SMALL-POX FROM MONTREAL.

The First Case Reaches New York, and the City is Threatened with an Epidemic.

The health officers learned yesterday that Pierre Dubernet, a French Canadian, who left Montreal on Sept. 18, was suffering from small-pox at 41 Bleecker street. He was removed to the Riverside Hospital and the place was disinfected. Sarah Triehardt of 280 Stanton street, who showed the same symptoms, was dealt with in the same way. Two other cases of small-pox were reported, but the symptoms were not unmistakably marked. Not counting them, six cases of small-pox were brought to light last week. Speaking of the French Canadian, Dr. James B. Taylor, Chief Inspector of Vaccination, said:

"This is the first case of small-pox which has come direct from Montreal. All the others are among emigrants. Most of them are among Polish Jews, several of whom are tailors. The probabilities, therefore, are that from this time on we shall get a great many cases from Montreal like the one to-day. This man had been in this city two weeks, so that he contracted the disease just before he left Montreal.

"The situation is becoming extremely serious, and I am very uneasy about it. The prospects are that we shall have quite an epidemic of small-pox this winter. The amount of small-pox at present can easily be controlled, but the danger is from a constant increase of cases in different parts of the city from Montreal and elsewhere. People will soon be coming from Montreal who are ill at the time of starting, and by the time they get here the eruption will have broken out. A careful watch by conductors of railway trains will, therefore, discover such cases. When a passenger is suspected to have small-pox, we want the conductor to telegraph ahead to us, and we will have a conveyance at the station to take him to the hospital, if the conductor's diagnosis is correct."

Among last week's six small-pox cases was that of an Italian who has been under treatment in the house of Dr. G. B. Bettini at 5 University place. As he has passed the contagious stage, he is allowed to remain where he is, but the physician is liable to prosecution for concealing the case, in spite of his allegation that he violated the law through ignorance. As the patient has been isolated, no harm, probably, has been done.

It should be said that an epidemic of small-pox in New York is a trifling thing compared to an epidemic in a city where sanitary laws are defied and sanitary precautions neglected. We have had epidemic small-pox here time and again without the least public anxiety or even public notice. An epidemic of small-pox in New York nowadays does not even mean a great number of cases or a perceptible addition to the death rate.

RAN AWAY FROM RAMSCAR'S.

Two Boys Say They Were Cruelly Treated There—A Little Wanderer.

Two little boys who were found wandering in Canal street on Thursday night puzzled the police by the contradictory accounts they gave of themselves. Yesterday it was discovered that their names were Alfred Lang and Thomas Barry, and that they had run away from the Ramscar nursery. They were surrendered to Mr. Ramscar when he came after them, in spite of their assertions that they had run away because of cruel treatment.

A 12-year-old Jewish boy, who was also picked up on Thursday night, is still in the care of Matron Webb. He says that his name is William Montiretz, and that he came from Chicago on freight trains to live with his aunt. His father, Moses Montiretz, who was a tin peddler, died five months ago, and his mother a month ago. He supported himself after their death by selling papers. He supposed his aunt lived at 194 Reade street, but she does not; and as he only knows her first name, he is at a loss how to find her.

Wanted—Females.
