STRIVING BEFORE MR. EATON.

Seven Women and Nine Men Mentally Exhibited to the Government.

Seven women and nine men occupied desks in room 107 on the fourth floor of the Federal Building yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. They were applicants for places in the "departmental service" of the United States. Each had declared himself or herself to be, in the language of the application paper, "not under 18 nor over 45 years of age," had given his or her "actual, bona fide, legal residence," had written the date and place of his or her birth to the best of his or her "information and belief," and had answered the question, "Are you a person habitually using intoxicating beverages to excess?" in the negative.

Of the seven women three were young, well dressed, and good looking; three were apparently between 30 and 40, and one seemed to be on the verge of 60. The men were seemingly between 28 and 45 years of age, and looked as if they followed either sedentary occupations or were gentlemen of leisure. None looked as if he were a "person habitually using intoxicating beverages to excess." Two of the men were baldheaded, and one wore glasses. All were neatly and some were well dressed.

Dorman B. Eaton, Charles Lyman of Washington, and Secretary Post and Mr. Grover of the New York Post Office occupied seats on the teachers' platform. The applicants received papers containing questions in orthography, arithmetic, English grammar, and the history, geography, and Government of the United States. Five of the applicants competed for 1900 places, and the rest for $1,200 places. Mr. Eaton was a spectator merely. Mr. Lyman elucidated knotty points for the applicants through the agency of Messrs. Post and Grover. When an applicant lost hope and got vertigo in following the twistings of a civil service conundrum, he would raise his hand, and Mr. Post would respond to the applicant's signal of distress, and communicate the cause of it to Mr. Lyman, who would straighten matters to the best of his ability.

A young lady was the first to signal Mr. Post that she had completed her examination. Her papers were taken, and she went home. Four more applicants went out shortly afterward. At 3 P. M. there were four women and six men puzzling over their papers. The oldest lady seemed to be in the greatest quandary. She wore a pair of gold eyeglasses, which she put on and off very frequently. They persisted in falling from her nose, and appeared to cause her as much trouble as the questions. She often required the services of Mr. Post. A bald-headed man with a long reddish brown mustache in a front desk heaved a great many sighs, and occasionally shook his head at Mr. Post in a hopeless, you've-got-me-there manner. Now and then he would scratch his head as if he expected some solution of the questions to come up to the scratch. A man with a Sir Walter Raleigh beard and pale blue eyes tapped his forehead nervously over some of the questions, and looked as if he thought the answers ought to be on tap. A pale little young woman in black, whose anxious-eyed mother sat at the door of the room, scribbled away without once requiring the intermediation of Mr. Post.

Mr. Lyman said that the examination was the first of its kind that had taken place in this city. Mr. Eaton said that the applicants were selected according to their merit and regardless of their political affiliations or beliefs. The applicants did not get through with their examination until 4 o'clock.

An Unexpected Verdict.

A suit for damages against two Ann street saloon keepers was tried yesterday in the First District Court, before Judge Norton and a jury. The plaintiff was a bookseller, who claimed that the defendants negligently allowed water to leak through their floor and damage books belonging to him in the basement. He sued for $88.71.

The case was tried with great care and very elaborately on both sides. Law books were produced, ornate arguments were made, a model in pasteboard depicting the situation where the leak occurred was put in evidence, and five witnesses were examined and cross-examined. The jurors were six in number. Their residences were stated in the jury list to be in West street and adjacent thoroughfares. They sat together in one corner of the court room, listening to the trial with a very knowing appearance.

After four hours of testimony and argument counsel minced matters and the court charged the jury that if they found for the plaintiff they should return a verdict for $88.71, or such other sum as they judged the damage to be; otherwise they should return a verdict for the defendants.

They presently returned to the court room, and announced that their verdict was "Not guilty."

Mr. Crawford's Explanation.

James Crawford, the Brooklyn druggist who was arrested on Thursday on a charge of having caused the death of Mrs. Boyd, his mother-in-law, in an old hut near Freeport, is confined in the Queens county jail. Yesterday he had an interview with his counsel, who told him that he would have to remain in jail for the present, as the authorities refused to admit him to bail. Crawford said he had nothing to do with his mother-in-law's death, and claimed that he always treated her kindly. He said he took her sailing in his yacht for the benefit of her health, and took her to the hut on Meadow Island because she would not go to a hotel. He asserts there is no foundation for the story that Mrs. Boyd was poisoned. He says the authorities will discover that they have made a serious mistake in locking him in jail on a charge of murder. Owing to information furnished by Capt. Murphy of the Brooklyn police, the Queens county authorities have decided to search Crawford's yacht, now lying at a Brooklyn wharf, for a bottle alleged to have contained poison.

Mr. Reidel, a clerk in Conkler's drug store at Freeport, says that Crawford bought poison there under an assumed name some days before Mrs. Boyd's death.

A Board Bill for a Livery Man to Pay.

Olaf Andersen and his wife arrived in this city early in the week, having engaged passage on the Westphalia, which sailed for Hamburg, Germany, on Thursday. They took board at Meyer Block's boarding house, at 72½ Watts street. On Thursday they employed Charles Avenues, a hack driver, to take them to the Christopher Street Ferry, which is about half a mile from Block's house. The hack driver told Andersen and his wife that the ferry was fourteen miles from Block's, and was so informed by Block. Andersen paid the $5 demanded by the driver, protesting that it was an exorbitant charge. The driver took a roundabout route, causing Andersen and his wife to miss the steamer. The police were unable to find the driver. Matthew Toole of 56 Washington street, his employer, was arrested before the Mayor yesterday on the charge of employing an unlicensed driver. The Mayor, after hearing the case, ordered Toole to refund $4 to Andersen, and to pay the expenses and fees of his wife during the time they have been delayed. The Swedish Consul will send them to Europe.

Quilting the Neighborhood after 40 Years.

Fireworks drew a throng to 381 East Fourth street on Thursday evening, to witness the departure of the oldest inhabitant of that neighborhood to her new home. The oldest inhabitant was Mrs. Edward Moynihan, aged 75 years. She came to reside on the block below Avenue D more than forty years ago. Of the neighbors who welcomed her then not one survives. When she came to live in the Eleventh ward 12,000 mechanics were employed there in shipbuilding alone. Today there is not one. It was through her counsel that the old mechanics' hall was saved from destruction. Though confined to her room by sickness for nine years past, she retained from her youth the firmness of mind that brought it back in 1880. She was the mother of nine sons and six daughters. She has been a widow for many years. By her request, she was driven in a coach around the shipyard district, taking a farewell look at the old hall and other relics of the past. When she reached her new home, 208 Seventh street, she held a reception.

His Sweetheart Tries to Shield Him.

James Hughes of 380 Hudson avenue, Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday charged with having assaulted, and seriously injured, Mrs. Catherine Bohler while robbing her apartments at 207 Throop avenue on Aug. 7. Hughes was in the habit of calling on a young woman living in the house, and was caught by Mrs. Bohler in her rooms after he had stolen $15 from her bureau drawer. While struggling to take the money from him, it is alleged that he knocked her down, and kicked her several times on the head and body. Nothing was said of the occurrence till yesterday, when Dr. T. R. Doane notified the police that Mrs. Bohler was in a dangerous condition. Hughes's arrest quickly followed. The young woman on whom he was calling tried very hard to keep the matter quiet.

The Merger Agreement Still Enjoined.

Judge Haight denied yesterday a motion for the vacation of the injunction order, which restrains the Manhattan Railway Company from acting in any way under the merger agreement between it and the Metropolitan and New York Elevated Railroad Companies. He said that as the merger agreement had been declared to be illegal he could not allow it to be enforced, especially in view of the fact that he believed that its enforcement would inflict upon the Metropolitan Elevated Railroad Company, the plaintiff in the suit, damages which could not be repaired through any bond the Manhattan Company might give.

Thomas G. Hunt's Mind Clouded.

Mr. C. B. Swain of 137 Front street, who has been actively searching for Thomas G. Hunt, the oil merchant, who disappeared on June 20, said yesterday that the only tidings received concerning Mr. Hunt's being in England was a letter from Mr. Hunt dated Manchester, July 28, and sent to his brother-in-law, who lives in Providence. Mr. Swain said that it would be several weeks before anything definite could be learned about Mr. Hunt's movements since he left this city. He said that Mr. Hunt's mind was clouded.

A New Way to Get Customers.

Salvadore Alcanto, 12 years of age, of 245 Pacific street, Brooklyn, quarrelled with Mr. Donohue, a clerk, and drawing a sheath knife, stabbed him in the right leg, inflicting a severe wound. The boy's father has a fruit stand corner Warren and Court streets, and Salvadore is frequently left in charge of it. The police say that he is an excitable young lad, and that he has often attacked children and almost choked them to death for not patronizing the stand. He was yesterday committed to jail.

Gone to See the Man who Shot Them.

Detectives Corr and Looney of Brooklyn started yesterday for Pittsburgh to identify Paul Harrington, alias Hoven, who shot them in this city last winter while they were trying to arrest him for burglary. Harrington was arrested a couple of months ago in Pittsburgh for robbery, and is serving a term of three years. The officers brought to this city for trial for the shooting of Corr and Looney.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

Arrest of the Captain for Making More Noise than the Law Allows.

The members of the Salvation Army, stationed in Brooklyn, are much interested in a case which came before Justice Walsh in that city yesterday afternoon. Capt. Henry Stillwell, who has charge of the headquarters of the Army in the Lyceum in Washington street, was charged with violating a sanitary ordinance of the Board of Health, which forbids boisterous noise of a character detrimental to health. Leon Isaacson of 52 Concord street, a few doors from the Lyceum, was the complainant. On July 18 his mother was dying of consumption, and he requested Capt. Stillwell to have the disturbing noise in the Lyceum stopped. Stillwell told him that the programme could not be changed. The same answer was given to Police Captain Campbell, who called to remonstrate, and Stillwell was arrested.

Dr. Bartley, who attended Mrs. Isaacson, said that the noise in the Lyceum was very objectionable. The singing was loud and boisterous, and there was stamping of feet, shouting, and tambourine playing. In his opinion such noises were calculated to injure health, inasmuch as they produced sleeplessness and tended to break down the nervous system. The evil was aggravated by the consciousness that the noises were useless and unnecessary.

The counsel for the defendant moved to dismiss on the ground that he was not the owner or the occupant of the building, and therefore could not be held responsible. Justice Walsh reserved his decision.

Sued by his Divorced Wife and Children.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Miriam H. Earle of Valparaiso, Ind., the divorced wife of John D. Earle of Chicago, and her two children have brought suit against the husband and father, alleging that in 1876 Earle was appointed trustee of the estate of his father, George Earle of Philadelphia, valued at $1,000,000, including $200,000 in the hands of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, to be employed in paying annuities to the complainants; that he procured a fraudulent divorce fifteen years ago and married again, and that a suit is now pending to set the divorce aside, and that when the children took up their mother's cause Earle converted securities which had nine per cent. into Government three per cents. They now ask for his removal as trustee and for an accounting.

Stabbed to the Heart with an Ice Pick.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—Last night Bernard McNally and James Carr, aged 23, engaged in a fight in front of McNally's saloon, in this city. Carr was stabbed to the heart with an ice pick, and instantly killed. McNally was arrested, and is held to await the result of a Coroner's inquisition. A year ago Carr, while firing a pistol in the street, shot and killed a woman who was looking from a window of her house. He was subsequently shot by a policeman while resisting arrest, but was not seriously hurt.

Plot to Destroy the Welland Canal.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The Times this morning published an article in which it is asserted that secret agents of the Canadian Government have been in this city some time, shadowing prominent Irish Nationalists, and that they have positive information of a premeditated design to destroy the Welland Canal by the use of explosives. It is further asserted that a request has been made of the United states Government to assist in thwarting the alleged conspiracy.

Shooting Gulls for Taxidermists.

A new industry that is attracting the attention of young men on the south side of Long Island is the shooting of gulls for the taxidermists. Although near full blast, in the lower bay they are slaughtered by hundreds, the supply does not meet the demand. They bring about twelve cents each.
