JUDGE DURHAM'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED, TO TAKE AFFECT AT ONCE.

A Row Between the First Comptroller and the Attorney-General Over the Accounts of John I. Davenport—The Sioux Commission Appointed—Easter Egg Rolling in the White House Grounds.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—First Comptroller Durham severed his connection with the Treasury Department to-day. He tendered his resignation on the change of Administration, and it was accepted by Secretary Windom to-day, to take effect at once. There are several explanations. The one generally accepted by those supposed to know the inside facts is that the First Comptroller has taken a position on several official matters entirely at variance with the views of the present Administration. The immediate cause of the change is due to a personal misunderstanding between Attorney-General Miller and First Comptroller Durham in regard to the accounts of Mr. John I. Davenport as Supervisor of Elections in New York. The latter recently presented vouchers, aggregating $3,200, for "extraordinary expenses" incurred during the last Presidential election. These were being examined by the First Comptroller, and he signified his intention to disallow them. He had several conferences with the Attorney-General on the subject, which resulted in an open rupture between the two officials, so much so that the First Comptroller on Friday last ignored two requests from the Attorney-General to call at his office. The Davenport accounts were then taken out of his hands and turned over to the Attorney-General, where they now are.

It is asserted by friends of the First Comptroller that the strained relations existing between that officer and the Attorney-General were intensified one day last week when the First Comptroller conceived that the Attorney-General had gratuitously insulted him. They say that Judge Durham called on the Attorney-General for a conference in regard to the election accounts of Mr. Davenport, and that the Attorney-General did not treat him properly, insomuch that when Mr. Durham attempted to define his position in regard to the accounts the Attorney-General cut him short and began a general criticism of the acts of the Cleveland Administration in its treatment of election expenses. Judge Durham took offence at Mr. Miller's words, and, saying he would not listen to any more abuse of the Democratic party from that source, closed the interview by taking an abrupt departure. Subsequently, so the story runs, the Attorney-General sent to him for the papers in the case, and he refused to allow them to go out of his office. Later in the day, however, Secretary Windom said he would like to look over the papers, and they were sent to him. Judge Durham did not know it at the time, but the Secretary had sent for the papers for the purpose of turning them over to the Attorney General, and they arrived in the latter's office. It is also said by the friends of Judge Durham that he had not acted on the Davenport case at all. The vouchers were being examined in his office, but had not been passed upon. The First Comptroller was, however, of opinion that the expenses covered by them were not authorized by law, and had about made up his mind that they should not be allowed. This was the state of the case when the misunderstanding arose between himself and the Attorney-General. The latter is said to have regarded the vouchers as correct in form and law, and to have recommended their allowance. The First Comptroller took the ground that the Attorney-General had no jurisdiction in the matter, and that he had exceeded his authority in endorsing his approval on the papers.

On the other hand it is asserted that Judge Durham was not relieved because of his position in regard to the Davenport accounts, but because of newspaper publications concerning official matters under consideration, said to have been inspired by him, and because of a statement attributed to him that he had withdrawn papers recommending his appointment as the Democratic member of the Civil Service Commission for the reason that he did not wish to have anything further to do with this Administration. It is but fair to Judge Durham to say that he denies having anything whatever to do with any of the publications complained of.

Secretary Windom declined to discuss the matter this afternoon. He said that Mr. Durham had resigned in good faith, and his resignation had been accepted.

No apprehension is felt at the Navy Department respecting the non-arrival of the Monongahela and Brooklyn at their destinations. The Monongahela sailed for Samoa from San Francisco Feb. 21. She was deeply laden with coal and stores and proceeding under sail, so that she could hardly make the passage in sixty days unless the conditions were very favorable. The Brooklyn is expected at New York every day. She is about two weeks out from St. Thomas, also under sail, and has had adverse winds to contend against.

The President was "not at home" to general callers to-day. Attorney-General Miller was the only person admitted to his presence during the forenoon. The usual bi-weekly reception to the public was held in the East Room in the afternoon, and the crowd there was augmented by merry bands of children, who coaxed their play on the lawn to go in and shake hands with the President.

The President has appointed the following Commission to negotiate with the Sioux Indians in Dakota: Gen. George Crook, U. S. A., the Hon. Charles Foster of Ohio, and the Hon. William Warner of Kansas City. Mr. Irving Miller of Chicago has been appointed secretary and disbursing officer of the Commission. Mr. Miller is a prominent young lawyer and a son of Justice Miller of the United States Supreme Court. The Commission will meet in this city for consultation with the Secretary of the Interior on May 5, and will at that time also receive their final instructions from that official. The duty of the Commission as authorized by act of Congress is to treat with the Sioux Indians in Dakota for a cession to the United States of a portion of their reservation.

Paul Vandervoort of Nebraska has been appointed Superintendent of Mails at Omaha. Henry A. Thomas of Massachusetts has been appointed Superintendent of Mails at Boston, vice Peter J. Hughes, resigned. Mr. Thomas has had 5 years' experience in the mail service.

William H. Lanham of New York has been promoted from a clerkship to be Chief of the Division of Stationery and Printing, Interior Department.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion rendered to-day by Justice Bradley, holds that the law of limited liability of steamship companies applies to cases of loss of life and injury to the person as well as to cases of loss or injury to merchandise or goods. The case in which this opinion was delivered was that of John H. Butler, Nathaniel Bacon et al., appellants, agt. the Boston and Savannah Steamship Company, growing out of the loss of the steamship City of Columbus, near Martha's Vineyard, in 1884. The decision of the Circuit Court of Massachusetts in favor of the steamship company was affirmed.

In reply to Senator Quay's criticisms, which it is understood were furnished by him in form for the press, Senator Sherman said to-day: "I do not believe that Senator Quay made any such comments as are here presented. I do understand that he is a little cross over the way things have gone, but he has no reason to direct its ill-nature at me, and I do not believe that he has done so. In company with McKinley and Butterworth, recommended Hart for Assistant Attorney-General, and after I had left for my home Attorney-General Miller told them he could not appoint him to an assistant's place, but could give him the office of solicitor of internal revenue. I understand that Quay says that Butterworth and McKinley had promised him that they would not interfere with the Solicitor-ship of Internal Revenue. If this is so I don't know it. I never had a word of conversation with Quay regarding this matter. The only way out of it that I can see is for the Attorney-General to appoint Hart Assistant Attorney-General and give Quay's man the solicitorship of Internal Revenue."

Easter Monday is known as Children's Day at the White House and in the spacious grounds surrounding it. Today the infantile boomers, in imitation of their adult prototypes who are crossing the border into the promised land of Oklahoma, swarmed into the White House grounds, made their locations on the grassy knolls, and proceeded to the joyous occupation of rolling brilliantly dyed Easter eggs. The merry laughter of hundreds of children rang in the air, and the pretty costumes of mothers and maids who came to keep a watchful eye over their rollicking youngsters rendered the scene an attractive one, and one which the occupants of the Executive Mansion frequently appeared at the window to admire. The merriment and pleasure of the occasion was enhanced by an order issued by Secretary Tracy requiring the Marine band to furnish music for the little ones during the afternoon, and many impromptu dances were indulged in.

A NEW CHAPEL AT BELLEVUE.

Mrs. Townsend's Gift for the Benefit of Patients—Planting Ivy.

The Chapel of Christ the Consoler, erected by Mrs. E. L. Townsend at Bellevue Hospital, was dedicated yesterday with appropriate and impressive ceremonies. The fragrance and bloom of Easter lilies filled the oak-finished exquisitely decorated room, and the sunlight filtered through stained glass windows in prismatic beauty over a notable assemblage of prominent men and women. The Right Rev. Bishop Potter, the Archdeacon Mackeye Smith, the Rev. Dr. Saterlee, the Rev. Mr. Darlingston, the Rev. Mr. Maynard, the Rev. Mr. Huntington, and the chaplain of the hospital conducted the dedication service of the chapel, which was presented in the following deed of gift by Mrs. Townsend, who sat in the shadow of the lilies which filled the font presented by Mrs. Gallaher in memory of her daughter, Marie Gallaher.

To the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission:

By permission of the Commissioners of Public Charities and Correction of the city of New York, and with your own approval, the chapel of Christ the Consoler has been built upon the grounds of Bellevue Hospital.

Having already provided some means of alleviating bodily suffering, I now desire that an appropriate place be set apart for spiritual uses and mental refreshment, and to consecrate private sorrow by making it the minister of comfort to the sorrows of others.

I desire that the whole management of the chapel be lodged in your hands, that the chaplain and other ministrations held office by your appointment, that the worship therein be conducted according to the rites and usages of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, and that your judgment shall determine in what manner the interests of those who here seek spiritual benefits may best be served.

I earnestly hope that the work may be a permanent one, separated as far as possible from the influence of political and party feelings of the hour, and that the trust reposed in it may be handed down by the Commissioners to their successors in office as a sacred trust. My hearty thanks are due to those friends who, by adding living memories, have so generously contributed to the beauty and utility of the building.

Trusting that some of those who pass this way on life's weary journey may find here in Christ Jesus the true consoler, to take from us the hand and lift them up, I herewith place the building into your hands, with earnest prayers that the Divine blessing may rest upon the chapel of Christ the Consoler, upon those who minister, and upon those who are ministered unto.

ADELINE C. TOWNSEND.

Beneath the chapel is a large sunny reading room and library, finished also in oak, the table filled with Easter emblems wrought out in snowy lilies, and on the floor below is a wardrobe containing 200 garments for the use of patients, many of whom on leaving the hospital have no clothing in which to return to their homes. The making of these garments has been the Lenten work of the ladies of Calvary Church. On this floor also there is a morgue, where the bodies of patients may be cared for at the request of their friends until arrangements can be made for their burial. Among the ladies present were Mrs. Cortland de Peyster, Mrs. Jas. Hammersley, Mrs. Percy R. Pyne, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Launly, Mrs. Wendell, Mrs. Theodore B. Bronson, Mrs. Fairfax, Mrs. Ethan Allen, Mrs. J. C. Foster, Mrs. Kate Luny, the Misses Benjamin, Mrs. Mackeye Smith, Mrs. J. A. Gallaher, Mrs. Algernon Sullivan, Mrs. Pearson, Mrs. Tracy, Mrs. Beltner, and many other friends of Mrs. Townsend.

After the service Mrs. Townsend and the Rev. Doctors planted Ivy about the building and were photographed in a picturesque group by some amateur artists. The planting of the Ivy was typical of the methods employed by Mrs. Townsend in her charitable work, for it was not done by proxy, but the white jewelled hands buried the roots and patted the earth about them very carefully.

DOWNS SAID TO BE IN CANADA.

Lawyer Untermyer Says He Will Be Prosecuted if He Returns.

Samuel Untermyer thinks he has found where Partner Downs of the fancy shirt firm of Downs & Finch has gone, and says that he is in Canada. Mr. Untermyer is counsel for V. Henry Rothschild and Isaac Dreyfus, the special partners of the firm, who brought suit to set aside the firms assignment, and secured the appointment of Miles M. O'Brien as receiver. Mr. Untermyer said:

"We have for the past ten days had detectives following Francis H. Wilson, and have learned that Wilson sent telegrams to Downs in Hamilton, Ont., where he was living under an assumed name, and that Downs demanded from Wilson the whereabouts of his client. We are quite interested to see Wilson redeem his promise to bring back Downs. As soon as Downs reaches here he will be called upon to meet criminal charges. Within one week of the failure over $100,000 in cash and convertible assets were disposed of. Most of the moneys went to Mrs. Downs, although Mrs. Downs does not appear by the firm books to be a creditor. We hope to get back into the estate the bulk of the money withdrawn. A suit has been begun in New Jersey, where the factories are to set aside two mortgages, one of $20,000 and one of $10,000, to Mrs. Downs, recorded on the day of the assignment to Miller. The assignment is also attacked for fraud."

Judge Ingraham yesterday directed that Miles M. O'Brien continue as receiver of Downs & Finch, pending decision of the suit brought by V. Henry Rothschild & Co., special partners, to set aside the assignment. Judge Ingraham says that if the assignment is not void on its face, it was made with intent to defraud or hinder creditors.

OTTO FALKE'S WAGER.

He Bet that he would Sail from Bangor to New Orleans in an Open Boat.

BANGOR, April 22.—Three weeks ago Otto Falke of New York came to Bangor, accompanied by a friend, and took up his abode at a fashionable boarding house, evidently to enjoy a period of leisure amid the delights of a down East spring. But to-day it became known that Mr. Falke was here for a purpose, and a strange purpose at that. He recently made a heavy wager with a friend in New York that he would make the voyage from Bangor to New Orleans in an open boat, and alone. A few days ago he made purchases of trim little row boat of Fitzhue Higgins, and to-day the frail craft, which is but fourteen feet long, attracted considerable attention as she lay at County Ferry slip, gaily decorated with bunting and with a light sail set. At 9 o'clock Falke was driven to the ferry in a carriage, and an hour later boarded his little craft, carrying along with him a few packages of provisions and some nautical instruments. Then he pushed off, and with a fair wind and swift current was soon out of sight down the Penobscot on his way to New Orleans. The only stops which Falke has thus far decided upon will be at Rockland, sixty miles down the bay, and at New York. He has a boat which is considered as fit to go to sea in as anything of her size can be made. She is well fitted out, and he is confident of a successful voyage to the Crescent City.

Falke is a German about 45 years of age, very intelligent and reputed to be wealthy. He certainly spread his money freely while here, and all the down Easters hope to see him with his wager.

A Big Salt Syndicate.

TOLEDO, April 22.—The Blade says that Wellington R. Burt of Saginaw, President of the Michigan Salt Association, will sail on Wednesday next for Southampton on the steamer Gallic, to secure Liverpool by means of which with the pool already formed in this country, the entire salt product of the United States will be controlled by a syndicate of which he will be the head. English capitalists who have operated a salt trust in Great Britain are interested in this project, the details of which have all been arranged. Each district will produce the same quantity of salt and will report to headquarters constantly the amount of stock on hand. The headquarters will make the sales, and see that the stuff is shipped in the most economical manner. Orders from country tributary to Syracuse will be filled from that city instead of from the Michigan people as it is now, as they do now, hamper and the neighboring states will be supplied from Kansas instead of from Michigan or New York and Kansas people will not undertake to supply ohio and Michigan, as is now the case. It is estimated that in this way there will be saved in operating expenses at least $50,000 a year.

Lightning Struck the Whole House.

NEW BRUNSWICK, April 22.—Louis Skinner of Spotswood was thrown from his bed on Saturday night, and when he awoke he lay in the middle of the room. The house had been struck by lightning. His daughter Jennie was stunned, and was unconscious for several minutes. Her hands were paralyzed for more than an hour. All the corners of the house were struck. The front stoop and a barrel in the rear of the house were shattered, and the zinc in a refrigerator was melted.

Defences for British Columbia.

OTTAWA, April 22.—In Parliament to-night the Minister of Militia said a large volume of correspondence was passing between the British authorities and the Dominion Government respecting the strengthening of the defences of British Columbia, but that being of a confidential nature he could not lay it before Parliament. He also announced that a Defence Committee had been appointed to examine into the defence of Canada with a view to remedying defects.

Was the Brig John Shay Wrecked?

The unknown two-masted vessel which was dashed to pieces in the breakers three miles north of Cape Hatteras last Wednesday is thought to be the brig John Shay of Port Jefferson. She was commanded by Capt. Robert Cook of that place. Among the crew were Harry Hawkins of Port Jefferson and Jesse Van Sicklen and Robert Sharpe of Setauket.

DEFEAT THE MAYOR'S BILL.

HISCOCK AND PLATT SO INSTRUCT SENATORS AND ASSEMBLYMEN.

Senator Hendricks and Assemblyman Fish Refuse to Obey the Instructions and Give Their Reasons—The Report of the Aqueduct Investigating Committee.

ALBANY, April 22.—United States Senator Frank Hiscock has joined with ex-United States Senator Thomas C. Platt in writing letters to the Republican Senators and Assemblymen, urging them to defeat the Mayor's Rapid Transit bill. The appeals are made on personal and party grounds. In private conversation with Mr. Platt several of the Senators have been instructed about their duties. This is noticeable particularly in the cases of Senators Fassett, Raines, Erwin, and O'Connor. Speaker Cole was also instructed. The leaders of the party had the bills laid on the table until after May 1, so that they could be used to threaten the Mayor about his appointments, especially the appointment of a Police Commissioner to succeed Stephen B. French. It is said in Albany that there are other reasons than these which influence Mr. Platt and Mr. Hiscock, and which are hardly as creditable, even if rejecting the Rapid Transit bill because the Mayor will not appoint a Police Commissioner to suit them can be called creditable.

A letter from Senator Hiscock to Senator Hendricks has been answered by Senator Hendricks. Senator Hendricks comes from the Syracuse district, and is a stronger man there than Senator Hiscock. Without his aid Mr. Hiscock would not have been elected United States Senator, as it was Senator Hendricks who had charge of his campaign. Senator Hendricks is Chairman of the Committee on Cities. He believes that the reason the Democratic majority in New York increases every year is that successive Republican Legislatures have refused to give to New York home rule, and has interfered with the Government of the city in such a way as to exasperate its citizens. He believes that if the people of New York could be got to believe that the Republican Legislature is not hostile to them, and does not wish to favor the Republican parts of the State at the expense of New York city and Brooklyn, the Republican vote in those localities would increase. He believes that the Mayor's Rapid Transit bill is a good bill, and he supports it. A copy of his letter to Senator Hiscock was not given out for publication, but it is understood that in it he expresses his views about the course to take toward New York city and reiterates his support of the bill and his reasons for it.

Mr. Platt wrote to Mr. Fish. Mr. Fish's reply to the letter is a flat refusal to do as Mr. Platt wishes. He says that he believes in the bill, and that he believes in Mayor Grant. This letter was written several days ago. One result of it may have been that in the report of the Aqueduct Investigating Committee, of which Senator Fassett is Chairman, there is a great deal of hearty condemnation of Mr. Hamilton Fish, Jr.

The report was presented to the Senate this evening. It blames Mr. Fish for the Aqueduct Commission bill, which Senator Fassett actively supported and which he did his best to pass, though he penitently voted to kill it at the special session last summer. As Mr. Fish has refused to vote with Senator Fassett, Senator Fassett's committee condemns him and omits to condemn Senator Fassett.

Mr. Gibbs tried to have Inspector Byrne's Restriction of Freedom bill ordered to a third reading in the Assembly this evening. After Mr. Sullivan's experience there was considerable hesitation among the New York Assemblymen about objecting to this bill. It would have been ordered to a third reading had not Col. Robert Ray Hamilton objected.

One of Col. Hamilton's relations owned the stolen silver which ex-Alderman Jaehne melted down at his place, and which had a good deal to do with the conviction of Jaehne. The bill stays in the Committee of the Whole. If it is not passed this week it might as well not be passed at all. There is doubt about its constitutionality.

The Fish Investigating Committee will make its report this week. The substance of the report has already been printed in connection with the testimony of various witnesses which the committee heard. The committee will blame Superintendent Andrews and the contractors for the ceiling fraud, and in a less degree Speaker Cole and the members of the Ceiling Committee.

The Aqueduct Investigating Committee, which began its investigation almost a year ago, reported to the Senate this evening. They recite the facts brought out by the investigation, and say that the investigation saved the people of New York city several millions of dollars. They do not think that any legislation in connection with the aqueduct is needed now. They condemn the delay in building the reservoirs, and say that, owing to it, the aqueduct has cost the city more than several years. Senator Fassett, Chairman of the Committee, wants to run for Governor in 1891. He has begun collecting campaign material already. He gives several pages of the report to the history of the note, which the Mt. Morris bank discounted for campaign expenses in 1885. The Democratic minority of the committee sign a report saying that they don't see what is the use of putting in so much about the note and dissenting from some opinions of the Republican members in regard to it.

Senator Grady started to talk this evening, and it seemed there might be another disturbance. But he had talked eight or ten minutes, Senator Lamont stopped him by saying that the Democrats would consent to having the Saxton Electoral Reform bill set down for its third reading on next Thursday, with the understanding that at that time the Democrats would offer a series of amendments and a substitute. There was no agreement about the High License bill and the bills in general orders. The Democratic members of the Committee on General Laws dissented from the favorable report on the Saxton bill and the Democratic members of the Judiciary Committee and Senator Laughlin of Buffalo, a Republican, dissented from the favorable report on the High License bill.

The Senate passed Senator Grady's bill allowing the militiamen of other States to march through the streets of New York next Sunday with their bands. They also passed Mr. Creamer's bill appropriating $1,000 for the volunteer firemen with which to celebrate.

On motion of Gen. Husted the Assembly reconsidered the vote by which it was decided to adjourn on May 16. The resolution to reconsider went over in the Senate.

There will be a hearing on the subways bills before the Assembly Committee on Cities to-morrow afternoon. The Committee has as yet taken no action on the bill advocated by the Subway Commissioners, which passed at less, supplanting the Subway Commission with a new Board to consist of the present Subway Commissioners and city officials. The new Board is to have charge of the gas pipes and the steam pipes under ground, as well as of the wires.

Jersey City Officials to be Appointed To-day by Mayor Cleveland.

It was announced yesterday that Mayor Cleveland would appoint a Board of Finance and a new City Comptroller, Collector, and Treasurer, and possibly the other city Boards this morning. There were two important conferences held by the Democratic leaders yesterday, and it is said a state was decided on. The question of how the charter which Judge Van Syckel provided for a municipal representation in all the Boards could be amended so that the Mayor has the right to refuse to appoint a Republican in the Tax Board, the most important Board in the city, is a stumbling block. It is when it was passed, Mayor Cleveland says that he will appoint one Republican to the Board.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Van Steenburgh Musgrave daughter of Mrs. S. H. Musgrave to Mr. Albert Fillmore Hyde, was celebrated in the church of the Heavenly Rest yesterday afternoon. It was a very quiet wedding, owing to the family of the bride being in mourning. The Rev. Dr Parker Morgan, rector of the church, performed the ceremony. There were no bridesmaids.
