THE BRITISH RIFLEMEN WIN.

MAKING THEIR GAINS ON THE 900 AND 2,000 YARDS RANGES.

The Americans 24 Ahead at the End of the Firing at the 800 Yards Range—An Almost Continuous Downpour of Rain During the Shooting—The British Win by 45 Points.

WIMBLEDON, July 21.—The second day of the international military rifle match opened most inauspiciously as regards the weather. A heavy shower fell about the time fixed for the shooting to begin, but passed over only to return as the telephone bell to the butts was rung to warn the markers. All the marksmen were huddled up in waterproof coats or military cloaks. A very meagre crowd gathered at the ropes which marked off the international range, among whom the eye could not discern a single lady. The Americans arrived in camp at 10:30, at which hour the rain was pouring down, converting the ground into pools of water. They were all well and confident. At 11 A. M. they went to the point of firing in a heavy shower. At 11:22 the rain ceased and the competitors began to "blow off."

At 11¾, when firing began at the 800 yards range, it began to rain again. The light, however, was good, and the wind was moderate, blowing from the targets. Major Young of the British team opened the ball with a "magpie," and Smith, on the part of the Americans, responded with an inner, both shots being high up to the left. Then, to the consternation of the British, the famous McVittie followed with a miss. George Joiner next scored an outer for America, which was responded to by an outer for England. Lowe (British) and Cash (American) both made misses on their first shots. Pearse (British) missed on the sixth shot. The Americans were shooting splendidly. After the first dozen shots the rain again descended in such torrents as to cause a temporary cessation of the shooting.

The officer in charge of the range, however, reminded both sides half jocularly that the council had given no order to cease firing. The rain ceased soon afterward, the sun shone out and, firing began again. At the sixteenth shot the scoring of the teams was level. Both sides seem to have got the proper elevation. At 1 P. M., in a heavy rain storm, the firing at the 800 yards range was completed, and the result showed 346 points for the Americans and 330 for the British. The following are the scores in detail:

The last shots at the 800 yards range were fired in a downpour of rain. A heavy thunder cloud came up from windward, and a storm of thunder and lightning broke over the Common. The range was quickly evacuated, the crowd seeking shelter under the great tent and restaurant, where the band of the Victoria Rifles made an admirable attempt to enliven the day by playing a selection of popular tunes, such as "The Star Spangled Banner," "Yankee Doodle," and "Auld Lang Syne." The British attributed the fact of their being so far behind to their not having rested enough, as they had been firing with all sorts of rifles at the various ranges up to the day previous to the match.

This afternoon the attendance was very large. The firing at the 900-yards range was begun at 2 P. M. The weather continued unfavorable, the wind having risen during the interval for lunch, but the sun was shining brightly. The first shot was fired by Young of the British team, who scored an outer.

Pearse (British) and Lowe (British) both missed on their first shots, and Lieut. Walter Scott (American) missed on his second shot at 900 yards. At that time rain was again falling hard. Bull (American) missed on his third shot at 900 yards, and Smith (American) missed on his fourth shot. Smith challenged the decision as to his shot, but it was confirmed. Joiner also missed on his fourth shot. At this time the rain had ceased. Hinman (American) missed on his fourth shot, and Lieut. Walter Scott scored another miss. The completion of the shooting at the 900 yards showed a substantial gain for the British riflemen, who scored 299 against 263 for the Americans. The full scores are as follows:

At 4¼ o'clock the firing at the 1,000 yards range was begun. Young (British) and Smith (American) missed their first shots. Rain was then again falling heavily. Dolan, Pollard, and Hinman (Americans) also missed on the first round, thus giving five misses in that round by the Americans. Young (British) missed three times running. During all this time the rain was falling in torrents, and the shooting on both sides was very bad. The Americans improved in their firing as the shooting in the final stage progressed. The British also improved, and made four bull's eyes. The full scores at the 1,000 yards range were as follows:

On the conclusion of the match the crowd broke through the ropes. Earl Brownlow, in a short speech, thanked the Americans for coming to England, and said he hoped that the bonds of affection would be maintained between England and the great country the Americans represented. His remarks were greeted with great cheering. Col. Howard returned thanks on behalf of the American team. He said the Americans hoped to take their beating gracefully. They had backbone enough left to join in cheering the British team and nation. The crowd then dispersed. Many officers shook hands warmly with the Americans.

After returning from the range the Americans dressed in full uniform, preparatory to being received by the Duchess of Teck, who was giving away the prizes. The Americans marched into the enclosure in military order. Lord Brownlow invited them to take a position on the principal platform, which was reserved for State visitors. The sun was shining brightly. The Duchess of Teck shook hands with each of the Americans.

LONDON, July 21.—The Lord Mayor will entertain the American rifle team at luncheon at the Mansion House next Tuesday.

In front of every bulletin board in New York yesterday a crowd stood until the last news of the match was posted up. The larger proportion of the gazers were Englishmen or English sympathizers. Comparatively few Americans paid much attention to the scores, and those who did showed little anxiousness at the result. But the Englishmen were much exasperated. In front of the Times office a tall Englishman lost his temper when the result of the 800 yards range was posted, and looked around him in search of a fight. He had no trouble at all in getting one, for a short but powerful Yankee, who said he came from Chicago, answered the challenge in his eye. He was skilful, but so was his opponent, and the Chicago man was knocked down in the first round, which lasted about a second and a half. In the next round he sent the Englishman to the sidewalk in about a second and three-quarters. The third round was still undecided when a policeman was seen approaching, and the men separated. The Chicagoan, who was slightly intoxicated, removed his hat and remarked politely, but mysteriously, "Whenever you please, sir." The Englishman, fully as polite, and a little more drunk, responded poetically, "Whenever we meet again." The crowd cheered them heartily, and kept in the way of the policeman. Aside from this little encounter the utmost good humor prevailed everywhere.

When the American team left this city for England, Private Frank Stuart of the Sixty-ninth Regiment was considered one of its number. He had, it was supposed, won a place on the team by an unusually good score at Creedmoor. Previous to the departure of the team Stuart declared his intention of wearing the uniform of his regiment at Wimbledon, in place of the State uniform, which was to be worn by the other members of the team. Pressure was brought to bear upon him to induce him to reconsider this decision, but he refused on the ground that as the Sixty-ninth Regiment had not yet adopted the State uniform, he could not anticipate its adoption, and must wear the colors of his regiment. The regiment presented him with a handsome new uniform and $360 toward defraying his expenses.

Nothing more was thought of the uniform episode until the cable brought word that Stuart had lost his place on the team and been put among the reserves. In view of his good score at Creedmoor, the story was started that he had not been allowed to shoot because he insisted on wearing the uniform of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, which, with its shamrocks and its plume having the green above the red, was supposed to be distasteful to the Englishmen. The following letter shows the light in which his exclusion is regarded by some persons:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: Is there any reason why Stuart was debarred from shooting in the American team at Wimbledon outside the fact that he is an Irishman and a member of a distinctively Irish Volunteer Corps?

His score has been above the average in the trial practices here, and we therefore attribute the fact of his being passed over to—well, to this item of intelligence which has been specially wired under the Atlantic:

"The Captain of the American team will have the distinguished honor of dining with the Prince and Princess of Wales this evening."

Stuart anticipated something like this before he left New York, and the Anglomania craze which dishonors and disgraces Americans has given a pointed emphasis to his prediction.

MEMBER COMPANY C, SIXTY-NINTH REGIMENT.

When James Moran, the Adjutant of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, was asked about the uniform episode last evening he said that it was true that the other members of the team wished Stuart to wear the State uniform. He did not know, however, that his exclusion from the shooting was due to his insisting on wearing the uniform of the regiment. He had too high an opinion of the gentlemen composing the American team to believe that they would be actuated by any such snobbish desire to propitiate their English hosts as was imputed to them. He had no doubt that Stuart was excluded from the team for good and sufficient reasons. For instance, in spite of his good score at Creedmoor he might have shot poorly in the practice games at Wimbledon. The team, indeed, was not made up until the last moment, after practice on English soil, and Stuart, at the eleventh hour, might have been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

The members of the National Rifle Association take the same view of the matter as Mr. Moran.

Barney Aaron, Glentennis, and Plunger came along at a terrific pace close to the fence on the outside of the track. Not the difference of a hair could be discernible. But Glentennis won by a short nose, Plunger second, Barney Aaron disqualified. Time, 1:32. Mutuals paid $30.65. The excitement over this race was intense, as it was a mooted question who won it, and when the judges finally awarded the race to Centennial and announced that Henderson, the jockey of Barney Aaron, was ruled off the track, cheers went up from 3,000 throats, and it was some time before the applause subsided.

The Last of the Union Grounds.

The old Union Base Ball Grounds in Brooklyn, several blocks in extent, after twenty years of service, are at last being cut up into streets. As the work of filling in goes on the base ball clubs which play there, and which have increased from four or five to fifteen or twenty every afternoon, move before it. When one diamond is partly covered by the workmen another is laid out.

The grounds were first used by the old Eckford Club in 1862, and then by the Atlantics, and latterly by the Mutual Club.

Return of the Ninth Regiment.

The Ninth Regiment arrived home at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the steamer Long Branch. Officers and men were all well, and highly satisfied with their week's encampment. They marched through West Twenty-second street to their armory. The Buffalo Seventy-fourth Regiment and three separate companies, which will arrive on the grounds this morning, will close the camping season.

Flags Flown by Mistake.

The flags on the City Hall were flying most unceremoniously yesterday morning. Various causes were assigned. The fact was that the flags were put up by mistake, in anticipation of the visit on Tuesday next, when they are to be flown in honor of the memory of Simon Bolivar, at the request of citizens of Bolivia, who are to have a celebration on that day.

Only a Slight Collision.

While a commission train was being backed into the yard of the elevated road at Ninety-ninth street and Third avenue yesterday morning it was run into by a locomotive which had been at the coaling station. The head of the cylinder of the locomotive was broken, and some of the mouldings and panes of the cars were scratched and slightly damaged.

Abram Warne Drowned.

MATAWAN, July 21.—Abram Warne of the firm of H. & A. Warne, produce commission merchants of Washington Market, was drowned while out clamming this afternoon near Fort Monmouth.

A RACE LOUDLY HISSED.

ASSURANCE HAS FOUR LENGTHS GIVEN TO HIM AT THE START.

He Wins by the Same Distance—Rica, Lerna, Buckstone, Barnum, Bancroft, and Charlemagne also Winners at Monmouth Park.

The peculiar spectacle of three thousand people hissing a race from start to finish was one of the exciting incidents that varied the racing contests at Monmouth Park yesterday afternoon. Oarsman Hanlan was among those who applauded the six other trials of speed. The sport opened with a mile dash for a $500 purse for horses three years old and upward, which brought into the field Woodford's Harry Mann, 88 pounds; D. D. Withers's Duplex, 108; Hopson Brothers' Delilah, 86; Mr. Kelso's Rica, 106; McMahon's Frankie B., 101, and Appleby & Johnson's Jack of Hearts, 113.

Jack of Hearts was favorite in the pools at $200; Harry Mann selling for $50; Delilah, $15; Rica, $8, and Duplex, $4.

Rica by a superb spurt carried the white and blue colors under the string a winner by half a length in 1:43¾. Duplex was third, a length behind the favorite. Mutuals, $58.75.

The Free Handicap Sweepstakes, three-quarters of a mile, for two-year-olds, of $25 each with $500 added, the second horse to take $100 out of the stakes, followed. It was contested by Kitson's Albia, 95 lbs.; Hunt's Nodaway, 95; Bruce's Economy, 103; G. L. Lorillard's unnamed Glenelg-Stamps filly, 107; Preakness Stable's Himalaya, 100; Clipsiana Stable's Sonnet, 93; J. R. Kelly's unnamed King Alfonso-Lerna filly and Lisbon-Emeti filly, 100 each.

In the pools the Stamps filly and Sonnet sold for $200; Himalaya, $140; Lerna filly, $200; Albia, $100; Economy, $80; Nodaway, $40.

The Lerna filly won in 1:16¾. Himalaya was second, three-quarters of a length before the Stamps filly. Mutual pools, $28.10. Mr. Kelly named the filly Sister directly after her victory.

The third race was a mile dash for the Midsummer Handicap Sweepstakes of $50 each, with $500 added, the second to take $150 of the stakes. The bell brought out Blohm & Co.'s Little Minch, 100 pounds; Ryan's Caramel, 87; Somerville's Sweet Home, 115; P. Lorillard's Amazon, 103; Preakness Stable's Virginette, 85; D. D. Withers's Buckstone, 100; G. L. Lorillard's Magnate, 93, and Berry's John Henry, 110.

Little Minch sold for $360 in the pools, Buckstone for $200, Sweet Home for $120, Amazon for $110, and the field $100.

Buckstone won by five lengths in 1:43. Little Minch was second, a length in front of Caramel. Mutuals, $22. Magnate was terribly cut down on the backstretch while third in the race. His hoof was nearly torn off.

A mile-and-a-half run for the free handicap sweepstakes of $30 each, with $600 added, the second to take $125 out of the stakes, was next contested. The string that entered were Daly's Hilarity, 106; Appleby and Johnson's Altair, 87; G. L. Lorillard's Volusia, 106; Hunt's Bernice, 103; Snediker's Miss Lumley, 100; Woodford's Barnum, 85. The pools sold, Volusia, $25; Barnum, $25; and $15 on each of the others.

Barnum with a magnificent spurt finished amid cheers a winner by four lengths. Time, 2:39¼. Altair was second, with a similar lead over Volusia. Mutuals paid $23.95.

The fifth race was for the $500 purse for three-year-olds and upward, the winner to sell at auction for $2,000. It was a scramble of seven furlongs. There were entered Appleby and Johnson's Bancroft, 110 lbs.; Walden's Antrim, 96; G. L. Lorillard's Fearless, 81; Cridge & Co.'s Colonel Watson, Prior's Virgil-Friday filly, Bruce's Jersey Maid, and Joseph Straithspey. Bancroft sold for $300; Antrim, $75; Strathspey, $90; Fearless, $35, and field, $50.

Bancroft won by a full length in 1:29½. Strathspey was two lengths ahead of Antrim, who was third. Mutuals paid $9.20.

Next came a three-quarter mile dash for a handicap sweepstakes of $25 each, with $300 added, $75 to go to the second. The entries were Purdy's Flower of Meath, 155; Kenny's Assurance, 140; Donohue, Jr.'s, Rochester, 140; and Lovell's Aurelius, 135. Assurance sold favorite for $200; Flower of Meath, $140; Aurelius, $80; and Rochester, $40.

The tip went all over the grounds that Assurance was sure to win. He got four lengths over Aurelius and twenty lengths over Rochester by one of the worst starts ever witnessed on the grounds. The throng of spectators hooted in derision and anger. When Assurance came in a leader by four lengths in 1:18¾ a storm of hisses again rent the air. They were prolonged for many minutes. Starter Pincus took off his hat. At this the hissing was redoubled, and the angry crowd cried out:

"No, Pincus! No, Pincus! Run it over again! Give us something fair anyhow."

When the boards went up announcing Assurance as winner, the indignation broke out afresh a third time, and about five hundred excited men pressed around Mr. Withers and yelled, "Declare bets off." The Paris pools men paid $10.55 on each ticket.

The day closed with a handicap steeplechase over the full course for a purse of $600, $100 to go to second horse.

The starters were Duffy's Tonawanda, 145 pounds; Kinsly's Yonkers, 130; Dawes's Charlemagne, 148; Garson's Abraham, 125; and Shrewsbury Stable's Roll Call, 125.

Tonawanda had the best of the first half of the long chase, but was passed at the water leap by Yonkers. The gelding held the advantage but an instant. Then Charlemagne came to the front in beautiful style, and won under pull in 5:27¼, beating Abraham half a length. Mutuals, $15.

SATURDAY, July 21.

There was a pretty general improvement in the stock market to-day. Less pressure to sell and a moderate demand caused an advance in prices during the morning hours. After 1 P. M. some of the early advance was lost, but a considerable movement and decided advance in Richmond and Danville was an exceptional feature. In the last hour there was renewed strength, and New York Central was active, but otherwise business was slow, and the close quiet.

The more important changes for the day were:
