OVER THE COUNTY'S VOTES.

THE CANVASSERS ENCOUNTER FEW SERIOUS ERRORS.

The Returns of the First Three Assembly Districts Already Counted—Many Lawyers Present but Without Taking Part.

When Supervisor Waite called the county canvassers to order yesterday morning the chamber of the Board of Aldermen presented a busy scene. So many privileged persons had been admitted within the bar that the members became inextricably mixed with the spectators. Few of the supervisors occupied their seats. Some clustered about the Chairman. Others were engaged with the lawyers of their respective parties. Others chatted with friends or hovered about the clerks. The lawyers comprised a very large part of the assemblage. On the Democratic side were Gen. Francis C. Barlow, Franklin Bartlett, and Charles P. Miller, representing the Democratic National Committee. Aaron J. Vanderpoel, Nelson J. Waterbury, George F. Laughlin, D. A. Spelling, George H. Forster, Francis M. Scott, J. M. Bowers, George W. Wingate, and J. N. Lewis. On the Republican side were Col. George Bliss, Clarence Seward, and Robert Sewell. Each side was provided with blanks containing the footings as taken from the returns made to the Bureau of Elections. Each was provided with clerks ready to check the record as the votes were called, and provided with good seats for that purpose. The Democrats were ranged on the right of the Chair, Republicans on the left.

Paddy Burns, the veteran Sargeant-at-Arms, had a hard task to dispose of the many local statesmen who claimed the privilege of the floor. There were crowds of candidates and their friends and newly elected officials. Among them were Assemblyman James Oliver, Alderman Patty Walsh, Excise Commissioner Mitchell, ex-Senator Browning, and others. Throughout the day the chamber was a scene of confusion, the members and outsides being well mixed. The process of canvassing consisted of reading the returns as filed with the Supervisors and comparing them with the returns as filed with the County Clerk. The Supervisors' returns were taken from sealed envelopes by Chairman Waite and handed to the Alderman designated to canvass that district. Alderman O'Neil acted yesterday in place of Alderman Cleary, who had been designated by the Board to canvass the First district. Clerks of the Supervisors wrote down the figures on huge blanks as fast as they were read.

At the left of Alderman O'Neil sat County Clerk Keenan or his deputy, Mr. Beattie. Alongside of him on the floor was a big pile of duplicate returns. As soon as Chairman Waite handed a return to Supervisor O'Neil the duplicate of it was handed to the county clerk, and as fast as the Supervisor's clerk put down a tally the clerk for the County Clerk wrote one down also. Whenever either return was defective the case was referred to the Committee on Protests or Correcting Returns. Inasmuch as the errors the Supervisors were busy occupied in running from one set to the other. In fact, should the letter of the law be insisted upon, hardly any election districts could be canvassed. More or less important errors are frequent. As a rule, however, there was no rejection of returns on account of insignificant errors or in any case where there was substantial agreement. Even in some cases where the County Clerk's returns had some technical defect, the return to the Supervisors being correct, the latter was canvassed.

It was observed that some Supervisor had secured his hat by placing it on the top of the head of the bust of Chief Justice Story, while another had placed his hat upon the head of the bust of Alexander Hamilton. Very many of the members and spectators were smoking, and the constant buzz of conversation and interchange of visits in the room made the process of canvassing appear considerably disordered. In fact, it was disorder. The tabulators kept steadily at work amid the confusion. The auditorium outside the bar was crowded all day, although it was impossible for any of the hundreds there to obtain the smallest inking of what was going on.

When the minutes had been read the Chairman announced that the Committee on Protests would be Supervisors Sheils, Pearson, and Farley, and the Committee on Correcting Returns Supervisors Dolly, Fink, and Jachne. Supervisor Dolly then handed in a protest against canvassing the vote for Adolph L. Sanger for President of the Board of Aldermen, on the ground that such votes were illegal, because of the fact that Mr. Sanger was also voted for as City Chamberlain. The protest was referred to the Committee on Protests. Supervisor Reilly continued the subject of protests by protesting against the protest presented the day previous by Supervisor Kirk. The point in his protest was that the canvassers had no power to depart in any the way of determining anything on the subject of the qualifications of a candidate, and that they could only perform the clerical duty of adding up the votes as they appeared on the returns before them. He asked for them to do anything else would subject themselves to the risk of fine and imprisonment.

Supervisor Kirk explained that he had no intention of delaying the canvass by offering the protest in the name of Mayor Grace, and Chairman Waite called attention to the fact that the Board had taken no action except to refer the matter to a committee. Supervisor Reilly enforced his point by adding, "You have got to count the votes no matter who they are for, even if a man voted for the King of Spain." Supervisor Kirk added that all he wished was to have irregular returns referred to the proper committees. There was a visible stir when Chairman Waite said: "We will now proceed to canvass the First district."

Chairman Waite handed to Supervisor O'Neil the return for the First election district of the First Assembly district. Deputy County Clerk Beattie sat ready to check by his duplicate. Supervisor O'Neil had only read a few words when he was stopped by Mr. Beattie with the announcement that the duplicate was not properly headed. Supervisor Grant promptly moved to send for the inspectors to correct their return. This seemed also to be the fact that there was no essential difference between the two returns was soon apparent, and, on motion of Alderman Jachne, the Board decided to canvass the returns as received by the Supervisors. There was in the audience a good deal of surprise that the counsel did not participate in the discussion, and enter protests or do something to show the occasion for their presence. But the time for the counsel to speak is not before the Board, but only before the committees, which must for the first time to-day. It was a singular fact that neither Mr. Evarts nor Mr. Conkling put in an appearance during the day. The reading of the returns went on hour after hour with occasional interruptions, but with no returns passed until the Twelfth election district was reached, when on account of an incorrect footing, easy to correct, the return was laid aside, and the inspectors were sent for to correct it. Various attempts were made to send back returns for trifling errors, but the Board decided that the usual practice was to canvass the vote when the added results of the original and duplicate returns agreed. In several cases the inspectors were sent for to correct merely technical errors not affecting the results. But it soon became noticable that a good deal of business was being piled up before the committees, and the prospect was that the canvass would be delayed far beyond the time required by law.

The first lawyer who addressed the committee was Charles P. Miller. He said: "I have not spoken to the tabulators, and I would not speak to them under any circumstances." This was in answer to a warning from the Chair, at the suggestion of Alderman Sayles. Everybody took warning after that to forbear molesting the tabulators. These gentlemen were kept under a constant strain to fill in their blanks as fast as the returns were read. As fast as the blank for one set of candidates was filled an assistant took it and began passing a blotter over it. Little by little great sheets of figures were filled. These were observed with growing interest by one gentleman who has been a conspicuous figure in Boards of canvassers in this county for many years. This was Mr. A. S. Ochs, known as the Lightning Calculator, who adds up wide rows and long columns of figures in the time that an ordinary accountant would occupy to begin. Many years of experience in the Erie Railroad offices as an accountant, as well as in canvassing offices with the exposures, have gained him the reputation of being an accurate accountant. In personal appearance he resembles Fire Commissioner Van Cott or Excise Commissioner Haughton, for either of whom he has been mistaken. He says that never in the course of his experiences has he seen so many figures to be added.

When the Thirteenth election district of the Fourth ward was reached it was found that there were errors on the tally sheets, and the inspectors were sent for to correct them. The Eighteenth district return was found defective because of the failure of the inspectors to endorse the envelopes. This, however, did not receive any change in the Presidential vote. When the Twentieth district was reached a similar difficulty was presented on account of a defective tally sheet. Supervisor Kirk wanted to count it, but Supervisor O'Connor then insisted on having it referred to the committee. When Twenty-first district of the Fourth ward was reached the scene of the morning occurred. The return in the hands of the Supervisors was that which the inspectors compiled after their arrest. It contained the vote for President printed in THE SUN and announced on the night of the election. The return in the hands of the County Clerk was the one which was filed in the Mayor's office by mistake and taken thence by the inspectors under the order of Judge Donohue and filed with the County Clerk. This was referred to in many ways. There was a good deal of discussion over this return, and a strong effort was made by the Republicans to have the matter sent to the committee for revision by the inspectors. The Democrats, however, insisted on canvassing the return as made by the inspectors to the Supervisors, and when the matter came to vote the Board sustained that view by a vote of 11 to 7. Then, however, it was discovered that there was a defect in the return sent to the Supervisors on account of a mistake of one in footing the vote for electors. Then the vote to canvass the return was reconsidered and the Twenty-fourth district was sent to the committee with instructions to have the inspectors sent for to correct it. George Bliss said that if the Board had not done this he would have had a good case against them in the courts. This ended the canvass of the First Assembly district, leaving the incorrect returns to be considered by the committee, with a strong probability that the official count of the vote of the First Assembly district will be the same as already announced in THE SUN, but the Board had been four hours in canvassing it.

After recess the Board reassembled and proceeded to canvass the Second Assembly district. Supervisor Kirk taking the place of O'Neil. In order to save his wind Supervisor Kirk declined to read the names of all the electors in cases where all had received the same vote, but contented himself with announcing the vote of the head of the electoral ticket and declaring that all the others on the same ticket got the same vote. The audience got a little amusement out of the scattering vote, especially when Belva Lockwood received one vote for Assembly.

The most exciting scene of the day was that when the Seventeenth election district of the Second Assembly district was reached. It was found that there was an error in computing the electoral vote, there being an obvious mistake of 100 votes. The Chairman announced that he had carefully computed the result and was certain of the error. Mr. Bliss ran excitedly to Supervisor O'Connor and said, audibly, "That don't foot."

Supervisor Sheils insisted that the footing was correct, and moved that the return be canvassed. Mr. Bliss went up to the desk and talked to the County Clerk.

"I am not to be guided by you here," said Mr. Keenan, with dignity.

Half a dozen members of the Board were speaking at once. Supervisor Kirk insisted that the obvious intent of the inspectors and the obvious vote should be canvassed. Supervisor O'Connor insisted with equal fervor that the return would not foot up correctly.

"Order! order!" shouted Chairman Waite, as he pounded with his gavel and ordered the roll to be called on the motion of Supervisor Sheils. Both Kirk and Grant explained their votes, and the Board voted 11 to 7 not to send the return back. The only returns sent back from the Second Assembly district was that from the Seventh election district, for an error in the footings of the vote for Court of Common Pleas. The total vote for the Cleveland electors was 5,236 by the police returns. There were 24 votes added on account of apparent errors discovered by the canvassers making the vote for the Cleveland electors in the Second Assembly district 5,260. The vote for the Blaine electors remained unchanged, leaving the Cleveland electors a plurality of 3,130 in the Second Assembly district. An error of 20 votes in favor of Cleveland was found in the Seventeenth election district. Supervisor Kirk's method of reading the vote for electors illustrated the time of canvassing the vote ministerially. Gen. Butler got only 64 votes in the district and St. John only 10. The canvass of the Second district occupied only two hours and a half.

Supervisor O'Neil made much better time with the Third district than with the First. In the Tenth election district the Cleveland electors, other than Mr. Ottendorfer, received two more votes than the police returns gave them. The Twenty-first, Twenty-fourth and Eighteenth districts returned incorrect footings of figures on political candidates. In the Twenty-fourth election district there was one Adelmanic vote for "Luna, Romanism, and Rebellion." On motion of Supervisor O'Neil this vote was counted for the Republican candidate for Assembly.

The figures at Police Headquarters for the Third Assembly district were 5,108 for the Cleveland electors and 3,024 for the Blaine electors, Butler got 136 and St. John 22. The figures at Police Headquarters were the same as those of Police Headquarters, giving the Cleveland electors 2,084 plurality.

Inspector Byrnes had a force of twenty men present, and as fast as inspectors were sent for detectives were despatched to expedite the work. There will be a considerable number of the inspectors before the Committee on Corrected Returns this morning. The Committee on Protests will not meet for several days. The Board took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning when they will canvass the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth districts and, if possible, the Seventh.

KINGS COUNTY'S CANVASS.

Twenty-two Words Completed—The Figures Not Materially Changed.

The Kings County Board of Supervisors met again yesterday in the Court House in Brooklyn, and resumed the canvass of the electoral vote. Everybody smoked and kept on his hat on Tuesday, but yesterday, on motion of Supervisor Beasley, smoking was prohibited. Then a motion was made and carried that nobody be allowed within the railing excepting the Board, the lawyers, and the reporters. The politicians withdrew grumbling. When Chairman McKane called the Board to order Deputy County Clerk Barnard said that an error in the count of the First ward gave Cleveland thirty-six more votes than he was entitled to. The Republicans present found difficulty in suppressing a cheer. It was discovered that what the Deputy County Clerk meant to say was that Cleveland was wrongly credited with one electoral ticket, containing thirty-six names, and that the Republicans gained only one vote instead of thirty-six.

Six wards were canvassed on Tuesday, and the Fifteenth ward completed the list, making the first canvassed yesterday. There had been rumors that evidences of fraud would be unearthed here, but the various districts were canvassed without any such discovery. The outside of the envelope containing the return of the Sixteenth ward gave Cleveland 3,532 votes, while the return itself gave him 3,532. The return was discovered to be correct, and that Cleveland had been credited in the unofficial reports with 3,532 votes, so that the discovery of the error will make no change in the total previously given. In the Fourth district of the Twelfth ward St. John gets two votes. This district is in the heart of Red Hook Point, which has strong anti-temperance proclivities.

The Democratic electoral ticket is frequently scratched. Ottendorfer's name has suffered the most. Not a name on the Republican ticket has been cut. Sixteen wards were canvassed yesterday. This leaves three wards and the five county towns to be canvassed to-day. After the canvass is completed all the returns which need correction will be sent back to the poll clerks, who are the only persons authorized to make the corrections. The declaration of Chairman R. F. Jones of the Republican National Committee that fraud was committed in the town of New Lots, was discussed. When this town is taken up to-day it will receive the closest scrutiny.

The Queens County Canvass.

The Queens County Board of Supervisors continued the canvass of the county vote yesterday in Jamaica. It was discovered that the return of Presidential votes in the Second district of Oyster Bay was irregular. The return was sent back to the inspectors for the correction but up to a late hour last evening it had not been returned to the Board, so that the official canvass was not announced. There will be no alteration in the vote of Queens county.

The protest entered by Edward A. Darrah, the Democratic candidate for the Assembly in the second district of Queens county, against Thomas S. Smith, the Republican candidate, for receiving the certificate, on the ground of fraud and bribery, continues coming in long Island City. Another protest was entered to-day by Mr. Darragh.

The protest entered by J. B. Carley, the Republican candidate for School Commissioner from the second district against Mr. Egan, the Democratic candidate, receiving the certificate, on the ground that Egan is not living in a School Commissioner of its own, could not vote for a Commissioner outside of the city, was argued before the Board to-day, but he returned to Mr. Carley from Mr. Darragh and Mr. Carley will now apply to the courts.

Maud S. to be Turned Out for the Winter.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 12.—Mr. Bonner and his party this morning visited Woodburn Farm, where Maud S. was bred, and where they saw the sire and dam as well as the brother and two sisters of the trotting queen. The party was much pleased with the family, and Mr. Bonner said he was congratulating the proprietor of the great breeding farm on his return to the city. Mr. Bonner was informed to-day that he had forgotten Wanda, who has foaled her free from soreness and is in excellent condition. Mr. Bonner said he was delighted with Wanda, and that he would not be in a hurry to make another attempt at breeding her, but Mr. Bonner decided that the mare should be turned out for the winter, instead of being fitted with gaiters, as he had intended, in the month of November. Mr. Bonner and his party left on the 2.35 P. M. train for New York.

Good Scores at Handball.

On Wednesday afternoon, at Sweeny's handball and racquet court, a match game of handball was played between ex-Alderman Phelps Casey, champion of the world, and Jackson, south champion of St. Louis, on the following scores: Game to 21 points, Casey, 21, Jackson, 14; game to 21, Casey, 21, Jackson, 8; game to 21, Casey, 21, Jackson, 19; game to 21, Casey, 21, Jackson, 18; game to 21, Casey, 21, Jackson, 20; game to 21, Casey, 21, Jackson, 20; game to 21, Casey, 21, Jackson, 18; 21, 20—total, 20. Jackson and Sandy 21, 14, 21—total, 57.

BRITONS CRYING FOR PROTECTION.

Unable to Compete with the Subsidized Manufacturers on the Continent.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The question of the imposition of some sort of tariffs for the protection of home products and industries has been brought to the front again in both England and France. In this country the question has been revived by a formal complaint from the artisans in various trades.

A deputation of workingmen to-day waited upon Mr. McAllister, M. P., who is a Tory and an avowed protectionist. They represented to him in forcible language the hardships to which they had been subjected by the system of Government bounties to manufacturers, which has recently been put in operation in several Continental countries. They said that the effect of these bounties upon English manufactures was precisely the same as though the Government referred to had imposed discriminating duties against English goods. The granting of bounties had, at first sight, a less hostile appearance than the imposition of import duties, but its practical effect upon English industries was just as bad, or even worse. A Belgian manufacturer, for instance, could produce any given article more cheaply than his English competitor, because a part of its cost was returned to him by his Government. The first result of this was, of course, to shut out the English article from Belgium, because it could not compete in price with the home-made article. Next, it injured the sale of British goods in all the markets of the world by placing them under an artificial but decided disadvantage in competition with the subsidized products. It even destroyed to some extent the home market for English wares, for many articles could be made in Belgium and laid down in England at a cost less than that of their manufacture in England. Finally, and this was the worst feature of the case in the opinion of the deputation, this unfair competition caused English manufacturers to cut down the wages of their own workmen to a point that was little above starvation.

Mr. McAllister said that he had always looked upon England's free trade policy as a suicidal blunder, because it had compelled other nations to meet it by hostile discriminations, either in the form of bounties or tariffs. He promised that he would use his influence and vote to secure the enactment of countervailing duties against the products of those countries which subsidized their manufacturers with bounties. His promise was hailed with cheers, and the deputation withdrew.

The Tories are not pleased at these outspoken utterances by Mr. McAllister, and they call upon the Tory leaders to disavow his heresy. The Liberal papers say that probably not one man in fifty, even of the Tories, believes in the McAllister panacea, and that his object was to add to the embarrassments of the Government.

In France, Premier Ferry has finally determined upon levying a moderate duty upon foreign cereals. The potent argument in favor of this measure is that it is necessary for the protection of the French farmer. The real cause of the Premier's decision, however, is said to be a pressure brought upon him by a powerful syndicate of speculators who are long of wheat.

CHINESE BESIEGING KEELUNG.

The Situation of the French Troops in Tonquin Growing More Perilous.

HONG KONG, Nov. 12.—The French casualties in the fight on the Tamsui road last week were trifling. The French have captured the Chinese fort Feihoo, a tender used in conveying stores to the various coast lighthouses. The Chinese are still besieging Keelung. The situation of the French in Tonquin is daily becoming more perilous. The outposts are subject to constant attacks, and great difficulty is experienced in procuring provisions in the territory between Hanoi and Sontay, and daily skirmishes take place. The health of the troops at Bacninh is bad, and numbers of them are unfit for service.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Foo-Choo correspondent of the Times says that the stoppage of business by the hostilities is causing widespread distress among the lower classes of the Chinese. The tea season is finished, and consequently the loss to Europeans is less than to the natives. Chinese soldiers are arriving in large numbers. There are frequent disputes between the soldiers and the people. The South Channel entrance is blocked and ships are obliged to pass Kimpai Point, which is completely fortified. The Chinese have imported a large number of torpedoes through Hong Kong, and are preparing to sink them in the river.

A Berlin correspondent of the Standard says: "China will in no case consent to even a temporary occupation of the Island of Formosa by the French."

A French Cabinet Minister Challenged.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The clerks in the Ministry of the Interior sent a deputation of their number yesterday to M. Laguerre, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, to demand of him a retraction of statements made by him in the Chamber. In these statements M. Laguerre had accused the clerks of various malpractices in the performance of their duties. M. Laguerre, on being waited upon by the deputation, utterly refused to withdraw the objectionable statements. M. Sebondist, the leader of the deputation, then publicly challenged M. Laguerre to fight a duel. Laguerre refused to accept the challenge, but M. Rochefort and M. Ballet, both members of the Chamber of Deputies, with a challenge to M. Waldeck-Rousseau, Minister of the Interior, in their pocket, have declared themselves insulted. M. Waldeck-Rousseau declines to take the matter up.

Activity of the British Tories.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Encouraged by their success in Warwickshire, the Tories are making desperate efforts to carry the special election at Hackney, made necessary by the death of the Right Hon. Henry Fawcett. There has been no election in the borough since April, 1874, when the Liberals defeated their opponents by 1,600 votes than the colleague of Mr. Fawcett, who was a Liberal, and 3,500 more votes than the defeated Conservative candidate, Sir Bartley Frere. This is a large majority in a borough which has been regarded as the stronghold of the Liberals in Warwickshire. The Liberals are very hopeful that the Tories do hope to win at Hackney, and they point to the fact that the great Prof. James Stuart of Cambridge University, who is a Liberal and an unusually ardent free trader.

Bismarck's Concession to the Liberals.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—An important change in the Prussian Cabinet is expected to occur within a few days. Prince Bismarck has hinted that Herr von Bennigsen would soon replace Herr Jaques von Puttkamer, the present Minister of the Interior. Herr von Bennigsen is the leader of the Liberal party in Germany, and his expected promotion is looked upon as a concession to the Liberals whose votes are needed to offset the unexpected strength developed by the Socialists.

Dongola the Strategical Gate to Egypt.

DONGOLA, Nov. 12.—Major Wortley and four attendants have ridden across the desert by way of Selimah. They report that it is impossible for a hostile force to use this route to cut the English off from their base. Any force which should attempt to pass from Khordofan to upper Egypt would be obliged to strike the Nile at Dongola. Dongola is thus the strategical gate to Egypt, and whoever controls this possesses the key to the situation.

Springbok Wins the Shrewsbury Cup.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The race for the Shrewsbury Cup (handicap) to-day was won by Mr. R. Jardine's four-year-old brown colt Springbok, with Mr. T. Cannon's three-year-old bay filly Postscript second, and Mr. C. J. Blake's three-year-old bay filly, by Inspire, out of Lady of the Lake, third. There were four starters. The last betting was even money on Springbok, 5 to 1 against Postscript, and 9 to 2 against the Lady of the Lake filly.

The Crofters Not to Resist the Police.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—A compromise was submitted to the crofters of the Isle of Skye to-day. At a meeting of the crofters it was unanimously resolved to offer no resistance to the police even though they made many arrests. It is expected that the Irish organizations in England has sent a large sum of money to the rebellious crofters of the Isle of Skye to stimulate them to keep up their agitation.

Cost of the Nile and Bechuana Expeditions.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Government has issued deficiency estimates with reference to the cost of the Nile expedition. The army will require £1,000,000; for the Bechuana expedition the Government estimates that £500,000 will be required by the army and £50,000 by the navy.
