Her Health Restored

THE misery of sleeplessness can only be realized by those who have experienced it. Nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, neuralgia and that miserable feeling of unrest, can surely be cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. So certain is Dr. Miles of this fact that all druggists are authorized to refund price paid for the first bottle tried, providing it does not benefit.

Mrs. Henry Bruns, wife of the well known blacksmith at Grand Junction, Iowa, says: "I was troubled with sleeplessness, nervousness, headache and irregular menstruation; suffering untold misery for years. I used various advertised remedies for female complaints besides being under the care of local physicians, without help. I noticed in Dr. Miles' advertisement the testimonial of a lady cured of ailments similar to mine, and I shall never cease to thank that lady. Her testimonial induced me to use Dr. Miles' Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills, which restored me to health. I cannot say enough for Dr. Miles' Remedies."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee. His bottles bear the name of Dr. J. C. Rives, of New York. Look on diseases of the heart and nerves first. Address: DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Worrying a Railroad.

Jim Hill, of the Great Northern railroad, does not believe in advertising in the newspapers and some of the editors up in North Dakota are having some fun with him. They publish fictitious items of so-called news about changes in the time of running the trains and as the Great Northern will not publish any time cards the general public are all mixed up and generally travel by some other road if they can. Where they cannot the agents are bored to death by inquiries about the train service. The Hill idea of running a railroad without advertising it may be all right in theory but in practice it is a nuisance to the public and loses money for the road.

QUEER RELIGIOUS SECT.

Their Name is "Evening Light," and They Keep to Themselves.

There is a sect known as the "Evening Light" scattered throughout Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. The families are not isolated, but form communities. No one is really leader, but in each community there always is a man who is looked up to. Although nearly all are well to do, no attempt at display is ever made. The homes are in one story houses, built about a house where the sect meet on Sundays. Where they have no meeting house they meet in the homes of the families, each in turn. They have no ministers. Each member of the sect says and does what he considers best for the community. When they meet at one of the homes, the host always has ready a good meal.

This sect wear peculiar clothing. The women make all the men's clothes. When the baby boy's dresses are taken from him, he is clothed in the garb he is to wear for life. They wear trousers reaching to the ankles and boots to the knees. A waistcoat and a hat complete the outfit, except in cold weather, when an overcoat is added. Only heavy brown or black material is used in making the clothes of the men.

The young women dress in either black or bright blue and use no trimmings. Their aprons are always brown. Cashmere is the cloth used for dresses. The bonnet is after the sunbonnet style and has a skirt in the rear. Brown and black satin is used to make them. To keep out the cold of winter the women wear black cashmere shawls.

There are no barbers in the community. The hair is allowed to grow. These people never take part in politics, never go to court and don't have photographs taken. They never insure their property, and if one should lose his the others start him anew. The parents match the children as soon as they are born, and they are brought up in each other's company and are made to understand that they are to marry and always live together after they leave their homes. Children stay with their parents until they marry. The marriage ceremony consists of the bridegroom putting a ring on the bride's finger and then both drinking holy water. A big dinner is served, and in the course of it the young couple leave it and go to their home, which they find all ready. Where this sect originated is not known. The men are very fond of horses.—New York Press.

No Competition.

The people who are getting gold standard prices for cotton are not competing very strongly against the Rothschild syndicate for Mr. McKinley's gold basis bonds.—St. Louis Journal of Agriculture.
