, 104; C. H. Pettingill's b. m. Constantina, 102; J. McMahon's b. m. Mary Corbett, 102; J. T. Williams's ch. f. Pearl Thorne, 99; Somerville Stable's b. c. Heck, 99; D. T. Puisifer's ch. f. Louisa P., 99; Bichm & Co.'s b. f. Lena, 91, and F. Robinson's br. f. Clara B., 91.

Betting—Clara B., $50; Chickadee, $40; Battledore, $35; Weasel, $25; field, $50.

Weasel set the pace at a fast clip along the backstretch, with Battledore, Heck, and Constantina at his heels. Chickadee was left at the post, and Louisa P. was out down on the backstretch. Henderson kept Weasel in the clear, and the horse finished strongly, winning the race four lengths ahead of Battledore, Lena lapped to Battledore's neck, Constantina fourth, and Mary Corbett fifth. Time, 1:16¾. Mutual, $34.25. No bids for the winner.

THE HURDLES.

The sport ended with a handicap hurdle race, $400 to first and $100 to second, one mile and a half, over six hurdles. The jumpers were Kinkead, 145; Question, 140; Palanca, 135; Forager, 135; Buster, 148; Bally, 133; Colonel Watson, 130; Greenway, 128.

Betting—Buster, $55; Bally, $50; Forager, $15; field, $20.

Leslie Bruce's wild mare of the plains Palanca, led for a mile with head and tail up, as if sent over the hurdles by a blizzard. Then she began to lag, and Buster and Forager set the pace. When they started up the straight on the home run they were the only horses in the hunt. Forager beat Buster in by a neck, Palanca third, twenty lengths away. Time, 2:51¼. Mutuals, $30.70.

The events for Thursday will be the Barnegat Stakes, for three-year-olds one mile and a half, thirty nominations, and the Tyra Stakes, for two-year olds, three-quarters of a mile, sixty-nine nominations.

Mr. Keene's Victory on the English Turf.

LONDON, July 17.—At the Great Yarmouth meeting to-day the race for the All-aged Maiden Plate was won by J. R. Keene's three-year old bay colt Potosi. Sir T. Sykes's three-year-old brown filly Agnes Sentinck came in second, and Sir Gerald Codrington's three-year-old bay gelding Chorus third. There were five starters. The betting at the stable was five to four against Potosi. Potosi won by half a length. The distance was one mile.

THE RACE ON THE ST. LAWRENCE.

Hanlan and Ross in Fine Trim for To-day's Match for the Championship.

OGDENSBURG, July 17.—The race on the St. Lawrence at this place to-morrow will, from present indications, be the event of the season in professional rowing circles. Both Hanlan and Ross are in excellent condition. Ross looks a little better than Hanlan, who, to a close observer, seems a little fine. Hanlan meets to-morrow the only man, with one or two exceptions in unimportant events, who ever defeated him, and on that occasion Hanlan was also a little fine, and broke down with a stitch in his side. The gallant little Toronto man and his numerous friends are, however, confident of success, and say that he is in as good condition as he needs to be to defeat the big New Brunswicker. Ross and his friends are also very sanguine. Ross said this afternoon that he would give Hanlan all the work he wanted.

Ogdensburg and Prescott, which is directly opposite on the other side of the river, take great interest in the contest, and the citizens of both towns have contributed a purse of $2,000 to be given to the winner. As the race is for $1,000 a side and the championship of the world, the winner of the race will receive a nice little sum for his winter housekeeping expenses.

A grand stand has been erected here opposite the starting point and finish, and several steamboats have been chartered for the accommodation of spectators. A large delegation from Toronto, Montreal, and other Canadian towns arrived here this afternoon, and to-night the hotels are crowded. A grand rush is expected to-morrow. The course is four miles, with a turn, and a surveyor with the judges and referee went over the course this morning and certified to its accuracy.

The race is called for between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock, but in case of rough water it has been agreed to extend the time until 6:45. Should a postponement until the next day be necessary, the race will be rowed between 10 and 12 A. M. or 3 and 6:45 P. M. Hanlan has his headquarters in Ogdensburg, but Ross is at Prescott. A southwest wind lashed the river into white caps to-day, and the rowers omitted their usual practice spin. There was some pool selling this evening with Hanlan $100 and Ross $40, and also $100 to $30 on Hanlan. Small pools were also sold with Hanlan $25 and Ross $10.

The men were weighed to-day, Hanlan tipping the scale at 150 and Ross at 183 pounds.

Hanlan is much put out because Ross has asked C. E. Courtney to officiate as his judge in the referee's boat, and authorizes this statement: "I, Edward Hanlan, will ask Ross to-morrow not to have Courtney connected in any way with this race, and will also ask that he be not allowed on the referee's boat."

HONORS AT WIMBLEDON.

Prizes Won by Two Americans—Preparations for the International Match.

WIMBLEDON, July 17.—In the shooting for the St. Leger prize yesterday five of the contestants, including Hinman of the American team, and Young and Gibbs of the English team, made equal scores, 48 out of a possible 50. In shooting off the ties Hinman made the highest score and was awarded the prize.

The American team to-day completed the contest for the cup and £50 presented specially for their competition. They fired at 200, 500, and 600 yards. The highest scores were made by Joiner and Hinman, who tied. But as Joiner made the best score in last Thursday's shooting, he won the prize. Following is the score:

	200	500	600		200	500	600
	yds.	yds.	yds.		yds.	yds.	yds.
Joiner	29	34	32	Cash	27	30	29
Hinman	30	34	31	Smith	30	30	26
Van Heusen	29	31	28	Shakespeare	28	27	31
Pollard	29	32	30	Dr. Scott	25	32	28
Paulding	31	29	31	Dolan	28	26	28
Lt Walter Scott	29	31	30	Rabbeth	28	28	25
Sawyer	28	32	29	Alder	29	17	17
Howard	29	31	28	Bulr	27	25	28
Brown	29	30	27	Denman	13	20	—

Denman retired ill after shooting at 500 yards.

Three targets have been assigned to the American team for the International match and three to the British team. The names of the twelve men who will compose the American team will be announced on Friday morning, the day the match begins.

NOTES ABOUT THE BOXERS.

What Mace Would Like Slade and Sullivan to Do, and What he Would Like to Do.

Mace was asked yesterday as to the chances of Slade and Sullivan meeting. "Well," said Mace, "I am willing to enter into any square arrangement for Slade to spar Sullivan three or four rounds with soft gloves at Madison Square Garden, the receipts to be shared equally, and I will bet $1,000 that Sullivan does not beat Slade. At any time Sullivan sees fit to make arrangements I will be on hand, but it must be before Slade goes into training for his fight with Mitchell. This match is made, you know, for $2,500 a side, to take place on Sept. 11, near Kansas City, with bare knuckles, under the rules of the London prize ring. I, for my part, am always willing to see Mitchell or Sullivan with soft gloves on the same terms as above stated, as I think there is still one fight left in the old 'un."

Jim Murray says that if Frank White wants to fight him, covering the $250 forfeit already up with Murray's offer to fight any light weight in America for $2,000 is an essential preliminary.

R. K. Fox is willing to back the colored heavy weight pugilist C. A. C. Smith of Port Huron to fight Sullivan, Jack Stewart, or William Sheridt.

Hugh Burns, the middle weight lately imported from England by John Leary, wants to spar Sullivan, Mitchell, or Sheridt four rounds, Marquis of Queensberry rules, for half the gate money and an outside bet of $1,000, or to fight any of them with bare knuckles for any amount.

Mitchell, on his arrival in San Francisco, will box Robinson, the announcer of the Olympic Club who is said to have given Slade too much to do.

James Lynch, who sparred with Mitchell in Albany lately, offers to bet $500 that Mitchell cannot stop him in four rounds.

Base Ball Yesterday.

The contest at Washington Park yesterday between representative nines of the Brooklyn Court House and City Hall brought to the field not only several local political celebrities, such as Assistant District Attorney Backus, Supervisor Callard, Alderman Jas. Casey, and ex-Alderman Jas. Dunne, but also a number of veteran ball tossers, including Zettlein of the Atlantic, Boyd of the Mutual, Price of the Athletic, Clare of the Chelsea, Degnan of the Amity, and Myers of Our Boys. It was a return match, the City Hall team having won the first game by 21 to 5. This time the tables were turned, as the appended score shows:

Court House	2	0	1	4	2	3	4	0	2	—18
City Hall	0	0	5	0	0	0	2	2	0	—9

Earned runs—Court House, 1; City Hall, 1.

First base by errors—Court House, 8; City Hall, 11.

The League games yesterday were:

At Cleveland—New York, 4; Cleveland, 2.

At Detroit—Providence, 4; Detroit, 2.

At Chicago—Chicago, 4; Boston, 0.

At Buffalo—Buffalo, 21; Philadelphia, 6.

In the American arena the games were:

At Baltimore—Athletic, 13; Baltimore, 9.

At Pittsburgh (14 innings)—Allegheny, 7; Metropolitan, 6.

At Louisville—Eclipse, 5; Columbus, 4.

At St. Louis—St. Louis, 5; Cincinnati, 4.

The visiting teams at Washington Park yesterday presented Umpire Daily with their share of the gate receipts.

The Active Club has released Murray and Kelly, and the Anthracite Club has engaged Kelly and Ward for a battery.

Hagan, the new pitcher of the Philadelphia Club, is a failure.

At Washington on Monday—National, 7; Alexandrias, 1.

The game at Lafayette on Saturday between the Front Street Coffee Nine and the Lafayette team was won by the Lafayette team—27 to 10.

The Newark Club played the Easton Club at Newark yesterday. At the end of the second inning when the rain stopped the game, each club had only scored one run.

On the Polo Grounds yesterday the Delaware Club defeated the Alaskas—22 to 5.

Races at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The third day of the summer meeting of the Chicago Driving Park Association was confined to pacing races. The first race was for a purse of $2,000 for the 2:17 pacing class. The race was a procession in each heat, Edwin Thorn leading, followed by Von Arnim and Charley Ford in the order named. Time, 2:20¼, 2:20¼, 2:21¾.

The second race was for a purse of $2,000 open to all pacers. This proved the most interesting event of the meeting thus far. Buffalo Girl was the favorite at the beginning, and was still stronger in the betting after Flora Belle won the first heat. Richhall, the winner, sold in the field for the first three heats. Following is a summary:

Richhall	4	4	1	1
Flora Belle	1	2	3	4
Buffalo Girl	3	1	2	3
Gem	2	3	4	2
Lucy	Distanced.

Time—2:15, 2:14, 2:16¼, 2:19¼, 2:15¾.

Pugilist Smith Meets the Black Diamond.

TROY, July 17.—Prof. C. A. C. Smith of Port Huron, Mich., and Harry Woodson, alias the Black Diamond, the colored pugilists, had three rounds under the Marquis of Queensberry rules in this city to-night. Smith's fine physical appearance was greatly admired. It was evident from the outset that the Diamond was overmatched, and in every round Smith knocked him all around the stage, getting in three or four good blows to every one of Woodson's. Smith is very powerful, and also possesses great science, using both hands with effect. It was the opinion of many sporting men present that Sullivan would have no easy task with him. It was announced for Mr. Fox that he was ready to back Smith against Sullivan, or to fight Slade for $1,000.

Trotting at Mystic Park.

BOSTON, July 17.—This was the opening day of the July meeting at Mystic Park. The track was in good condition. George W. was the favorite in the three minute class race, but only got second place. The race was won by Nellie Hale, who won the first, fourth, and sixth heats, in 2:31¼, 2:35, and 2:33.

Kentucky Wilkes, the favorite, was the winner in the 2:22 class race, in 2:23, 2:25, and 2:24.

Notes of the Stage.

Mr. Ignatius O'Byrne, who is at present playing at the Windsor Theatre, can boast of youth, good spirits, and a fine tongue. He can sing and he can dance and flourish a shillelah. His play of "Erin Asthore" enables him to show off these gifts and accomplishments.

It is said that Miss Ellen Terry is to accompany Mr. Henry Irving to this country in the fall.

SUMMER AMONG THE BOILERS.

Not Much Hotter There Than Elsewhere in the City—Warm Weather Yarns.

Yesterday was an abominably hot day in New York. At 8 o'clock in the morning the thermometer indicated 71°; by 9 o'clock A. M. the mercury had climbed up to 86°, and at 3¼ P. M. had attained the evil eminence of 92°. And there was a sultry heaviness in the air, particularly in the afternoon, that made the day seem even hotter than it really was.

If there is one place in the city that would naturally be imagined superlatively hot in such weather, it is the great boiler house of the New York Steam Company on Greenwich street, near Cortlandt. There are nineteen huge boilers there, supplying all day long 5,000-horse power of steam. The combustion of the many tons of coal required for the development of such power in one building is of itself a hideous thought when the thermometer, in a shady place on the street, shows 92°. But to the astonishment of the reporter who went down there to get a whiff of it, the air in the boiler room was actually a degree lower than in the street. That is because of the huge openings left for a through draught. When the wind is from east or west, the boiler room is actually cooler than the open street, and when the wind is from north or south the temperature there is only two, three, or, at the most, four degrees above that prevailing outside. Down in the pump room, under the sidewalk, where there is little opportunity for ventilation, the mercury rises, however, to 120°, and is near that figure pretty much all the time nowadays. "But," said the genial superintendent, who sat in the door and looked aggravatingly cool, "men can stand it to work in a building or in the fire or boiler room of a steamer, where the temperature is 120°, or even 135°, better than they can in the sun at 90°. We have had nobody sick here from the heat, and no complaints."

The building on Pearl near Fulton street in which is the plant of the Edison Electric Light Company is an old-fashioned storehouse, with very inadequate arrangements for ventilation, and men employed there say that the heat they have to endure, when all the boilers have a full head of steam on and the dynamo machines are all at work, is something terrible. They have become in some degree inured to it, but cannot refrain from complaint about it.

The large building on Stanton street, near Chrystie, in which the United States Electric Light Company have their boilers and dynamos for a large district in that part of the city, has been erected for the purposes to which it is applied, and is therefore admirably well provided with appliances for ventilation. Nevertheless the heat is very great there, especially during the hours between 7 P. M. and 4:30 A. M., when the five boilers of 250 horse power each and three long rows of dynamo machines are in full operation. The dynamo room is hotter than the boiler room, for it is in the back of the building and is worse ventilated; but the broad attic room, where a number of workmen are employed day and night, is the hottest place in the building. There the inmates get a full benefit from the boilers underneath them, while at the same time the sun's ardent rays are beating down upon the low roof close above their heads. The dynamos are not run during the day, but the fires under the boilers are banked up, and there is heat enough comes out all the time from that big boiler room, the tunnel-like entrances to which are sealed, to make the passer-by think of the breath of a blast furnace. The man in charge of the place during the day said that they had no thermometer to inform them what heat they were in, and they did not feel as if they wanted any.

There was a constant throng all day long about the ice water fountain maintained by the Moderation Society at the lower end of the Post Office, and every possible condition of life seemed to be represented in the thirsty multitude gathered there. A dozen men at a time took the mugs from the hands of brawny, shirt-sleeved truckmen; merchants were jostled by tramps, newsboys drank until they almost seemed to swell, and immigrants, in long-drawn-out bands, flung themselves upon the unexpected relief with fierce enthusiasm, and moved on reluctantly. In one of the gangs of Italian immigrants was a girl apparently not more than 14 years of age, who was so infuriated by a boy—one of her own party—clutching a mug from her in his eagerness to take his third drink that she drew a stiletto and made a slash at his face, inflicting a slight flesh wound on his cheek before she could be restrained.

Three able-bodied liars met at Bauer's house took off their hats to feel the wind from the fans overhead, buried their noses in the froth of the foaming beakers of beer before them, and opened the exchange. Said one: "I was amused a little bit ago by the rage of a Washington Market woman, who incautiously exposed a basket of eggs to the sun while she gossiped for a few minutes with a friend in the shade. The eggs were all roasted, and as numbers of them burst in the cooking her stock was all lost." Said the second: "The crew of a small schooner going up the East River yesterday afternoon had a narrow escape. Their vessel was laden with sulphur, which the sun's rays set on fire, and they had to abandon her and swim to shore, while she drifted up with the tide, spreading Plutonian fumes far and wide until she sank." The third leaned himself and narrated: "Some darky stevedores were loading pig lead on a steamer lying at a North River wharf, but had to stop about 3 o'clock when the sun was hottest. They had to carry them on their shoulders up a gang plank to the steamer's deck, and before they could get the leaden pigs from the shade of the wharf under cover on the steamer, the heat of the sun on that exposed gangplank would melt the lead and cause it to run down them and spatter into the water."

STRIKING 'LONGSHOREMEN.

Trouble Among the Laborers Employed at Two Brooklyn Storehouses.

About fifty 'longshoremen employed by Cushman & Co., lessees of the Prentice stores on the Brooklyn river front, who are at present on strike, induced a similar number of men employed by Bartlett & Co., at the stores at the foot of Sedgwick street, to go on strike yesterday. Cushmen's men struck on Monday because their employers would not pay them 25 instead of 20 cents an hour. The employers sent a steam tug to Castle Garden and engaged about eighty immigrants. The strikers congregated on the wharf and would not let the new men land. The police finally drove them away, and remained to protect the new men. After the day's work was done the latter were taken back to Castle Garden. Yesterday they were again conveyed to the store.

Knots of men congregated yesterday on Furman street discussing the situation. The strikers assert that they are only demanding the price that is paid in other storehouses to the laborers during the present busy season, and say they are confident of success, as the employers will find that the greenhorns they have hired cannot perform the services required of them. The men from Bartlett's wharf complain of no cause of complaint. They say Bartlett & Co. pay some of their laborers twenty-five cents an hour while to others they pay only twenty cents.

The employers say they are resolved to hold out against the demands of the men. They assert that they can get all the help they want at the old prices, and are willing to content themselves with green hands at present. Bartlett & Co. deny that favoritism exists at their stores, but say that efficient men are worth five cents more than the ordinary shore laborers, and so they pay them five cents more.

Sale of Thoroughbreds.

Previous to the races at Monmouth Park yesterday, Col. S. D. Bruce sold for Mr. Withers and other owners a lot of thoroughbred brood mares, horses in training, and yearlings. The horses, buyers, and prices were as follows: Frey, imp. b. m., 1870, by Dundee, $115; W. Jennings; Polka, imp. br. m., 1869, by Reginald, $140; S. E. Haskins; Enchantress, ch. m., 1863, by Lexington, $25; G. B. Walsh; Belle of Harlem, b. m., 1878, by Virgil, $230; H. O. Bernard; Mark, b. h., 1870, by King Ernest, $360; W. J. Daly; chestnut colt, 1882, by Macaroon, $125; T. M. West; Retort, b. g., 1880, $505, M. C. Daly; chestnut filly, 1880, by King Ernest, $700, H. O. Bernard; Shortcake, ch. m., 1878, by Macaroon, $500, T. Hernan; Gray Bonnet, g. f., 1881, by King Alfonso, $225, W. Jennings; Blue Ridge, ch. f., 1880, by Kentucky, $170, R. Bradley; Thief, b. c., 1881, by Glenelg, $400, P. Duffy; chestnut gelding, 1879, by Stonelinks, $600, C. Caldwell; bay colt, 1882, by King Ernest, $300, A. Refusal to Pardon a Defaulter.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 17.—Gov. Hamilton has declined to pardon Charles W. Angell, who was convicted in 1879 of embezzling a large sum of money from the Pullman Palace Car Company. Angell surrendered himself to the United States authorities in Portugal, and turned over to the Pullman Company $80,000 of the stolen funds. The petition for his release was signed by many citizens. A dozen jurymen who were those of the Prosecuting Attorney and Judge before whom he was tried. He has six years longer to serve.

Taxing Tobacco and Sugar.

HAVANA, July 17.—Advices from San Domingo say that Congress has fixed the export duty on tobacco at $1.50 per quintal for shipments made from February to June, and only 50 cents per quintal for shipments between June and February. The object is to prevent the exportation of immature tobacco. Congress has also put an import duty of 12 per cent. on Mexican silver.

Small Damage to the Niagara.

HAVANA, July 17.—During the progress of the fire on the Niagara last Thursday thirty cases of combustibles were thrown overboard. A large part of the steamer's cargo was much damaged. The vessel itself is intact. It is announced that she will sail for New York on next Thursday.

LETTERS ABOUT HIS DEATH.

An ex-Clergyman's Return from his Wanderings—Unequal to Suicide.

J. C. Nobles, who twenty years ago left the Methodist ministry to engage in secular business enterprises, has lived for the last two years at the Atlantic Highlands, New Jersey, with his wife and family. His ventures all ended badly for him, and when he began to talk of killing himself his friends had him sent to the Binghamton Asylum. He was released several months ago, apparently improved in health. His friends say that his efforts to meet the claims of creditors upon him caused a relapse, from which he had suffered for the last month. He was a sufferer from acute neuralgia also.

Last Friday he left his home and did not return. Early yesterday morning he appeared at the house of Mr. J. C. Mitchell, 80 Washington square, east. He was haggard and exhausted, and had been wandering about the streets all night.

His son, W. A. Nobles, who had come to the city from Philadelphia to look for him, learned that his father had registered at the Merchants' Hotel, in Cortlandt street, on Friday. On Saturday night he wrote a long letter to the Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, editor of the Christian Advocate. It was headed "Suicide of J. C. Nobles." It contained a review of his life and misfortunes, attributing the latter and the dreadful end which he was about to put to his life to his unpardonable sin of turning back after he had put his hand to the plough, and deserting the ministry. He wrote that he had left the pulpit thinking he could make more money as a business man, but had made a mistake, and failed. He further said that he had deceived Mr. A. V. Stout of the Stove and Leather Bank, and other bankers, by misrepresenting his financial condition.

Mr. Nobles enclosed this obituary material in a letter to the Tribune, asking to have it published if possible, or if not, to have it delivered to Dr. Buckley. He wrote that he had chosen the deathlet Preston King (who, with weights in his pockets, threw himself from a ferryboat) in order to save his family from the expense of burying him, for which he said they had no money.

After despatching the letter on Sunday, Mr. Nobles wrote other letters to his relatives in the Highlands and to friends in Newark, informing them of what he had written and what he intended to do. He remained at the hotel till after breakfast on Monday morning.

At Mr. Mitchell's house, he said that he had wandered about Jersey City and Hoboken with the intention of drowning himself, but had been overcome by fear and had abandoned the design. He said that he had gone so far as to tie a brick around his neck as well, and in the end of a North River pier. A stone was found in one of his pockets. His friends say that he will probably be sent to an asylum for treatment after he is sufficiently recovered to be able to be removed. His wife came to town yesterday to nurse him.

Mr. Nobles began preaching in western New York when a young man. He is now 55. He left the ministry twenty years ago, and engaged in the publishing business, with but poor success. About two years ago he established the Atlantic Highlands Herald, and also began publishing Sunday school cards. About the same time he went extensively into real estate speculation in connection with the Atlantic Highlands Association. He sold a number of lots in the Highlands as an agent. His affairs became unsettled, however, and he sold the copyright of his Sunday school cards to the Methodist Book Concern, disposed of his interest in the Herald, and in a large measure abandoned his real estate operations. He borrowed money of Mr. A. V. Stout and others to tide over his difficulties, but was unable to repay it.

Mr. Everett, with whom Mr. Nobles was in partnership in the publication of the Herald, said yesterday: "Mr. Nobles's troubles have apparently driven him crazy. He gave his creditors every cent he could scrape together, and now I suppose he will go to Europe. He is the world. He was another Oil Sellers in business. He thought there were millions in everything he took hold of. But failure plunged him into the deepest dejection. At one time he drank hard, but for the last two years he has not touched liquor. He smoked incessantly."

Dr. Buckley was out of town yesterday. His assistant knew little of Mr. Nobles. A clergyman in the Methodist Book Concern said that just before Nobles became a real estate agent for the Highlands Association he established a company to manufacture a patent lock invented by Bishop Foster, and undertook to push its sales. The enterprise collapsed, and caused a loss to every one interested.

Mr. A. V. Stout was out of town. His brother said that Mr. Nobles had secured an advance of several hundred dollars from Mr. Stout by representing his financial condition to be sound. That was all Mr. Stout ever had to do with him.

The Striking Packing Box Makers.

Fifteen employees of Orr, Fowler & Co., lumber dealers and box manufacturers, in Greenpoint, who are members of the Packing Box Sawyers' Union, went on strike on Monday because the firm reduced the wages of five of their number. They alleged that the firm wanted to get rid of the union men in their employ, and had cut their pay to accomplish that end. A member of the firm said yesterday:

"Recently during a dull time in our business we laid off five responsible non-union men and put in their places union men. While increasing somewhat the responsibilities of the men we did not increase their pay, because business was dull. The union men rebelled, and tried to dictate to us what salaries we should pay. We promptly discharged them and secured the services of non-union men. Now all our employees are non-union men, and we do not anticipate any more trouble."

A Way to Break Up Gambling on Coney Island.

Assistant District Attorney Backus of Kings county said yesterday that if anybody brings him proof of the existence of gambling at Coney Island he will see to it that complaints are put in proper shape and that orders of arrest are issued against the gamblers and duly executed. He has no detectives to send to the island to collect testimony.

Inspector and Chief of Police McKane of Gravesend knows of the existence of gambling on Coney Island and does not exert himself to stop it, he is rendering himself liable to prosecution. If any man, he says, will furnish him evidence that Mr. McKane is thus neglecting his duty he will proceed against him.

Dorsey—Van Name.

Thomas H. Dorsey of Bergen, N. J., a son of T. W. Dorsey, a wholesale oyster dealer at the foot of Charles street, in this city, was married yesterday to Miss Carrie S. Van Name, daughter of D. W. Van Name, the largest oyster planter and dealer along the shores of Prince's Bay and the Great Kills. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents, in Totten-ville, Staten Island, the Rev. W. H. Smith of St. Paul's Methodist Church, in that village, officiating. It was said that among the guests half of the wholesale oyster trade of New York was represented. One of the wedding presents was a deed of a dwelling house in which the couple will reside after their wedding tour.

Doctors Among the Children.

Assistant Sanitary Superintendent Janes reported to the Health Board yesterday that the summer corps of visiting physicians in their first week of service visited 3,727 houses, containing 17,221 families, and treated 621 cases of illness. They also distributed 1,501 sanitary circulars giving advice for hot weather, and gave away 551 free excursion tickets of the Floating Hospital of St. John's Guild. Of the cases treated 360 were diarrhœal, 81 were malarial, 36 were contagious, but of a mild type, and the rest were miscellaneous. Two of the cases treated proved fatal. The disinfecting corps disinfected 300 houses and 28 miles of streets last week.

George Ebert Again Arrested.

Mrs. Mary Weiger of Woodhaven, in the town of Jamaica, Long Island, caused the arrest of Geo. Ebert of the same place yesterday in filiation proceedings. Ebert is a married man, and with his wife was indicted for grand larceny at the June term of the Queens County Court on the complaint of Mrs. Weiger, and at the last term of court they were discharged. Ebert says the proceedings are instituted against him for the purpose of extorting money. Justice Betts of Jamaica placed him under bonds to appear for examination on next Wednesday.

A Story from Paterson.

August Ricker's horse, attached to a cart, got frightened at an approaching Erie train yesterday at Riverside, Paterson, and ran away down the track, the cart bumping over the ties. Mr. Ricker, heedless of the approaching train, ran down the track to catch his horse. The locomotive first caught Ricker and tossed him off the track, with only a few bruises. Then the horse and cart were struck, and after a smashing collision the cart was left right side up on one side of the track. The only injury was a smashed tailboard.

Responsible for Gilroy's Death.

The Coroner's jury in the case of Lawrence Gilroy, who was killed on July 6 by the explosion of an oil still at the Kings County Oil Works, found, yesterday, that the proprietors were responsible for his death through the negligence of their officials in running leaky stills, the same not being properly inspected, and they recommend that a competent inspector be appointed by the city authorities to inspect oil stills.

Thrown from the Track by a Cow.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., July 17.—A freight train on the Reading Railroad ran over a cow about a mile from here this afternoon and was wrecked, twelve cars being thrown from the track. William Thomas of this place was killed and James Hoffman, a brakeman, was seriously injured. Thomas, who was a travelling salesman, was warned by the train hands not to ride on the train.

Stealing from a Rubber Factory.

NEW HAVEN, July 17.—J. E. Casen and his son Thomas (colored) and Andrew Lehman were arrested to-day for stealing Para gum and India rubber from the factory of L. Candee & Co. It is thought they have stolen about $5,000 worth of goods. Some of the property was traced to New York city, where it was found in junk shops.

The Rev. Dr. Hornblower's Funeral.

The late Rev. Dr. Hornblower, who died at Allegheny city, Pa., on Monday, was for twenty-seven years pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Paterson, and his funeral will take place from that church to-morrow afternoon. His sister married Justice Bradley.
