The Sun.

VOL. LIV.—NO. 17. NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1886. PRICE TWO CENTS.

MISS DIMON'S ELOPEMENT.

MARRIED TO DR. WARREN C. SWEDEN OF BROOKLYN.

[illegible]

Dr. Warren C. Sweden, a son of President Warren S. Sweden of the Metropolitan Savings Bank in this city, left his home in 132 Prospect place, Brooklyn, on Monday morning and succeeded in the Long Island Railroad to Riverhead, where his family have a summer residence. The object of the winter trip was to marry Miss Mary Dimon, the pretty 18-year-old daughter of Mr. Franklin Dimon, who owns one of the finest residences in Jamesport, on Peconic Bay. Dr. Sweden and Miss Dimon have been lovers for many years, and their families have known of their attachment. All approved of it with the exception of the young lady's father. Mr. Dimon had no personal objection to Dr. Sweden, but he heard, it is said, to see the presence of his daughter in the house. On this account the young couple resolved to get married without his knowledge. On reaching Riverhead at noon Dr. Sweden went to the Griffin House and sent a messenger to his father's summer residence for a horse and carriage. On the arrival of the conveyance he was driven six miles to Jamesport. Near the Post Office there he met Miss Dimon, who was dressed in travelling costume. He got her into the carriage, and together they were driven back to the Griffin House at Riverhead.

A few minutes thereafter, who was in the secret, communicated the news to the officers of the Rev. James Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and Mr. Smith, having already received notification, performed the wedding without delay. The party returned to the Griffin House, where a reception was held in the parlor. In the evening, with his bride for companion in the carriage, Dr. Sweden sent a letter to the bride's parents, notifying them of their daughter's marriage, and he sent a telegraph message to the same effect to his father in Brooklyn.

Mr. Warren S. Sweden, the father of the groom, was sent last night at 132 Prospect place, Brooklyn. He seems to be extremely hungry over his son's choice. He said:

"Warren is my only son. He is 30 years old, and he knows what he is about. The young lady I know, and I have no fault to find. I know of his attachment to Miss Dimon and of their engagement, and the marriage is no surprise to me. When Warren arranged for Riverhead in Brooklyn I was aware that he was getting for his honeymoon, which I presumed he would take. Yesterday he left home with his wife for Greenport in the evening. Dr. Sweden sent a letter to the bride's parents, notifying them of their daughter's marriage, and he sent a telegraph message to the same effect to his father in Brooklyn.

Mr. Warren S. Sweden, the father of the groom, was seen