BALTIMORE, 6; BROOKLYN, 4.

BALTIMORE, April 22.—The Brooklyns made their first appearance of the season here today, and dropped their first game to the Orioles, to the great delight of a tremendous crowd who had come out expecting to see the game end the other way. The crowd was too large for the stand, and they surged out into the field, requiring at times the services of policemen to keep them from interfering with the fielders. There was a sigh of relief all round when it was found that Lovett was to pitch instead of Terry, who has proven himself an unsolvable enigma to the Baltimore bat-men. The game abounded in brilliant fielding sandwiched with some pretty bad errors.

As a matter of fact, the runs of the Baltimores were due in large measure to errors, while fine fielding at critical moments kept the score down. Three times during the game the home team had three men on bases, with only one hand out, and were unable to get one in. In the third inning Cunningham led off with a double, and was advanced to third on Griffin's sacrifice. Tucker then hit to third, and Cunningham was held there, though Tucker made his first. A steal by Tucker and a base on balls filled the bases. Hornung then drove the ball to Smith, who completed a pretty double play with Collins and Foutz.

In the very next inning Baltimore again had three men on bases, with one hand out. Bushong caught Sommer napping at second and Cuntz was caught trying to get home on a passed ball which did not go far enough behind the plate. The Baltimores runs in the seventh inning were made on hits by Griffin, Tucker, and Mack. In the first inning it seemed as though Lovett and Bushong did not thoroughly understand one another. Griffith got to first on balls. Bushong letting the ball get away from him, and Griffin kept going, and coming home on Bushong's throw to third, which got away from Pinkney. Cunningham pitched a very steady game, and the visitors could do nothing with him until the ninth inning, when they hammered out three runs on a base on balls presented to O'Brien, a single by Collins, a beautiful two-bagger by Burns to centre, and Foutz's single.

The long pitcher was caught napping at second, otherwise he too could have scored on Smith's pretty single. Burns's double and triple in the first inning with one hand out, and a single in the third, but in each case he was left to die on his base. Foutz was the first to score for his side, reaching first on a hard hit ball, which got away from Farrell. He stole second, and reached the home plate on Smith's single. Griffin gave Cunningham excellent support, while Bushong's back stopping was below the mark. His throwing was spendid, however. The fielding honors were carried off by Mack, who made two beautiful stops, each resulting in a double play, and Griffin, who took a fly in deep centre from Burns's bat.

Baltimore's quandom short stop and right fielder was the recipient of a great deal of attention. He was applauded lustily when he came to the bat, and when he left the field with the others his carriage was surrounded by men and boys. Everybody said "Photo, Tommy," but there was too much guying that Burns had to have the top put up. The score:

CINCINNATI, 10; KANSAS CITY, 1.

CINCINNATI, April 22.—The Cincinnatis put up an errorless game to day, and defeated the Kansas City team without any great effort. Vian pitched with splendid results for the bulls, and while Swartzel did well yet the victory was due to the great athletic strength. The fielding of Beard, Holliday, and Long, and the batting of Reilly were the features. Attendance 3,230. The score:

ATHLETIC, 15, COLUMBUS, 6.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The Athletics had an easy time this afternoon, Widner's pitching being hit freely and his support being of the worst possible description. The infielding of Hornbauer, Esterday, and Greenwood was good, but no opportunities were offered for brilliant work. Seward and Robinson officiated as the Athletic battery for the first three innings and were then relieved by Mathimore and Gunning. The score:

ST. LOUIS, 13, LOUISVILLE, 6.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 22.—St. Louis won to-day by hard hitting. Stratton pitched fairly well, but they got the hang of his delivery and banded out runs at will. They were helped by Louisville's errors, in which Tommy again led. Chamberlain did good work, and the hits made off him were scattered. The score:

NEW YORK, 6; WORCESTER, 4.

WORCESTER, April 22.—The attendance at the Worcester New York game to day was over 4,000. Errors on balls and a loss of head by Beatson and Campion in the fifth inning lost the game for the Worcesters. Burkett, by wild pitching, gave three men first on balls. Daniels dropped a third strike with men on second and third and let the batter come out. Gore then made a throw to Campion who was playing short field. Slattery came in from third and Campion sent the ball in to cut him off, but too late. Sullivan then hit to Beatson and lost first. Another base on balls, a fly to the outfield and lively base running set in three more runs and decided the game. The fielding was sharp throughout and the base running brilliant. Crowell's win of the Worcesters was released to day. The score

NEWARK, April 22.—A team composed of New York and Metropolitan players visited this city to-day and received a terrible trouncing from the Little Giants. Welch and Ewing occupied the points in the first innings, and Mickey was hit freely, the home team making eight hits for a total of eleven bases off his delivery and earning four runs. Hayes pitched the remainder of the game, and was pounded unmercifully. Miller pitched a clever game for Newark, but three scattering hits being made by the New Yorks up to the seventh inning. PHILADELPHIA, 11; TORONTO, 2.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The Toronto Club of the International League stayed to play the Philadelphias here to-day, but made a miserable failure of it. Vickery, a graduate of a local amateur club, pitched for the Canucks. He threw wild balls, gave men bases on balls, hit one wild pitch, three wild throws, one dropped thrown ball, and one fumble—sixteen misplays. The score:

WASHINGTON, 5; YALE, 0.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Yale College lads were shut out by the Washington nine to-day in a game that abounded in clean, sharp plays on both sides. The feature of the game was Stagg's all-around play. His down shoots puzzled the senators considerably, as the strikeouts show. Morrill and Wise tapped the collegian pretty lively, and so did Myers. The Yales were lazy on bases, and a little judicious coaching would have saved them from being goose-egged. The attendance was large and the college boys were the favorites. The score:

BOSTON, 9; HARTFORD, 7.

BOSTON, April 22.—Nearly 5,000 spectators saw the Bostons win a game from the Hartfords this afternoon, but the margin was not large enough for them to do much crowing. By bunching their hits in three innings and by taking advantage of errors by the visitors they managed to crawl out ahead. Ray and Quinn exchanged places at short and left field. The score:
