Joke

There is a rich joke on one of our high school teachers. Keep quiet it might get too big! What, you haven't heard it? Sorry, but we musn't tell.

Miss B: "Give the feminine form for Lord."
Nellie: "Lordess."

O. H. S. Local News

Theron Hall was a welcome visitor to our city Sunday.

Where was Miss Duke last Saturday when the dishes were washed?

The B Section of the seventh grade has sixteen stars on the service flag and has five Red Cross members.

The class mates and friends of Freddie Winer sympathize with him and hope his suffering will soon be over.

The Seniors have at last received their class rings. The Juniors are planning on a little excitement for their class. They are ordering '19 pins.

Mrs. Duncan MacDonald is teaching the fifth grade during Mrs. Mathews' absence. Mrs. Mathews' friends and pupils will regret to know that she is still quite ill with "grip."

Marguerite Little has been at home for the past week with the "measles." She says they are a very troublesome visitor and she's glad they don't come oftener. So are we, for we like to see her at school.

A letter was received from Tinker by one of the high school students saying that he was in the best of health and stood the voyage across without feeding the fishes. He has become a regular seaman.

Miriam Connor has moved her "valuables" from Mrs. M. G. Davis' on Oklawaha to Mrs. B. F. Condon's residence on Fort King avenue. Any one wishing to phone her can find the number in the telephone directory.

"Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard" will be given for the benefit of the Red Cross, on the night of February 14th. Several O. H. S. students will take part in the performance. This promises to be Ocala's best home talent play. Be a patriot and help the great cause.

TO—

(Written with the inspiration caused by seeing the lady in question walking through the door.)

In the City of Ocala,
In a state not far away,
Lives a maiden who is very fair to see.
Though she is so unassuming,
All the manhood of the place
Stand around and her courtiers
try to be.

She drives a Saxon auto,
And she drives it very fast,
But she runs not over any of her friends.
When she takes you out a-riding
You don't think you're going to last,
By the way she swings that car
around the bends.

So, friends, just let me tell you,
I like that blue-eyed doll,
And I'm going to try to be her steady
beau.
So help me keep my secret,
And keep me from a fall,
And when I am accepted I shall let the whole world know. —?

Mrs. Todd explained the benefits of the thrift stamps and gave out literature about them among her grade. The names of those having purchased them are written on the board. The following have purchased them: Mrs. Todd, Irene Carn, William Ruff, Harold Spencer, Olivie Whaley, Alma Priest and Lawson Cassels.

THE FACULTY OF THE O. H. S.

There are teachers, and teachers, and teachers,
And pupils, and pupils,—but then,
We hope we can have Mr. Henderson,
To be our teacher again.

We've heard of our Miss Williams
And hope it all is true,
From happiness, long life, prosperity,
To the lasting love true blue.

Then comes our mathematics,
In that, some are a joke;
But we all love the one
Whom we call Miss Lula Duke.

Our curriculum calls for a language,
Which comes from a foreign land
In that wise Marie Pitchford,
Plays the leading hand.

We boys don't know Miss Conibear
As a teacher in the school,
But she makes the girls of the basket ball team
Step to the golden rule.

Next is the assistant principal,
Whose name is Isabelle Mays;
As a body, we wish for this teacher
Happiness the rest of her days.

Small in statue, but large in mind;
(And a better teacher is hard to find)
Prof. Cassels comes in the last,
With thoughts of the future, not
of the past. —R. M. B.

THE SERVICE FLAG

(By William Herechell, in Indianapolis News)

Dear little flag in the window there,
Hung with a tear and a woman's
prayer;
Child of Old Glory, born with a star—
Oh, what beautiful flag you are!

Blue is your star in its field of white,
Dipped in the red that was born of
fight;
Born of the blood that our forefathers
shed

To raise your mother, the flag o'er-head.

And now you've come, in this frenzied
day,
To speak from a window—to speak
and say,

"I am the voice of the soldier-son
Gone to be gone till the victory's won.

"I am the flag of the service, sir;
The flag of his mother—I speak for her

Who stands by my window and waits
and fears,
But hides from the others her unwept
tears.

"I am the flag of the wives who wait
For the safe return of a martial mate,
A mate gone forth where the war god
thrives,
To save from sacrifice other men's wives.

"I am the flag of the sweethearts
true;
The often unthought of—the sisters,
too;

I am the flag of a mother's son
And won't come down till the victory's won!"

Dear little flag in the window there,
Hung with a tear and a woman's
prayer;
Child of Old Glory, born with a star—
Oh, what a wonderful flag you are!

SANFORD ENTERTAINED

Immediately after the game the Sanford basketball team motored to Forest Home on Lake Weir, the home of their coach, Robert Connor. At six o'clock they were ushered into the dining room, where a three course dinner was served. In the center of the table was an immense punch bowl of citrus fruits and holly, which unusual decoration added to the picturesque appearance of this hospitable lake-side home. After dinner the crowd gathered in the parlor and were informally entertained.

All too soon, "good-byes" were said, as the motorists had a long ride ahead of them and must arrive home before morning.

Rev. Bunyan Stephens, of Ocala, who has been a visitor to the Baptist convention, was the guest of Miss Ava Lee Edwards Wednesday.—The Flambeau.

(Kaestline and Shannon dining on peanut butter): "Say, boy, this is the way to eat peanuts. They are already chewed; all you have to do is to swallow them."
