THE STATE CAMP OPENED.

THE FOURTEENTH REGIMENT OF BROOKLYN TAKES POSSESSION.

A Pleasant Passage Up the Hudson River, but a Hot March Up the Hill—A State Band—Few Changes in Post Officers.

PEEKSKILL CAMP, June 16.—The State camp at Peekskill was formally opened this afternoon on the arrival of the Fourteenth Regiment of Brooklyn. The regiment left its armory in North Portland avenue and Audubon place at a little after 11 o'clock, and, preceded by its drum corps under the lead of Drum Major Reuben Cornell, marched to the foot of Atlantic street.

The steamer Bay Queen, bright with new paint, lay beside the ferry slip with flags flying, and Commodore Gwyer standing guard beside the gang plank. A big police Captain stood guard at the head of the wharf and admitted only those who were accredited, but a baby or a pretty feminine face was a pass to the head of the wharf, and before the regiment had embarked the wharf was well filled with pretty women, some of whom had babies in their arms. "Kiss him for his mother," cried a street boy perched on the rail of the ferry bumpers, as the boat left the pier and close hand shakes held wife and husband together until they were parted. One good wife tried to pass a black bottle of SUN cholera mixture to her husband as the boat left, but it missed its mark and broke on the guards. A year old baby shook its little hand in good-by to its papa on the boat with such vigor that its youthful nightshirt fell from its shoulders about its heels, but the mother saved it from utter wreck, and catching it in her arms, they finished their good-bys together.

The sail up the river was delightful. Soft light clouds shaded the hot sun. The men had been issued with the marching order, "Go light with their equipment," until the perspiration stood out on their foreheads. Coats were discarded and the men gathered around Caterer Terhune's tables and placed cables of sing until Rock Island was passed. A City passing vessel was given three cheers. One group on the forward part of the boat were regaled with songs by the Company E quartet, private Billy Phillips led the singing, and Andy O'Neil swelled the chorus with a tremendous bass. Commodore Gwyer entertained the Captains of the regiment in the room. The visitors were under command of Gen. James Dunnigan of the City Guard, and marshaled by secretary Theodore Becker. Between quaffs of ginger ale they sang:

Through the sun woods well wander,
And we'll hang the bunks,

until Billy Dainey, who may think he is the only man who can voice the civilian song, would have turned green with envy could he have heard it. They also sang "Gilbody Gave a Party."

Twenty-one guns I counted out over Annsville Creek and awoke the echoes among the hills when the State and stripes and the State flag were raised over the parade ground. The red striped, blue-coated artillerymen who buried the powder in honor of the beginning of the season of instruction were a detail of twenty men from Capt. Ferdinand Earles's First Battery, under lieutenant Edward L. Stevens. "Hail Columbia" greeted the starry flag, and with the end of the national salute the troops broke ranks and repaired to their quarters.

A provisional battalion made up of Capt Haabenestelle's company from Poughkeepsie, Capt. Herron's company from Oswego, Capt. Zimmerman's company from Watertown, and a company from Niagara Falls was already in camp when the Fourteenth got there, but no guard had yet been mounted. Adjutant Alfred B. Campbell of the Fourteenth called for sixty men on the boat, and they were drawn up in the cabin in double line. Capt. James R. B. Barlow was detailed as officer of the day, and he inspected the guard under difficulties. Barrows full of red blankets, tin buckets, and wooden canteens filled the company streets for awhile, and as soon as they were distributed the camp settled into the orderly condition that is to reign for a week. The regiment brings about 400 men to camp out of a total on the rolls of 550. Nearly 60 per cent of those are men who have been in camp before, although the regiment was here two years ago. This is because many of the old men's terms have expired. Everything about the camp is in excellent condition, and some improvements have been made. The long hill road that leads to the camp from the landing has been faced on the hill side with a solid stone wall designed to protect it from such disastrous land slides as those which made it impassable after two storms last summer, and the outer edge which looks over the ravine has a new railing of Georgia pine rolling to keep wagons out of the hollow.

From the tent on the hill Louis Windhalz and Col. Yale viewed with pride the promenade home which they have made for the feeding of the thousands who will come and go during the season. Louis has denied himself potatoes and sugar until he is a slender stripling, and Col. Yale has changed his appearance by cutting off his whiskers.

One great source of expense and rivalry has disappeared. Heretofore each regiment coming to camp has had to bring with it a band or do without music. This has cost them many thousands of dollars, and when the bands were not as good as others it caused heartburnings. This year the State has engaged the band of the Sixty-fifth Regiment from Buffalo, under Bandmaster Flagsted. It will remain through the whole eight weeks of the encampment.

There are few changes in the staff officers, Major-Gen. Josiah Porter is in command, and Brig.-Gen. Varian, Col. Joseph G. Story, Col. Judson, the second, Col. Thomas H. McGrath, Capt. H. P. Stackpole, and Capt. N. B. Thurston are his assistants. Col. Phisterer is ill, but is expected soon. Meantime Lieut. John S. Shepard of the Twenty-third takes his place.

The sun came out not during the long march up the hill and half a dozen men dropped out of the ranks, but none required the services of the surgeon. The provisional battalion is under command of Major Water of the Twenty-third. The full list of the officers of the Fourteenth who are in camp is:

Field—Col. Henry W. Michael, Lieut.-Col. Selden C. Clobridge, Major John McNeil. Staff—Adjutant Alfred B. Campbell, Quartermaster Alexander Parnie, Jr., Commissary Walter B. Fitz-Gerald, Surgeon Freeman Atwood, Assistant Surgeon Frank Dunsmore, Inspector of Rifle Practice Lamon Cardozo, Chaplain J. Cranell Peck. Line—Company A—Capt. John J. Dixon, First Lieut. George H. Rice, Second Lieut. William C. Noble. Company B—Capt. James M. White, Second Lieut. Harry J. Mallermoit. Company C—Capt. Benjamin S. Steen, Second Lieut. Gilbert Nicol. Company D—Capt. Daniel McCarthy, Second Lieut. Edward W. Cassidy. Company E—Capt. Joseph R. K. Barlow, First Lieut. John H. Curran. Company F—Capt. Thomas D. Sullivan, Second Lieut. Neil Mellrois. Company G—Second Lieut. John O. Soderstrom. This is the swedish company of the regiment. Company H—Capt. John Cutts, First Lieut. William B. Chesser. Company I—Capt. Austin O. Crane, First Lieut. Charles C. Wallace, Second Lieut. Edward A. Anderson. Company K—Capt. William F. Morris, First Lieut. Charles L. Spear; detached from the Forty-seventh, second Lieut. Charles W. Bridges.

Sergeant Major William McDermott is the grandest man in the regiment, with rainbow tints on his sleeves. The big company of the regiment is Company A, with 72 men, but several others bring a large complement.

Cornell's Senior Class Banquet.

ITHACA, June 16.—The senior class of Cornell University held their annual banquet here last night in Prager's Hall, this inaugurating the commencement exercises. A large number of students attended, and the usual amount of college conviviality prevailed. Thomas Shannon of Baltimore acted as toastmaster, and the following toasts were responded to: "Eighty-eight," H. L. Taylor; "The College Press," W. B. Smith; "Athletics," H. R. Ickelheimer; "The Senior Excursion," B. B. Barnes; "College Politics," James Quinn; "The Nine's Trip," W. W. Dobbins; "The Ladies of Sage," F. M. Andrews; "The Faculty," W. C. Fisher; "Cornell," H. K. Wise; "B. D. S. Departure," J. P. Blair.

After the toasts were given the Class voted the following prizes: The most popular man, W. C. Fisher of Waterloo; the prettiest coquette, Miss Florence L. Vest of Hartford, Conn.; the most illustrious hyperbole, A. J. Yancey of St. Louis; the greatest bluffer, W. H. Ickelheimer of New York; the most pleasant spendthrift, G. C. Sumner of Athens; the best scribbler, H. R. Ickelheimer of New York; the most confirmed pessimist, J. H. Edwards of Oxford.

The class song, written by A. E. Hoyt, and a most creditable production, was sung for the first time by the class. Young as a little boy young lady student is some big unknown hero, but the seniors showed their good sense by bestowing upon the leading belle of Sage College, the Shakespeare prize offered by Miss A. S. Barnes of Brooklyn. The prize was awarded to Miss Clara French, a post graduate from Smith College, and the prize by the new Shakespeare Society of London was given to Ed. E. Barnes of Corning, a senior.

The Olive N. Beats the Gracie L.

A match race for a purse was sailed on Long Island Sound yesterday under the directory of the New Rochelle Yacht Club, between the yachts Gracie L. and Olive N. The course was from Echo Island across the Sound to a mark near the Long Island shore, about eight miles in all. The Olive N. got away first, about forty-six seconds ahead of her rival. The wind was very light and baffling, but the race was close. It was watched with interest by the members from the club house piazza. Following is the result:

Name.	W. L. Length.	Owner.	Elapsed (Corrected) H. M. S.	H. M. S.
Olive N.	22 00	C. H. Nixon.	1:46:23	1:39:20
Gracie L.	17 00	E. Lambert.	1:46:15	1:40:54

Thus the Olive N. won, defeating the Gracie L. 2 minutes 14 seconds. The allowed her five 14 minutes 30 seconds. "W. L." in the table stands for water line.

BIG STORMS EAST AND WEST.

Much Damage Done by Wind and Rain from Oregon to Massachusetts.

PORTLAND, June 15.—A disastrous wind storm and cloud-burst was reported to-day at Arlington, Oregon. Seven buildings at Lexington were wrecked. The storm first struck a grove below Lexington and blew H. J. Brooks's house down. Mrs. Brooks was fatally injured and soon died. The house and barn belonging to H. A. Perkins were totally wrecked. Mr. Perkins sustained very serious injuries and his little child was killed. Mrs. Perkins and two other children were also injured. The school house containing its pupils was partially destroyed and the school children injured. It is feared two are fatally hurt.

PITTSBURGH, June 16.—A cloud-burst occurred at Titusville last night, and about $50,000 worth of property was destroyed. The fall of water was tremendous, a three-foot-wide brook growing to forty in an hour. Some of the creeks rose ten feet in less than an hour.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 16.—A very destructive thunder storm visited this region last night. The family of George Bassett was badly shocked, his barn and its contents burned and his house damaged. Mrs. Franklin Sears, aged 65 years, and Mrs. Nathaniel Allen, aged 70 years, were found dead this morning. Both had doubtless died from fright. The former resided on Nathan Graham, in South Hartwick, was destroyed. The almshouse was partly shattered.

ST. ALBANS, VT., June 16.—Yesterday afternoon's storm was unprecedented in this vicinity. Four and a half inches of rain fell, and one and one-half inches of it in twelve minutes. Bridges were destroyed and the Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad near Sheldon was washed away, and several large culverts and bridges in and near the village are carried off. The roadbed of the Missisquoi road near Sheldon Springs was washed away to the extent of ninety feet, and lightning also slight damage to several houses. Near East Swanton, on the Central Vermont Railroad, the track was washed out.

MONTPELIER, June 16.—Reports of the severest storm for twelve years which swept this section yesterday are coming in. In Sullivan county barns were destroyed and trees uprooted. At Liberty, the Catholic church was struck by lightning. Of the two men who had sought shelter therein, one was killed and the other prostrated, and he has not yet recovered.

ALBANY, June 16.—The heaviest rain and hail storm in 40 years visited this section this afternoon, causing immense damage to fruit and other crops. Thousands of birds fell victims to the hailstones, and they are lying around in the streets and parks of the city. Many of the hailstones were as large as walnuts. A Cove Mountain farmer weighed seventeen pounds fell on a prominent street during the storm. It is a water stone, and several persons saw it fall. It embedded itself twelve inches in the earth. The theory is that it was drawn up in a waterspout. The incident has more than the excitement, and great crowds visit the scene where the stone fell and where it is on exhibition.

WET WINDS FROM THE SOUTH.

More Returns Coming in of the Tempest They Twisted Into on Friday.

It was humidity again yesterday that made all the trouble with the weather. It wasn't really so hot as on the day before, but then the wetness in the air was greater in the middle of the day. This wetness is likely to continue as long as the winds remain southerly. They bring air from far out on the ocean, and it gets pretty well soaked by the time it reaches New York. The winds have come from the south now for over a week. They blew in yesterday from the south, and the diffident weather agent guesses that they will keep on southerly for a time yet. The weather agent usually is an assertive individual, but last night he was secretive and diffident because he had promised better weather for yesterday than came.

No matter what people in Chicago may say, it wasn't exceedingly hot there. The highest reached was 78°, and this was without much humidity, either. But out where they breed weather it was hot. St. Paul, on the edge of the region, was 86°, while Yankton, further in, was 94.

Additional news of the effects of the storm of Friday evening is as follows: The First Reformed Church at Port Richmond, Staten Island, was struck by lightning, but not much damaged. Lightning ran down the steeple of the Reformed Church at West Brighton, tearing off some of the ornamental work on the church. Mr. Drew's house at West Brighton was slightly damaged by lightning. The inmates of the house experienced a slight shock. This is the second time Mr. Drew's house has been struck by lightning. Three or four blocks from Drew's lived Mr. Pavilion of the Pavilion Hotel, West Brighton, were de-troyed by one stroke of lightning, which leaped from one tree to another.

The barn of Prof. George W. Cobbley, two miles east of Hempstead, L. I., was struck and was completely burned with its contents of hay, a two-seated wagon, a one-seated buggy, a horse, and various farm implements.

The yacht Psyche of the Atlantic Yacht Club was driven ashore at Bay Ridge during last night's storm, and but for the prompt action of the crew of the Long Island Boat Club and several of the club members would now be a total wreck. These athletic young men swam through the breakers, climbed up the chains, and got out the port anchor. They used this as a kedge, and after two hours of the hardest kind of work succeeded in working her out to a safe depth.

The storm ripped the roof from a building at 138 Belmont avenue, Newark, and one of the timbers fell upon Mrs. Herman Knoebel, who was lying asleep with her one-day-old child. Mrs. Knoebel's spine was broken in two places. Her case is extremely critical.

At Penn's Neck, five miles from Trenton, Harrison Voorhees and his wife were struck by the lightning and killed. Mr. Voorhees was standing in an open doorway looking at the sky, and his wife was behind him. When found they were close to the other.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: The weather signals on the Equitable this morning give place to the American flag at half mast. I suppose the blond young sharp in charge realizes that the signals dont amount to much anyhow. J. U. S.

NEW YORK, June 16.

She Thought She was Deserted.

A good-looking and well-dressed young woman and a middle-aged man stopped at Steup's Hotel in Jersey City yesterday morning. Half an hour afterward the man left. Shortly after noon the woman called the proprietor and told him that she had been deserted by her escort, who had taken all her money with him. Policeman Heath took her to Police Headquarters, where she told a disconnected story about herself. She did not know where she came from or where she was going, but thought she was bound for Europe. She was detained at headquarters, and a detective was put on the case. Late in the afternoon a young man called and asked to see the woman, whom he said was his sister. They lived at Amityville, Long Island, he said. A short time ago she was taken sick, and became partly deranged. He was unable to support her, and had bought her a ticket to Germany, where their parents live. He sent her to Jersey City in the morning, in charge of a friend, who promised to put her on board the Rotterdam steamer. The steamer was not to start for several hours after they arrived in Jersey City, and so the friend left her at the hotel, telling her to go to the dock at noon and go on board. The young woman returned to Amityville and told the brother, who, to make sure that she had gone on board the steamer all right, went to the Jersey City Hotel, and was told that his sister was in charge of the police. He produced a ticket for Germany from the girl's pocketbook. The couple went back to Amityville together. The girl will sail for Germany Wednesday.

A Lansingburgh Girl Elopes with an Actor

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 16.—Thomas St. Martin, a member of Mme. Rhea's "Fairy Fingers" troupe, was married in this city last evening to Miss Lou McLoughlin of Lansingburgh. The couple came here on Thursday noon on the day boat, and seemed nervous and acted strangely, as though in fear of something. They walked up the hill a short distance to the New York Hotel. The proprietor, Mr. Hoadley, was confident he had he went to see Father Sinnott of St. Peter's Church, and asked him if he would marry the pair. Miss McLoughlin's parents are Catholics and St. Martin is an Episcopalian. After learning the facts Father Sinnott declined to officiate until a dispensation was obtained. A clergyman of Episcopalian persuasion was sought and he agreed the required ceremonies. Accordingly the runaway girl and her actor lover were married in the parlor of the New York Hotel. They left town on the train bound for Albany, and will go from there to Lansingburgh for a parental forgiveness. Thomas St. Martin is the actor's stage name. His real name is Clements Magrum. Mrs. Magrum is young and handsome.

She Told her Age Correctly.

Lizzie Prescott, whom Judge McAdam married to James Jones, is really more than 18 years old, as she said she was and not 15, and she and her husband were discharged by Justice O'Reilly yesterday after hearing the facts. Commitment without cause, the Justice said, is the Five Points House of Industry, where the girl was taken when she was discharged therefrom in January, 1885.

DR. GOFF'S SERVANT ARRESTED.

He Says She Robbed His House of $4,000 Worth of Valuables—Her Threats.

Nelly McGuinness, described as formerly a domestic in the family of Dr. C. W. Goff at 111 East Thirty-third street, was arrested on a bench warrant issued from the General Sessions yesterday charged by Dr. Goff with stealing $4,000 worth of property from his residence. In his complaint Dr. Goff says that he now lives at the Hotel Arno, Twenty-eighth street and Broadway, and that Nelly was taken in and cared for while she was sick and destitute. Mrs. Goff was taken sick in March last and was taken to Pine Island, N. Y. While Mrs. Goff was at Pine Island Dr. Goff says Nelly took wearing apparel belonging to Mrs. Goff from the house. Mrs. Goff died on March 27, and while the friends and relatives were at the funeral at Woodlawn Cemetery, Nelly, Dr. Goff says, went to the house with a horse and cart, and stripped the house of valuables, including $1,000 in cash.

Nelly was arrested by Detective Phil Kiernan at 218 Berry street, Williamsburg, where she was visiting Susie McCann. At 227 Berry street, where Nelly has been living with Mrs. McDonough, Detective Reilly seized a trunk containing mantel ornaments, fine clothing, and other property claimed by Dr. Goff.

Nelly was locked up. She said that Mrs. Goff gave her the property because she (Nelly) was not paid for her services as a domestic. She was indicted for grand larceny in the first degree on Friday.

Dr. Goff says that others besides Nelly are concerned in the alleged theft, and that other arrests will follow. Nelly had been threatening to tell more than she knew about a charge of abduction which was made against him at Port Richmond last year, but was dismissed.

BERRY WALL WON'T GO.

Fellows Are All the Time Bothering Him With Supplementary Proceedings.

E. Berry Wall, against whom his creditors have been docketing judgments at intervals, evaded the service of a summons prepared by Lawyer Royal S. Crane until pounced upon by Mr. Crane's clerk as he was coming from breakfast at the St. James on Saturday of last week. Mr. Crane said yesterday that it had cost him $25 to serve the papers. They required the young man to appear before Judge Nehrbas in the City Court yesterday, in supplementary proceedings, on an execution obtained in the suit of I. B. Higgins, as assignee of Henry Small, the artist, to recover $124 for a picture. Mr. Wall's lawyer, Mr. Wall thanked the young man for the summons, but he wasn't in the City Court yesterday. Judge Nehrbas peremptorily ordered his counsel to produce him on Monday for examination.

Mr. Wall told a Sun reporter in the evening that he had spent the day at the races.

"Do you know Mr. Wall," said the reporter, "that your default was noted in the City Court to-day and that Judge Nehrbas instructed your lawyer to produce you in Court on Monday morning, and that Lawyer Crane says he will have you punished for contempt if you don't appear then?"

"Well, I hasn't go, just the same," said Mr. Wall.

MRS. HIBBLER IN AN ASYLUM.

It is Said She was Crazed by Her Losses at Horse Races.

Mrs. Hibbler, the wife of George H. Hibbler, a glass manufacturer, was taken from their house at 404 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn, lately, to the Bloomingdale Asylum, on the certificate of three physicians that she had become violently insane. It is said that she became crazed with losses at horse races, and was led to believe, while being conveyed to the asylum, that she was going to Jerome Park. A policeman who was summoned to the house on the morning of her departure found that she had locked herself in a room, and when he forced open the door in the presence of her husband and Dr. Charles Corey, he found the frightened woman with an open razor in her hand, and it was only by dexterous use of his club that he succeeded in disarming her. It is said she is in a fair way of recovery, and will soon be taken to the country.

The Seventh on Coney Island.

Three hundred members of the Seventh Regiment visited Coney Island yesterday. Brigadier General Guido John G. Green had sent out 1,200 invitations to visit various points of interest and do the island with him. A coupon that accompanied each invitation contained a free pass to each of the following things:

A special performance at the Metropolitan.
One ride on the roller coaster.
One ride on carousal.
One ride on the swing carousal.
One ride on galloping horse carousal.
The Elephant.
One copy of a photograph.

There was also included a permit to view the grand representation of Niagara Falls at the Sea Beach Palace. This was the opening day at the palace. The boys went down on the Sea Beach boat River Queen. They were accompanied by Cappa's band. The band wanted to play on the boat but the Italian artists, who have a contract with the Standard company for the repetitions of all the melodies on the boats, objected. The boys contented themselves by swearing at the Italians and refusing to contribute a cent. After inspecting the Sea Beach Company's exposition, they made a break for the sausage stand, and, forming in single file, soon had it cleaned out of hot dogs. Afterward they admired the girls who rode the fiery horses in the carousal.

"Niagara Falls" in the Sea Beach Palace.

The Sea Beach Palace on Coney Island was opened for the season yesterday. The most attractive feature is the representation of Niagara Falls. It is the joint work of Mr. Seymour D. Parker of Brooklyn and J. C. Hurley. The former painted the scenes and the latter assisted in carrying out the details. It is a combination of painting and mechanism. Sixteen hundred gallons of water pour over jagged rocks every minute. By an arrangement of pipes, real spray is produced, and the sky and verdure effects are wonderfully realistic. It is impossible to tell where the real begins and the imitation ends. All the booths in the exposition have been rented, and next Saturday the season there will begin with a boom.

Impaled to the House by a Ramrod.

VARNVILLE, S. C., June 16.—Yesterday Reuben Riley was loading an old musket, using an iron ramrod. He was holding the gun in a leaning position and ramming down the powder when it exploded. Riley's wife happened to be standing near the house and directly in front of the muzzle. The ramrod passed through her right breast and pinned her to the wall of the house. The rod had to be sawed in two before the woman was relieved. The wound is considered fatal.

Remembering Lieut. Young.

A headstone over the grave of Lieut. Edward E. Young of the seventh regiment was unveiled yesterday afternoon in Woodlawn Cemetery by his comrades of Company C, of which he had been a member. The company was present to a man, bearing in either arms and many friends from the regiment were there, as well as many members of the volunteer fire department of Brooklyn, to which Lieut. Young belonged, the Seventh Regiment Grand Chorus sang, and after an address by Capt. Palmer closed the services with "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Valuable Information to Travellers.

In accordance with the usual progressiveness in all that pertains to the management of this popular line the Central Railroad of New Jersey on June 10 placed on sale at the Company's ticket offices, 143 Broadway, and at stations throughout the Philadelphia and Reading and the Baltimore and Ohio roads Nos. 21, 415, and 421 Broadway, 1 Madison avenue, 257 Fulton st., 264 West 125th st., and 132 East 125th st. are all offices where tickets may be procured, information obtained, and baggage checked to and from principal hotels and depots, free of cartage, by the Central Railroad's facilities at 4 Courtlandt, foot of Liberty, and Broadway.

The travelling public in their search for health and pleasure during the heated term will enjoy the increased facilities this affords. Tickets may be secured in parlor cars and berths in sleeping cars on any of these offices at any of the above mentioned points. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, New Jersey and at the foot of Liberty st. will be found convenient to West side down town travelers while the office at 21 Broadway is convenient to those of the Wall and lower Broadway business man. In set the distribution of tickets throughout the city and Brooklyn rendered an important service to those in search of information relative to sea shore and country resorts.

A feature of passenger business this spring at points of interest on the Central Railroad of New Jersey and branches will be found a carry free, and will be found exceeding and instructive to pleasure seekers everywhere.

The passenger department, having on sale tickets to the numerous popular summer resorts reached by this road, has arrangements perfected for the reception of all the details of the coming season, including checking of baggage, free of cartage and worry incidental to many lines.

Literature, the life of travel to seashore and country is not neglected, for with its increased facilities the Central Railroad of New Jersey is equal to the demand.

The full summer time table for the Sandy Hook and all routes to the New Jersey seashore will take effect on the first day of July.—Adv.
